Mrs. Sanger To Speak This Morning In Memorial Hall On Birth Control Situation

Authority To Review Status Of Recognition Of Contraception

By LOUIS HARRIS

This morning at 11 o'clock all social minded students are asked to be at Memorial hall, where Mrs. Margaret Sanger will talk on birth control. On her way to Winston-Salem, this noted child-birth expert will stop in Chapel Hill to give a review of the status of the recognition of contraception as a common practice. After she has concluded her speech, she will answer any questions which the audience may have.

Long has been the fight of Mrs. Sanger for the general acceptance of contraception in both medical and social circles. Dating back to 1913, when she was a nurse in a New York hospital, to the present time, Mrs. Sanger has waged a determined war for the recognition of birth control. Illness, arrest and a consequent flight to Europe, besides rude exclusion from social circles—all have failed to keep this pioneer from completing what she felt to be her duty.

"The Woman Rebel"

Brought to court for violating the postal laws, when she published "The Woman Rebel," a publication urging birth control, Mrs. Sanger, feeling that she was about to face a biased court, fled the country. After touring Europe, learning much about contraception from foreign doctors, she gave herself up and returned to America, ready to stand trial. She discovered, however, that in her absence a strong faction for the recognition of birth control had sprung up. Taking advantage of her opportunity, Mrs. Sanger organized the American Birth Control League, which toured the country, only to find all doors shut to her proposals.

Undaunted, she waited for public reaction to turn, and culminated her efforts to date, when, in November, 1936, the Comstock Act, a law preventing obscene literature from going through the mails, was nullified by the New York Federal court, in its application to birth control.

CPU MEMBERSHIP OPEN FOR FOUR UPPERCLASSMEN

Two Vacancies In Union Are Open To Coeds

Four applications for membership into the Carolina Political Union will be accepted within the next two weeks, according to the meeting of the union last night in Graham Memorial. These applications must be from sophomores, juniors, and seniors, and two of those chosen will be coeds, if two are interested enough in the work, and are approved by the union.

It was decided also that freshmen will have a larger number than usual taken in this year since the applicants from the other classes are being limited in number in favor of the freshmen. However, it was pointed out that freshmen are not to apply for membership at this time, as the union wants them to be fully acclimated in school before taking them in.

Those who wish to apply for membership into the union are asked to get their application blanks at the YMCA office Monday or Tuesday. Students who have applied before are asked to indicate if they wish to have their applications extended.

The vacancies in the CPU, which has a limit of 25 members, were made by graduation and by failure of some members to return to school this fall. Nancy Nesbit resigned from the group at the meeting, and upon accepting her resignation, the CPU members elected her vice-chairman Emerita.

Plans for a trip to Washington to discuss a definite date and time for President Roosevelt's speech were discussed, as well as dates of prospective speeches.

Final Day

Juniors, seniors—today is absolutely the last day you can have your pictures made for the Yackety-Yack.

Woman's Association Calls Special Meet

There will be a special Women's Association meeting on Monday at 5 o'clock called at the instigation of the graduate women to vote on additional council members from the graduate group.

There is one graduate on the council at present, although graduate women form 40 per cent of the total women students. The present group of graduate women say they are interested in campus activity and want greater representation on the Women's council.

TENTATIVE CAST NAMED FOR 36TH PLAYMAKER TOUR

Company Is Composed Of 15 Players, Technicians

The tentative cast for the 36th tour of the Carolina Playmakers has been announced. This company, composed of 15 players and technicians who carry all their equipment, scenery, and costumes in the bus they travel in, has played from Massachusetts to Florida, at the Texas Centennial Celebration, at the National Folk Festival, and at most of the leading colleges and cities of the South.

For "Soldadera" (soldier-woman) by Josephine Niggli, soon to be published by the University Press, Misses Mary Wood, Averil Gentles, Janet Pendleton, Bill Malone, Katherine Moran, Dorothy Lewis, Gwen Pharis, and Rietta Bailey have been chosen, also Donald Muller.

The cast for "Three Foolish Virgins," by Bernice Kelly Harris who will also soon have a book out, includes Misses Gwen Pharis, Rietta Bailey, Ann Nowell, and Janet Pendleton and Fred Koch.

"Magnolia's Man," by Gertrude Wilson Coffin, wife of the head of the journalism department, will have in its cast Mary Wood, Ann Nowell, Wieder Sievers and Harry Davis.

