

Southern Conference Members Deal Blow To Graham Plan; Rule 13 Crippled By Act

Second-Team Congress

By Gould Beech

(Following is a letter from Gould Beech, former editorial writer for the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, now taking graduate work at the University. Gould is a Southerner—and quite a brilliant one—but his ideas about the relation of business to government are thoughts not often expressed in the South. As a rule we southerners don't like to talk about this relation, much less think about it, eh, Gould?—Stuart Robb.)

Dear Stuart:

Two weeks ago under the stimulation of the stock market decline you concluded your column with a couple of paragraphs that almost hit the nail on the head. I have been hoping that you would get around to the subject again but in the meantime you have been occupied with the current effort of Japan to establish peace in China and get another piece, and various other subjects.

The paragraph of yours referred to was:

"Someone must make up Mr. Roosevelt's mind as to whether the government is going to: (1) Stake out a sort of reservation on which private business can live comparatively unmolested, or (2) Take over all business, lock, stock and barrel and stop this half-baked quibbling."

While Congress has been fumbling around another Congress has been having a session—namely, the Congress of American Industry which is sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers. This other Congress has lost no time in getting down to cases.

In effect it has offered to take over the country and let Congress (the one that meets in Washington) take a rest, a long, long rest. As an inducement for Congress to abdicate the New York congress following the keynote of President du Pont holds up a glittering prospect for the country. It sets forth in a series of resolutions certain definite propositions, to wit: Billions of dollars of new capital and the employment of millions of men. But (and this but is the important point):

"Manufacturing cannot do these things as well as it should, and as well as it wants to, if it is shackled by restrictive legislation, burdened with excessive taxes, continually in doubt as to the nature and permanency of government policies, crippled by labor difficulties, and handicapped by inability to secure sufficient funds from investors. "WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS IS BUSINESS CONFIDENCE (caps my own). Business will move forward producing more goods, and therefore more jobs—if it is permitted to face the future with only the natural hazards of legitimate private enterprise."

"Freedom from Federal control of prices, wages, and hours in manufacturing."

With respect to anti-monopoly laws, the manufacturers mumble through their mustaches and suggest the desirability of "cooperation with competitors within legal limits on a basis which will assist each unit in the industry to operate under high

KOCH WILL READ 'CHRISTMAS CAROL' TONIGHT AT 8:30

Dramatic's "Proff" First Told Dickens' Story 30 Years Ago

Before a small group of his friends gathered around a crackling wood fire on a Christmas Eve some 30 years ago, Dr. Frederick H. Koch gave his first reading of "A Christmas Carol."

Tonight, at 8:30 in Memorial hall, the "Proff" will give his 148th rendition of Dickens' famous Christmas play.

For almost 20 years now, he has been reading the "Carol" to Chapel Hill audiences when the holiday season rolls around, and the hall is always filled to capacity.

Back in North Dakota, before "Proff" Koch came here to found the Carolina Playmakers, folks liked to hear him read the beloved Christmas play. And they say that when the railroads were snowbound or the engines were frozen, he would ride in sleighs, and in ancient hand-cars, to fill his many engagements.

The entire program tonight will be in accord with the Christmas spirit. From 8 to 8:30 a group of specially selected Christmas pieces will be played by organist Robert Brawley. And after the reading begins, a further touch of Yuletide feeling will be added by the singing of Old English carols between staves of the story by members of the Chapel Hill Madrigal club, under the direction of Professor John Toms.

Oldtimers say that you'll have to get there early if you expect to hear "the Proff" giving the shriek of the money changer, or Tiny Tim's "God bless us every one."

Fugitive Frosh Flee Sheriff's Court Subpoena

One Student Has Been Caught, The Other Yet Leads A Hunted Life

By JIM McADEN

The sheriff of Mecklenburg county has been browsing around here lately, looking for two Charlotte freshmen who are fugitives from justice.

One of them no longer is a fugitive, for the sheriff finally caught him and served a subpoena to appear as witness in superior court for a damage suit filed after an automobile accident.

The other first year man, not lured by the $2.00 per day paid to court witnesses, made every move to avoid John Law. He has been sleeping in the rooms of friends, has received a temporary vacation from his job on the campus, and has been very careful to stay away from the sheriff.

He even went as far as to instruct classroom friends to tell anyone asking for him that he was not in class.

As late as yesterday afternoon, this freshman had not been found by the gentleman from Mecklenburg.

