University Debaters To Meet Anglo-Irish Team Sunday

Lee Wiggins And Sam Hobbs Chosen Carolina Orators

A debating team from the British Isles, known as the Anglo-Irish team and sponsored by the National Federation of Students, will visit the Carolina campus Sunday, November 13, to debate the University team.

The National Student union is the organization in the United States sponsoring the debate. The time is 8:30 o'clock Sunday, and the place is Hill Music hall.

The query is: Resolved, That all her assets America owes to Great Britain, her faults are her own. The University team is debating negative of this query.

For the University Lee Manning Wiggins, sophomore from Hartsville, S. C., and Sam Earle Hobbs, senior from Selma, Ala., will debate. The debaters for the English team will be William Thomas Williams of the Universities of Wales and London, working on a B.D. degree, a pacifist interested in politics and representing his school in soccer and William A. Beers of Dublin, Ireland, a law student who during the last several years has been responsible for organizing and producing some 40 programs over Irish radio stations on Irish industrial problems.

PRE-MED FRAT HAS SMOKER, MOVIES

Myers Talks On AED Purposes, Aims

Alpha Epsilon Delta, pre-medical fraternity, held a smoker last night featuring two motion pictures: "An Appendectomy" and "An Emergency Operation." Over 120 students attended and refreshments were served after the meeting.

Dick Myers opened the meeting with a short talk on the purpose and requirements of the fraternity to help and guide pre-meds on the campus.

It was also announced that there would be a joint meeting of the AED and the Whitehead Medical society during the first week after Thanksgiving at which Dr. W. deB. MacNider will speak on, "Modern Medicine and Scientific Research." All medical and pre-medical students were urged to attend.

Although Dr. Bost could not attend the meeting, he will return at some later date.

Interfrat Council Lacks Quota Too

Meeting of the Interfraternity council, scheduled for last night was postponed due to the lack of a quota.

John Moore, council president, announced that the meeting would be held Monday night for election of members to the Student Legislature.

Playmaker Chats On Women, Love, Religion--Such People

A. Bertrand Channon, Exonerated Of Murder Charge, Tells All, Perhaps

By EDITH GUTTERMAN

The telephone rang. A Bertrand Channon, doctor of literature and playmaker student here, picked up the receiver. "You're wanted for murder!" he heard a harsh official voice say. Channon's name had been found in the lurid diary of Ronnie Gedeon, slain New York artist's model. He was quickly escorted to the station by a number of policemen, later to be exonerated of all guilt.

Last night, during the presentation

ARLAN COOLIDGE TO APPEAR HERE IN VIOLIN CONCERT

New Englander To Perform Sunday At 4:30 In Hill Hall

Arlan Coolidge, a young New Englander who early decided to make his career in college music, will appear Sunday afternoon at 4:30 in Hill Music hall as a faculty-artist visitor in a violin recital under the sponsorship of the Association of American colleges. He will be accompanied on the piano by Rudolph Pittaway, formerly a member of the faculty of Bennington college.

Immediately after graduation from Brown university in 1924 with an English major and Phi Beta Kappa honors, he went to work as a professional violinist. He played in the New York philharmonic-symphony at the stadium concerts, and then for two years as a regular member of the Cincinnati symphony.

VIOLIN IN VIENNA

Awarded a Juilliard fellowship, he spent the next two years in graduate work in solo playing and chamber music, and then went to the University of Vienna on an exchange fellowship of the Institute for International Education. In 1930, Professor Coolidge returned to Brown university where he now heads the department of music.

His grandfather's hobby determined the career of Arlan Coolidge. Being a cabinetmaker, his grandfather took to making violins largely for the fun of it. One day it occurred to the family that it would be pleasant if someone in the Coolidge household could play one of the instruments. So Arlan, then eight years old, was sent off to the violin teacher. It turned out that violin playing in particular and music in general were the things he was most interested in.

FIDDLING DISAPPOINTMENT

This interest in music and fiddling was, at first, something of a disappointment to Professor Coolidge's father, who, being an avid baseball fan, thought and hoped that his tall, lanky son would grow up to be a pitcher. Perhaps, a major leaguer. But the father ultimately became not only reconciled to but deeply in sympathy with his son's interest and saw to it, in so far as possible, that the youthful violinist had every advantage.

The fiddle which Professor Coolidge has been playing for many years, both in this country and abroad, bears the maker's No. 56, and is the only one the grandfather made of wood imported from Italy. All in all, the grandfather turned out 65 violins before his death in 1910. Professor Coolidge rates his instrument as "a very good violin, indeed."

Ram-by-Ram And Play-by-Play To Show Graphically

Doors at Memorial hall will open at 1:45 and the final grid-graph of the season will go into operation promptly at 2:15 tomorrow afternoon when the Tar Heels battle Fordham's Rams at the Polo Grounds in New York City.

