University Students Will Join Hundreds In "Youth Assembly" At Raleigh Tomorrow

JUNIOR NOMINEE DRAWS UP SIX POINT PROGRAM

"Fish" Worley Will Oppose Benny Hunter In Coming Election

By DONALD BISHOP

The rapidly-filling political arena had another hat tossed into its center yesterday when Richard "Fish" Worley, outstanding member of the junior class, announced his candidacy for president of next year's senior class, running on the ticket of the University party.

Worley reversed usual political procedure and presented his classmates a well-rounded six-point platform for consideration.

His platform deals with numerous questions that have in the past affected all classes, especially the seniors. Matters of class fees, budget passing, commencement invitations, class rings, and participation on the part of the seniors in their class activities, all received attention from the presidential candidate.

PLATFORM

His six administrative objectives follow:

1. To foster some better method of budget passing than is now in use.
2. To set up an efficient and capable control over class expenditures, and of all matters concerning class fees.
3. Publication of all class transactions, and an efficient administration of all student council regulations concerning class invitations, rings, etc.

HATCH MEMORIAL HELD YESTERDAY

Parents Establish Equipment Fund

A brief memorial program was held at the University health service yesterday in memory of Temple Hatch, former graduate student of the University. Hatch died here of tuberculosis February 27, 1938.

The parents of the former student established a fund to be used for equipment in the health service as a memorial to their son. This material was supposed to be dedicated yesterday, but as all of it has not arrived, officials of the University decided to go through with the short ceremony yesterday as was requested by the deceased's parents.

Dr. Don Stewart, Presbyterian minister, conducted the rites and was assisted by members of the chemistry department, with which Hatch was formerly associated. Dean R. B. House and the health staff also officiated. Temple Hatch was a native of Quebec, Canada.

Debate Tryouts Will Be Held Tomorrow

Final, absolutely final, tryouts for the debate with the William and Mary girls' squad and for the queries to be used on the University squad's tour will be held at the tomorrow night meeting of the squad.

Members are asked to try out for the William and Mary debate, in which Carolina argues affirmatively that emancipated woman is a menace. Ann Cross and Betty Moore will represent William and Mary on the negative in the debate next Sunday night in Graham Memorial lounge.

Tryouts are also in order for the queries Resolved, That the United States government should cease spending public funds for the stimulation of business, and Resolved, That the United States' armament appropriations should not be increased at the present time. Members who expect to make the tour must try out Wednesday night. Tryouts will be limited to 5 minutes.

Business Manager For Frosh Handbook

Applications for business manager of the Freshman Handbook for next year may be turned in at the YMCA between now and April 1, Secretary H. F. Comer said yesterday.

The faculty committee on the handbook will meet this week to decide on the editor for next year. Requirements for business manager are the same as those for editor; he must be at least a sophomore and must be a member of the YMCA.

UNIVERSITY CLUB INITIATES 41 NEW MEMBERS

Archer House Will Have Representative For First Time

Meeting in Graham memorial last night, the University club, campus spirit organization, initiated 37 men, rising juniors, and four coeds, to membership in next year's club.

Near the end of each school year, either at the end of the winter term or at the beginning of the spring quarter, the members of the club select one of two nominees from each dormitory, fraternity, and sorority and three members-at-large to membership in the following year's club. In the fall quarter the club sponsors and makes arrangements for pep rallies and each term provides rooming quarters for visiting athletes.

JUNIOR ORGANIZATION

The club is a junior organization, but coeds because of the non-admittance rule forbidding their entrance to the University before reaching junior standing, are rising seniors.

This year Archer house will be represented for the first time.

At last night's meeting the present club and initiates heard Athletic Director Bob Fetzer, honorary member of the organization. Miss Mabel Mallette, secretary to Dean Francis F. Bradshaw and Kay Kyser, University alumna and nationally known dance band leader, are the only other honorary members.

Pharmacy Group Will Hear Large

Dr. H. Lee Large, urologist at the Boice-Williams clinic, Park View hospital of Rocky Mount, will be the guest speaker at the last meeting of quarter of the student branch of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical association. The meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 in Howell hall and will be presided over by Joe Tunstall president of the student branch.

Dr. Large, also a general practitioner, will enumerate the ways by which a more helpful relation can be set up between doctors and pharmacists and his address will be followed by an open forum. Tunstall bestowed high praise upon Sam McFalls, Alfred Costner and Jimmy Fox, who were responsible for securing the speaker and urged all interested persons, especially pharmacy students, to attend the meeting.

