

University Day To Be Held Tomorrow

Celebration to Be 145th Anniversary Of Founding

Tomorrow the University, the oldest state university in the country, will celebrate the 145th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of its first building, Old East. The program will be centered around a memorial of alumni who have died during the past year.

Mark Ethridge, general manager of the Louisville Courier-Journal, will make the main address on the subject of "The South and Its Prospects." Ethridge's speech will be broadcast over station WPTF in Raleigh.

Since 1936 Ethridge has been vice president and general manager of the Courier-Journal. He was recently appointed acting public relations counsel for the radio industry, a position corresponding to that of Will Hays in the movies.

Half-Holiday

No classes will be held after the 8:30 and 9:30 classes. However, chapel attendance will be compulsory as usual.

Faculty members have been requested by Dr. W. M. Dey, faculty marshal, to assemble promptly in the morning at 10:35 on the south side of South building to form the academic procession. While the march into Memorial hall, the University band will play the processional.

Contrary to custom the faculty this year will be seated with the rest of the assembly in the auditorium instead of on the stage. Dean R. B. House will preside.

Dr. N. H. D. Wilson, class of '86, will deliver the invocation. Then the University hymn will be sung by the assembly, with organ accompaniment.

Radio Speech

Promptly at 11 o'clock the speaker will be introduced by President Frank P. Graham since his speech is to be broadcast.

At the conclusion of Ethridge's address there will be a responsive reading by Dean House and the assembly. Then a moment of silence will be observed as a memorial to those alumni and students of the University who have died during the past year. In particular it is noted that the oldest University alumnus of last year died early in September. He was the

FINAL RETURNS IN POLL FOLLOW EARLY TREND

Over 1800 Voters Disapprove Jonas, New Deal, British

Complete tabulations from the Carolina Political union's campus poll which were made available yesterday showed that over 1800 persons used the automatic voting machines to express their opinions on national and foreign affairs. Taking part in the poll were students, Boy Scouts, faculty members, and townspeople.

Those voting tended to be anti-New Deal, expressed their disapproval to replace Democrat Senator Bob Reynolds with his Republican opponent, Charles A. Jonas, who spoke here last week, and disapproved of the outcome of the recent European crisis.

The first question asked was "Should Britain and France have allowed Germany to take the Sudeten area?" which was answered: yes, 687; no, 1166. Only 114 persons replied positively to the question, "If general European war had come last week, should that country have entered?" while 1794 disapproved the idea.

The remaining queries dealt with national politics. When asked in the third question, "Do you approve Roosevelt's 'party purge' philosophy and tactics?" while 1794 disapproved the idea.

The DAILY TAR HEEL Wants To Know— Can You Spare A Second?

Carolina's gridiron eleven travels to New York this weekend to meet NYU in Yankee stadium. There are two possible ways students remaining at the Hill can attend the game: first, via the grid-graph; second, via telegraphic radio reports. Which do you prefer? The CPU automatic voting machines will be set up in front of the YMCA this morning and the results of the poll will determine whether or not the grid-graph will be in operation.

It is known that one, and possibly two, interstate broadcasting studios will carry Saturday's game over the air by means of recordings and telegraphic reports. However, student opinion seems to be against this method and the grid-graph, which has not been used at the University in two years, is apparently preferred. Should today's vote show sufficient student interest to prove this to be true, the grid-graph will be in operation at Memorial hall Saturday afternoon and the admission charge to defray expenses will be 25 cents.

For the uninitiated, the grid-graph is a large, metal structure showing a football field and scoreboard. The mechanism works by lights and shows the game, play by play, as it progresses in Yankee stadium.

IRC TO SPONSOR RADIO PROGRAMS OVER WDNC, WPTF

First of Series To Be Presented Tonight at 10:15

The International Relations club of the University will sponsor two radio programs during the coming year over stations WDNC and WPTF. The first of the two programs will be presented tonight over WDNC from 10:15 to 10:30 on the international scene and the South's position in world problems.

A short commentary on the world situation will be presented each week. Henry Nigrelli, president of the group, will be in charge of the program tonight and four members of the club, E. J. Isaacs, Lee Williams, Dexter Freeman, and Ed Farrish, will be responsible for the program for the rest of the year.

