

First Lady Will Not Be Here Tomorrow

Roosevelt To Give Address Here At 4:30

The Carolina Political union received official word yesterday that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt will not accompany her husband to Chapel Hill, but instead will travel directly to New York.

Speaking tomorrow at 4:30 from Kenan stadium, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt will address the student body of the University as a part of the Carolina Political union's third anniversary program. To date the President has not announced the subject of his speech.

Stressing the fact that the chief executive will visit and speak to the students of the University, CPU Chairman Voit Gilmore said yesterday that the best possible seats in the stadium have been set aside for students.

A special commemorative edition, the first DAILY TAR HEEL to be published on Monday, will be delivered to the campus tomorrow morning at the regular hour. The special issue will carry complete information on the program for the day and details pertaining to President Roosevelt's visit to the University.

dent and faculty use. Four thousand, five hundred seats on the south side, comprising sections 21, 22, 23, and 24, on the east end have been reserved. As the speaker's platform is directly in front of the field house, these seats will be nearest the President as he gives his address.

RESERVATIONS

The CPU has also reserved for sponsors who have aided the organization and high school student officials sections 1 and 2, on the north side directly opposite the student section. These CPU guests will enter gate 2 on the north side.

For colored people, sections 11 and 12, with the entrance at gate 3, have been reserved. Ushers and students designated by the arm band "Host Committee" will be stationed at these sections and at the entrances to all sections to explain the seating arrangements. The remaining 16,000

University Press Releases Titles

Eight titles have been recently released by the University press; 25 titles have been published this year and several additional Chapel Hill titles will be published during December. Miss Porter Cowles, advertising manager of the press, has announced.

"The title of most interest to the general reading public is 'The American Politician,' edited by J. T. Salter, professor of political science at the University of Wisconsin," Miss Cowles pointed out. Prominent writers of political science have contributed chapters to this book and among the figures dealt with are Fiorello H. LaGuardia, Paul V. McNutt, Millard E. Tydings, Happy Chandler, John S. Lewis, Big Jim Farley and Norman Thomas.

STUDY THE MEN

In the preface Editor Salter gives the following regarding the purpose and general theme of the book: "The contributors to this book believe that one can learn more about the realities of American politics by studying the lowly or the noble politicians than by reading conventional histories, textbooks and the Constitution."

"Readjustment of Agricultural Tenure in Ireland" by Elizabeth R. Hooker was released Friday. The author is a junior economist of the United States Department of Agriculture's division of land economics.

The release of November 30 is Hope Summerell Chamberlain's "This Was Home." This book is a chronicle of the piedmont section of North Carolina.

MEXICAN PLAYS

"Mexican Folk Plays" by Josephina Niggli was released November 25. The author was a member of the Carolina Playmakers during the past two years; she is now writing drama in New York city. An introduction to the group of five plays is written

Program Will Be Presented In Graham Memorial

Graham memorial will present the Raleigh string quartet in concert this afternoon at 4:30. The quartet, composed of Edgar H. Alden, Mrs. Alden, C. D. Kuichinski and Katherine Eide, was organized last year and has already received favorable notice throughout the state.

On the program will be the following: "Quartet in C Major" by Mozart, consisting of "Adagio-Allegro," "Kutchinski"; "Night" by Bloch; and "Allegro molto"; "Romance" by Kutchinski; "Night" by Bloch; and the "Quartet in C Minor" by Brahms, consisting of "Allegro," "Romanze-Poco adagio," "Allegretto molto moderato e comodo-Un poco piu animato" and "Allegro."

Members of the quartet represent four colleges. Alden teaches at Meredith, Mrs. Alden at St. Mary's and Peace Junior colleges, Miss Eide at Meredith and Kutchinski is director of music at State college. The quartet played at the Asheville music festival last year.

WPA CHORUS WILL SING HERE TODAY

Program Will Be Held In Hill Hall

The 60-voice WPA Community School chorus of Durham will be presented in concert this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Hill hall by the University committee sponsoring the Orange county literacy program. The concert will be composed of Negro spirituals, including many well-known and loved songs.

R. M. Grumman, chairman of the committee, announced that approximately 75 University students have volunteered to take part in the teaching of Orange county illiterates. The program is to be divided into two parts, and a silver offering will be taken up during the intermission. This offering is to be used to help meet the teaching expenses of the literacy program.