Tunstall also announced that membership in the student branch of the NCPA will be given to the member of last year's first year class who had the highest scholastic average for the year. Miss Alta Jane Holden, vice-president of the organization, will present the new member and be in charge of the presentation ceremony.

Institute Committee

The general committee for the coming Institute of Human Relations will hold its last meeting of the quarter today at 5 p. m. in the YMCA.

Move Looms As Last Hope To Break Bloc

Motorcade To Offer Free Transportation For Student Body

By CARROLL MCGAUGHEY

At hurriedly called meetings last night practically every campus organization laid plans for the orderly execution of the parade and assembly in Raleigh tomorrow afternoon in an expression of the stand taken by students on the question of the proposed appropriations cuts now before the state legislature.

Explanations of the movement and the details for its execution were made at a joint meeting of the Interdormitory and Interfraternity councils. Members of these bodies then returned to the groups which they were representing, and in special meetings completed the arrangements.

PLAN IN BRIEF

Briefly, the plan concerning Chapel Hill students is as follows: Transportation is to be provided to

All student owners of automobiles who wish to cooperate with the movement to provide transportation for the student body to Raleigh tomorrow afternoon, with the gas and oil expenses being paid by the Graham memorial student union, are requested to get in touch with Bob Magill at 6471 immediately and from Raleigh by student car owners who are to be reimbursed for their expenditures by the Graham memorial Student union.

All students who want rides to the assembly will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in front of the YMCA where they will fill the waiting cars for the motorcade to Raleigh.

The motorcade will leave the campus shortly after 2 o'clock led by state patrolmen.

In Raleigh, the Chapel Hill group, under the escort of the Raleigh police, will join the groups from the other schools for the parade down Fayetteville street to the Hugh Morson high school auditorium.

Following the meeting at the auditorium, the assembly will break up and students will return to the campus.

AUTO ARRANGEMENTS

A separate meeting was held last night for all student automobile owners to arrange for the transportation to the rally. Owners willing to cooperate in the movement were instructed to have their cars in front of the YMCA by 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. When each car has been filled with students, the driver will be given money enough to pay for the trip by (Continued on last page)

Others expected to compete in the tournament are Mrs. Tud Kuhn with a score of 104; Misses Hilda Kattsoff, 85; Anna Margaret Ballentine, 83; Sue Southerland, 68; Barbara Nixcombe, 81; Polly Raoul, 100; Patti Dickinson, 87; Ruth Harper, 81; Margaret Callahan, 86; Virginia Bower, 64; Tempe Yarborough, 84.

Vital NC Agencies To Protest State "False Economy"

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

In a spontaneous move by students throughout the state, University students will journey to Raleigh tomorrow afternoon for a parade and assembly to protest proposed cuts in the appropriations for state educational institutions, public health and other public welfare agencies.

The three student bodies of the Greater University, high schools from Raleigh and elsewhere, and representatives of other colleges in the state will gather at 3:30 at the corner of Hillsboro and Harrington street and march to Capitol Square, and from there to Hugh Morson high school auditorium where the general meeting will be held. The parade will be headed by the Carolina and State college bands and students carrying placards and banners.

PURPOSE

Student leaders declared last night

There will be an important meeting of the University band tonight at 7 o'clock in Hill Music hall. All members are requested to be present.

that the purpose of the meeting is to express directly to the legislators and indirectly to the people of North Carolina that the youth of the state strongly believe in the promotion of the health, education, and welfare of the citizens of the state.

Taking a stand against the economy bloc in the legislature which proposes to cut appropriations for the agencies which promote these benefits to the people and thus limit their scope of operation, student heads of the various educational institutions have declared that this method of heading the plea against more taxes is a "false economy," and that increased funds for these institutions are necessary for the promotion of education, health, and general welfare.

STUDENT OPINION

"Economy is a false economy which stands for minimum taxes at the expense of progress," one student said last night. "Believing that a somewhat critical point has been reached in the history of the state health, welfare, and educational agencies, and convinced that funds from the people of the state are necessary to go forward in these three realms of public life, this group in Raleigh tomorrow intends to make known its feelings to the (Continued on last page)

Tournament Tickets Go On Sale Today

One hundred tickets for Wednesday night's games of the Southern conference basketball tournament will go on sale at Woollen gym at 10 o'clock this morning, and remain on sale until noon tomorrow.

