Assembly Passes Compromise Spending Bill

UP Announces Full Senior Class Ticket

New Measure Would Admit County Coeds To All Classes

APPROPRIATION TOTALS $656,821; OUT-OF-STATE STUDENTS RECEIVE $75 INCREASE

BY CHARLES BARRETT

The State assembly yesterday completed legislation on a record-making spending bill which provides a budget of $731,821 for the University next year, thus ending one of the most lively appropriations struggles in years.

That figure was set by an informal compromise committee, engineered by Governor Hoey, which increased the appropriations committee's allotment of $614,821 by $42,000. However, the final appropriation is $314,945 less than was requested by President Graham.

No move to change the appropriations committee recommendation that $75 be added to out-of-state tuition was begun during any portion of the legislative trail. The new non-resident fee will go into effect next September, and according to committee estimates will add $75,000 to the legislative appropriation.

SALARY INCREASES

The $42,000 increase decided upon by the compromise committee met stiff opposition on the floor of the House. It provides $28,000 for salary increments, promotions, and new positions, an increase of $10,000 for custodial and maintenance, and an increase of $4,000 for leaves and returns.

A few minutes before the Senate began one of its discussions on the spending bill, Senator Urestead of Orange presented a measure which would permit feminine residents of Orange county to enter all University classes. At present women students may only enter school at their junior year, except in special departments.

Senator Urestead said he believed the bill if passed would enable Orange county girls to get a higher education who otherwise would have to do without. The students would be required to room at their homes.

The bill was referred to the educational committee, of which Senator Urestead is a member, and is expected to come up for a hearing soon.

Passage of the appropriations bill gives a budget of $1,443,518 for the Greater University next year. This sum will be obtained from a legislative appropriation of $1,321,518, and increases in out-of-state tuition estimated to raise $122,000.

The allotment for the 1938-39 session of the Greater University was (Continued on last page)

Oldest Resident Dies At Age 92

Chapel Hill's oldest resident, Mrs. Cornelia A. Roberson, who was 92 years old, died at the home of her daughter Mrs. Charles T. Woollen, on East Franklin street Saturday morning. Funeral services were conducted by Dr. O. T. Binkley and Rev. Frank K. Poole at the Chapel Hill Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Burial followed in the village cemetery.

A native of Chatham county, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Haywood Jackson Stone. In 1867 she was married to Dr. Abner Benton Roberson, a prominent village practitioner. Dr. Roberson died in 1897.

She was founder of the Baptist missionary society, a circle of which bears her name. She was also a character (Continued on page two)

Yeates Looking For More Candid Shots

Editor Rutherford Yeates of the Yackety-Yack is calmer today because the members of his staff, though many of them wore disgruntled looks, reported for duty.

He is still faced with 40 empty pages—each to be filled with candid and un-candid campus shots. He still offers 15 cents for each photo and will throw in the price of a flash bulb for night shots.

There is another staff meeting today at 2 o'clock.

STUDENT PARTY WILL ROUND-OUT TICKET TONIGHT

Third Convention Set For 8:30 In Phi Hall, New East

With spring elections at hand, the Student party convention tonight will finish up the ground work for the campaign as convention delegates gather at 8:30 in Phi hall to complete the party slate with the exception of publications officers.

The first office for consideration tonight will probably be that of the vice-president of the student body, who will oppose Jack Fairley, University party nominee.

Following the selection of the candidate for the vice-presidency, the convention is expected to make its selections for the secretary-treasurer of the student body, the representative to the Debate council, and the head cheerleader.

BOARD TO SELECT MANAGING EDITOR

Elliot Calls For '39-'40 Applicants

Tim Elliott, president of the Publications Union board, announced yesterday, that the managing editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL will probably be named at the meeting of the board next Wednesday and that all candidates for the position must file their applications with either him or J. M. Lear not later than Tuesday night.

At next week's session the board will consider all applications and will probably decide upon and announce the name of the managing editor who will serve next year.

It was also decided at yesterday's meeting that the contract for the Yackety-Yack engraving will be awarded to Jahn and Ollier of Chicago. This firm did all of the engraving for the yearbook this year and it was partially on this basis that the contract was renewed. Of the three bids received by the board, this was the lowest, Elliot said.

The only other action taken by the board was the appropriation of the sum of 28 dollars for a bookcase for the Carolina Magazine.

