

Famed Swingsters From Paradise Restaurant

Here is the sax quintet of Glenn Miller's well-known swing band, which will star here today at the concert, tea dance, and junior prom of the German club's Mid-Winter set. According to the best authorities on the ancient art of "jive," this group of five is the pivot for Miller's arrangements and is really strictly "in the groove."

Special Committee Of Student Legislature Recommends Changes In Group Organization

Rules Of Procedure Are Among Measures Under Discussion

Meeting last night to formulate rules of procedure for the student legislature and to discuss proposed amendments to the legislature's constitution, a special committee, appointed for the purpose adopted several recommendations that would change the organization of the legislative body.

Heading the list of the proposal changes, a recommendation was made to enlarge the Ways and Means committee from four to seven members, and to provide for the appointment of special committee to discuss legislative problems as they arise. The special committees would be appointed as they are needed by the presiding officers of the legislature, and would be dissolved when their work has been completed.

PROCEDURE

The committee also adopted a general plan of procedure that of the national senate, but which has been simplified to meet the requirements of the student body.

A proposal was made by the committee that the legislature take action on members frequently absent from its meetings. It was recommended that members absent without

YM-YWCA Will Hold Pep Rally

Members of the combined YMCA and YWCA cabinets will stage a miniature pep rally Monday night in the lobby of the YMCA to officially set in motion an "on to Blue Ridge" rally.

Southern young people each year attend the Blue Ridge conference in the mountains of western North Carolina. The University YMCA always has a large representation on hand, and the rally will be held to work up enthusiasm for next summer's conference.

Cabinet members and anyone else who is interested will attend the rally, which begins at 7:15. A committee of Misses Libby Spencer and Altajane Holden, and Tom Stanback and Jack Vincent is arranging an interesting program. Singing, other music, stunts, and short talks are planned.

PHILPOTT TO BE PRESENT

Harry Philpott, secretary of the Washington and Lee university YMCA, co-chairman of the Blue Ridge conference last summer, will attend the rally.

Other business for the joint meeting will be distribution of handbooks of the Human Relations institute. Cabinet members will select one of the general topics of the institute for special study during the remaining three programs for February.

Dr. Linebarger To Speak Today

Dr. Paul Linebarger, professor in political science at Duke university, will speak on "The Chinese War and American Policy" at the meeting of the Community club to be held this afternoon at 3:30 in the Episcopal parish house.

The speaker is the son of Judge Paul M. Linebarger who was a federal court judge in the Philippines for several years. In China, he has been an advisor to and biographer of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, and was the legal advisor to the nationalist government in China. Dr. Linebarger received his Ph. D. from Johns Hopkins in 1936 and was a professor at Harvard for one year before coming to Duke in 1937. He has written two books, "Political Doctrines of Sun Yat Sen" and "Government in Republican China."

BRITISHER TALKS ON SECURITY BILL

Wilberforce Tells Of Social Reforms

An extensive program of social security, instituted by the British government to ward off "avoidable poverty and the social evils associated with it," was explained to a select audience in Hill Music hall last night by Robert Wilberforce, noted British authority on economics.

The annual cost per capita in Great Britain for the aged, and needy, and widows and orphans has risen from $7.50 in 1910 to $54 at the present time, he said. But, whereas "the Victorian age dreaded state paternalism, the present century has recognized that unless the state takes much wider responsibilities for individual evils, avoidable poverty and the social evils

ANNUAL TO HOLD POLLS TO ELECT LEADING COEDS

Women Students Will Vote On 10 From Senior Class

Women students will be given the opportunity this morning to select the ten most outstanding coeds in the senior class. The Yackety-Yack is sponsoring the unprecedented election and the women's choice will be announced in the annual.

Polis will be open in the YMCA building from 10:30 until 1 o'clock. There will be no nominations. The coeds will list the students of their own choice and all ballots must be signed. All women students, including graduates and the seniors themselves, may vote.

TO REMAIN SECRET

According to an announcement made yesterday by Terrell Everett, editor of the women's section of the Yackety-Yack, results of the election will remain secret until the annual is published, in which the selected coeds will appear in informal pictures. Miss Everett said that she hoped the women would be careful to recognize good work in any activities and not be guided by popularity alone. She suggested that if the voters had a particular reason for choosing a coed or preferred her for certain qualities they might note these qualifications beside her name on the ballot.