Seating location will be on the basis of first come, first served. No seats are reserved because the tournament committee did not decide until Sunday to invite 11 teams. Season tickets will not be good tomorrow.

SPRING QUARTER REGISTERING TO BEGIN FRIDAY

Arts And Sciences Students Must See Department Heads

Registration for the spring quarter will begin Friday morning at 9 o'clock, the Central Records office announced yesterday. Students may register Friday until 5 o'clock and Saturday until 1 o'clock. Registration will continue next week with the same hours through Saturday.

Before registering, all students must first obtain registration permits which will be distributed from the stage in Memorial hall.

SEE HEADS

All students in the College of Arts and Sciences must see their department heads before going to their dean for registration. Graduate students will not begin registration until Monday, it was announced.

Class schedules will be ready for distribution Thursday afternoon.

All students in residence this quarter are expected to register during the scheduled period for the spring quarter.

CONCERT TICKETS ARE AVAILABLE

String Quartet To Play At Hill Hall

Tickets for the Coolidge String quartet concert to be given here in Hill Music hall on the evening of March 6 are now available to students and faculty members by calling by the Music department office on or before Thursday. Those desiring tickets are requested to get them by the above day. After that time, other requests will be filled in order of receipt from the tickets not called for. There is no admission charge.

The concert, which will be presented through the courtesy of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge foundation of the Music division of the Library of Congress, will be one of five to be given in as many southern states. Other concerts will be given at the University of Louisville, Louisville, Ky., Southwestern college, Memphis, Tennessee, the University of Georgia at Athens, (Continued on last page)

Miss Walker, New Di President, To Speak

Miss Louise Walker, newly elected president of the Dialectic senate and the second coed in the history of the organization to serve as president, will give her inaugural address tonight in New West at 7:15.

Miss Walker was unanimously elected president at the quarterly elections last week. However, she was not the only coed to be elected to office. Miss Mary Lewis will serve as clerk for the spring quarter.

Other officers elected for next quarter are: John Bonner, president pro tem; Ed Kantowitz, critic; and Robinson Woodward, sergeant-at-arms.

TATUM ACCEPTS POST HERE AS BASEBALL COACH

University Alumnus Will Also Be Frosh Athletic Director

By SHELLEY ROLFE

Jim Tatum, present Cornell assistant football and head baseball coach and fair-headed Carolina football and baseball star from 1931 to 34, signed a one year contract effective July 1 as Carolina freshman athletic director and football and baseball coach, Coach Bob Fetzer, University athletic director, announced yesterday.

In keeping with the policy of the athletic association, Fetzer would not announce Tatum's salary.

Fetzer said Tatum would serve as general freshman athletic director under the direction of the various coaches. In addition to coaching, it will be his duty to keep up the eligibility of all freshman athletes. The addition of Tatum to the coaching staff will not cause for a reduction in personnel of the present freshman staff, Fetzer said.

LIKED IDEA

Jim was offered the job ten days ago upon his return from a Central-American baseball barnstorming trip. (Continued on last page)

Joyner Discusses Critical Moment

The standing of our University is in danger. The appropriations committee has refused to allot us the funds which are necessary to maintain the status of the institution we now know. They have slashed from our budget request an item that would have enabled us to make long overdue promotions of our instructors, already among the lowest paid in the country; they plan to give us so little for the equipment of our new medical and public health building that a large part of it will have to virtually stand idle until further funds are forthcoming.

In 1937 they cut our appropriations. Now, figuratively speaking, they say "You stood a cut in '37, you can stand another one in '39." Instead of proportionally increasing our appropriations along with the increase in our enrollment, they are actually decreasing the figure. Already this group has approved the slapping of a higher tuition on our out-of-state students.

And we are not the only state agencies in this predicament. The picture is the same for our very important public health agency, for North Carolina's secondary public school system, for Public Welfare, and other very vital functions which are the state's responsibilities.

The Appropriations committee can't be blamed entirely for this crime. It has one devil of a job allocating justly an amount which the Revenue committee says is all the money they are going to be able to raise. The Revenue committee this session is dominated by a conservative, so-called economy bloc which is squeezing the state's agencies.

Tax levies in our state are not excessive. We can reasonably raise more money.

We believe their action to be "false economy" and intend that they understand that we, the youth of the state, do not approve of such crippling of the agencies of public health, public schools, higher schools, etc. We feel we've retrenched far enough, and that now is the time to "dig in" and hold our ground.

Signed: JIM JOYNER, President of the Student Body.