The itinerary, not as yet completely planned, will include performances on November 11-12 at Chapel Hill, Nov. 14 at Raleigh, Nov. 15-16 at Harrison.

GRID-GRAPH GOES INTO OPERATION FOR NYU GAME

Students May Also Follow Duke-Tech Clash

Rain or shine, students remaining at the Hill this weekend can see the Carolina-NYU game, play-by-play, when the Grid-graph goes into operation at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Memorial hall.

Doors at Memorial hall will open at 1:30. Teletype machines are being installed in the auditorium in order that fans watching the NYU game as it progresses in Yankee stadium may also keep in contact with the Duke-Georgia Tech clash.

Students voted at the rate of two per minute in the DAILY TAR HEEL poll Tuesday as a heavy majority favored the Grid-graph over artificial radio programs. As a result of the poll, the paper is sponsoring this game on the University's Grid-graph system.

Arrangements for the operation of the Grid-graph were completed yesterday and workers will begin setting up the mechanism on the stage of Memorial hall today.

National Academy Of Sciences To Meet Here Soon

300 Scientists Have Been Invited To Convention Which Will Open October 24

Dissertations pertaining to subjects of general scientific interest will be presented by nearly 50 members of the National Academy of Sciences which will meet here October 24 through 26.

It was announced yesterday that invitations have been issued to all of the members of the Academy which number nearly 300. These scientists, many of whom have gained national prominence, will convene in Venable Hall auditorium at 10:30 Monday morning, October 24, at which time Dr. H. V. Wilson of the University of North Carolina will give the opening address.

Among the speakers will be noted astronomers from the

HIGH SCHOOL TO PRESENT "CONGO" HERE TOMORROW

Choric Drama Is Special Feature Of CDA Meeting

A choric drama based upon Vachel Lindsay's "Congo" will be presented by the Rocky Mount High School Dramatic club as a special feature of the sixteenth annual director's conference of the Carolina Dramatic Association tomorrow at Bynum gymnasium.

The CDA is composed of representatives from all the leading drama groups in North Carolina from colleges, high schools, little theatres, and community groups who meet in a full day session to plan activities for the year. On the schedule are district festivals, community pageants, and state tournaments. Playwriting and other theatre arts will be discussed. Visitors will be welcomed to all of the sessions.

Beginning with a breakfast at the Carolina inn at 8:30, the conference will be continued with a general session at 10 o'clock in Bynum. The Rocky Mount club will present their drama, and Dr. Frederick H. Koch, founder and president ex-officio of the Association, will speak on "The Carolina Theatre Advancing."

A demonstration on recordings as an aid to voice training will be conducted by Professor Earle Wynn of the University's Department of Dramatic Art. John W. Parker, Director of the High School Summer Session on dramatic art held here, and Miss Martha Hornaday of Greensboro, member of the high school group, will discuss activities of

Addresses Wanted

All recent changes of address by students must be reported to the YMCA office immediately, so they may be included in the student directory.

This in particular is a reminder for the freshmen who are moving into their fraternity houses.

FOOTBALL TEAM TO GET ROYAL SEND-OFF TONIGHT

Wolf, Maronic, Watson To Speak At 6 O'Clock At Inn

By WILLIAM L. BEERMAN
Carolina's New York-bound football team will get a royal send-off tonight at 6 o'clock when University students, band members, and club representatives gather in front of Carolina inn for a short but large-scale pep rally. Coach Ray Wolf will speak briefly and introduce co-captains George Watson and Steve Maronic before the squad leaves by bus for Durham.

The University and Monogram clubs in cooperation with Band members, who are to play for the pep rally today, meet at 5:45 in front of the Carolina inn. All students requested to be there at 6 o'clock.

the DAILY TAR HEEL, are sponsoring the rally in order to have a mass demonstration for the benefit of the 34 football players who are making the trip to New York. The team plays unbeaten NYU in Yankee stadium tomorrow afternoon.

Approximately 50 members of the band will provide musical atmosphere for the rally, and the cheerleading staff will lead yells under the direction of Paul Harper, acting in the absence of Pat Patterson, who has already left for New York.

Immediately upon conclusion of supper at the inn, Coach Wolf will bring the team onto the front lawn and say a few words concerning the game. He will introduce Watson and Maronic, who may or may not be in an
