Women's Council Gets New Members

Constitution Is Revised To Meet Needs Of Students

Three new members have been added to the Woman's council as a result of a meeting held yesterday at which the constitution was revised to meet the needs of a larger body of women students. These new officers will consist of two graduate students, and the president of Archer House, none of whom have been elected as yet.

There will be a brief meeting of all graduate women in the new Woman's building at 7 o'clock tonight to elect two new members to the Woman's Association council. It is important that all concerned be present.

Prior to this time there has been one graduate woman student on the council, but this year, since the graduates represent 40 percent of the women's student body, it was felt that a stronger voice from that group was needed in the women's executive organization. There has been no representative from Archer House before this.

It was also announced that the quarterly dance of the Woman's association is to be held November 18 in the Tin Can. The committee for the dance was announced by dance chairman Rosalie Haynes, who appointed Libby Spencer as chairman, Mary Ames as representative from the New Dorm, Helen Ann Jacobs from Archer House, Elsa Winters from Pi Phi, Miriam Durrett from Chi Omega, and Barbara Liscom from Spencer Hall.

Lutherans Elect Roof President

The Lutheran Student Association at its regular meeting Sunday chose Simons Lucas Roof as its president. Roof is a sophomore from Rock Hill, South Carolina.

At the meeting the date for the social meeting to enable the members to become better acquainted with each other was set for Wednesday, October 26.

Officers previously elected are Roger Schulken, Durham, vice-president; and Arthur Link, Mt. Pleasant, secretary-treasurer.

Spencer Hall Pet Known As Grace Horton Fugalheimer

Remarkable Individual Is Two Feet High And An Excellent Philosophy Student

By SANFORD STEIN

Grace is two feet high, almost 73 years old, and is an excellent philosophy student. His full name is Grace Horton Fugalheimer and he is the pet of Spencer hall.

Any information on this remarkable individual can be secured from Jo Martin, a junior coed known for her logic and veracity. Grace, revealed Jo, originally hailed from the mountains of Kentucky, but Janet Pendleton persuaded him to come to Chapel Hill last year when

CPU Prospectives May Obtain Blanks

Voit Gilmore, chairman of the Carolina Political union, yesterday reminded those interested in membership in the union to get application blanks in the YMCA office either today or tomorrow.

Prospective members will fill out the forms and wait for notice from the union through the mails and DAILY TAR HEEL to appear at a union meeting for presentation of applications.

Students who applied last spring for membership are not required to submit the final paragraph concerning qualifications and ideas as to fitness in the union.

'Room Service' To Open In Memorial Hall Friday Night

Play Will Be Result Of Efforts Of Harry Davis And Wife, Elmer Hall

When the Playmakers go into action Friday and Saturday nights at Memorial hall in "Room Service," the comedy produced on Broadway by George Abbott, who also did "Three Men on a Horse," "Brother Rat," and "Boy Meets Girl," the curtain will rise upon the combined work of three outstanding Playmakers, Harry Davis, Elmer Hall, and Ora Mae Davis.

Davis, the director, and Mrs. Davis, in charge of costumes, both with lengthy production records, are natives of South Carolina where they began their careers together at the Town theatre in Columbia. Summers have found the Davises in professional drama groups such as the Surry Playhouse (under the direction of Leo Bulgakov and the Moscow Art theatre) and the Island theatre at Nantucket, Mass.

The settings, executed by a student of Dramatic Art 64, Walter Preston, are the work of Elmer Hall, the newcomer to the Playmaker staff, who is filling the place left by Samuel Selden now away for a year on a Guggenheim fellowship. Hall, for

CHAPEL HILL WILL SPEND $70,000 IN BUILDING PROGRAM

Erection Of New Municipal Building Is Principal Item

Construction of new buildings and remodeling of several old structures in Chapel Hill indicate an outlay of about $70,000, it was estimated yesterday.

Chief item of the construction program is the new municipal building, which will cost about $50,000. The civic center, begun in August, will house town offices, police and fire departments, and a jail.

The old fire house, which stands at the intersection of Rosemary and Columbia streets, will be torn away, and bricks from it will be used in laying sidewalks.

Renovations

The other $20,000 will be spent on remodeling business establishments on the main thoroughfare. The old Pickwick theater, little used since the advent of talking pictures, is being renovated. The interior will be refloored and repainted, and a marquee will be built over the sidewalk. New sound equipment and about 600 seats will complete the movie house, which will be operated by the Carolina theater.

Other remodeling is under way at the old Pender store, Lyons hardware and the Progressive store. Pender's is being refloored and painted to be equipped as a hardware establishment, managed by D. E. Neal. Lyons' hardware interior has been removed and a bowling alley will be laid. J. B. Johns and John N. McCauley will operate the recreation center. Pender's has moved into the corner location formerly operated by Progressive Stores, Inc. The interior was redone and new equipment placed last week.

