DEMOCRAT PARTY SPLIT APPARENT IN SENATE

Evidence of factional differences in the Democratic party were apparent today over selection of a senatorial campaign committee chairman.

Majority Leader Barkley, who will probably select the chairman, has had considerable pressure forced upon him by the differing factions.

The party split was between those senators who fought the Roosevelt court proposal last year and those who have been less critical of the administration.

Much of this year's campaigning for the Democratic senatorial candidates will begin within the next week or 10 days.

It is expected this year that the campaigning will be based upon support or non-support of administration policies.

At least officially the senate campaign committee was expected to follow the policy declared last week by James A. Farley that the Democratic national committee would keep hands off conflicts within the party.

At the same time that party dissension was being discussed backstage, the senate laid aside the anti-lynching measure and took up consideration of the administration housing bill.

The senate agreed that Senator Bilbo (D-Miss.) would be recognized to begin the anti-lynching filibuster after the housing bill had been disposed of.

The proposed housing legislation would liberalize government housing administration insurance of mortgages, allowing the purchase of small homes for a down payment of ten percent of their total cost.

Meanwhile, the house naval committee began consideration of the President's $800,000,000 naval expansion program.

Tomorrow Is Date For Soph Picture

Yackety-Yack Photo Will Be Taken At Manning Hall

There will be a photographer on the steps of Manning hall tomorrow morning at 10:30. He will be there to take Yackety-Yack group pictures of the sophomore class.

"There better be a sophomore class there at the same time," was all Editor Dave Thorpe had to say yesterday. "We're going to call the roll and fine every absent sophomore five dollars."

FAMOUS ARTISTS WILL APPEAR ON PROGRAM TONIGHT

Continental Ensemble To Give Second Winter Quarter Program

Comprised of four internationally famous solo artists, the Continental ensemble will appear in Memorial hall tonight at 8:30 as the second attraction on the student entertainment series.

Victor Chenkin, bi-continently famous diseur, will give musico-dramatic personation of the colorful folk of seven different countries.

Emma Runitch

Contrasted with him will be Emma Runitch, formerly with Lucienne Boyer in the original New York "Continental Varieties." From her native Russia she brings the gay and sad melodies of the folk and gypsies.

Third on the program is Raphael and his concertina who also appeared in the "Continental Varieties." Leo Lefleur, composer and pianist, is accompanist for the group.

Repertory

Raphael's repertory consists of 3,000 selections.

This is the second entertainment of the winter quarter series. The Vienna Boys Choir was the first, and the Repertoire

DUES VIE WITH LYNCHING BILL

Members Of Di Senate Have To Pay Up

Collection of dues seems to be crowding the anti-lynching bill off the calendar of the Dialectic senate tonight, if the announcements of President Kerley and Treasurer Cochrane are to be taken literally. Although the bill will be discussed as scheduled at 7:15 tonight, those members of the society who have not paid their dues will not be allowed to take part in the discussion.

Kerley, in an effort to collect all back dues and other obligations to the senate, has banned everyone who owes anything to the treasury from discussion of the bills on the calendar, and Treasurer Cochrane announced yesterday, "I am going to carry out the president's order to see that no one takes part in discussions who hasn't paid his bills. All extensions are cancelled."

The senate is scheduled to discuss the anti-lynching bill that is now in the United States senate.

PLAYMAKERS TO GIVE FREE BILL TOMORROW NIGHT

Four Original One Act Plays To Be Offered On Program

The deferred experimental bill of four original one act plays, which was postponed by the Playmakers because of last night's extra performance of "Boy Meets Girl," will have its place in the sun tomorrow night. Each of these plays has come out of "Prof" Koch's famed playwriting course, and will be offered to the campus free of charge.

Following the performances, an informal discussion will be conducted, and all open suggestions to the various playwrights will be welcome.

