

Four New Candidates Added To UP Slate

Student Party Releases Full Eight Point Platform

SOCIAL ROOMS FOR DORMITORIES ARE INCLUDED

Britt Says Program Is Not Series Of 'Campaign Promises'

By CARROLL McGAUGHEY

Following on the heels of its announcement of its full ticket for the spring elections with the reservation of publication editors, the Student party released yesterday an eight point platform containing the principles which the party nominees endorse and reforms which they recommend.

Party Chairman Mitchell Britt explained that the platform should not be construed as a series of "campaign promises," but that it is an assurance that the party candidates, if elected, will strive conscientiously to put the principles included into effect.

"We have tried to select, to the utmost of our ability, a good slate," Britt said, "If we have succeeded we ask the campus' support in electing these candidates."

STUDENT PARTY PLATFORM

- The complete platform follows:
1. Believing that the Student Legislature was founded on sound principles, we favor a stimulation of its activities.
 2. In the interests of fair play we favor a thorough investigation of student fees, and if found possible and practical, we will favor a reduction.
 3. Since no time is allowed by the administration for preparation for examinations, we believe that at least a one day study period should be set aside preceding the examination period.
 4. Dormitory residents have no recreation centers for social purposes. This being the case, we favor dormitory social rooms if such is possible. In connection with this we believe that telephones in the dormitories should be enclosed and placed on private lines.
 5. As is shown by our continued selection of women to run on our ticket, we favor a participation by women students in all campus activities.
 6. Since graduate students are a part of the resident student body, we propose that they be given a position on the student council, in which position

Morris And Band To Play For Both Soph Tea, Grail

The first Order of the Grail dance of the spring quarter will close the first social week-end of the season tonight at the Tin Can. The dance will be held from 9 to 12 o'clock.

"Skeets" Morris and his Auburn university Cavaliers, who made such a big hit with the Sophomore promenaders last time, have been held over to perform for the Grail dancers. The orchestra is well known for its engagement at the Tantilla in Richmond, Va.

The Tin Can has been decorated in black and red, the Sophomore class colors, which may refer to the condition of the dancers' pedal extremities as well as to the scholastic spectral items.

An unusually large crowd is expected, since the affair will be the first informal evening event of the season. Tickets will be on sale at the door. Admission will be one dollar.

To Conduct Here

Dr. Hans Kindler, above, will direct the National Symphony orchestra, of Washington D. C., when it is presented here Wednesday evening at 8:30 in Memorial hall. This will be the first student entertainment of the spring quarter.

Kindler To Conduct Concert On Student Entertainment Bill

The National Symphony orchestra of Washington, D. C., conducted by Dr. Hans Kindler, will be presented on next Wednesday evening at 8:30 in Memorial hall in a concert marking the first student entertainment of the spring quarter.

Although not sponsored by the government, the symphony, which is in the midst of its eighth season, was formed in the nation's capital and has played the majority of its concerts in that city. Among its noteworthy appearances have been those at President Roosevelt's second inauguration, at the Inaugural Concert; and at the national convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs. For the past four years the group has given concerts in Canada.

ON TOUR

Prior to its appearance in Memorial hall, the symphony will play in Baltimore, Richmond, and Sweet Briar college in Lynchburg. From Chapel Hill, it will go on to Columbia, South Carolina, where it will play for the fifth consecutive year in the city's annual choral festival. Other cities and educational centers which have been visited by the orchestra are:

NEGRO SUSPECT IS RELEASED

Chapel Hill Man Held Since Dec. 7

DURHAM, March 24. — Frank Black, alias Blackness, Chapel Hill Negro who has been held since December 7 on a charge of criminally assaulting a 14-year old Orange county white girl, was released from custody this week, Solicitor William H. Murdock disclosed today.

Murdock said that the girl, who identified Blacknell as her assailant when he was arrested, had stated that she was unable to go into court and swear that he was the man. Blacknell had waived preliminary examination at a recorder's court hearing in Chapel Hill and the question of identification had not come up then.

When the solicitor began to prepare the case for trial in Orange county superior court he learned that the girl was not positive in her identification and no bill of indictment was presented to the grand jury.

Blacknell was arrested on December 7, two days after the alleged attack, and held in the Durham jail until December 24. Since then he has been in jail in Hillsboro.

