OSCAR ODD McINTYRE, FAMOUS WRITER, DIES

New York, Feb. 14.—Oscar Odd McIntyre, famous New York newspaper columnist, died in his Park avenue apartment early this morning of an undetermined cause.

Coming from a small Ohio town, the writer worked for various newspapers before he began his daily column published in almost 400 journals. In this column, millions of Americans looked for their impressions of New York City, as seen through the eyes of a "home town boy."

Friday would have been McIntyre's 54th birthday and also his 30th wedding anniversary. He died at two o'clock this morning of an unknown cause, but he had been in failing health for some time.

The first man to write a syndicated New York column, McIntyre started his newspaper career in his home town, on the Gallipolis, Ohio, Journal. He worked in many positions for a number of mid-west journals for ten years before finally succumbing to the "big town" lure.

After being in New York for only a few months, he had started the brisk-phrases jottings on the Gotham scene which resulted in his fame and fortune as one of the highest-paid newspaper writers in the world.

DISARMAMENT PARLEY REQUESTED BY SOLONS

Washington, Feb. 14.—Resolutions were considered by both houses of congress today to instruct President Roosevelt to call an international conference on arms.

Senator King (D-Utah) made a request in the senate, while in the house of representatives, Fish (R-N. Y.) appeared before the house naval committee and suggested that a new disarmament conference should grant Japan naval equality with the United States.

Questioned about the plan, Secretary of State Hull would make no comment, but Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee, whose opinions generally coincide with those of the administration on foreign policy, expressed doubt that such a conference would produce results.

ACTIONS OF HITLER KEEP EUROPE UNEASY

Berlin, Feb. 14.—Secrecy surrounded the movements of Adolf Hitler and reports that the African colonies lost by Germany in the World War will be returned kept Europe uneasy during the week-end.

The German Fuehrer maintained strict secrecy concerning reports that his big surprise to his countrymen Sunday would be return of the lost colonies. It was reported that Britain was negotiating with the leader on an important colonial concession for the Reich, but that certain conditions would be required.

One of the conditions, it was stated, would be a definite understanding concerning relations between Germany and Austria. There were indications that Hitler and Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy were working

GYMNASIUM WILL BE FINISHED BY LAST OF MARCH

Woollen States Reasons Behind Delay In Construction

Outlining three major reasons why completion of the University's new giant gymnasium and natatorium has been delayed, Controller C. T. Woollen last night said the physical education plant should be ready for use at least by March 25, date set for its dedication.

Woollen revealed that an extension in the PWA contract from January 11 to April 1 had been gained in answer to a petition sent to Washington in December. A temporary extension was granted January 11 until PWA officials could give a permanent answer.

Plans

Elaborate plans, including an address by Governor Clyde R. Hoey of North Carolina, have been made for the dedication, which coincides with the annual gathering of the University Alumni association.

Three reasons given for delayed completion of the gym were the unexpected large quantity of hard blue granite encountered in excavating, an unavoidable delay in steel deliveries, and very adverse weather conditions.

Granite

In excavation for the building, it was necessary to remove 2,000 cubic yards of the granite, an amount far beyond preliminary expectations. Because of the proximity of other buildings and nearness to the highway, it was necessary to limit the blast-

TWO BILLS ON DI PROGRAM TONIGHT

Senate To Debate Topic Of Comprehensives

Members of the Dialectic senate tonight will debate two bills, one dealing with a national situation, and the other with a current campus problem, when the senate meets at 7:15 in New West.

First on the calendar is the bill: Resolved, That the Dialectic senate approves the repeal of the Wagner Labor Relations act.

Present System

The second bill is: Resolved, That the present system of comprehensive examinations for seniors should be abolished.

As a number of the senators have delayed the meetings in the past by being late, President Kerley urges that all members make an effort to be on time in order that the meeting may be called to order promptly at 7:15.

