By Shelley Rolfe

It may be none of my business and it probably isn't, but I fail to understand the great tomtom act being put out of Durham and other metropolitan centers about the greatness of Jack Coombs as a college baseball coach. For the past few years, everybody has been sitting down at the publicity mills and mimeographing machines grinding out Mr. Coombs, preferred.

All of which brings us around to the point of this morning's sermon, namely that Bunn Hearn is as good a coach as Coombs, if not better. Bunn hasn't the material Coombs has to work with, but he turns out good ball teams.

But the publicity men have not been yelling about Coombs and his record—rather about his ability to boost players to the majors. And that's just where Mr. Coombs hasn't done any too well. All he has sent to the big show since he has been at Duke has been Bill Werber. Brilliant Duke collegians have taken the train ride

Baseball And Track Teams On Excursion Today

VARSITY NINE AT WAKE FOREST IN TITLE FIGHT

Lead Of Big Five Will Be Decided; Hudson To Pitch

Very much at stake will be the baseball lead of the Big Five this afternoon when Carolina and Wake Forest come together at Wake Forest. The Deacons hold the center of the stage with three triumphs and one black mark. Carolina is second with one less win and one defeat. A win would put the Tar Heels at the top, a loss would drop them back down among the bottom teams.

Bud Hudson will be the man on the mound today attempting to pitch Carolina to the top. Bud has won four games this spring, downing Richmond, Dartmouth, W. & L., and Virginia. The Deacon game will be his first Big Five outing except for an inning of relief work three weeks ago against State. In gaining his quartet of victories, Hudson has allowed only 16 hits.

Talley-Go

Coach John Cadell of the Deacons will probably shoot big, left-handed Joe Talley to the slab. Talley pitched one inning against Carolina earlier in the season when the Tar Heels gave Wake Forest a 4-2 ball game, and in that one frame he struck out the side. Wednesday Talley let Duke down with eight hits to win 7-2 for his fourth win of the season. He has one defeat, tagged on him by the Blue Devils earlier in the season.

One Down

The Deacons have been beaten only by Duke this season, but they got back at Duke Wednesday. State held them to a 2-2 tie Easter Monday in a game hob-tailed by rain.

The Tar Heels have come through to win seven out of eight battles, that lone defeat coming at the hands of Wake Forest. Tuesday, Bunn Hearn's crew will move back to Emerson field to engage Davidson.

Golfers Win, Lose

(Special To The Daily Tar Heel) Athens, Ga., April 22.—Hudson Boyd, only University of North Carolina man in the first flight, won consolation match today when he was defeated by Bill Haverstick of Swathmore in the initial match play of the Southern intercollegiate golf tournament, 2-1.

Neil Herring, Carolina player in the second division, easily won his two matches of the day. Charley Diffendal went into the final round for second flight consolation, and Gordon Gifford took his opening round only to lose out in the afternoon matches by a slim one-hole margin. Dupont Kirven, captain of the visiting Tar Heels, went down swinging in a thrilling and close-finish twenty-one hole match.

Paul Leslie, Louisiana State golfer who tours the Florida circuit with professionals, is favored to take the individual honors. Carolina won the team championship in 1935, while LSU has held it twice. The tourney is now in its fourth year.

Tennis Men Set For Duke Today In Return Bout

Squad In Weakened Position With Fuller Out, Carl Rood Injured

Probable varsity lineups: Singles: W. Rood vs. Merchant; Strain vs. Collins; Foreman vs. Parsons; Rider vs. Hulme; Farrell vs. Ward; Beadles vs. Doyle. Doubles: W. Rood-Farrell vs. Merchant-Collins; Foreman-Gragg vs. Hulme-Doyle; Rider-Carver vs. Ward-Parsons.

Last Saturday it was Eddie Fuller; this afternoon it'll be Carl Rood. That's what the Carolina tennis team lacked and will lack, in its encounters with Duke. Blue Devil netmen invade the Hill for their return meet with Carolina, after receiving a 9-0 walloping last week at Durham at the hands of the Tar Heels.

