• A Good Man

Now that appropriations have reached the two hundred dollars a year mark and the administration has shut down all buildings except Gerrard Hall, Former President Graham has bowed to crude commercialism. For our own Dr. Graham has decided to leave the Hill and has accepted the political appointment for the governorship of Puerto Rico.

Undoubtedly the overwhelming statistics presented by Senator Bailey Thursday night influenced his decision. It was learned yesterday that Miss Lackey recorded every piece of evidence presented by the senator and after three hours of extensive brooding, he wired the president his acceptance.

His absence from here will be temporarily mourned, for the students did admire him, so to speak. And in the words of Mr. Clark, "Yonder goes a good man."

• Blore Tried and Exonerated

Las week, some of his fellow students accused Phil Blore, junior class president, of misappropriating the class funds. They claimed that in giving the annual class smoker he had told the treasurer he was going to buy 200 packs of Herbert Tareyton cigarettes, but instead had merely purchased Twenty Grands and kept the difference.

Studie Ficklen was appointed to look into the matter, and his report, we believe, completely exonerates Blore and ends all disagreement. Says Ficklen, "Mr. Blore is not dishonest. He is just a man of good business ability. After an absolutely impartial and objective investigation, I find his integrity thoroughly vindicated. He is simply a victim of Student party propaganda."

Blore is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

• Thumbnail History

One hundred and forty-six years ago* the University of North Carolina was founded. It was not, however, until many years later that the student body ripened into a political maturity that encouraged the formation of a representative governing body, the Student legislature.

Believing that a detailed history of this body will promote a healthy interest in its activities, we are presenting a complete history of its inception and rise to its present status on the campus. The account follows:

The Student legislature was formed on this campus in the early Spring of last year.

THE 1:30 CLASS

By E. CARRINGTON STEIN

Artie Shaw, his clarinet, and his band will positively appear at the Carolina Theater on April 4. The beguine will be begun three times a day.

"Little Miss Carriage" (Sun. and Mon.) is Shirley Temple's latest gift to her adoring public and it is undoubtedly the beloved moppet's most superlative cinematic endeavor. Combining magnificent acting, unsurpassable dialogue, sensational photography, and a super-super four star production, the picture really ain't half bad.

The plot is startlingly original and depicts Shirley as a poor, lonely orphan who is cruelly treated by the matron of the asylum where she resides. After washing dishes, getting periodic beatings with a sledge hammer and suffering for six reels (the scene where Shirley says her prayers: "God bless momsy and popsy up in heaven" is guaranteed to bring tears to anyone's eyes), she is finally adopted by a rich old woman and brings together two lovers—Tyrone Power and Zasu Pitts—for a real, old fashioned happy ending. Doesn't it sound simply wonderful?

Mickey Rooney plays Shirley's sweetheart in the picture and their love scenes are reported to be some of the most torrid ever written and were frowned upon by the Hays office. In fact, if you watch closely enough, you can catch a fleeting glimpse of the two actually holding hands. We have been lucky enough, however, in securing for our audience the unexpurgated version.

Nothing like this has ever been produced before. Put "Little Miss Carriage" on your must-see list. It's colossal, it's stupendous, it's divine. And besides, I just put 50 inches of ads on the picture in tomorrow's TAR HEEL.

Tuesday and Wednesday is exotic, glamorous Hedy Lamar in "My Belongs to Daddy." It's a truly exquisite film, full of high idealism, moral upliftment, and scenes conducive to noble thoughts and pure dreams. Some people have claimed that the episode where Hedy divests herself of her outer garments with great Ecstasy and makes love to Robert Taylor on a sofa is a bit stimulating, but we are sure college students will look at it from an intellectual level. The picture is sure to please the family trade and is ideal for church socials. A special showing will be held at 4 P. M. for the Boy Scouts.

Joan Crawford, once more returning to the field of comedy and tangled marital relations, turns in a sharply realistic performance as an alluring strip-teaser in "I Don't Like My Tone" (Thurs.). Due to an economy drive now taking place in Hollywood, the studio have only given Joan four leading men—Spencer Tracy, Boris Karloff, Groucho Marx, and Ferdinand—but she manages to hold up her own end very successfully.