Pierson To Address League On Thursday

"Dictatorships In South America" Will Be Subject

"Dictatorships in South America" will be the subject of Dean W. W. Pierson of the graduate school when he speaks Thursday night at the YMCA under sponsorship of the Foreign Policy league.

Dean Pierson said he would discuss the possibility of the South American countries adopting the Italian form of dictatorship. The public is invited to attend.

Republican

Miss Frances Johnson, president of the University's Young Republican club, who attended a Lincoln Day dinner and state convention of the Republican party of North Carolina Saturday night and presented policies suggested by the local unit.

COUNCIL TO GIVE DORM DANCES IN SPRING QUARTER

Graham Memorial Will Hold Open House For Frolics

In a 30-minute meeting, the Interdormitory council last night set the date for the annual dormitory dances for the weekend of April 8 and 9.

The Tin Can will be the scene of the dormitory frolics. Evening dances will be held Friday and Saturday, and a tea dance is on the books for Saturday afternoon.

Stags

The most controversial issue of the meeting was on the question of whether to assess stags at the dances. After a heated discussion, the council voted almost 2-1 to charge stags 50 cents for the three dances.

Chairman Charles Wales of the dance committee announced that Pete Ivey had promised to hold open house in Graham Memorial after both evening dances

Professor Smith To Deliver Guest Lecture At Duke

Art Department Head Will Speak On "Mayan Architecture Of Chichen Itza"

Professor Russell T. Smith, head of the University Art department will be a guest lecturer at Duke university Thursday at 8 o'clock, when he will speak on "Mayan Architecture of Chichen Itza" and show lantern slides.

This lecture will be given in connection with the exhibition of Mayan art made up of large photographs and drawings done under the Division of Historical Research of the Carnegie institution of Washington, which is now at the Woman's college library at Duke university.

Source For Chicle

Present-day Yucatan, one of the world's greatest sources for chicle, the principal ingredient of chewing gum, was the center of the Mayas, the most highly cultured race of the Americas before the time of Columbus. Chichen Itza's structures date from about 964 to 1427, just before the crusades to the rise of the Medici family in Renaissance

COUNCIL CHANGES NAME OF LEAGUE; PRINCIPLES SAME

New Title Expected To Make Organization's Purpose Clear

In view of the fact that many students misunderstood the purpose of the organization, the League of Nations council, at a meeting last week, changed its name to the Carolina International Cooperation league.

Its principles still remain the same, "to educate ourselves and others into thinking and ultimately acting in terms of internationalism in the desire for peace and security."

Committees

The league has been divided into the following committees, listed with their chairmen: investigation, Len Miller; extension, Lee Large; current events, Paul Walloch; publicity, Tom Myers; and education, Ed Farish. The group, now consisting of about 30 members, meets each Wednesday night to discuss plans for activity on the campus, to participate in current events discussions, and to hear committee reports.

An outstanding feature of the organization is its weekly broadcast over station WDNC in Durham each Monday night. On these broadcasts, members of the league present the international situation for each week as well as excerpts from speeches of contemporary statesmen.

Officers of the organization are Henry Nigrelli, president; Ann Perry, vice-president; Mary McKee, secretary-treasurer; and John Thibaut, scribe.

NEW YMCA TO BE DEBATED BY PHI

Assembly Will Meet At 7 O'clock Tonight

Two bills are on the calendar of the Phi assembly for discussion and debate at tonight's meeting in New East at 7 o'clock.

The first bill, Resolved, That the University appropriate a fund for the construction of a new YMCA building on the campus, will be discussed by Representative Jack Fairley.

League

The second, Resolved, That the Phi assembly go on record as approving the League of Nations council, is to be discussed by Representative Wallach.

Drew Martin said that there will be no admittance to the Phi dance in the Carolina inn Friday night without the presentation of bids, and he urged all representatives to get theirs at the meeting tonight.

