McKIE AVAILABLE FOR SPEECH WORK AMONG FRESHMEN

Department Takes Action Because Of Many Complaints

Adjustments in the department of English made by Dr. George R. Coffman have made available a part of the time of Professor George McKie for diagnostic and remedial speech work among the freshmen for the correction of speech defects.

Freshman English Instructors have been advised to note students with noticeable speech deficiencies and send to Professor McKie, their names and class schedules. Defects to be corrected will include impediments, stammering, poor voice control, lax articulation, slovenly enunciation, general indistinctness and objectionable dialectal peculiarities.

"We do not intend to remove local idioms and those tasty peculiarities which may be called provincialisms add much flavor to speech. We are not going to make Southerners out of Northerners or vice versa," announced Dr. A. P. Hudson today.

Treatment of students will include special interviews, diagnostic tests and treatments, and perhaps phonographic speech records. Recalcitrant and indifferent students who need such

Steve Maronic Kicks All Extra Points In Game

By SHELLEY ROLFE

(Special to the Daily Tar Heel)

RIDDICK STADIUM, Raleigh, Oct. 1.—Paced by George Radman, who scored all three Tar Heel touchdowns, the University of North Carolina struck the first decisive blow in defense of its Southern conference championship by blasting State 21-0 before 19,000 fans this afternoon.

The Tar Heels piled all of their scoring fireworks into ten minutes of the second quarter by rushing two touchdowns over. With three minutes to go in the game, Carolina got its final touchdown after a pass interception by Jim Mallory had brought the ball down to the State three yard line.

Radman took a 14 yard forward pass from Sweet Jim Lallane for the first score three minutes after the start of the second quarter. Later in the period, Radman stepped through a hole in the State line from the Wolfpack three-yard stripe for six more points. In the fourth quarter, he followed George Watson around right end for the third and final Tar Heel touchdown of the afternoon. Steve Maronic kicked all three extra points.

Smooth Playing

Carolina rounded off most of the ragged edges this afternoon that marked its play against Wake Forest in the season opener last week. Jim Lallane gave further indication of developing into a star of All-American rating by passing to Radman for the first touchdown and setting the stage for the second with a 21-yard run that brought the ball down to the three yard line. He twisted his ankle late in the second quarter and sat the second half out as the Wolfmen resorted to straight, defensive football.

Jack Kraynick and Bob Smith helped the Tar Heels to victory with their strong line-backing. Smith, who went in on the