Students again this week voted overwhelmingly in favor of the grid-graph over artificial radio programs. As a result of the poll, campus fans are assured a perfected play-by-play account of the game by operators of the teletype machine and the grid-graph.

Tomorrow's grid-graph performance is scheduled to offer not only play-by-play moves of ram against ram, but sidelight accounts which will include half-time performances arranged by University alumni of New York. Arrangements have also been made for the audience in Memorial hall tomorrow to keep in contact with the progress of other leading football games throughout the nation.

The grid-graph will again be moved to the stage of Memorial hall today and operators will continue rehearsals so that fans may be assured of seeing every play and player in the campus performance at 2:15.

FOLKLORE COUNCIL TO BE ADVISORS

University Men To Aid Federal Project

Several members from the University were appointed advisors to the Federal writer's project, at the meeting of the folklore council held last Wednesday. Guests at the gathering were B. A. Botkin, of Washington, folklore editor of the Federal writers project; Edwin Bjorkman, state director of the same project; and William T. Couch, regional director of the organization.

Botkin asked the members of the council to act as advisors in their respective fields to the folklore writers. He also announced that several plays would be written in the course of the coming year dealing with this subject.

The University folklore council was organized in September, 1935, to "promote the co-operation and co-ordination of all those interested in folklore, and to encourage the collecting and preserving, the study and interpretation, the active perpetuation and dissemination of all phases of folklore." The scope of the council covers all the cultural aspects of folk life.

Russell M. Grumman, of the extension division, is the director of the group, while Ralph S. Boggs and Robert White Linker are the archivist and secretary-treasurer, respectively. The members of the Executive committee are Felix Alexander Grisette, Robert B. House, Glen Haydon, Arthur Palmer Hudson, and Russell T. Smith. The advisory board is made up of Eston Everett Erierson, Paul Green, Frank Porter Graham, Richard Jente, Guy B. Johnson, Frederick Koch, and Phillips Russell.

Rabbi To Speak

The Hillel Foundation will meet tonight at 7:30 in the banquet hall of Graham Memorial.

Rabbi Bernard Zeiger will speak on "Jesus—Some Jewish Viewpoints." All persons interested are extended an invitation.

Dorm Vote May Not Change Rule

In the voting which took place last night in the dormitories concerning the soliciting of rooms, the result of the poll will only serve as a form of statistics which the student advisory commission will use in recommending the change to the administrative board of the University. L. B. Rogerson, assistant controller, announced yesterday that the decision of the dormitory residents would by no means change the ruling.

If the student advisory committee, consisting of Bill Cole, Vaughn Winborne, and Ned Hamilton, votes to recommend that solicitors be allowed in dormitories, action will be put squarely up to President Frank P. Graham. The ruling is at the present time one over which the president has control.

Bill Cole announced last night that the result of the voting would be known tomorrow. The DAILY TAR HEEL will carry complete coverage.

PLANS FOR ANNUAL JUNIOR-SENIOR GAME UNDERWAY

Interclass Series To Be Continued In Three Major Sports

Continuing the idea of a junior-senior three game series which proved popular last year, plans are now being formulated for the second annual football classic between the classes.

The idea of a series of three games, one football, one basketball and a softball game was conceived and inaugurated last year by Joe Patterson and Jim Joyner, then presidents of the senior and junior classes respectively.

The following letter to Charles Wood, president of the Junior class, was received yesterday at the DAILY TAR HEEL office:

"Dear Charlie,
The time has come once again for the juniors and seniors to lock horns in their annual touch-football encounter. This letter is written as a challenge to the juniors from the seniors in the hope of bringing about a closer relation between the two units through this athletic medium.

"Henry 'Bud' Hudson and Simon Sitterson will act as coaches for the seniors and they are ready to meet with your representatives to discuss plans, rules and arrangements.
"Awaiting your reply, I remain,
"Sincerely yours,
Felix Markham.

One man elected from each team for outstanding ball playing will be awarded a small gold football and to the team winning two out of the three games, a trophy will be awarded.

The first of the games, football, will be held next Friday and is expected to arouse much interest and keen competition between members of the two classes.

The series was won last year by the seniors who took both the football and basketball games.

Legionnaire Party Part Of Armistice Celebration Here

Chapel Hill will celebrate Armistice day with the closing of the post office and the American Legion party at the legion hut on East Rosemary lane tonight.

The post office will be open from 10 to 12 o'clock this morning and will remain closed during the rest of the day. Stores on the main thoroughfare are not planning to close.

The American Legion auxiliary will aid the legion post at the barbeque supper tonight from six until eight o'clock.

Following supper, guests will be entertained at a square dance, at which B. C. Cole and his orchestra of Hillsboro will furnish the music. All ex-service men of the county have been invited to attend.