Carl Voss Urges Church To Assume Realistic Attitude

Raleigh Minister Tells YWCA Church Must Meet Actual Needs Of The People

"If in the past the church had had a realistic outlook and recognized the world as it is, our conditions and problems today would not be so difficult," stated Carl Voss, young student leader of Raleigh, in a talk before the YWCA last night.

"The church's right for existence is not justified unless it meets the actual needs of the people. The church has built

Aims Of Germany's Foreign Policy Will Be Subject Of Dieckhoff's Talk Tomorrow

Council Grants Readmission To Former Senior

A senior, who left school in 1935 before revelation of the cheating ring, was readmitted to the University last night by the student council.

The student made a complete confession of his part in the ring.

It was believed by the council that, because of the intervening time and an evident change in attitude, the senior would be a desirable student.

ADVISORY GROUP OF INSTITUTE TO MEET HERE AT 3

Plans Will Be Made For Meeting To Be Held On Campus

The Advisory-committee of the North Carolina Institute of International Relations will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Carolina inn, it was announced yesterday by University Extension Division Director Russell Grumman.

The meeting will be held primarily to complete plans for the 1938 Institute which will be held here from June 13 through June 22.

Space

In former years the meetings for this district have been held at Duke university, but because of limited dormitory space at the neighboring institution it will be impossible to hold this year's institute there.

The Chapel Hill institute will be one of 12 to be held this year at colleges in various sections of the country, Grumman said yesterday.

Mitchell Wrote Unusual Review Of Campus Play

Alumnus Is Author Of One Of Year's Best-Received Books, "My Ears Are Bent"

Joseph Mitchell, University alumnus who has written one of the year's best-received books, "My Ears Are Bent," once wrote a review of a Forest theater production for the DAILY TAR HEEL in which mosquitoes were played up instead of the actors.

In his book he discusses many of the people he has interviewed and who have sought to "bend his ears" to their stories since he began reporting for a metropolitan newspaper in 1929. "My Ears Are Bent" has been enthusiastically reviewed in New York and Washington as an example of some of the best writing being done on American newspapers.

Life Sketches

Mitchell wrote sketches of life on a tobacco farm for the Carolina Magazine and later became its editor. His summer vacations are still spent with his family at Fairmont and usually he manages to get to Chapel Hill

German Ambassador To Make Campus Speech At 8:30

Evening Reception

German Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff, who appears in Memorial hall tomorrow night at 8:30 on a Carolina Political union program will speak on "The Aims of Germany's Foreign Policy."

After his speech Dieckhoff will be the guest of honor at an informal reception sponsored by Graham Memorial. The affair will be conducted in much the same way as the student-faculty teas that Pete Ivey's organization has been sponsoring at intervals this year, and will be held mainly to give interested students and faculty members an opportunity for continued discussion with the ambassador.

Reception

The exact time for the beginning of the reception is not known at present, since it will depend on whether Dieckhoff accepts the union's invitation to conduct an open forum discussion after his speech.

When questioned yesterday, CPU Chairman Alex Heard said that he is not certain, as yet, who will introduce Ambassador Dieckhoff.

Housing

Upon his arrival in Washington slightly less than a year ago, one of the first problems that Dieckhoff encountered was in regards to housing.

The old embassy-chancery building, which would have been abandoned back in 1913 but for

CABIN KIDS WILL BE HERE SUNDAY

Union Will Bring Five "8-Balls" To Campus

If there is anything cuter than one Piccaninny it's five—and that explains why the Cabin Kids, coming here on a Graham Memorial program next Sunday, have become the newest radio and Hollywood sensation.

Features of Bing Crosby's "Mississippi," the "Five Watermelon Seeds" have since been guest stars on the Rudy Vallee and Paul Whiteman radio shows.

Tour

Now they are in the midst of a tour of some of the largest entertainment palaces in the country before they arrive at Hollywood, loaded down with contracts.

The five "8-balls" indulge in a cross-fire comedy chatter, sing hot and special numbers in
