SOUTHERN SENATORS BLOCK LYNCH BILL

Washington, Jan. 19.—With southern senators continuing their twelfth day of filibustering, senate leaders gave up hope for immediate action on the anti-lynching bill.

As the southerners showed no signs of stopping the filibuster, administration spokesmen admitted that the present legislative program featuring the government reorganization bill and other Roosevelt proposals would be indefinitely delayed.

Although administration leaders threatened to wear down the speakers by calling night sessions, Democratic leader Barkley stated that none would be held this week.

In order to prevent dilly-dallying by the southern statesmen, Senator Clark (D-Mo.) said that he would demand a more strict enforcement of debate rules, which prevent any senator from speaking more than twice a day on the same bill.

In answer to these threats, Senator Ellender (D-La.), who has held the floor since last Friday, said, "I could keep going for a week if I wanted to."

JAPANESE PLAN MARCH ON LUNGHAI RAILWAY

Shanghai, Jan. 19.—Using the captured Shantung province seaport of Tsingtao as a base, Japanese today planned a march into interior China toward the important Lunghai railroad.

400,000 Chinese were effectively blocking all attempts to reach the railroad. Japanese are unable to consolidate their conquered areas of North China and Shanghai because of the stubborn defense put up by Chinese.

Severe cold, however, did not prevent the invaders from landing 10,000 men, a supply of munitions and artillery, and horses and tanks at Tsingtao.

Firemen and school authorities said that they had not yet learned the cause of the fire, which was discovered a half hour after it started.

The building, which sheltered 31 instructors and 80 students, was completely demolished except for the brick walls.

REORGANIZATION OF DELTA SIGMA PI TO COMMENCE

Students Urged To Meet In 103 Bingham Hall Tonight At 8

All students in the commerce school interested in reorganizing the local Alpha Lambda chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce fraternity, are urged by Warren Haddaway to attend a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in 103 Bingham hall, when H. A. Rhinehart and B. W. Harris, alumni, of Durham and M. D. Taylor and J. B. Woosley, of the commerce faculty, will explain the three-fold program of the proposed order.

Haddaway, a senior in the commerce school, announced plans for the reorganization Tuesday, and the alumni and instructors have since consented to appear before the group tonight. The chapter disbanded in the year 1935-36, and unless it is reorganized this year, it will lose its charter.

Three Services

The three services of the proposed chapter would be: to sponsor speakers in the field of economics and commerce; to secure professional moving pictures dealing with economic and commercial subjects; and to set up a placement bureau for commerce graduates, subsidiary to the University placement bureau.

Due mainly to emphasis on social affairs and financial difficulties engendered by the building of a fraternity house, the chapter died out two years ago, Haddaway said.

Freshmen Will Have Pictures Taken Today

First Year Men Will Meet At Manning Hall At 10:30

Yackety-Yack pictures of the 1937-38 freshman class will be taken this morning at 10:30 on the steps of Manning hall.

Four group pictures of the class will take up its Yackety-Yack space as the result of a practically unanimous decision in chapel Tuesday. The meeting was called to consider if 32 individual pictures of prominent first year men would be used rather than the group pictures.

At a meeting of the freshman executive committee in the first quarter, it was decided, at the suggestion of the Yackety-Yack, to use the 32 pictures.

Protests arose, and after a campaign led by Ray Daugherty, President Christian Sievers of the class called a special meeting to vote on the issue.

DR. HIGH TO OPEN RELIGION IN LIFE PROGRAM SUNDAY

Four Of Speakers Have Previously Appeared On Campus

Four of the 12 prominent speakers being brought here next week by the Federal Council of Churches for the Religion in Life conference have been enthusiastically received on the campus in previous appearances.

George Denny, University graduate, said after Dr. High spoke over the radio in his New York Town Hall program that "There are few men in America who have developed a platform technique that can surpass Stanley High's."

Dr. Robert Russell Wicks, who will speak at the closing exercises of the conference on Friday, was opening speaker for the ninth Institute of Human Relations.
