FEAR HUGE TRANSPORT LOST IN MOUNTAINS

Fresno, Calif., March 2.—Fear was felt today for the lives of nine passengers of a TWA air liner believed to have crashed in the mountains west of here during a violent storm.

The pilot of the plane, John Graves, reported late last night that he had been forced to fly blind and was going to attempt an emergency landing. Since that time nothing has been heard from the plane.

Bound for Los Angeles from San Francisco, the craft was caught in a sudden rain and wind storm. Rain caused ice to form on the wings and static interfered with the radio. Graves reported that he was going to attempt a landing from his position of 10,000 feet. After that nothing more was heard.

Besides the six passengers, all of whom were bound eastward, the plane carried two pilots and a stewardess.

BRITISH ADVISED OF MORE REARMING COSTS

London, March 2.—The British government advised its taxpayers today that the five-year rearmament program would cost more than the originally-planned appropriation of $7,500,000,000 and to expect even larger bills for defense of the domain.

This part of a program by the British government to strengthen the defense of its widespread colonies and dominions.

As indication of the huge sum to be spent, the air ministry indicated that it would spend $500,000,000 during the year beginning April 1, more than twice the amount spent for the air force last year.

PRESIDENT EXPECTED TO ASK FOR TRUST PROBE

Washington, March 2.—As a result of President Roosevelt's saying yesterday that he would submit an anti-trust measure soon, congressmen believe that a thorough investigation of monopolies would accompany the bill.

Recent White House conferences on revision of the anti-trust laws led many legislators to the belief. The general opinion is, however, that legislation would be held up on the matter until inquiries have been conducted.

Congressional leaders, hoping for an early adjournment, said that consideration of a specific bill would be deferred until next session.

JAPANESE GAIN GROUND IN FIGHT FOR RAILROAD

Shanghai, March 2.—Japanese troops were reported today to be within striking distance of the vital Lunghai railroad, which extends for 500 miles across the central portion of China.

Eight invading columns were gaining ground in their fight to capture the vital "lifeline" railway, now held by Chinese troops.

The east-west line separates North China and the Yangtze river valley, Japanese-conquered portions of China.

The General Secretary of the Communist party in the United States, as Browder is officially tagged, will arrive in Raleigh by bus this morning at 9:45. It is not known, as yet, whether he will agree to speak to special classes during the day.

Banquet

Heard said yesterday that there will be an informal banquet for the speaker in the Carolina inn tonight at 6:30. Interested persons will be allowed to attend, but Heard has asked that they leave their names at the inn before 1 o'clock this afternoon.

PU BOARD MAY INVALIDATE VOTE ON RADIO STUDIO

Student Council Meets Jointly With Board; No Action Yet

If discussion during the recent joint meeting of the student council and Publications Union board materializes, the recent vote on the campus radio studio will be invalidated, it was learned yesterday.

Attempting to discover which organization has authority to set up requirements for establishing the proposed "fifth publication," the following agreements were discussed:

- (1) The publications fee is flexible underneath the last amount authorized by a student body vote. This amount is $6.90.
- (2) A favorable majority of approximately 1500 union members must vote favorably before a new function of the PU board may be either established or dropped.

Amendment

The latter point was discussed as an amendment to the PU board constitution. The amendment would have to be voted upon in an election qualified by the PU board.

No definite action on either of the discussed agreements was taken, and each organization will consider the proposals separately before arriving at a decision.

Jimmy Fuller, Freddie Johnson To Merge For Affairs

In a meeting of the Sophomore Dance committee last night in Graham Memorial the combined orchestras of Jimmy Fuller and Freddie Johnson were chosen to furnish the music for the annual sophomore dances which will be held on March 25 at the Tin Can.

Such a procedure by the dance committee will mark the first time that the two rival bands will have joined forces to present music for dances. Members of the committee felt that in making such a choice they would be helping to boost local talent, and also would be offering music comparable to any they could procure off the campus.

Hunter, Nesbit, Fairley To Run For Junior Class Posts

Race Getting Hot

By BOB PERKINS

Because of the criticism brought on him due to his withdrawal from his University party nomination, Cameron McRae last night withdrew his acceptance of the Student party's nomination for president of the sophomore class.

McRae stated that he accepted the Student party's nomination because he wanted to run for president, but did not realize the position he was placing himself in by withdrawing from the University party.

McRae had been nominated Monday on the University party ticket for secretary of the sophomore class. Tuesday night he had accepted the Student party's nomination for president of the class.

Completing their junior class slate with the exception of the vice-presidency, the Student party yesterday announced Benny Hunter as candidate for treasurer; Mac Nesbit, secretary of the class; and Jack Fairley, junior councilman on the student council.

Cy Jones' candidacy for the office of president of the junior class was announced Tuesday night.

Fairley, brother of former President of Student Body Francis Fairley, has a full record of activities since his freshman year when he was a member of the freshman friendship council. He is a member of the sophomore Y cabinet, the sophomore executive committee, reading clerk of the Phi assembly, member of the debate squad and was initiated into the University club this week.

Hunter was a member of the freshman friendship council, track team last year, and the