Village Resident Is Sweepstakes Winner

L. E. Jones, 58, University hardware store manager, beamed with pride as he showed a telegram yesterday. It was addressed to him and his wife. It looked just like an ordinary message, except it was from Ireland.

Jones had been informed that he had won 100 pounds sterling (about $460) in the Irish hospital grand national sweepstakes. Answering he was "very glad, of course," he added that he would split the prize with Mrs. Jones. He said he had bought tickets for 10 years, had probably paid $50 for them altogether, but that this was the first time he had won.

REPUBLICAN HEAD SAYS SPENDING MUST BE CURBED

1200 Hear Talk And Forum In Memorial Hall

By JIM McADEN

Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican National committee walked into Memorial hall last night, and with a mid-western twang in his voice, denounced the present governmental administration and called for a series of actions which would reverse a number of New Deal policies.

The 47 year-old Kansan drew laughs and applause from his Carolina Political union audience of approximately 1200, made up of students and ambitious state Republican leaders. Apparently expecting rumbles of dissent to result from his every statement, the minority party leader seemed at first surprised at the agreeable digesting of his speech by the audience.

Referring to the present situation of this country, Hamilton advocated "substantial revision of our tax laws, a rewriting of the Wagner labor relations act, repeal of discretionary powers to experiment with the monetary system, placing of a limitation on government competition with business, and above all else, a curbing of Federal spending."

During the open-forum session immediately following his address and at the reception given for him in Graham memorial hall held forth and matched opinions with representatives of varying beliefs. He appeared to be a man well educated in every respect, backing up each idea with facts.

FEARS "ISMS"

He expressed an outright fear of "ism" influence upon the future history of the United States, but stated that if the country could be hoisted from depths of economic despair that recovery in itself would be adequate insurance against any change in form of government here.

While saying that the present administration has undertaken a short cut solution to bring back a healthy glow to the economic system, Hamilton would not condemn the New Deal in its entirety. He said that "It is my contention that the bad in the New Deal more than outweighs the good that is in it." Referring to Democrat attempts to restore prosperity to this country, he said "Not only has it failed, but it has made the economic (Continued on last page)

Oldest Faculty Member

Dr. M. C. S. Noble, author and University professor until his resignation several years ago, celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday during the spring vacation last week. He is often referred to as North Carolina's grand old man of education.

SENIOR COLLEGE WILL COMPETE IN DRAMA FESTIVAL

Salisbury, Asheville Enter Final Contest At 10 This Morning

This morning at 10 o'clock Salisbury and Asheville dramatic clubs will compete in the final contest in puppet play production which is a part of the State tournament being held on the campus this week. The White Masque Marionette club of Salisbury is presenting "The Unhappy Princess" and the Beaux and Belles of Asheville will present "Nursery Rhymes."

At 11 o'clock C. M. Edson, president of the Carolina Dramatic association, will welcome the visiting delegates and Frederick H. Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers, will address the delegates, his subject being "What Is Folk Drama."

MORNING SPEAKERS

Following Koch's address, Dr. Archibald Henderson will speak on the forthcoming Southern Regional conference and Theater festival. Miss Sarah Gertrude Knott, director of the national folk festival, will discuss plans for the coming national festival immediately after Henderson's address.

CIO Representative To Give Campus Address Tomorrow

Miss Mason Was Member Of Southern Advisory Committee

Sponsored by the ASU and the YWCA, Miss Lucy Mason, who holds the position of public relations representative of the Textile Workers' Organizing committee of the CIO, will speak on the campus Friday night at 8 o'clock in the small lounge of Graham memorial.

Miss Mason was a member of the Advisory Committee of Southerners, called in to review the National Emergency council's report to the President, on economic conditions in the South. She was formerly general secretary of the Richmond, Va., YWCA and subsequently became executive secretary of the National Consumers league. Last June she was a leader at the Southern Student conference at Blue Ridge, and will return to the conference again this June.

She has appeared before many smaller discussion groups also such as ones at Emory university, Berea college (Continued on last page)

Camera Display Now At Library

The new world of photography that has been opened with the coming of the candid camera is revealed in an exhibit of Leica camera photographs now on display in the reserve room and the general college reading room on the first floor of the library.

Almost all of the pictures, of which there are about 100, have been made by amateurs with little or no formal training in photography, and they carry information as to how they were made, giving exposure, film, developer, etc. The photographs are varied, some depicting action; while others are studies in light and shade. Several are the work of such nationally known photographers as Dmitri and Hoffmann, Dmitri having done the color work.