Interfraternity Council To Give Two $100 Scholarships

Contracts Signed To Permit Coeds To Visit Houses

The Interfraternity council last night voted to give two $100 scholarships to deserving University students as the best means of disposing of its surplus funds which have accrued in the past few years.

The money will be placed in the hands of the faculty committee on scholarships and will be awarded on the same basis as all other University scholarships.

Contracts were given each member, which, when signed and handed to Mrs. M. H. Stacy, adviser to women, will permit the residents of Spencer hall and New Dorm to visit fraternity houses during specified hours.

It was decided that keys for each council member would be bought from the funds now in the treasury.

Frosh Nominations Today; Frats Deny Participation

No Greek Cliques In Thursday Voting, Party Heads Claim

By DONALD BISHOP

Wholesale denials that any fraternity or group of fraternities would be active in freshman elections next Thursday were vigorously asserted by Greek house leaders yesterday as reports wildly floated about the campus that combines were being formed for cooperative electioneering.

"The University party will take no part in it," Chairman Studie Ficklen tersely declared. Student party leaders, headed by Chairman Mitchell Britt had previously washed their hands of any connection with the election even before the campaigns started.

Cliques

On the heels of the denials, however, came rumors that various cliques would be active and would have slates lined up for nomination today. One upperclassman politico said that a Sigma Nu-ATO-Phi Kappa Sigma-Phi Delt union existed, possibly bulwarked by other Greek houses, but heads of the houses in question were quick to declare their skirts were clean. This same spokesman—a fraternity man who asked that his name be withheld—assured the DAILY TAR HEEL he would place a man in the field, classed as an independent.

Meantime, it was almost definitely learned that there would be a flood of candidates named today, with many fraternity and non-fraternity factions having office-seekers on the ticket.

Cy Jones Misses Coast-To-Coast Grid Broadcast

Carolina Student Scheduled To Appear On Mutual Hook-up Last Saturday

The golden voice of Cyril Jones didn't represent the University on a coast-to-coast hook-up from Newark, New Jersey. He missed the broadcast.

But it wasn't Cy's fault. It was just one of those things that happen. It seems that several weeks ago Wally Dunham, a member of the Carolina coaching staff, received a letter from officials of WOR, Eastern outlet for the Mutual Broadcasting system. The officials wanted a Carolina student to appear on the Collegiate program which the station presents every Saturday. Wally asked Cy, who hails from near New York, and he accepted.

That Wally!

Somehow Wally misplaced the letter and Cy didn't know what time the program was held. He was under the impression that the broadcast would be about 6:30 Saturday evening—at least not until after the Carolina-NYU game. But he wasn't sure. That was just the impression.

So when Cy arrived in the Big

'Southern Economic Journal' Has Nation-Wide Popularity

Fire Destroys Colored Home

Fire beginning at approximately 7 o'clock last night completely demolished a colored dwelling house owned by Less Massie, colored, and four sisters and brothers. Cause of the fire, according to Massie, was that "someone threw a lighted cigarette or stuck a match to it on purpose." Spectators seemed to think that the fire originated as a result of spontaneous combustion.

Since the house is located on North Columbia extension, the Chapel Hill Fire department was not on hand at the scene. This was out of their district.

Candidates To Be Chosen In Memorial Hall This Morning

Nominees for president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the freshman class will be chosen at freshman assembly this morning. Jim Joyner, president of the student body who is scheduled to preside over the meeting today, stated last night that the number of nominations is unlimited.

Voit Gilmore reported last night that there is a possibility that the CPU's automatic voting machines will be used Thursday at the election which is sponsored by the Student council. Gilmore has not yet heard from the company that owns the machines, and, obviously, does not yet have permission.

Machines

Freshmen political machines were reported as circulating around the campus yesterday. One group of class members reported that it believed the election would be a close one. The entire class seems to be taking much interest in the coming election, another reported.

The men nominated this morning will make campaign speeches in freshman assembly tomorrow morning.

Wolf Desires Grid Clinic Questions

Today is the last day to turn in questions for Coach Wolf's Thursday night clinic to Bob Magill, in Graham Memorial. The coach wants to know what students are most interested in—plays, formations, scoring, official signals, history of the game, or what?

Andrews, McIntosh Reported Better

Word was received yesterday that the conditions of both Miss Nell Andrews and Dr. A. C. McIntosh, both confined to Watts Hospital in Durham, have improved. Miss Andrews, secretary in the Alumni building was operated on last Monday, while Dr. McIntosh, Kenan professor emeritus of the Law school, has shown steady improvement since his confinement almost two weeks ago, due to a stomach ailment.

Magazine Reported To Be Best Known Among Economic Circles

Perhaps best known of the literary achievements of the University among economic circles is "The Southern Economic Journal," a magazine published quarterly here. Jointly associated in the magazine's publication are the University and the Southern Economic association.

Editors for the "Journal" include Albert S. Keister of the woman's college of the University, Harlan L. McCracken of Louisiana State university, and G. T. Schwenning of the University. Schwenning, who is managing editor and has charge of