Friday is Marion Davies in "Virtue is its Own Reward," a truly A-1, first-rate masterpiece, full of the tenderest emotions and most superlative entertainment. Up till now, we have never been very enthusiastic about Miss Davies's histrionic abilities, but ever since Hearst bought the DAILY TAR HEEL, we have realized what a truly great actress she is. She is an experienced mistress in her field.

Friday's Midnight Show is a reprise of Mae West in Sir James Barrie's "Peter Pan." Her next will be another Barrie work, "What Every Woman Knows" to which Mae will add a few intimate touches of her own.

Saturday is Clark Gable and Carole Lombard in "It's Legal Now." The picture grossed $10,000 last week in Ahsokie. A truly beautiful and stirring experience.

*So sorry. The type slipped.

Mrs. Lawsun Plans Super Blowout

Mrs. R. B. Lawsun, village case worker, will entertain students and townspeople at a garden party at her home on East Franklin street this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Lawsun who recently saw a coed's ankle, has decided there are still some beautiful things in the village other than the trees and flowers.

Guests are asked to wear shorts and ride bicycles. A trick riding contest will be held during the afternoon. Children are especially requested to wear sun-suits.

A Young Man's Fancy—

CAMPUS caricaturists wept yesterday as Phillips Russell plucked out his half-century growth of eyebrows. . . . The Bull's Head, beginning next week, will furnish ice cubes to go in that burning lava which is served each Wednesday afternoon. . . . Rex Winslow stood in Bingham hall yesterday and vowed he would never again flunk one of his students. . . . Artie Shaw has been signed to play for the finals. . . . Lines will no longer form in front of Swain hall after today. Hereafter the management will simply throw open the doors before each meal and yell, "Come and get it." . . . After six votes were taken last night, John Creedy was chosen to edit the Carolina Mag for another year. . . . The business office is working out an arrangement whereby students next fall will be able to register themselves in the automatic voting machines. . . . Dr. Archie Henderson has misplaced his umbrella. . . . Judge Phipps last week fined a Durhamhiker $2.50 for bumming on curb.

STEIN-GIDDENS HITCH ANNOUNCED

Happy Couple Plans Defrosting Trip

Mrs. J. M. Giddens, of Tallahassee, Fla., has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Virginia Giddens, to Sanford Stein, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Stein of Woodmere, Long Island. Miss Giddens is a University senior, residing at 815 New Women's dormitory. Mr. Stein is also enrolled here. The charming couple will make their wedding later. There will be many showers during April for them. Their announcement was the first of a large number anticipated for the forthcoming weeks of the spring quarter.

Both are widely known among their intimate friends. They hold responsible positions with the Carolina Buccaneer and the Presbyterian church quarterly. "We will spend our honeymoon in a defroster," Stein said.

Pugh Receives Honor

Carl S. Pugh, headknocker on the Carolina Buccaneer, has been elected Editor of The Open Road for Boys, it was revealed late night (4 p. m.). "I will feature purity, adventure, and Phyllis Campbell," mumbled Pugh, when located under the first table to the right at Harry's.

LETTERS To The Editor

To The Editor, Dear Sir:

I feel that the students here have been getting a raw deal long enough. It wasn't bad enough to get up in the middle of the night to go to an eight-thirty class, so now they have sprung something new on us.

The Fifth Instance of Immoral Relations decided to meet here, and as a result we have to be in class at eight.

Why must we get up before we have a chance to go to bed and then go to class, when we have been to the Immoral Relations conference the night before? Why should we give them an hour from our daily schedule so that they may have their meetings?

If they persist in using our campus and our time again, let us profit by experience and find a method by which we can cope with this force.

The time has come! Arise, brave students, arise!

Yours truly,
PHIL I. BUSTA.

the skunk-in-the-basement type." JUST DRIFTWOOD Gilmore will tell of his life on a raft, drifting in the seven seas with stops at Borneo, Ceylon, Hoboken, Panama, Rio, Cape Horn, and Agnes Scott.

In announcing plans for the egg-rolling contest, Voit Gilmore has stated that the eggs will be rolled off Chapel Hill down to the ABC store.

Coeds have been requested to furnish the eggs and are asked to lay them on Tempe Newsom's desk in the YMCA.

All entrants for the contest must register in 304 Graham Memorial not later than midnight of the same day. Participants do so at their own risk.
