

CITIZENS PROTEST US 15 APPROACH FOR NEW HIGHWAY

Group Circulates Petition, Offers No Alternatives

Citizens of Chapel Hill yesterday began circulating a petition asking the North Carolina state highway commission to use some approach to Chapel Hill other than Route 15, which merges with East Franklin street, in the contemplated new highway connecting the University and Duke.

The petition was formed at a meeting Thursday night of 19 residents, representing all sections of the city, and including several well-known members of the University faculty.

Objections to routing the new boulevard down Franklin street, as expressed in the petition, are that the "primary purpose motivating our citizens as well as the members of the Commission will be wholly defeated; namely, the reduction of traffic on US Route 15 and particularly the lessening of the present congestion of East Franklin street."

ANOTHER OBJECTION

Another objection, which was not included in the petition, but was brought out at Thursday night's meeting, is that as a result of the Franklin street route, several houses would have to be moved back from the street, thus disrupting one of the oldest and most beautiful sections of the town.

The petition points out that several sharp and dangerous curves within the town limits on East Franklin street, some of which already have resulted in fatal accidents, and that these dangers would be increased inevitably, if, by reason of the construction of a new and wider highway, the "invitation is given to reckless and careless drivers of motor vehicles to disregard safe driving and reasonable speeds."

Although no alternate proposals for routing the new highway appeared in the petition, one suggestion has been to let the boulevard skirt the edge of the city and come to the business section from North Columbia street.

ALTERNATE ROUTE

This route, it was argued, would afford hard surface transportation to a section of the city and county not now provided with a paved direct route to Durham.

Several residents of East Franklin street said they had been approached and asked to sign papers saying they

Author Of "This Was Home"— Mrs. Hope Chamberlain Knits And Tells About Her Writing

Writer, Who Has Recently Moved Here, Plans Spring Flower Garden

By GLADYS BEST TRIPP
"Some folks don't like to be left out, and some don't like to be left in," smiled Mrs. Hope Summerell Chamberlain as she knitted in her cozy apartment, "and you can't have an omelet without breaking a few eggs."
Mrs. Chamberlain, known for her two books "Old Days in Chapel Hill" and her recent one on old Salisbury "This Was Home," has moved to Chapel Hill to stay. At the foot of a hill reached by flagstone walks is her apartment, a separate alcove from the rest of the house. In the spring she will have her own flower garden.

Miss Emma Otero, Cuban soprano, appears here tomorrow night in Memorial hall on the third and last Student Entertainment program of the winter quarter. She will be featured with Orlando Barera, violinist.

Everett Robbery Remains Mystery; More Clues Revealed

PERSON EXHIBIT ENDS THIS WEEK

Many People Visit Architecture Show

The current exhibition "Modern Architecture in England," at Person Hall art gallery will be shown for one more week only. The closing date is next Sunday at 5 o'clock and approximately 1500 persons, including architects from all over North Carolina, have seen the exhibit to date.

The exhibition consists of enlarged photographs of the exteriors and interiors of private homes, low cost apartment developments, luxury apartments, hospitals, factories, schools, seaside pavilions, restaurants, week-end cottages, stores, underground stations, and zoo buildings. One section shows not only photographs, but charts and graphs of slum clearance and housing developments. The section on housing and town planning was assembled through the courtesy and cooperation of the Housing center in London. The collection was assembled by the Museum of Modern Art in New York, where it was recently shown.

FREE MOVIE

The motion picture, "New Architecture for the London Zoo," which accompanies the exhibition, has been shown to approximately 500 persons, including University students and groups from the local grammar and high school. The picture will be shown this week on Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 10:40 and at 7:45 on Friday night. The movie was made for

Health Department Will Conduct Clinic

A tuberculosis diagnostic clinic open to everyone in the community will be held at the Health department February 27, 28, and March 1, under the sponsorship of the PTA and the health department of the community club.

Examination will be available to everyone in the community who requests it, white or colored.

Persons other than school children who desire an examination are requested to go to the Health department on one of the following afternoons for the tuberculin test: Friday, February 24. Only positive reactors will be x-rayed.

Policeman Blake Believes Insider Committed Crime

City police were unable to announce late last night any developments in the search for the robbers of Everett dormitory store which was looted of $65 early Friday morning. Several additional clues, however, were revealed which it is thought may lead to the capture of the marauders.

Chief of Police W. T. Sloan has placed J. D. Blake, local policeman, in charge of the case. Blake had several reasons yesterday for believing that the raid could possibly have been an inside job. He seemed to think that no outsider would be carrying the four razor blades that were found near the window of the dormitory store. Appearances indicate that these blades were first used in an attempt to scrape the putty from one of the window panes, thus allowing the intruders to reach inside and open the window.

PAY DAY

The fact that all dormitory stores pay their bills to the Book Exchange on Friday mornings and therefore have more money in the cash drawer on Thursday nights than at any other time of the week also led to the belief that the theft was committed by an insider.

