FRATERNITY TO LAUNCH FIRST BUNDLE DAY

Phi Gamma Delta To Collect Clothes For Poor Next Week

Tuesday night of next week at 7 o'clock, Phi Gamma Delta, local social fraternity, will launch its first annual Carolina Bundle day.

The object of this drive is three-fold: first, to help the underprivileged residents of Chapel Hill; second, to enable fraternities, sororities, and dormitories to clean out from the corners of closets things no longer used by the boys and girls; and third, to enable Carolina students to express the Christmas spirit while still at school.

TO COVER CAMPUS

The members of Phi Gamma Delta with their pledges will cover each room in every dormitory, sorority, and fraternity on the campus Tuesday night. Students are asked to have their bundles ready at 7 o'clock, but time will be given for clothes to be gathered when the rooms are visited.

To aid in the collection of the proceeds of the drive, a pick-up truck has been obtained through the cooperation of the University. Contact for cooperation by the Chapel Hill Boy Scouts is being made also. After they have been collected, the bundles will be taken to the distributing point of the King's Daughters, Chapel Hill charity organization, at the home of Mrs. R. B. Lawson on East Franklin street, and there distributed.

CLEAN-UP DAY

It is felt that clothes left by graduating students have accumulated in closets of fraternity houses over a period of time, and that they would like to aid the underprivileged as well as getting rid of this accumulation.

This is the first time that any such drive has been sponsored on the Carolina campus, and if there is any dewill be continued every year.

CHINESE ART TO BE ON EXHIBIT

Daumier's Work To Be Shown Also

An exhibition of paintings of Buddhist images by Mary Augusta Mullikin and Anna M. Hotchkis and a collection of lithographs by Honore Daumier, lent by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, will open tomorrow afternoon at Person Hall art gallery. Russell T. Smith, head of the art department, will make a brief studio talk on the exhibition at 4 o'clock.

The paintings by Miss Mullikin and Miss Hotchkis are of Buddhist sculptures carved in the sandstone cliffs at Yun Kang, Shansi province in North China. These images are the work of the Toba Tartars who ruled North China from 386 A. D. to 532 A. D.

OUT OF WAR ZONE

The paintings were obtained with some difficulty because of existing war conditions in China. An article in the March, 1938, issue of National Geographic magazine by Miss Mullikin relates the experiences of the two artists while they were in China and briefly outlines the history of the images.

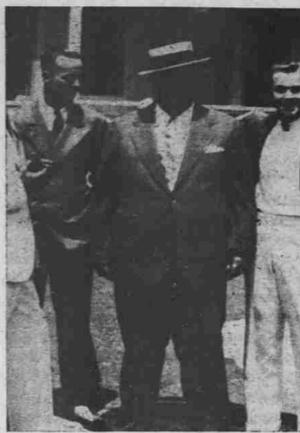

The lithographs by Daumier, the greatest of 19th century French cartoonists, are caricatures ridiculing all classes of people from butcher to kings. In fact, one cartoon of the King of France was so radical that the artist was put in jail for several months.

ON DAUMIER

Daumier's work had great social significance in that he satirized the evils of his day as he saw them. Although a genius in painting as well as cartooning, he received little recognition during his lifetime. Today, however, both his paintings and cartoons are considered masterpieces.

The exhibitions will remain on view through Tuesday, January 3, 1939. The gallery is open on weekdays from 10 to 1 o'clock and 2 to 5 o'clock, and on Sundays from 2 to 5 o'clock.

LOCAL STUDENTS TO EDIT STATE COLLEGE MAGAZINE

New Publication Will Be Created For N. C.'s 30,000

"It will be a dream come true" for editor Adrian Spies and his associates Ernest King, Frank Holeman, and Bob Doty, when the first issue of the new magazine, "College Town," comes off the presses early in March.

All four editors have spent a long fall working on the idea. All during the quarter they have written to editors of publications in every one of the 35 colleges in North Carolina, asking their aid and suggestions in creating a publication for every one of the state's 30,000 college students.

Men contacted on the various campuses have agreed to act as editors, sending in material from their school every month. The aim of the magazine will be to provide a medium for exchange and common expression of all the various colleges in the state, and will also offer a general commentary of all things collegiate. A "NEW YORKER"

Spies, and his chief aide-de-camp, King, Buc business manager, plan to model the magazine, published monthly, along the same general lines as the New Yorker as they believe that this style is most acceptable to the largest amount of students.

There, however, will be a serious note as lent by articles by outstanding personalities in the state and nation. The magazine will also contain articles in the lighter vein, pictures, and a sports section. Plans are being made for one of the more popular professional sports editors in the state to conduct this section, assisted

Your Roomie May Be Garbo's Uncle Or Cousin Or Grandma

Blackmer's Nephew, Hardy's Cousin, And Foran's Brother Are All Here With Us

By ARTHUR DIXON

You had better get acquainted with your dorm neighbors and fraternity brothers; one of them may be cousin to Garbo or an uncle of Shirley Temple. Hollywood is rather closely related to Carolina, it seems. At any rate, in school at present is a nephew of Sydney Blackmer, a cousin of Oliver Hardy, and a brother of Nick Foran.

These various relatives of movie stars consider their cinematic kinsmen very matter-of-fact when off the screen. For instance, Walter Blackmer, University junior and member of Sigma Nu fraternity, says that his Uncle Sydney is, off-stage, just the ordinary man, who likes a good time, and usually gets it — in Hollywood night life.