Outstanding women students have

YMCA Seeks Milk For Town Needy

All fraternities and sororities on the campus are being contacted by members of the Social Service committee of the YMCA in an attempt to raise a fund to provide milk for needy families in the village.

Working through the University division of public welfare and the department of social work, the committee has located several families whom doctors have classified as needing a quart of milk daily. All of the families are on relief and all of the children are consumptive. The families are both colored and white and live in this neighborhood and in Carrboro. The committee is requesting each fraternity to contribute one dollar a month to the milk fund, and the number of people that can be cared for will depend on the cooperation of the fraternities.

Mary Jane Yeatman is chairman of the fund committee. Working with her are Melville Corbett and Sarah Griffith.

Concert To Open Mid-Winters; Dancers Will Vote On Issues

Automatic Voting Machines Will Record Opinions

University German-clubbers and their dates will have a chance to express their opinions this week-end on questions ranging from corsages to drinking in fraternity houses when two automatic voting machines will be placed in the Tin Can.

The Carolina Political union has placed individual voting booths at the entrance of the Tin Can. Boys will vote at one machine and girls at the other.

REGISTRATION

Escorts will register their names and class numbers, such as junior, senior, out-of-town visitors will register their names and home addresses at the door.

Ballots will be cast on controversial issues recently discussed on the campus. The two-year-old "no flower" issue will be polled to find out the opinion of the dancers. Other polls will deal with Negro admittance to the University, dating and drinking.

The questions are as follows: first, Are you in favor of the prohibiting of flowers at dances?

Second, Do you think Negroes should be admitted to the University?

Third, Should boys be allowed to take their dates to fraternity houses after the dances?

Fourth, Is the practice of drinking with girls at fraternity houses dangerous to the morals of either party?

May Day Scripts Sought By AKG

Groundhog to the contrary, spring will come and with it in three months the celebration of May day. Kathryn Fleming, president of Alpha Kappa Gamma, which sponsors the festival each year, wishes to remind all potential playwrights that the honorary woman's fraternity will award a prize of $5.00 to the writer of the best May day script.

Miss Fleming will give any information about the type of play desired and all contest entries must be sent to her at the Pi Beta Phi house by March 1.

PLAYMAKERS HAVE ARTICLE IN 'TIMES'

Carraway Honors Koch In Article

In a recent article in the New York Times, Miss Gertrude S. Carraway, North Carolina free-lance writer, gives a lengthy description of the history, the aims, the activities, and the future plans of the Carolina Playmakers. She pays particular tribute to Professor Frederick H. Koch, the organization's director and founder, whom she says is chiefly responsible for the fact that "besides building up an enviable national record for folk-writing and producing, the group has made its State drama-conscious and, in addition, many of its members have become outstanding figures in the dramatic and literary world."

"Within the next few years," says Miss Carraway, "Professor Koch, Paul Green, professor of dramatic art at the University of North Carolina, and Samuel Selden, associate professor, hope to be able to work out ways and means for organizing University actors into troupes that will present dramatic performances on tours through the entire country."

KOCH'S LIFE

After discussing the Playmaker's method of letting the students do practically everything, scenery, costuming, acting etc., in the production of the plays presented, Miss Carraway goes on to tell about the life of "Proff" (Continued on page two)

Dr. Akers Speaks At Salem College

Dr. Susan Grey Akers, director of the School of Library science, was the luncheon guest of the Salem College library in Winston-Salem Monday. After the luncheon, Miss Akers spoke to a group of friends and alumnae of the college.

Gives Student Opinion

Jim Joyner, student body president, issued a statement yesterday in which he said the entire responsibility for the contents of the Buccaneer rested upon the Editor, and that no probable action would be taken by the Student council.

JOYNER ISSUES STATEMENT ON BUCCANEER

Executive Says "Buc" Editor Is Supreme

Reflecting student attitude on the Carolina Buccaneer controversy, a statement by Jim Joyner as president of the student body yesterday pointed out that the responsibility for the content of the publication rests solely upon its editor.

The statement was addressed to Dr. Graham, the administration, and those Chapel Hill citizens who objected to the last issue of the humor magazine, and emphasized the fact that "The students are genuinely concerned over the policy and resultant fate of the Buccaneer."

NO PROBABLE ACTION

According to the statement, the Student council, which Joyner as president heads, will take no action against the magazine until, in the opinion of the council, the Buccaneer should be abandoned or its editor replaced. This decision is interpreted in the statement to mean that the council will not censor the publication.