Rood Out

Carleton Rood, who had moved into the number one berth after Captain Fuller's ineligibility, sprained his ankle last week and will be unable to play for at least three or four more days.

It's something like ten years since a Duke outfit of racquet-wielders turned back a Kenfield-coached contingent, and the last serious Devil court threat came somewhere in the early 30's.

Chance?

However, this afternoon Coach Harry Fogleman will come with one of his strongest outfits in many years. Led by Bob Merchant and Ted Collins, the Dukesters have an even chance to pull through quite a few unexpected wins.

The match last Saturday brought Carolina an easy and one-sided victory. Dropping only three sets in the nine matches, the squad seemed far above par in downing Duke. Carl Rood had little trouble with Duke ace Merchant but Brother Bill will have to play heads-up ball this afternoon to edge out the Devil star.

Lacrossers Lose

(Special To The Daily Tar Heel) Lexington, Va., April 22.—Bouncing back and forth on a muddy cow pasture studded with rocks, Washington and Lee's experienced lacrosse team presented the "10" from the University of North Carolina with its second defeat of the season here today, 13-4.

Coached by former All-American attack Monk Farinholt, the Generals easily outplayed the Carolinians, latest additions to the Dixie league. Nearly every player used by Washington and Lee had pre-college experience in the game, while the visitors are fairly recent addicts to the sport. Outstanding players for the Tar Heels included Budden, Finkel, Broadfoot, Shyrock, and Dessick.

Summary of goals: Washington and Lee—Berghaus 2, Henderson 6, Beck 3, Barbar 1, Simpson 1. Carolina—Buddon 2, Finkel 2.

RUNNERS TRACK ON DOWN TO DUKE FOR MEET

Ranson's Charges Out To Regain Old Domination

The finest track meet the South has seen in many a year will be put on at Duke stadium this afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock when Duke and Carolina clash. Not since 1927, when Carolina nosed Duke out by one point, 63½-62½, have the two teams been so evenly matched as they are this year.

The meet is likely to be decided in the field events, and if Carolina can pick up enough markers in the field it may be able to take a win over Duke for the first time since 1936, when the Devils first broke through to end the decade-and-a-half Tar Heel track rule of the south.

By The Tigers

Both teams will go into the meet with one black-eye administered by Princeton. Carolina balanced the Tiger loss with a win over Virginia. Duke sandwiched the loss between victories over South Carolina and Furman. In the conference indoor meet, the Devils nosed out Carolina by points for the title.

Richards

Hardy

Even though Fred Hardy will probably be out of the mile, the Tar Heels are expected to take most of the above-half points. Carleton White and Bill Hendrix are in the half for Carolina; Jimmy Davis in the mile; Tom Crockett, Bill Gordon and Andy Jones in the two-mile.

The Hurdles

Action is slated to be best in the hurdles when five of the best timber-toppers in this and any other section get together. Duke will present Hubert Reavis and Don Kinzie in both the highs and lows; Carolina will have

Handball Squad At Duke Today

Meet, At 2:30, Is First Tar Heel Intercollegiate Attempt

Handball blossoms as an intercollegiate sport this afternoon when the Tar Heel squad meets Duke on the Durham courts at 2:30. The meet will be comprised of eight singles and four doubles matches.

Singles: Freudenheim vs. Lundgren; Kalkstein vs. Walsh; Schehr vs. Kuemper; Geller vs. Mansell; Shapiro vs. Darling; Cohn vs. Etzel; Hauptman vs. Dennis; Hurwitz vs. T. Simm.

Doubles: Kalkstein-Geller vs. Lundgren-Etzel; Freudenheim-Zuckerman vs. Walsh and H. Simm; Cohn-Shapiro vs. Mansell-Schworer; Schehr-Hauptman vs. Kuemper-Darling.

Intramurals Off; Rain Has Its Day

Standings Compiled Of Dormitory, Frat. Teams

Yesterday afternoon, for the first time in two weeks, intramural activities did not take place. The intramural and co-ed fields looked like swamps and the tennis courts were thoroughly drenched with water.