Analysis of the tracks discovered near the scene of the burglary showed

Coolidge Quartet Will Play Here Early In March

Speaking of the Coolidge string quartet, Olin Downes, famous music critic of the New York Times, says that "The quartet players prove again the fine material in their organization and the enthusiasm of real musicians in difficult tasks."

The quartet, which will play here on March 6 through the courtesy of Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge, is composed of William Kroll, first violin; Nicolai Berezowsky, second violin; Nicolas Moldavan, viola; and Victor Gottlieb, cello. It was founded in 1936 under the sponsorship of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge foundation of the Library of Congress in Washington. This year will be the first time the group has ever appeared in concert in the South, and it will make five appearances in various southern states.

CRITIC SAYS

Of the quartet, Mr. Downes also stated that "The interpretation of the familiar Brahms music was distinguished by a communicative freshness of feeling, a quality of ensemble and of technical adequacy that arouses the excited admiration of a discriminating

FOREIGN AFFAIRS TO BE DISCUSSED BY ROUND TABLE

Profs, Students Will Be Heard Over Station WPTF

With interest in foreign relations mounting rapidly as a result of Senate investigation into the sale of American war planes to France, the University of North Carolina Round Table will feature a student-faculty discussion of "Revision of American Neutrality" as it goes on the air again this afternoon at 3:30 over station WPTF in Raleigh.

Participants in the broadcast will be Dr. J. C. Sitterson of the social science department, Dr. George E. Mowry of the history department, John Creedy, editor of the Carolina Magazine, and Dexter Freeman, graduate student in political science.

Henry Nigrelli, president of the International Relations club, will preside and lead the discussion.

Nigrelli also announced yesterday that Lincoln Kan and Everett Lindsay, freshmen, will appear Tuesday night from 10:15 to 10:30 on the IRC's Durham broadcast. They will present "The International Scene," with comments on outstanding events in the international field.

The broadcasts presented by the club are entirely spontaneous, and have caused letters of comment from surrounding states.

Next week's round table over WPTF will discuss religion in international politics and will feature Rabbi Ziegler, Lee Wiggins, Marshal Suther, and Gibson Jackson.

NEW PLAY BILL CAST ANNOUNCED

Playmakers Present Dramas Saturday

The fifty-ninth Bill of new plays written by students in Dr. F. H. Koch's play writing courses at the University will be presented in the Playmaker theater Saturday evening at 7:30.

The three plays which are to be presented on Saturday night are now in rehearsal under the direction of the authors. "Twilight Song," a play of religious superstition, by Donald Muller of Boonton, N. J., has a cast of three: Miss Patsy McMullan, Chapel Hill; Floyd Childs, LaGrange, Ga.; and Frederick Meyers, Metuchen, N. J.

PRAIRIE FLOWER

"Pasque Flower," a play of the Canadian prairie, by Gwen Pharis, Magrath, Alberta, Canada, offers four roles played by: Miss Roberta Robertson, Chapel Hill; Earl Wynn, Chapel Hill; Allen Andrews, Goldsboro; and John Langdon, Coats.

In "Kid Sister," a comedy of adolescence, by Wieder Sievers of St. Louis, Mo., are: Harry Lasker, New York City; Miss Lucille Verner, Chapel Hill; Avril Gentles, Montclair, N. J.; Miss Nancy Helms, Chapel Hill; and Billy Rawls, Rocky Mount.

"Twilight Song" is laid in Maryland in on old homestead which has been handed down to Anne Harding through successive generations. There is a touch of the mystic in Anne and she cherishes a staunch belief in family tradition. Her sister and her nephew are realists and the conflict between the two divergent attitudes form the basis of the play.

A large prairie farm is the background for "Pasque Flower." Jake Hansen, owner of the farm, is dominated by his land, a symbol of power to him and by his love for Lisa, his wife. Jake's younger brother David returns to the farm for a brief visit, pulled by the ties he has tried to break.

JUST KIDS

The scene for "Kid Sister" is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, city.

Adams To Address Bull's Head Tea

Dr. N. B. Adams, professor in the Department of Romance languages, will speak at the Bull's Head tea on Wednesday afternoon. He will have as his topic "Some Who Have Seen Spain," and he will discuss two recent books about Spain, Ralph Bates' "Sirocco" and "After the Death of Don Juan" by Sylvia Townsend. Students, as well as townspeople, are invited to attend.

Band Director

Director Earl A. Slocum will lead the University band in its only public appearance of the winter quarter in Hill music hall Wednesday evening. The band, which confines its fall quarter activity to playing at football games, will present a program of classical and light classical music.

TWO MORE ENTER STUDENT UNION AMATEUR SHOW

Six Entertainers To Vie For Cash Tuesday Evening

Six campus amateur entertainers will vie for honors—and cash prizes—at a Graham memorial amateur show Tuesday night at 8:45 in the memorial lounge.