The program to be presented over WPTF will be called the University of North Carolina Round Table and will be presented every Sunday afternoon from 3:00 to 3:30. It is to be modeled after the University of Chicago Round Table and will deal with international and occasionally national affairs. The program will be conducted alternately by faculty members and students.

The program has received the hearty approval of both Dr. Graham and Dean Hobbs. It is the only official program representing the school.

Among the student speakers to appear on the program will be Niles Bond, Sam Hobbs, Melville Corbett, Nancy Nesbit, Charles Lurch, Sam Hirsch, Bob Magill, and John Kendrick. Faculty members to speak on the program are Professors Frazier, Zimmerman, Katsoff, Russell, and others.

Town Girls Elect Club Officers

At a call meeting of the Town Girls' club recently in the banquet hall of Graham Memorial, three new officers were elected. They are: vice president, Gladys Best Tripp; secretary, Sarah Massey; and graduate representative to the council, Winifred Lyon; and chairman of the advisory board, Louise Hudson.

Assembly And Senate Meet Tonight at 7:15

Campus topics will feature the Di and Phi meetings tonight at 7:15 in New West and New East respectively. Phi's topic of the evening will be: Resolved, that the coeds' curfew be extended until 11 o'clock, while the Di will argue: Resolved, that the Dialectic Senate go on record as opposing fraternity rushing until after Christmas.

Initiation of new members will be held by Phi and all desiring to be initiated are asked to be present if possible. A fee of $1.00 is payable before initiation with the understanding that dues will be paid by November 1.

The Di will discuss one other topic: Resolved, that the Dialectic Senate oppose the foreign policy of the British prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, since he has been in office.

Preceding Phi's discussion of the coed curfew a report by Representative Edith Gutterman will be given on the question. Also on the program will be two other bills: Resolved, that the Phi Assembly approve the continuation of federal farm control, and: Resolved, that a student night club be established in Graham Memorial. A factual report by Representative Hassell Thigpen will precede the farm bill.

Groves Advises About Marriage In Popular Mag

University Professor Recommends Books for Persons Prior to Their Marriage

"Reader's Digest" for October has a condensed story of "So You Want to Get Married?" written by Dr. Ernest R. Groves of the University department of sociology. Dr. Groves' story first appeared in a summer copy of "American magazine."

A foreword to the article reads: "The American magazine published an article telling about college courses in marriage. So many letters were received requesting more information that the American asked Professor Groves, a pioneer in such

UNIVERSITY CLUB MAKES PLANS FOR FUTURE PROGRAMS

Pep Rally Send-Off To Be Held For Team Friday Night

Having already directed the planning of one of Carolina's most successful homecoming celebrations during the past week-end, the University club met last night and made plans for future campus programs.

In keeping with the policy to stimulate student spirit, the club decided to sponsor a short pep rally send-off for the football team just before it leaves on the long trek northward Friday evening to pick N. Y. U. Violets. A member of the cheerleading crew will be on hand to lead a few yells as a farewell to the team just before they leave in busses from Carolina inn.

HOWISON TELLS OF NEW 'LAW REVIEW'

Nation-wide Experts Write For Magazine

Plans for the fall issue of the North Carolina Law Review are rapidly materializing. Editor Bob Howison announced yesterday. Many nation-wide experts on law will contribute to the publication, notable among whom are Willard Graham, professor at the University of Chicago Business School, and Professor Hanft, of the North Carolina Law School.

The second part includes the notes of the law students on re-

Former Students Engaged—Not To Each Other

Engagements of two former Carolina students, Miss Mary Lillian Speck and Dick Dashiell, were announced recently. Miss Speck is engaged to William Frederic Sinn of Iowa, and Frederick Knowles Dashiell will be wedded to Miss Vivian Grisette of Hickory and Valdese.

"First Door To Left" and "Soc. 62 Lab" Called Best

By SANFORD STEIN
 Carl Pugh likes laughs. He has the realistic philosophy that, since the Buccaneer's purpose is to amuse as many of the students as possible, there is little sense in making it so subtle and so sophisticated that it will go over the head of half the campus. His new Buccaneer is broad, down-to-earth and frequently funny. But its humor is that of