Joyner's statement in full is as follows:

"To Dr. Graham and the administration (Continued on last page)"

Schinhan To Give Organ Concert

Dr. J. U. Schinhan will give a recital of organ music Wednesday evening, February 8, at 8:30 in Hill Music hall.

The program will be devoted to contemporary composers and will be divided into three parts according to schools, German, Italian, and American.

The first part of the program will consist of "Prelude" from the 3rd Suite of Joseph Renner, Jr., under whom Dr. Schinhan studied, "Meditation" by Max Reger, and "Vivace Scherzando" from the Sonata in G Minor by Gottfried Ruechinger.

Representing the Italian school, the second part will consist of two compositions by M. Enrico Bossi—"Funeral Procession" and "Rustic Scene." Bossi is classed as one of the foremost representatives of Italian composers for the organ.

Music of four composers, varying from conservative to modern, will make up the third part of the program, which will include "Colonial Days" from the Pilgrim Suite by M. Austin Dunn, "Twilight at Fiesole" from "Armoine di Firenze" by Seth Bingham, "Song of the Basket Weaver" by Alexander Russell, and "Carillon" by William Faulkes.

Tea Dance, Prom, Will Conclude Today's Program

The German club Mid-winter dances will begin this afternoon with a tea dance from 5 o'clock to 6:30 at the Tin Can following a public concert in Hill Music hall at 3 o'clock.

Glehn Miller and his Paradise restaurant orchestra, performing for the dance set, will feature a brass choir and two vocalists, Marion Hutton and Ray Eberle. Its swing renditions have brought it to a top ranking position in popular dance bands within the past year and a half.

The concert this afternoon will begin promptly at 3 o'clock. Spectators are requested to arrive early since the doors will be open at 2:30. Holders of series bids will be admitted with their tickets. To those not having tickets the admission fee will be 35 cents. Tickets will be sold at the door only.

JUNIOR PROM

Following this afternoon's tea dance, the junior prom will be held from 9:30 to one o'clock. The Tin Can will be transformed into a brilliant ballroom for the affair.

A tea dance will be presented from 4 o'clock to 6:30 tomorrow afternoon, and the series will be concluded with a formal dance from 9 to 12 o'clock tomorrow night.

The German club has requested no flowers be sent for the dances, and has asked that dates receiving flowers leave them at home.

Leaders for the junior figure will be: Jim Ross, Charlotte with Miss Carolyn Miller, Chapel Hill, and assistant, Tommy Royster, Henderson, with Miss Phillis Whitaker, Chattanooga, Tenn., others participating in the figure are: Buck Gunter, Gastonia, and Miss Elizabeth Lavender, Gastonia Julian Lane, Wilson, and Miss Molly Albritton, Hopkinsville, Ky. Billy Shull, Charlotte, and Miss Beth Caldwell, Marion. Joe Ramsey, Rocky Mount, and Miss Christine Thompson, Chapel Hill. Julian Brantley, Spring Hope, and, Miss Margaret Daniel, Wilson. George Wilkinson, Rocky Mount, and Miss Mary Green Thiem, Raleigh. Julian Coghill, Charleston, W. Va., and Miss Phoebe Skillman, Charleston, W. Va. Dolph Young, Charlotte, and Miss Gladys Tillet, Charlotte. (Continued on page two)

NYA FUNDS TO AID GREATER NUMBER

N. C. Students To Get $313,635 This Year

National Youth administration funds will reach 13 and one-half per cent more students this year than during last academic year, according to a report by Aubrey Williams, national administrator of the relief program. Students in North Carolina will receive $313,635, with assistance going to 2,324.

Average payments have been reduced, Williams said, because the applications for aid far exceed the number who can be given assistance. College students may not receive more than an average of $15 a month and graduate students are restricted to an average of $30 a month. The national appropriation for this year is $11,838,555, including a special fund of $100,000 for Negro students.

Colleges and universities were assigned quotas of students on the basis of 9.3 per cent of the total number of resident undergraduates and graduate students, 16 to 24 years of age enrolled on October 1, 1936.

Kohnstamm To Speak At Local Church

Max Kohnstamm, Dutch student interested in race relations and industrial conditions of all phases of American life, is spending a few days on the University campus, making a study of Southern racial and industrial conditions. He will occupy the pulpit of Rev. Donald Stewart at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

Kohnstamm is the son of a university professor of Amsterdam, Holland. He has been studying at the American university in Washington, and is now making a tour of Southern universities.