The directress is Harriet Howard Busby and the accompanist, Mattie Green.

Culbreth Arrives To Assume Duties As Methodist Pastor

Rev. J. M. Culbreth, former presiding elder of the Rocky Mount district, has arrived in Chapel Hill to assume duties as pastor of the University Methodist church.

After graduation from Trinity college, now Duke university, Mr. Culbreth did graduate work at Vanderbilt, and was director of the student work division for the education board of the Southern Methodist church several years.

The Culbreths have four children, two sons and two daughters. The daughters are Mrs. W. P. Finney of Nashville, Tenn., and Dr. Sarah Culbreth, a member of the zoology department of Duke university. The sons are Marvin T. Culbreth, connected with the Greyhound transportation department in Winston-Salem, and George B. Culbreth, a junior at Duke university, who plans to enter the school of religion after graduation.

ROUND TABLE TO BE BROADCAST TODAY OVER WPTF

Program Will Be Last Discussion This Quarter

The University of North Carolina Round Table will go on the air for the last time this quarter this afternoon from 3 to 3:30 over WPTF in Raleigh. Student members of the club will participate.

The topic for discussion today will be "The Aftermath of Munich." The student members of the club participating are: George Laycock, Charles Lerche, and Fred Meyers. Henry Ni-grelli, president of the club, will preside. The participants will trace the events that have followed the Munich conference and will explain the trend of totalitarian policy as such. Special emphasis will be given to Germany.

These broadcasts have been made possible by the International Relations club. The purpose of the broadcasts has been to alternately present students and faculty discussions of current world problems and topics in order to stimulate interest in such; as well as to take the student and faculty member out of the classroom and present them to the state. The broadcasts have been very well received in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia. Possibilities of

Copied In Man-Made Caves

Buddhist Image Paintings Are Exhibited On Campus

Study Of Transportation Of Copies Related In National Geographic Magazine

By JO JONES

Varied and interesting experiences in connection with securing the Buddhist image paintings, opening this afternoon in Person Hall art gallery, are related in the March, 1938, issue of the National Geographic magazine. The article, "China's Great Wall of Sculpture," is written by Mary Augusta Mullikin, one of the artists.

Travel is slow and dangerous in China. Miss Mullikin and her fellow artist, Anna M. Hotchkis, had to make several trips by donkey cart to the 1,500-year-old sculptures before the paintings were completed. These sculptures, carved in man-made caves in the sandstone cliffs at Yun Kang in Shansi province are the work of the Toba Tartars, who ruled North China from 386 A. D. to 532 A. D. Literally thousands of images, ranging from a few inches in height to 50 feet or more, cover the walls of the caves. In one cave alone 10,000 small Buddhas were counted.

In another cave the life of Buddha is depicted in a series of relief sculptures. Paintings of two of these sections are included in the exhibition. Many of the images have been despoiled by time, and many have been stolen for sale as curios in the larger cities of China. Miss Mullikin and Miss Hotchkis, themselves, came under suspicion when they were accused of copying the images in order that curio dealers might know which sculptures to steal next. The artists were ordered to leave China without finishing their work. A troop of 500 soldiers guarded the pair for a day and night. Their only defense against the troops was to practice Buddhist repose. Finally, however, by consulting proper authorities the artists were allowed to complete their work.

The collection at the art gallery consists of 34 paintings in color and monotone. It has been shown at the Corcoran art gallery, and six of the group were shown at the annual exhibition at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. The exhibition will be at Person hall through January 3, 1939.

STUDENTS ASKED TO VOTE FOR MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

E. C. Smith To Give Trophy For Sixth Straight Season

E. Carrington Smith, manager of the Carolina theater, announced yesterday that for the sixth straight season he would award a trophy to the most valuable player on the 1938 Carolina football team.

The trophy will be presented at the fall quarter Monogram club smoker, the date of which is still unsettled. In past years lettermen picked the trophy winner, but in an effort to get campus opinion on the matter, Mr. Smith has asked the DAILY TAR HEEL to conduct a student survey.