The exhibit, which will remain on display until tomorrow, is being sponsored by the University Photographic society. Three prize-winning prints of the local contest are also on display.

Anti-New Dealer

John D. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National committee, who last night in a speech and open forum in Memorial hall bitterly attacked the policies of the present administration and advocated measures contrary to the New Deal program. "Above all else," said Hamilton, "Federal spending must be curbed."

COMMITTEE HEADS AND SCRIPT FOR MAY DAY SELECTED

Date Set For May 6; Court Members To Be Chosen By Students

Committee chairmen and script for May day were selected at a meeting yesterday of the local chapter of Alpha Kappa Gamma which will sponsor the May day festival.

Melville Corbett was chosen Junior co-chairman to serve with Kathryn Fleming, president of AKG and Senior chairman, as director of May day plans. Sanford Stein was awarded the $5.00 prize presented by AKG to the writer of the accepted May day script.

Members of the court will be chosen by vote of the student body and the date of the event has been set for May 6.

CHAIRMEN NAMED

Chairmen of the various committees are: Costume, co-chairman, Barbara Burroughs and Mary Wood; Publicity, Edna Hines Bynum; Properties, co-chairmen Helen Jacobs and Mary Lewis; Reception, Barbara Liscomb and Sarah McLean; Court dresses, Betsy Jean Johnson; Flowers, Mary Jane Yeatman; Dance, Ruth Parsons and Adele Austin; and Finance, Martha Kelly.

May day was first observed on the campus three years ago and this year as before will be sponsored by AKG with financial aid from other women's organizations. Besides the presentation of the May court there will be an Alumnae luncheon and a co-ed ball, sponsored by the woman's association, on May day. The May court and the woman's association officers will be honored at the ball.

The first meeting of the May day committee will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 in the woman's association room in Graham Memorial.

Quinlan Leaves Campus For Father's Funeral

P. H. Quinlan, coach of varsity and freshman wrestling, left Monday afternoon by plane for Boston to attend the funeral of his father who had died about noon.

Details of the funeral services had not been received here last night. It is thought that the late Mr. Quinlan, believed to be in his seventies, died from a heart attack.

GILLY NICHOLSON ENTERS RACE FOR STUDENT COUNCIL

Rosenberg, Bill Blalock and George Ralston Nominated

Running mates for Richard "Fish" Worley, candidate for president of the senior class, were announced yesterday by the University party. By placing the four aspirants in the field the party completed two of its class slates, rising sophomore and rising senior.

Bill Blalock will run for vice-president, Gilly Nicholson for the senior student council seat, George Ralston for secretary, and Morris Rosenberg for treasurer.

The candidates, chosen by the party steering committee of fraternity and non-fraternity representatives, brought to 12 the number of office-seekers thus far announced by the University party.

WORLEY'S PLATFORM

Worley's candidacy was announced February 28, with a platform in which he advocated a better method of class budget passing; capable control of class expenditures; publication of all class transactions; a suitable method of obtaining views of the class members on class affairs; better participation of seniors in class affairs; and better participation of the class in campus activities.

Wholehearted endorsement of his platform was given by the other four candidates on the ticket.

STUDENTS MAY ATTEND INSTITUTE

Two University Delegates Wanted

The United States Office of Education and the National Institute of Public Affairs has invited the University to name one or two representative students to participate in the 1939 Institute of Government.

Approximately 75 seniors will be selected from American colleges to participate in the Institute which will be held from April 3-8 in Washington and consists of a program which will include visits to sessions of Congress, hearings of Congressional committees and Executive commissions, the Supreme Court, as well as informal round table discussions with leading government officials. Squires Remains Eligible Bachelor

Don't give up yet, girls. All is not lost. Alonzo G. Squires, popular blind member of the freshman class, delivered this welcome admonition of an anxious feminine population yesterday.

The columns of the DAILY TAR HEEL yesterday morning had it that Squires had taken unto himself a blushing bride some three months ago.

Squires' explanation was to the effect that he had spread the story about in Steele dormitory as a joke. Squires carried his joke to the point of telling it in the presence of a DAILY TAR HEEL reporter and the story was accepted in full confidence.

So, Squires is still listed in the ranks of eligible bachelorhood. As a matter of fact, he says he is thinking more seriously of entering a monastery than of marching through the portals of matrimony.
