Where's Our Fight?

Last night for the first time in a number of years the University club and cheerleaders violated a growing tradition by not holding a pep-rally before the game with State.

Latest rumors late yesterday afternoon were that, at the last minute, the Monogram club decided to make some attempt at organizing a rally and informing the student body of its occurrence by telephoning the dormitories and fraternities.

The reason no rally was to be held, said the University club, was because of last week's demonstration before the Wake Forest game. A weak response, say members of the club, means less to the team than no rally at all.

Fearing another demonstration of weak support the University club postponed the rally until the night before the battle with Tulane.

So today our team marches on the field of one of our most vigorous opponents without any evidence of the student body's support! And expression of support, say men on the team, greatly adds to their drive to fight.

From the center of the field, it's a thousand miles to the stands and cheering sections. The men on the team will probably hear just a faint murmur, but if it comes from State's side our men may wonder if we've come to game to drink coca-colas and eat peanuts in the stands.

Today's game will be a test of whether our support and spirit died with the close of last year's season or whether, so far this year, we have not awakened to remember that all of us play a part in winning the battle.

Locating New Dining Hall

Included in the recent $5,000,000 building program for the Greater University was a grant for a new dining hall to be constructed somewhere on this campus.

Unknown, however, at the present time is the answer to the question of whether Swain Hall will be kept open or not when the new building is built.

Several spots are possible for the location of the new eating place. One of the most likely is the present coed field, now used for various sports. Another slightly possible one is the space to the west of the upper quadrangle and south of the Medical building.

As to the last named location, there is some doubt as to whether the space is large enough, and then too, there is the question of a noisy dining hall so close to classrooms, even though this location would be nearer to the center of the campus as it is constituted at present.

Since the trend of campus growth is tending toward the south and east, and since most of the persons who use the present University eating facilities are those who live in the upper and lower quadrangles, the coed field seems to be the logical spot, if the convenience of these patrons is to be served.

However, this leaves the fraternities and the upper dormitories a long way from food. Even so, if Swain Hall were to continue in operation, this location would seem to be the solution of the problem, for the new hall would serve dormitory residents, while the present hall would serve those nearest to it.—W. Event Held To Create Spirit

leigh was put up with the cooperation of the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce and Merchants association. This is a manifestation of the general interest evinced all over the state.

Band Parade

Special delegations from each unit, Carolina's 100-piece band, and State's 80-piece band and 30-piece drum and bugle corps are parading through the main streets of Raleigh in the early afternoon before the game.

Earl A. Slocum, band director, announced yesterday that the band would leave the campus in a body at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Time of the parade was not definitely known here, however.

Students from Greensboro are coming in a group on a special train to Raleigh. Chapel Hill students are expected to arrive throughout the morning.

Sponsors For Event

Twelve sponsors have been selected at each school, who will represent it in the special functions. They will take part in the parades and in the dance following the game.

Carolina sponsors and their marshals are as follows: Miss Elizabeth Malone with Ed Joyner, Miss Katherine Fleming with Gilly Nicholson, Miss Grace Newborn with Jim Joyner, and Miss Nell McIntyre with Bill Campbell.

Miss Perdita Arnette will be accompanied by Allen Merrill, Miss Mary Moore by John Moore, Miss Mary Wood Winsby Brooks Patten, and Miss Mary Hunter Isaacs by Felix Markham.

Also Miss Anne Nash will be escorted by Fred Rippey, Miss Elizabeth Anne Spencer by Voit Gilmore, Miss Elizabeth Holmes by Broks Patten, and Miss Marion Galloway by Bill Hendricks.

Gates of the student section on the east side of Riddick stadium will open at 1 o'clock and the game will start at 3. Carolina students will present 50c and their pass books for admission.

Dance To Be Climax

Large attendance at the informal dance to be held in the evening after the game is expected. This will be the climax to the plan of the steering committee to make a gala occasion of the Greater University Day.

Official approbation of the plan which was originated by Dick MacKenzie, State senior, was given last week by Governor Clyde R. Hoey and the administrative heads of the various units of the University.

MacKenzie, chairman, and presidents of the student bodies of the three branches, compose the steering committee which has planned and arranged the celebration aided by sub-committees at the different sections of the University.

Is There A Doctor In The House?

To the Editor,
The DAILY TAR HEEL:

Well, thanks to Hudson, Nethercutt, Bissett, Coach Dunham, McCahren, and George Stirnweiss, we finally had a pep rally. But, it wasn't because the students — especially the men from across the street — went to the rally — the rally went to them. The one whom we elected last spring to lead cheers this fall was not to be seen; maybe he too was across the street.