Four Plays

The plays, authors, and casts in the order of presentation, are as follows:

"Hit's Man's Business," by Miss Lois Latham. The cast: Dan Nachtmann, Miss Elizabeth Malone, Robert Bernert, John

Illegitimacy Is Shown In Seal Of University

J. Hampton Rich Advises Art Class That Students Should Demand Correction

J. Hampton Rich, Southern representative of the American Institute of Heraldry, yesterday informed an art class in Person hall that the official seal of the University embodies a grave mistake.

Rich pointed out that the diagonal bar which separates the two words, "Lux, Libertas" on the shield, touches the edges of the shield. To students of heraldry, this signifies illegitimacy, and is known as a "sinister bend."

To be correct, the bar should stand away from the edges of the shield. In that form the bar is known as a "label."

Seal Maker

According to Rich, the fault is, in all probability, that of the seal maker, for "he has also let the label cover a part of the

CPU Speaker Describes Four Pillars For Labor Peace

Plane Forced Down

By DAVID STICK

Speaking before 900 persons in Memorial hall last night, Republic Steel Corporation President Tom M. Girdler gave the employers side of the current labor problem.

The leader of "Little Steel," who spoke last night on a Carolina Political union program, described four pillars, upon which he believes "the industrial peace of this country can be built:

Pillars

"1. Recognition of the principle of collective bargaining.

"2. Recognition of the right of employees to join or not to join any organization of their own choosing, free from coercion from any source.

"3. Recognition that industrial relations are 'human' relations and that cooperation between men and management and mutual understanding of each other's problems are both possible and essential.

"4. Legislation which will fairly

PHI TO INITIATE NEW PROCEDURE

Assembly Will Meet At 7 O'clock Tonight

Debating on a three-day recess before exam week and the child labor amendment, the Phi assembly tonight will initiate an entirely new procedure in the method of introducing bills.

Each question will be given a brief discussion by a member before the floor is opened for debate. Tonight's meeting, to be held at 7 o'clock on the top floor of New East, will be the first time this method has been followed.

Clear Idea

Speaker Drew Martin said that in this way members of the assembly will be given a clear idea of what the bills are about before the actual discussion begins.

Speaker Pro Tem Ben Dixon will give a brief explanation of the first bill: Resolved, That the University should adopt a three-day recess from classes immediately preceding examination week."

The second bill: Resolved,

BALLOT OF HALF STUDENT BODY IS MADE NECESSARY

Vote On Radio Station Is Scheduled For February 10

Rejects PU Board

By CHARLES BARRETT

Approximately 1,500 students will have to vote in order to qualify an election scheduled for February 10 on the campus radio station, the student council decided last night.

President Bob Magill of the council said that in increasing the necessary vote from 800 suggested by the Publications Union board, the council felt a majority of students should be interested enough to vote if the studio would be a success.

Authority

Publications Union board members, in announcing that the board had set 800 as necessary, said the board had the authority to so regulate the election. Their reason was that the vote will not impose an additional fee upon students, but will decide whether $4,000 in the board's surplus be used toward establishing the studio.

Although it was expected a three-day period for voting would be set up, Magill did not comment on the council's requiring the voting to be done in one day.

Ballot

The council also suggested to the Publications Union board that the ballot clearly state it would cost approximately $4,000 to establish the studio, and that part of the recent refund in the publications fee would probably be recalled to maintain the studio.

The present ballot as planned by the board does not mention these items, though they have been published and were generally known to be true.

Chain

The proposed station, which would be connected with a chain of North Carolina studios in

Pasadena Playhouse, Nationally Known Little Theater, To Produce Peery's "Carnival"

By JIM McADEN

William Peery, University dramatic art assistant, received word from Pasadena, California, yesterday that his recently completed full length play, "Carnival," is scheduled for production by the Pasadena Playhouse, a nationally known Little Theater group.

Peery, a Rockefeller foundation fellow in creative writing, wrote the play as his chief work while an assistant in playwright Paul Green's advanced writing group.

Many First Plays

The Pasadena Playhouse, probably the most well-known Little Theater organization, has produced the first plays of many established playwrights. The play, directed by Gilmor Brown, will be presented for the first time April 4.

In order to get the necessary