All Tar Heel followers are requested to fill out the ballot printed below and bring it to the DAILY TAR HEEL sports department tomorrow afternoon between 2 and 6 o'clock.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

TWO NEW FROSH ON COMMITTEES

Felts And Hamrick Are Appointed

Bill Shore, president of the freshman class, announced yesterday that due to the fact that two members of freshman committees have dropped out, Bill Felts has been appointed to the dance committee and Rush Hamrick to the program committee.

Shore also said that hereafter, any committee members missing more than two meetings without a good excuse will automatically be dropped.

When questioned as to plans for the freshman class, Shore said that the Ways and Means committee was working on a plan for obtaining nine pages rather than the customary six for the class in this year's Yackety-Yack and it was hoped that plans can be completed for a dance for the freshman class soon after the Christmas holidays.

Another committee is working on the budget and hopes to have it ready for presentation at an early date.

Experimental Plays Scheduled To Be Opened In January

The opening of the experimental plays, which was postponed last week because the Playmaker theater was not ready, is scheduled for January 11, Professor Frederick H. Koch has announced. The theater, which was damaged by fire last August has been completely restored except for last-minute extras, such as seats. Due to delay in shipment, this equipment did not arrive in time for the opening Friday night.

Economic Movie Will Be Shown Tomorrow

"Steel-Man's Servant," a new technical film, produced by the United States Steel corporation, will be shown by the department of economics and commerce tomorrow night from 7 to 8 o'clock in room 206, Venable hall.

The film tells the story of the production and uses of steel and the public is invited to attend. This is the last of a series of movies shown supplementing Dr. E. W. Zimmermann's lectures on world resources and industries. Other films this quarter have been on soil erosion, forestry, production of copper, rayon, and glass, and the petroleum industry.

Rules Are Given To Avoid Many Difficulties

Registration for the winter quarter will begin Thursday morning and will continue through Saturday, December 17, I. C. Griffin, Jr., of the Central Records office announced yesterday. He pointed out that the students should take particular notice of the directions, so that a minimum of difficulties will be incurred. There are three major steps in registering:

1. All students must come to the Central Records office before starting:

The 1939 winter quarter class schedule will carry the name of Dr. J. P. Harland as teaching archaeology 91 and 75, it was learned yesterday. In a telephone conversation last night, Mrs. Harland said her husband would not get away as soon as he expected and that his plans for the spring are indefinite. Dr. Harland, who has been confined for a week with flu, had previously planned to be away from the University during the remainder of the year in order to take a trip abroad.

ing any registration to secure permits to register. No one will be allowed to register unless he has a clean record with the University.

2. Then every student is to go to his or her dean's office, except Arts and Science and Graduate students.

All Arts and Science and Graduate students must see their major advisors, before reporting to their respective deans.

3. Everyone must then check out, turning in all forms and receiving bills in the upper lobby of Memorial hall.

Every student now in residence at the University, who registers after the Christmas holidays, unless there is some valid excuse, must pay a fine of five dollars. All new students must register on January 2. The list of the hours at which each instructor will teach will be available.

Pi Beta Phi To Hold Art Display

Pi Beta Phi was the first fraternity to establish a national altruistic project, the Pi Beta Phi Settlement School in Gatlinburg, Tenn. Results of the fraternity's service will be evident in the display next Tuesday and Wednesday at the Pi Beta Phi house of Arrow Craft goods made by the department of the School devoted to handicraft arts. The goods will be on sale as Christmas gifts from 2 to 6 o'clock on both afternoons.

Through the Arrow Craft department, which was established to foster the revival of handicraft arts and to care for the sale of their products, more than a hundred families of the Gatlinburg community are made self-supporting. Now the community is one of the few in the United States which has not one family on federal relief.

Experts here and abroad recognize the weaving of Gatlinburg women as of the best hand-weaving done anywhere. The gifts exhibited will consist of hand-woven linen and woolen goods and baskets. Tea will be served during the displays.

Presbyterian Tea

The final tea of the quarter given by the Presbyterian church for University students will be held this afternoon from 5 to 6 o'clock at the church.

Woman's Play Day Is Postponed

Miss Kathryn Fleming, president of the Woman's Athletic association announced yesterday that the Woman's Play day would be postponed because of rain. The play day, which was to be held yesterday afternoon, will take place sometime during the winter quarter, when Carolina coeds will compete with representatives of woman's athletic associations of other colleges in tennis, archery, badminton, and swimming contests.