Ivey To Distribute Yule Greetings From Roof-Top

Graham Memorial Director Already Has Christmas Tree Erected On Building

By CHARLES BARRETT

It was learned yesterday that "Sum" Guy Ivey, who has not yet departed from the days of early childhood, is so imbued with the Christmas spirit that he will present his annual Christmas tree to the campus on the roof of Graham Memorial.

"I feel certain," declared the memorial's diminutive director, "that we will approach the true spirit of this festive occasion more fully with the emblem's position on top of the building rather than in the basement."

Athletes Will Not Be Required To Tell Of Any Financial Help

MONEY TO FEED 1,100 HAS BEEN RAISED IN DRIVE

Swain Brings In Most Funds; To Continue Campaign

Over 1,100 Chinese, homeless and penniless as a result of the ravages of war, could be fed for two days from the funds raised by the YMCA in the first day of its campaign to relieve suffering of civilian refugees in war-stricken Shanghai.

Sixty-three dollars, collected as a result of the "take a Chinese to dinner" idea, had been received by late last night.

At Spencer hall, coeds made a sacrifice and agreed on a "no oysters for supper" slogan. As a result, $10.00 was donated from Spencer towards relieving critical conditions in China's most war-stricken city.

Swain hall diners were confronted with a boy and girl dressed in Chinese costumes who waved white cards, testifying that the bearer was willing to cooperate in the campaign. Cashiers added 25 cents to the bills of all those who held cards. Forty-two dollars were received at noon, and eleven dollars and sixteen cents at evening.

Only fraternity to make a report was Alpha Tau Omega, which reported that every member had agreed to cooperate and that $9.50 had been raised. Arrangements were being made at other Greek houses for similar campaigns.

Several small donations were received at the YMCA, and it was announced that a box would be placed in the Book Exchange for further contributions.

DeWitt Barnette, chairman of the World Service Committee of the YMCA, which is sponsoring the campaign, announced that letters had been sent to Chapel Hill ministers asking that churches cooperate in the campaign.

The campaign will extend through next week.

German Film Will Be Shown Wednesday

"Love Tales Of Boccaccio" Has English Sub-Titles

"Love Tales of Boccaccio," a German film with English subtitles, will be shown at the Carolina theater on Wednesday, December 15, at 9 p. m.

It is a film that "handles Boccaccio's hot stuff with delicacy and charm," according to the New York Post. Other papers say of it:

New York World Telegram: "... a jolly, tuneful, expertly played and lavish costume film."

New York Daily News: "... comparable in every way to our grade A musical films."

The film is rated 3½ stars.

Proposed Scholastic Rule Rejected At S. I. C. Meet

Camera Bill In Tie

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel) Richmond, Va., Dec. 10—The teeth of the Graham Plan were extracted last night at a meeting of Southern Conference officials in Richmond.

The rule which required athletes to report whether or not they are receiving any financial aid from sources other than those upon whom they are naturally dependent was stricken from the conference by-laws.

It was because of an infraction in this regulation that Ramsay Potts, varsity basketball and tennis star, resigned voluntarily from the University earlier this quarter.

Gone But Not Forgotten

The late Rule 13, Article 7, Section 1 read: "No student shall represent his university or college in any athletic contest who receives financial aid from others than those upon whom he is naturally dependent . . . unless the source and character of these gifts or payments shall be approved by the faculty committee on the ground that they have not accrued to him primarily because of his athletic ability."

The proposal which took the teeth out of this regulation by not requiring an athlete to testify that he is abiding by the letter of the law was made by Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Motion Rejected

The conference rejected the VPI motion that would require athletes to pass all their scholastic work during the preceding quarter in order to be eligible to participate in athletics. The rejected motion also included a clause which would require athletes to pass 24 semester hours or 36 quarter hours, as the case may be, the quarter preceding his participation.

The resignation of the University of Virginia, tendered last year and held in abeyance, was accepted by the conference. The group at the same time invited Virginia to re-enter the conference.

Virginia university officials have not yet signified their intentions.

The proposal of Clemson that schools in the District of Columbia not be considered members of the conference was defeated by a vote of 9-6.

Maryland delegates then made a motion which would prohibit any college boxer who received expenses or any kind of remuneration from participating in intercollegiate boxing matches. This proposal was lost 8-7.

Duke and Maryland officials asked that the regulations concerning athletes playing for other institutions than their own be amplified. This was done with the following amendment:

Ineligibility Rule
"A student who, while the col-
