for peace with the federation, ed by a 35 to 12 count. that a new C. I. O. department be formed within the federation and be given the power to organize workers in mass production, marine, public utilities, ser- fee. vice and basic fabricating industries.

There was no immediate an-C. I. O. proposal. However, it was announced later that the federation would be ready to give its decision by tomorrow.

After pointing out certain facts as to the number of laborers involved, Lee Pressman, C. I. O. general counsel, indicated that it seems to be a case where the C. I. O. would control the federation by strength of numbers.

He also stated, "We think this proposal puts final settlement of the issue up to the other side. The federation conferees can not afford to accept or reject our offer immediately."

The first person to come out of the conference room was Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union and a C. I. O. supporter. Curran was asked why the conference had recessed after holding only an hour session. He answered: "You can't expect them (the A. F. of L. committee) to come out of a dead faint and go right on negotiating."

POP QUIZ

Bob Perkins

A certain steamship company has daily sailings from New York and Liverpool. A complete passage across the ocean takes six days. How many of its company's liners will a boat from New York meet before it docks in Liverpool? Answer to the millionaire question: This involves a very commonplace mathemathical "shifting bases."

The solution is found by converting the $1,000,000 (written in our system to the base of 10) to base 7. This is easily accomplished by dividing through by 7 and keeping the remainder as the number of gifts of 7 to the "O" power.

Thus, by dividing by 7 we find the old duffer gave one gift of $1 (1 being 7 to the "O" power). Next, we divide the previous quotient by 7 to find the gifts of 7 to the 1st power, and, sure