Lewis Pool Pays $20

Bill Long of 208 Lewis last night won a $20.00 pool sponsored by the dormitory. Purpose of the pool was to enable the winner to go to New York for the Fordham game tomorrow, and it is expected that Long will make the trip.

Proving something or other about the value of study, Long was in the library when his name was drawn.

Large Crowd Flocks To Pep Rally, Clinic

Clinical

Assistant Coach Johnny Vaught last night conducted the weekly football clinic in the absence of one Raymond Wolf.

JOHNNY VAUGHT IS PINCH HITTER FOR COACH RAY WOLF

650 Pack Hill Hall To Cheer Team To Victory Over Rams

Led by the University band and cheer leaders, a large crowd, filling Hill Music hall showed their enthusiasm for the Fordham-opposed Carolina pigskin handlers by taking part last night in what proved to be a very successful combination pep rally and football clinic.

A crowd estimated at 650 persons gathered in Hill hall to see moving pictures of the scrimmage held by the Tar Heel eleven with nearby Duke university October 29.

PLAYERS' FEET COLD

First string members of the University football team, scheduled to appear for presentation and speaking to the audience, either got cold feet or sat too long over dinner, because they failed to show up. Quarterback George Stirnweiss was seen outside the auditorium with Andy Bershak, last year All-American end for Carolina, the latter seemingly attempting to persuade Lil' George to say a few words.

Pat Patterson and his boys' cheer-leading and the band's playing preceded a short talk by Assistant Coach Johnny Vaught, who pinch-hit for Coach Ray Wolf in conducting the weekly grid clinic. Vaught explained offensive blocking to the students and townspeople who convened for the event.

TRAGEDY IN FOUR ACTS

While showing the movies of the recent four-act Duke-Carolina tragedy Vaught pointed out both expert and faulty playing tactics of both teams.

Coach Wolf is expected to take over the grid clinic reins next Thursday, showing possibly both pictures of the VPI and Fordham games.

Dr. Prouty Talks To Scientific Group

Dr. W. F. Prouty, head of the department of Geology, will deliver a lecture tonight, before the Le Conte Scientific society of Columbia, S. C.

Other members of the department attending the third annual meeting of the Carolina Geological society this week-end are J. W. Huddle, H. W. Straky, F. C. Erickson, W. H. Livitt, Ray Jo Johnson, W. V. Conn, R. Cougan, R. J. Martin, Sam Broadhurst.

Carolina Spirit?

Due to the generosity of the YMCA and contrary to a reported practice in the lower quadrangle freshman dormitory, student directories are being distributed free of charge.

PLAYMAKER TOUR BILL SHOWS HERE TONIGHT AT 8:30

3 One-Act Plays To Be Given In High School Auditorium

Tonight at 8:30 in the Chapel Hill high school auditorium the Carolina Playmakers will present three new one-act plays, "Three Foolish Virgins" by Miss Bernice Kelly Harris, "Soldadera" by Miss Josephine Niggli and "Magnolia's Man" by Miss Gertrude Wilson Coffin.

Following the Chapel Hill performance the troupe will begin their thirty-sixth annual tour which will take them into parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and New York. The touring company under the direction of Professor F. H. Koch will perform in Raleigh, Harrisburg, Va., Waynesboro, Va., Hampton, Va., and Penn Yan, N. Y.

DIRECTOR WHO ACTS

Again this year Professor Harry Davis will play a part in addition to performing his duties as technical director. Managing the tour will be John W. Parker, business manager of the Playmakers.

"Three Foolish Virgins" which won the Playmaker award for the best play of the annual festival of the Carolina Dramatic association will be the first play presented tonight. This play is a comedy of Eastern North Carolina and will star Misses Gwen Pharis, Rietta Bailey, Janet Pendleton, Anne Nowell and Frederick H. Koch, Jr.

Mired In Sweetness And Light—

Dirty Fingering Dooks To Play Remnants Of Inkpot Classic

Student Union Plans Joint Sponsorship Of Dorothy Fontanne

In a meeting of the American student union last night it was announced that the ASU will sponsor jointly with the Democracy group a talk by Dorothy Fontanne, who has been a nurse in Spain during the present conflict and who will lecture on her experiences and the Spanish situation in general.

Other business at this meeting was that Bill Borders, president of the group, will head a committee to draw up a constitution for the group.

Bull Durham Smearers Of Ink And Filth To Play Simon Pure Tar Heels

The Republicans and Duke university came through this week. The Republicans had some connections with a recent election. Duke announced the organization of a publications team which will play the winner of the Tar-Mag-Yackety-Buc Inkpot classic to be held here next Tuesday.

Both games will be played in Kenan stadium. There are only 24,000 seats left, but officials are going on with the construction of bleachers on
