Carolina Men Will Play Washington & Lee Tonight

Points Distributed

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)
Lexington, Va., Jan. 14—Tied 11-11 at the half with V. M. I., Carolina's White Phantom cagers turned on the heat in the second half to roll up 20 points and sink the Cadets under a 31-17 score here tonight. The win was the sixth straight of the season against no defeats for the Skidmore team. Four of the six Spook wins have come over Southern conference foemen.

Tonight's game was in the way of a tune-up for the Washington and Lee classic to be played tomorrow night in Lynchburg. The General-White Phantom meeting promises to be the biggest thing of the infant conference season. The Generals, although weakened this year, still loom as the biggest obstacle in the way to a White Phantom Southern con-

MATMEN RESTING BEFORE MATCHES WITH VPI TODAY

Quinlan Gives Squads Light Drills At Blacksburg

Anticipating a close contest, Coach Chuck Quinlan paced his Carolina freshman and varsity wrestling squads through a light workout yesterday afternoon at Blacksburg in preparation for today's battle with VPI. Limbering up, the grapplers listened to a brief pep talk and then settled back to enjoy a slight respite before match time.

The yearlings take to the mat at 3 o'clock against the embryo Gobblers, and, if previous workouts are any indication, they have a good chance of pinning the necessary number of opponents for a win. The varsity teams clash immediately after the finish of the freshman matches.

Won Last Year

Tex Tilson, the VPI wrestling tutor, has made no comment in regard to his 1938 teams. Last season the varsity lost to the Tar Heels 21-11, and the freshmen were barely able to hold their own with an 18-all tie. However, it is known that the Technicians have lost heavily through graduation.

The Carolina varsity matmen, headed by newly-elected Captain Ed Tankersley, concede themselves no advantage and will enter the contest with slightly gloomy feelings. Depending mainly on three lettermen, the wrestlers are without the services of 175-lb. Bob Crystal, who fractured his collarbone in practice recently.

Fearing

A new recruit, Tom Fearing, will probably fill the vacancy left by Crystal. Fearing won the intramurals in that weight but has only been working with the squad a few days.

Harriss, Tankersley, Woodson, Davison, and James—experienced matsters—will carry the

Alpha Chi Sigma, Lewis' Number One, Aycock Win Murals

First Week Of Campus Contests Ends As Teams Vary In Standards Of Play

The first week of intramural basketball, short but active, came to a close yesterday afternoon. Out atop of the pile of yesterday's tussles, were Aycock, Lewis' number one five, and Alpha Chi Sigma.

Using two complete teams, Aycock dormitory mixed strategy with power not only to stop a game and active Steele team, but also to run away with a tilt that was expected to be close and interesting.

Steele's Trouble

Steele was held scoreless the entire first quarter, but Gunn, captain and mainstay of the outfit, broke loose early in the second period for its initial tally.

Putting in an entirely new but much weaker team in the third quarter, Aycock watched Steele warm up and, returning the first outfit to the floor, encountered a bit of difficulty on the offense.

Fields' general expertness on the hardwood was the outstanding feat of the game. The entire first-string Aycock quint, though, loaned deserving support. Gene Bricklemeyer set the Steele pace. The box score follows:

Aycock (32)	Steele (13)
Beers—2	Bricklemeyer—7
Fields—8	Milner—1
Mallory—13	Hawfield—0
Rawlings—5	Johnson—0
Stern—4	Gill—1
	Gunn—4

Substitutes: Aycock—David, Ganey, Cohn, Millaway, Burton, Harper, Rosen; Steele—Easter, Ingram, Farmer, Berk, Teague.

Lewis' Game

The fastest game of the week brought forth an earned victory for the widest-awake and fastest five in the dorm league. Lewis' number one team outplayed and outscored Old East, and at the same time established itself as a leading contender for the title.

Woodall was the whole works in the Lewis machine, with his fast and aggressive play in all phases of the contest. The most prominent feature of the Lewis offense turned out to be its accurate and deceptive forward wall paced by well-performed pass work and shooting. The point score follows:

Lewis No. 1 (31)	Old East (20)
Bobbitt—5	Lindsey—4
D. Parker—0	Fletcher—6
A. Parker—2	Wales—0

The Coach And The Captain

Coach M. Z. Ronman opens his second season as coach of the Carolina ring team tonight at 8 o'clock when he sends his varsity boxers, captained by Joe Murnick (right), into the ring against The Citadel in the Tin Can. Although Murnick boxed in the 125-lb. class last year, he will represent the Tar Heels in the 135-lb. class tonight.

Bouts Begin At 8

As the Daily Tar Heel was going to press late last night, Coach Ronman announced that Cy Jones, 125-lb class, will be unable to box against The Citadel tonight. He has injured a nerve in a vertebrae. Sam McFalls is expected to start in Jones' place.

Moore	O. Rogers (Co-C.)

Although the basketball and wrestling teams have gone week-ending, the varsity boxing team will hold the tin fort against the cadets from The Military College of the South tonight at 8 o'clock when the Carolina and The Citadel boxing teams open their respective seasons.

Late yesterday afternoon there was some doubt whether or not Cy Jones, the little man with the big stuff, would be able to start in the 125-lb. class, but it was generally believed that he would be able to slip between the ropes to meet The Citadel's Bagnal, a sophomore from Winston-Salem.

Bantam Entry Undecided

Coach Mike Ronman was still undecided yesterday which of his bantams, Billy Winstead or Sam McFalls, he would start against The Citadel's Johnny Hughes, postponing his final decision until late this afternoon.

Frosh Quintet Routs State Yearlings With 52-23 Score

Little Red Terrors In Lead Only During First Minute

Brown High Scorer

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 14.—Turning back the challenge of a fast North Carolina State frosh quintet here tonight, Carolina's Little Ghosts upheld their undefeated record as they rolled over the fighting Wolflets 52-23.

Entering the tilt in the last half, left forward Brown of the Chapel Hill team captured the game's scoring honors with 10 points.

Smith of State led his five with six tallies, while Richardson and Walters contributed five markers apiece.

State was in possession of the lead for only one moment during the entire tilt, as they led off the scoring shortly after the whistle with a foul shot by Richardson.

But early in the first period the Tar Heels hit their full stride, with the starting combination of Glamack, Ralph, Harnden, Branson, and Watson easily penetrating the loose Wolflet defense for profit.

The State attack was able to swish the nets only four times during the first half, and the period ended with the visitors in possession of a 29-8 margin.

A new Tar Heel combination of Severin, Brown, Palanske, Lindsay, and Erickson was substituted with the beginning of the second half.

Cooper and Messina went in at guards, Holland replaced Severin at the right forward berth, and the Little Ghosts continued to widen their already decisive lead.