With just one week left before Homecoming, the team now in greatest need of support, we find the Carolina spirit sick and slowly dying. Our only hope for a speedy recovery is to find doctors specialized in the field of spirit rejuvenation. In the Monogram club we find men who have proved their ability, and, feeling that the attitude of the Student Body has undergone an about face since a similar situation last fall, we, voicing the opinion of the Student Body, advocate the utilization of our once spurned ability. Our team should not be forced to fight alone when there are 3,000 men fully capable of lending much needed support.

Women Pharmacists Plan For Sorority

The Kappa Epsilon society, composed of Pharmacy school girls, plans to establish a national chapter on the campus, Miss AltaJane Holden, president of the society, announced yesterday.

Plans for the year were made at a meeting of the group this week attended by a committee which worked with the national organization during the summer. Those on the committee were Misses Anna Dean Burkes, Rose Stacy and Elizabeth Weaver.

Miss Alice Noble, secretary of the Pharmacy school, was chosen faculty advisor of the society last spring.

Clarity On Crane

The DAILY TAR HEEL wishes to make clear that Dr. H. W. Crane, included in the article on new additions to the University Health service yesterday, has been connected with the psychology department of the University for 17 years.

Dr. Crane's new capacity will be to devote part of his time to the psychology department of the University Health service this year.

Extra! Infirmary Reporter Gets Story

H. A. Truex, who has been stricken with diphtheria at the University health service, was reported to be improving last night. The parents of Truex arrived yesterday.

Members of the fraternity to be vaccinated for diphtheria at the health service department and the cook and butler at the fraternity house have been examined by the Public Health bureau.

Others confined to the University health service are S. Davis, A. Gregg, R. S. Sloan, M. H. Yuddell, B. F. Aycok, P. Galumbeck, H. T. Cox, J. A. Cheek, P. B. Raymond, E. Kantowitz, L. H. DeArmore, H. A. Harkey, J. P. Henderson, P. H. Gunther and J. S. Hopkins.

Librarians To Meet Here

ganized last year. Three meetings were held during the year, one at Raleigh, Wake Forest and Chapel Hill. The association is designed to give the law librarian of the state an opportunity to meet once or twice a year to discuss their problems.

SMITH TO GIVE TROPHY AGAIN

Award Goes To Most Valuable Player

The E. Carrington Smith award, given annually to the University player selected as most valuable by the varsity football squad, will be presented again this year, Smith, manager of the Carolina theater, announced yesterday.

The award is a handsome silver trophy about 30 inches tall. A figure, representing victory, stands between two football players, on a teak base.

The coveted award has been presented several prominent players in the past, among them George Barclay, Andy Bershak, and Don Jackson. Bershak, who was named on many All-American teams, received the trophy last year.

The presentation, the seventh-annual this year, will be made Awards night. At present the trophy is on display in Wootten-Moulton studio.

Monogram Club Rides Again

through the village, down to Spencer hall, and on to the dormitory quadrangles.

Once the original group arrived at the dormitory section, other students were attracted, and a crowd of some 1,500 demonstrated the Carolina spirit and interest which had been smoldering but, apparently for the lack of organization, had not been fanned into flame.

IRC Draws Up Membership Rules

Members of the International Relations club voted to restrict its membership to 30 students, prospective members to be passed upon by a committee before being approved by the club, at a meeting this week.

John Rankin, appointed by Henry Nigrelli, president of the organization to form and head the membership committee, chose Melville Corbett and Dexter Freeman to help him. John Thibaut was appointed to draw up a set of rules and Hans Jacquett placed in charge of printing posters.

New and old members were welcomed by John Kendrick who spoke of the IRC as a worthwhile expenditure of leisure time. Both Spanish and Chinese delegates to the World Youth Congress were turned down as guest speakers.

Business meetings, which are the first of every month, will be called at 7:30, general discussion meetings at 7:45. Members were urged to attend the panel discussion to be held next Wednesday night in the Graham Memorial lounge.

Dr. Leavitt Gets Teaching Honor

As one of the two official delegates appointed by President Roosevelt, Dr. Sturgis Leavitt this summer represented the United States at the first International Congress on the Teaching of Ibero-American Literature. Dr. Leavitt gave one of the opening addresses.

In course of the meeting Dr. Leavitt presented a paper on literary relationship between the United States and South America. Delegates to the meeting were from leading American universities and every Latin-American country.

Dr. Leavitt was elected as one of the editors of the official magazine of the Congress.

The vitaphone was first used in a production entitled "Don Juan."
