"Too Hot to Handle" (Sun and Mon) is another of Hollywood's weird invasions of the fourth estate. It is supposed to be a pictorial record of the romance, thrills, vividness etc. of a news photographer's life.

As a travelogue it lacks authenticity, as a tale of picture journalism it is doubtful to say the least, and as a movie it is a jumble of every emotion and thrill. For those who do not mind a lack of continuity or proba-bilty "Too Hot to Handle" may be very pleasant.

TIME.

"Road to Reno" (Tues) ought to be closed down for repairs. It is the hack tale of weary wives who rid themselves of their husbands and set out to seek life.

"Marie Antoinette" (Wed, Thurs, Fri) is a continuation of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer colossal historical spectacles. And like most of them, it falls just a little flat.

An interesting side light upon the way that Hollywood treats history is contained in the Hall of Mirrors scene. When studio officials set out to create a replica of the famed hall they decided it was not colossal enough.

Norma Shearer, who will always be the first lady of this column, is splendid as the ill-fated queen. Tyrone Power, as her royal Swedish lover, is adequate.

RELATIONS CLUB SPONSORING RADIO BROADCAST TODAY

Forum To Be Regular Sunday Feature; To Debate Czechs

This afternoon the International Relations club is sponsoring its first radio program from 3 to 3:30. The program is to be known as the University of North Carolina round table, will be featured the rest of the year.

The forum this afternoon will be on the late Czechoslovakian question and will feature Charles Lerche, John Kendrick, and Sam Hobbs as speakers. President Henry Nigrelli will preside.

Next Sunday the round table will feature Professors Katsoff, Vance, and Thomas and they will discuss "Can Democracy Survive?"

This marks the first and what is hoped to be a permanent feature of University life and will attempt to rival the Chicago round table. The program will be heard also in South Carolina and Virginia.

Bob Magill has announced that the program may be heard in the Graham Memorial lounge.

Although MGM has not reached the artistic finesse of "A Tale of Two Cities," it certainly is a better than average motion picture and worth seeing.

"Mother Carey's Chickens" (Sat) does not lay an egg. For a tear-jerker it is superior, and as a tale of mother love it is pleasingly sentimental. Fay Bainter—one of the outstanding actresses of the day—is commendable as the mother.

Security Not For Students

Editor's note: The editorial below is reprinted from the Daily Californian, not to side with President Wilbur against Washington's security program but to raise the question, are we really looking for security?

President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford university stepped forward as the spokesman of American youth last week. He told an assembly of students that "security seems to be the one thing that young people do not want."

Dr. Wilbur has a point there. Life is an adventure, and young men go back each day to the employment agency with ardor and ambition. Youth wants opportunity, not security; if they miss meals and tramp the highways of America for a place to stay, that's just part of the game. There's no point in worrying about tomorrow's breakfast.

Adventurous modern youth wants the security of a job and a decent way of living? Ridiculous! As Dr. Wilbur says, "Young people should be filled with the willingness to run risks, and leave security for their later years."

Dr. Wilbur understands, of course, that things are rather difficult right now. The fantastic New Deal legislative program has so shaken the confidence of business that industry cannot place this newer generation. Our schools and homes are turning boys into the streets by the thousands. Security is a tempting mirage of idealistic, impractical students.

For youth, security is often a form of "semi-petrification." But materialistic young men, those who feel that their society is as much to blame for the dilemma as themselves, are still jumping at the chance of three square meals a day or an opportunity to continue their education under Federal security.

We know that Dr. Wilbur realizes that the present tentative program of Federal security is keeping thousands of young men from the despair of hopeless job-hunting.

But adventure and courage are matters of principle. Dr. Wilbur pledges the youth of America to the headline, anything, rather than acceptance of this insidious New Deal program of security.

Buried For 6938

Contained in an 800-pound capsule buried 50 feet beneath the 1939 World's Fair grounds is a complete account of our civilization. In this somewhat oversized pellet of intellectuality there have been placed scientific works, photographs, movie films, even a key to the English language.

Five thousand years from today the pellet is intended to be opened. With what ado will the super men of 6938 consider our major problems? With what concern will they read the messages of our great men of today?

Just as a Kansas University journalist has said, "Unless human nature changes radically in the next several thousands of years, we'll wager that curiosity will be responsible for the digging up of the capsule long before the year 6938 rolls around."

Safety, Please

Autoists haven't gotten used to the new gymnasium yet. They still rush past it at unchecked speeds in spite of the fact that there are slow signs and the fact that there are a large number of people crossing the street in the vicinity.

A few more stop signs, and a traffic light, or even a dividing line of lighted posts down the center of the Raleigh road in front of the gymnasium could save someone from being run over.—W.K.