Committee Votes To Abolish Chapel

At a meeting of the freshman chapel committee yesterday, a suggestion presented by Bill Shore requesting that freshman chapel be abolished was passed unanimously and the suggestion will go before a joint meeting of the class committee and the faculty committee Tuesday for final approval.

Shore's statement to the committee was as follows: "I request that freshman chapel be completely abolished for the remainder of the school year because: first, it is my opinion that the continued orientation of our class is entirely unnecessary. Second, the results of its abolition would be for the best interests of the class of '42. Third, the compulsory attendance to a meeting of this type where school credit is not given is open to criticism, and fourth, a large majority of my classmates will support me in my request."

Bill Aimed To Help Orange County Girls Obtain an Education

BY CHARLES BARRETT

After giving unanimous approval on first and second readings, the State Senate yesterday delayed final action on a bill which would enable students, regardless of sex, to enter all classes of state higher educational institutions.

The delay came when Senator Gray of Forsythe had the third reading postponed until Monday so that he could prepare an amendment.

Informed legislators questioned in Raleigh yesterday believed the bill would be passed without meeting serious opposition. However, they said minor changes might be made before the bill becomes law.

UMSTEAD

Senator Umstead of Orange, who introduced the bill in the senate and is leading the move for its adoption, said the bill was aimed chiefly at helping Orange county girls get an education who otherwise would have to do without. He said he knew 30 or 40 such girls who would like to enter the University as a freshman, but at present are prohibited by a University ruling which allows only junior coeds to enter.

Umstead believed that under state laws a ruling could not be enforced which required separate schools for men and women. The present ruling admitting only junior and senior women to the University is a requirement of the University Board of Trustees, and not a state law, he emphasized.

"Of course the bill provides for men students to go to the Women's College and for coeds to go to State, but that was not the original purpose," he said. "I think there is a definite need for some move to enable the Orange county girls to get a higher education."

"I don't know whether many men

Nipponese Student Says Japs Like Mitchell's Novel

Student From Japan

Kennichiro Yoshida, graduate student from Nippon who has entered the University, says that "Gone With The Wind" is almost as popular in Japan as it has been here. He chose Carolina because one of his best friends, who now is connected with the Japanese embassy in Washington, recommended it highly.

WOOD, DAWSON, MEGSON, BISHOP, ARE NOMINATED

Men Will Compete In Elections For Student Officers

By MARTIN HARMON

Moving four steps nearer completion of its 1939 slate, the University party last night announced that Charlie Wood, now president of the junior class, would be its candidate for secretary-treasurer of the student body and named Courtland Dawson, Ed Megson and Don Bishop to run for the three student positions on the Publications Union board.

Last night's announcement follows close on the heels Thursday night's Student party convention at which party representatives completed nominations for all campus offices except those for publication editorships.

The candidates for PU board stated that their objectives, if elected, would be to reduce expenditures wherever possible and to lower the annual student publications fee "providing the reductions can be made without reducing the quality of the publications."

Wood, from Winston-Salem, is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity, the Graham memorial board of directors, is the Kappa Sigma house manager, and leads a campus dance band, Charlie Wood and His Carolinians.

ACTIVITIES

Last year he worked for the Yackety-Yack, was a member of the Order of Shieks, and the Sophomore YMCA cabinet. As a freshman, Wood was on his class executive committee, the Freshman Friendship council and played football. He opposes Jack Vincent, Student party candidate.

Courtland Dawson, a Virginian, the candidate for Senior member of the PU board, is at present exchange editor of the Buccaneer, completing his second year on the staff, is president of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity, and

Kennichiro Yoshida Likes Carolina, But Dislikes Our Cold Bath Water

By GEORGE LAYCOCK

"Gone With The Wind" is the best selling book in Japan, with the exception of books by Japanese writers," said Kennichiro Yoshida, graduate student who entered the University recently. Yoshida explained that the Japanese translation of the book consisted of three volumes. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is required reading in our lower schools, and every Japanese school boy reads it as part of his American literature course," he added.

Yoshida said he had chosen the University of North Carolina because one of his best friends, a classmate in Tokyo who is now connected with the Japanese Embassy in Washington, had been here last year and liked the University. Comparing American universities with those in his own country, the new graduate student said that the classes in economics and law at the Imperial university often totaled 600 students, with the professor addressing them with a microphone and loudspeaker system. "Chemistry and medicine are taught in smaller groups," he said, "and I like your small classes here, for it gives the student an opportunity to