Blackmer was a success on the stage for about 15 years, then deserted Broadway to play character parts in Hollywood. Apparently he could retire, but prefers to act. He is very active, Walter thinks, and never becomes the joke-cracker that we often associate with the movie colony.

SNAKING SIGMA NUS

The University had Sydney Blackmer here as a student for one year, his first. While he supposedly did not join a fraternity that year, there is a strange tale told by the Sigma Nus which says that he was a secret pledge.

Walter has visited his uncle at his home in California and still insists that Blackmer is not an unusual relative.

FRY AND HARDY

Among other things, there is in the lower quadrangle a student who is cousin to a 325-pound laugh. The student is Tom Fry; the hefty laugh turns out to be Oliver Norvell Hardy, who is known from Everett to Phi Delta Theta as a mirth provoker with huge potentialities.

Tom, modest young man, claims kinship to dear Oliver only if you state that such is an established fact. Then if you ask plenty of questions, you may find out that Mr. Hardy is spoken of, in hushed tones, as "that versatile man"; that he is an Horatio Algerite—a none-too-rich boy who with the aid of the American funny-bone climbed to his position of sovereign slap-sticker of the screen.

BEFORE AND AFTER

When young, he was relatively as fat as he is now, and he did not take long to capitalize on his tonnage. Fry says that some of the first money Hardy earned was made working for Nine neophytes were introduced into the mysterious realms of the Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce fraternity, brotherhood last night with the rites being discharged by Warren Haddaway, former head-master.

Jim Williams, Benny Hunter, Dave Judson, Tom Crockett, Archie Fountain, John Dorsey, Henry Akers, Ben Heath, and Frank Stearns were the men initiated. After the services a secret election was held with Hunter being declared winner.

Plans for the winter quarter include another business tour to some point in the state, a possible speaker, an industrial movie, and a second initiation for other neophytes.

Haddaway, one of the founders of the local Alpha Lambda chapter returned to the campus to act in the capacity of honorary head-master for the meeting. He is now connected with a large insurance company in Philadelphia.

Let's Make It Like A Girl's Skirt

There will be a very short but important meeting of the DAILY TAR HEEL reportorial staff in the office at Graham memorial this afternoon at 1:30 sharp.

SAPONACEOUS SUPERLATIVES

First Returns Of Campus Poll

Well over 50 students were made candidates for the University's eight 1938-38 superlatives yesterday in one of the largest one-day campus polls to be held. Because of the number of votes cast and the necessity of checking names signed by each voter, those counting the ballots last night were unable to release final results.

Twenty-four nominees were reported to be heading the list of those definitely in the running at press time last night. However, none of the students named held a big lead.

THEY'RE OFF

Virginia Kibler was holding a small lead over Molly Albritton and Lucy Carey Easley for the University's most beautiful coed. Olive Cruikshank, Elsa Winters and Virginia Giddens followed close behind.

Mickey Warren, Jane Hunter and Mary Wood Winslow were in that order for coed with most personality. Bill Malone, Mary Lewis and Mary Peyton Hover were leading in the most individual coed race.

HESSE JUMPS GUN

Although Bob Hesse held a small lead for coed with most sex appeal, girl's in the lead were Nell McIntyre, Virginia Giddens and Mickey Warren.

As far as those counting the ballots could determine, the boy's race stood as follows: Walter Clark, George

3-2 In First Downs Prove Victory Margin

By FRED BROWN

While the rest of the football world was speculating as to the outcome of the Rose, Sugar, and lesser bowl mixtures, the juniors did a little bowling themselves yesterday afternoon, and bowled over the highly favored seniors to take a little dignity by the margin of one first down, 3-2. A crowd of nine braved the elements to see the annual classic.

To the most outstanding player on each team went a gold football. As their hero deluxe for the afternoon the juniors unanimously chose Dante Berini, fleet-footed halfback who, along with Zan Carver and Ken Royal, accounted for all the junior first downs.

A poll of the senior players after the game showed that they favored Ed Niven for the gold ball. Niven, an intramural all-star halfback, threw passes till it seemed as though footballs rained down from the heavens above.

Though most of these aerials were knocked down incomplete by the ever-alert junior backs, several did find a way into the waiting arms of eager receivers. Shell scored one of the two senior first downs on one of these passes heaved by Niven, and the other point was likewise gained by a pass from the accurate Niven wing.

AERIAL WARFARE

Passing seemed to be the order of the day as the juniors presented one of the most sensational skyward seiges that this pair of poor peepers has ever seen. Not content with just a passing combination, the juniors

Seating Plans Are Approved By Secret Service Officer

Works Progress administrator Harry L. Hopkins, currently in Warm Springs, Ga., at the Little White House, will accompany Franklin D. Roosevelt here Monday when the President will speak to the students of the University.

Colonel E. W. Starling, head of the White House police division of the United States secret service, who is now in Chapel Hill, announced a list of persons who will accompany the President here, Hopkins among them. Included are Marvin H. McIntyre, chief secretary to the President, and Rear Admiral Ross T. SEATING OKAYED

Col. Starling approved final arrangements yesterday for seating at the chief executive's address in Kenan stadium. Carolina students will have reserved for them 3500 seats on the south side of Kenan stadium, comprising sections 21, 22, 23, and 24, nearest the 20 by 40 foot platform, located at the field house end of the stadium, from which President Roosevelt will speak. Everybody's Doing It, Doing It

Shirt-signing has become the latest fad for dance-goers as a means of providing memories of that important date and informal dance at colleges throughout the country. Local students have picked up the fad and are going for it in a big way. Above are shown autographers at Princeton university where the custom started.
