

Daniels Says U. S. Unique Among Nations

Grail, Republican Club Elect Heads

Bill Campbell Chosen As Delegate For Next Year

At their annual banquet last night, with the new members as guests of honor, the Order of the Grail elected Phi Delta Theta's Bill Campbell as Delegate (president), Voit Gilmore as Scribe, Bud Hudson as Exchequer, and Dick Worley was given the position of Assistant Exchequer.

The office of Exchequer is always filled by the Assistant Exchequer who moves up to leave open his position for election.

Joseph Daniels, Ambassador to Mexico, Dr. Frank Graham, and Dr. W. S. Bernard were the leading speakers of the evening.

Idea

The ambassador stressed the idea of carrying through liberal ideas and advancement through practice of looking ahead and not looking back, to the assembled new members, active members, and faculty alumni.

Dr. Graham discussed the part that Grail has played in allowing the student body to enter into social activities of the campus while Greek professor Bernard discussed the history of the Grail. Dean R. B. House also took part in the program.

Ramsay Potts, outgoing Delegate, acted as toastmaster. This year's scribe was Marvin Allen; Joe Patterson held the Exchequer. (Continued on last page)

Adams Returns From Virginia Conference

Dr. N. B. Adams, University professor of Spanish, has recently returned from Virginia where he spoke to a conference on romanticism at Sweetbriar college. A leading group of English, French, German and Spanish scholars attended the meeting.

Murphy, Co-Founder Of Daily Tar Heel, Here This Weekend

Alumnus Attending Anniversary Of Local Fraternity

Walter Murphy, alumnus of the University and co-founder of the DAILY TAR HEEL in 1893, is on the campus this weekend along with approximately 45 other alumni who are present to take part in celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Sigma Nu fraternity's Psi chapter on the local campus.

Chapter
Murphy was also one of the chief founders of that chapter in 1888 and has taken an active part in alumni activities during the past half century.

Founded by Murphy and Charles Baskerville in 1893, the DAILY TAR HEEL was originally the official organ of the University's Athletic association. Since that day it has grown from a small two page paper to its present size and has in addition passed into the control of the (Continued on page two)

Republicans Pick Billy Gilliam For Club Presidency

Billy Gilliam was elected president of the Young Republican club for next year at a meeting held in Graham Memorial yesterday afternoon. He succeeds Miss Frances Johnson, president of this year's organization.

Bill Cole, retired head of the Student party, was chosen vice-president of the group.

Succeeding Walter Kleeman, Miss Elizabeth Spencer received the office of secretary-treasurer.

Gilliam announced plans for a policy-determining meeting of the club to be held on Monday, May 16, at 5:30 in Graham Memorial. All young Republicans, persons sympathizing with Republican concepts, and Anti-New Dealers are invited to attend.

The new president further stated the past and present objectives of extending Republican influence by establishing similar clubs on other college campuses, and by campaigning for Republican candidates at times of election.

MONOGRAM MEET BEGINS TODAY

25 High Schools Represented

Well over 100 high school athletes and coaches will arrive in Chapel Hill this morning for the first annual North Carolina High School Monogram conference. Approximately 25 schools will be represented, the executive committee of the University Monogram club stated after its final planning session last night.

The conference will officially get under way at 2 o'clock in the new gymnasium, with registration taking place until that hour. After the club's message of welcome, which will be given by (Continued on page two)

Explanation Given For Change In Type Size Today

Today the Daily Tar Heel returns to its former ten point type, reducing its column space by three galleys.

The famous cross-word puzzle on the second page may be forced out to allow space for front page continuations. The "World News" column has already been deleted from the paper.

The Publications Union board legislated the change because: (1) at present rates, eight point type costs a prohibitive $11 extra per issue, and (2) the board was not sure that the campus was getting its money's worth from the wider news coverage made possible by the smaller type.

If a reduction in printing rates and budget items is possible, the board may reconsider the question on new evidence.