During the week a strong Sigma Chi No. 1 tennis team defeated Kappa Sigma, becoming the first team to advance to the quarter-finals. In a previous match the Sigma Chi team had defeated TEP.

After several weeks of play the standings in both leagues are as follows:

Fencers En Garde With Georgia Tech Tonight At 7:15 In Season's Finale

Charlotte Track Team Wins High School Meet

Led by fleet-footed Bill Wartman, who took two firsts and a second, Charlotte high school retained its spot at the top of the state high school track rankings at Fetzer field yesterday afternoon by scoring 44 points to Durham's 33.

Wartman was first in the hundred yard dash and the 220. In the hundred, the Wildcat ace sped on the muddy, wet track to :10.1, tying a record of 12 years standing.

Two other marks were set. Gant of Durham made a new mark of 48 feet 3 3/4 inches in the shot-put, while Taylor of Winston-Salem went over the high hurdles in :15.2 for another glittering new figure.

The summaries:

Javelin—Gill, Charlotte, first; Puria, Durham, second; Pendergraft, Durham, third; Pate, Goldsboro, fourth. Distance: 152 feet 6 inches. 220-yard dash—Wartman, Charlotte, first; Daugherty, Goldsboro, second; Cunningham, Sanford, third; Crane, Charlotte, fourth. Time: 22.6 seconds.

880-yard run—Wise, Charlotte, first; Reece, Winston-Salem, second; Mansour, Goldsboro, third; Watkins, Durham, fourth. Time: 2:09.3. 200-yard low hurdles—McKinney, Chapel Hill, first; Smith, Charlotte, second.

Memorial Hall Is Scene Of Battle With Tech Champs

Probable lineups: Foil: Carolina—Captain Allan Bloom, James McCallum, Dave Malone; Georgia Tech—Captain George Waite, John Carran, Rex White. Epee: Carolina—William Kaplan, Richard Freudenheim; Georgia Tech—Captain Waite, John Carran. Sabre: Carolina—Captain Bloom, Oliver Williamson; Georgia Tech—Captain Waite, Rex White.

North Carolina's re-born fencing team ends its highly successful season of intercollegiate competition tonight at 7:15 in Memorial hall when it faces Georgia Tech's crack Southern conference championship squad.

Passbooks will not be needed at tonight's fencing meet.

Highlight of tonight's meet will be the fast and completely impartial judging. David Bartlett, captain of the Charlotte Men's club, will act as director of the meet, which is assured of ending within an hour and a half at the latest, instead of the usual two hours or more.

Curtain for Coffin Coach Edwin Coffin concludes his student-coaching tonight. A senior in the school of engineering, Coffin took

Winston High Goes Into Tennis Finals

Winston-Salem high school moved players to the finals in both the singles and doubles competition of the North Carolina interscholastic tennis tournament in matches played in the high school gym yesterday. Hendrix of Winston-Salem will oppose Freeman of Rocky Mount for the singles crown and Hendrix and Holtwanger will face Gerkey and Shepherd of Greensboro in the doubles today in the gym if the weather prevents outdoor play.

Coach Kenfield began yesterday's meet at 2 o'clock, but since the gym had only one court, the netters were able to advance only to the finals rounds, the matches lasting until 10 o'clock.

Chapel Hill's doubles team of Hobbs and Winston lost its semi-final match to Greensboro, after leading 5-3 and having set point in the first set, then losing it 7-5. They won the second, 6-0, but could not continue their game.

Summaries: Singles, semi-final round: Freeman (Rocky Mount) beat Sloan (Wilmington), 8-6, 3-6, 6-0; Hendrix (Winston-Salem) beat Markham (Durham), 6-1, 6-3. Doubles, second round: Sutton-Miller (Fayetteville) beat Freeman-Brock (Rocky Mount), 5-7, 6-2, 6-3. Doubles, quarter-final round: Sutton-
