MURNICK WINS FIFTH STRAIGHT BOUT OF YEAR

Sanders TKO Winner; Jim Bryant Takes Varsity Bout

By R. R. Howe, Jr.

Carolina, VPI and Penn State met in a slightly skewed round-robin in the boxing ring of the Tin Can last night, although only Carolina and VPI did any glove-throwing, the VPI yearlings winning 5-3 and the Carolina varsity winning 5½-2½.

Coach Tom Slusser of VPI, Coach Mike Ronman of Carolina and Referee Russ Criswell were all former captains of Penn State boxing teams, Slusser in '34, Ronman in '35 and Criswell in '36.

Red Menace

The VPI boxers acquired the finest bouquet of bloody noses seen in the Tin Can for many a moon. Every time you looked up, there was a Tech boxer with a rosy schnozzle. And there was a surprise to go with every one of them.

The most heart-breaking loss of the evening was in the yearling 125-lb. class. Carolina's Gwynn Edwards had whirled through two rounds, landing left hooks with the regularity of a metronome but caught a blow on his eye just as the bell ending the second round sounded. The blow opened a dangerous cut in his eye-lid, making it im-

KAPPA PSI BOWLS DOWN PHI DELTS

Four Shutouts Feature Table Tennis Play

Kappa Psi's 322-307 win over Phi Delta Theta No. 2 proved to be the best match in the intramural bowling tourney yesterday afternoon at Graham Memorial. This is the closest game that has been played in the tournament so far. It headed the list of low scoring games that saw SAE No. 2 win over Phi Alpha, 353-271; and TEP No. 1 defeat Chi Psi No. 3, 370-318.

Four shutout games featured the intramural table tennis tourney. These were SAE No. 2 defeated Chi Psi No. 5, 3-0; AEPi

Oops, Sorry

The Daily Tar Heel track writer took a whirl around the new Tin Can banked track Wednesday. When it was all over, his head was in such a reel, that he identified the four men in the cut printed on this page yesterday as the four men who ran in the Millrose games as the Carolina two-mile relay outfit. The four men in the picture were Harry March, Rube Graham, Royce Jennings, and Fred Hardy. We're sorry.

Devil Ace Will Be In Final Conference Track Meet

Bill Morse of Duke, who last year was indoor mile and outdoor mile and two-mile Southern Conference champ, will close out his college running career in the conference indoor meet to be held in the Tin Can February 26.

Morse finished his outdoor running for the Blue Devils last spring, but because he missed the indoor meet in his sophomore year, the Duke distance man will get one more shot at the annual Tin Can event.

For three years the name of Bill Morse has dominated Southern Conference distance running. Last year he closed out his outdoor campaigning with the conference mile and two-mile crowns. In the indoor meet, he nosed out Graham Gammon of North Carolina for the mile championship, and then chased Bill Lumpkin of Richmond around to a new conference indoor two-mile mark.

The addition of Morse in the mile and two-mile affairs will make these events about the best of the indoor meet. For schools all over the loop have promised to send their ace men for both the mile and two-mile races.

The field in the mile is sure to include, in addition to Morse, Bill Hendrix, and either Fred Hardy or Jim Davis for Carolina, and Kehoe and Cronister from Maryland.

The two-mile field will have, in addition to Morse, Crockett and Troutman of Carolina, and Marsh and Roller of William and Mary.

DUKE, CAROLINA ARE AT IT AGAIN

Big Five Lead Will Be At Stake Tomorrow

When the cream of the North Carolina basketball crop, North Carolina and Duke, clash before another full house in the Tin Can tomorrow night, the lead of the Big Five will be the reward for the winner.

The White Phantoms hold top billing in the state court race with four wins and one loss, while Duke is in second place with three conquests in four starts against Old North State teams.

Carolina is favored to take

Branson Elected Yearling Leader

Lester Branson, crack guard on the freshman basketball team, was elected captain of the squad immediately following the game with Davidson Wednesday night. Hailing from Asheville, Branson has been outstanding in his floor work this season and is a promising candidate for the varsity next year.

The freshmen will practice in the Tin Can at 7:30 tonight. The Tar Babies will start work for Tuesday night's game with the undefeated Duke Blue Imps.