SAYRE TO MAKE MAIN INSTITUTE ADDRESS TODAY

Zimmermann Will Lead Discussion This Afternoon

Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of state, will make the main address of today's program of the first International Relations conference when he speaks tonight at 8:30 in Memorial hall. His topic will be "The Consequences of Economic Nationalism." An open forum will follow.

Important on today's list of activities of the conference, sponsored by the Carolina League for International Cooperation and the Foreign Policy league, is the panel discussion this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Graham Memorial lounge.

The discussion will be led by Dr. Erich W. Zimmermann, University Kenan professor of economics.

Dr. Zimmermann said yesterday that he desires to stress the danger of single formulas in a multi-patterned world. He stated that he will approach the present situation from the historical angle and show how economic (Continued on last page)

CONTRACTS LET FOR MED SCHOOL

New Building To Be Built By WPA

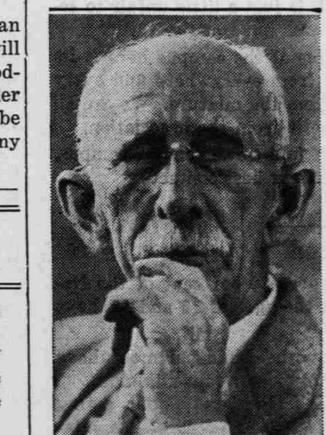

Charles T. Woollen, University controller, let contracts yesterday on the new medical building to be put under construction soon.

Judging from the bids subjected, which have yet to be checked to determine the lowest bidders, the new WPA project will cost somewhere between 350 and 400 thousand dollars. Because of several alternate clauses in the specifications, a meeting of the buildings committee to determine the actual low bidders who will be the contractors.

CONFERENCE IS OPENED WITH TALK LAST NIGHT

Lauds America's Place In World Affairs Today

In the opening address of the first International Relations conference last night, Ambassador Joseph Daniels contrasted the peaceful situation on the Western continent with the undeclared war in Asia, the Civil and uncivil war in Spain, and the threats of war which disturb the peoples of nearly every other portion of the world.

Daniels, who was introduced by President Frank Graham, stated that "there is not in the Western hemisphere any government upholding doctrines of the totalitarian state, no avid eyes on the territories or possessions of their neighbors, no control in any republic by Communists or Fascists or Nazis, no persecution of races."

He added, "There is a growing sentiment toward full realization of religious freedom and freedom of the press, an increasing friendly intercourse and solidarity and an extension of commerce between the 21 nations which cooperate through the Pan American concert of nations, and a freedom from the costly competitive armaments dictated by fear of invasion. No American nation is impoverishing its people or levying war taxes to near strangulation to put itself on a war footing. The big increase of the Navy of the United States carries no threat to any people and has been enterprised solely as a defense in a world that is so distraught that no nation is assured of safety unless it can protect itself.

Ambassador Daniels said that these comparatively peaceful conditions did not exist in the New World by accident or because the peoples of these 21 republics always thought alike.

"They have differences and disputes like other nations, sometimes tending toward acrimony," he said, "but they have highly (Continued on last page)

Says There Have Been No Worthy Speakers On The Campus This Year

By VIRGINIA GIBBENS
"Carolina is a veritable Coney Island," said Dr. Horace Williams. "I mean it. This isn't a university any longer—it's more of a sideshow. If you've ever been to Coney Island you know what I mean: There are so many things to do, so many shows to see. Over there is a man swallowing swords; over here is a man eating balls of fire. You walk around in a daze. And that's the way it is at Carolina."

Dr. Williams, who celebrates his eightieth birthday this year, has been a faculty member of the University of North Carolina since 1890. In his 48 years of philosophy teaching here he has observed with alarm the trend toward more and more extracurricular activities.

"Speakers, concerts, debates, athletic meets, dances, and so on, (Continued on last page)