Two new entrants yesterday added their names to the list of contestants, and director Bob Magill said the program was completed. The two new entertainers were Stanley van Eise, vocalist, and Sam Hood, who will give a piano medley.

ALREADY IN

Those already on the list were: Boston Lackey, flute player; Paul Griffith, drummer who has tapped his way to a half dozen national prizes and at present works in Jeep Bennett's orchestra; Tom Avery, reputed to be one of the best of jazz pianists; and a trumpet trio from Charlie Wood's orchestra composed of Hubert Henderson, Warren Simpson, and Sam Galloway.

Bob McManeus, accompanied by Miss Nancy Smith, will lead a community sing as part of Tuesday night's program.

Dr. E. J. Woodhouse, political science professor, will be master of ceremonies. Judges will be Dr. Archibald Henderson, Gibson "Stonewall" Jackson, and Tim Elliott.

Spies Will Speak

Adrian Spies will address the Undergraduate Philosophy club at a regular meeting tonight in the Grail room at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "The Myth of the Free Individual, and Proposals for the Condition where He May Exist."

Tighten Your Reins For—

Mares Are Primed To Rear In Tin Can Basketball Tilt

Female Students To Play Secretaires, Numerically Stronger But Less Experienced

The venerable Tin Can's monastic atmosphere will yield to twentieth century trends tomorrow night when members of the weaker sex take possession of its basketball court to show the University student body the feminine version of the game.

A selected coed sextet will face a team composed of departmental secretaries to play a game beginning at 7:15.

Mrs. J. G. Beard, coach of both teams, said yesterday she would alternate the forwards and guards of the two teams so that two evenly matched aggregations will be in action at all times.

The coeds, who have been organized longer and who already hold a victory over the Chapel Hill high school sextet, are rated better than the inexperienced secretaries.

The coed team membership includes

ENTERTAINMENT SERIES PRESENTS OTERO-BARERA

Critics Hail Pair Who Appear Here Tomorrow Night

Orlando Barera, will be featured jointly with Miss Emma Otero, young Cuban soprano, on the third and last student entertainment program of the winter quarter tomorrow night in Memorial hall.

Barera came to the United States for the first time at the urging of his father. "My father told me," he said, "You go to that America. There is now the best place in the world for music." As usual, my father was right.

Rheumatism threatened to end his career as a violinist before it had begun. However, he is a good swimmer, plays a fair game of tennis, and is a crack shot marksman. He isn't married, but he exclaims eagerly, "I like very much these pretty American girls—they are the nicest in the world, I think."

Together, Barera and Miss Otero are in the midst of a tour of the United States. Critics have hailed Barera for his tone, technique and musical taste. Miss Otero's broadcast with the Ford Sunday evening hour was heard by millions, resulting in the greatest fan-mail received by any of that program's stars. At each city in which they have presented concerts while on tour, both Barera and Miss Otero have received most highly praising write-ups in the nation's leading newspapers.

The lovely young Cuban soprano possesses a voice whose quality ranges from warm mezzo tints to brilliant coloratura. With an appealing voice and lovely picture, Miss Otero cannot fail to make a hit on any stage.

YM-YWCA Cabinets To Meet To Discuss Relations Topics

Cabinets of the YMCA and YWCA will continue their preliminary discussions on the forthcoming Institute of Human Relations at a joint meeting tomorrow night at 7:15 in the YMCA.

The groups began their study last Monday night on the four institute topics: education, business and industry, international relations, and the South. Meetings of tomorrow and next Monday night will be devoted to the institute.

BRADSHAW TO LEAD

Dean F. F. Bradshaw will lead the discussion on education, with special consideration of the two principal modern educational philosophies—the essentialist philosophy in contrast to that of the progressivists.

The extent to which individual liberties should be curbed for the common good will be discussed by Professor R. S. Winslow.

Dr. D. H. Buchanan will lead a discussion of the politico-economical problems of international relations.

The remaining group, studying the South, will be under direction of Dr. Guy B. Johnson and will discuss race relations.

Misses Ann Moore, Martha Mills, and Tud Kahn, forwards; and Bernice Brantley, Margaret Herndon, and Allen Cutts, guards.

A numerically strong squad of secretaries will be ready for action. On the squad are: Misses Jean Bullard, Ruth Covington, Lib Correll, Tempe Newsom, Margaret McGirt, Zona MacPhee, Jean Rankin, Mildred Mooneyham, Porter Cowles, Lucile Varner, Louise Markham, Katherine Hodges, Frances Brown, Carroll Costello, and Treva Bevacqua.

Carolina Dames Hold Meeting Tomorrow

The Carolina Dames, an organization for wives and students of the University, will hold their February meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the New Woman's dormitory.

At that time Mrs. Urban T. Holmes, Jr., will read a play. Mrs. Corinne McNeir, will preside.
