RADIO DEBATES ARE SUGGESTED

UP Nominees List Three Objectives

The idea of radio broadcasts of debates between teams of the University and other schools was advanced yesterday as a means of stimulating student interest in debating. Bill Cochran and Julian Lane, University party candidates for the debate council, offered the proposal as a major point in their platform for election next Thursday.

They listed three objectives:

1. Radio debates, sponsored by the debate council in cooperation with stations WNCN in Durham and WPTF in Raleigh, as a means of stimulating student interest in debating.
2. Continued cooperation with all students interested in trying out for University debates.

FRESHMAN GROUP

3. Cooperation with the newly organized freshman debating group, to the end that this work may be continued next year, with the financial support of the debate council.

Cochrane is seeking reelection, having served three terms previously, two years as the representative of the Di senate and one year as an elected student representative. He has been on the squad three years and is serving this year as secretary of the debate council. Lane, an experienced speaker, has been on the debate squad three years.

Music Librarian

Anyone interested in doing librarian work for the Symphony orchestra is asked to see Dr. Swalin at Hill Music hall during chapel period Monday. Someone interested in music is preferred.

UP Nominee

DeWitt Barnett, rising senior, has been nominated by the University party to oppose Martin Harmon, staff and Student party nominee, for editorship of next year's DAILY TAR HEEL.

PRESS INSTITUTE IS SCHEDULED FOR APRIL 14 AND 15

Delegates From 75 Schools Invited To Convene Here

Featuring prominent newspapermen from all over the state as guest speakers, the third annual meeting of the North Carolina Scholastic Press institute, sponsored by the DAILY TAR HEEL, will be held on the campus April 14 and 15 under the direction of David Stick. Having already accepted the invitation to speak, are John Parks, Sr., editor and publisher of the Raleigh Times, Mrs. Ann Cantrell White, social editor of the Greensboro Daily News, and Jim Wommack, staff photographer for the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel.

75 HIGH SCHOOLS

Invited to attend the meeting are three delegates from each of about 75 of the largest high schools in the state and a faculty adviser with each group. Two University students will be appointed to each group and will show the high school students over the campus on their arrival here. The convention delegates will board at fraternities, dormitories and the homes of local residents while here. All town people having facilities for taking care of any of the delegates are asked to cooperate with David Stick, director of the convention, in Graham Memorial.

PROGRAM

The program will start Friday morning with the arrival of the delegates who will register and be shown around the campus until 3 o'clock when the first address will be made. The delegates will be welcomed by Jim Joyner, David Stick and Miss Jane Hunter, assistant director. The first regular meeting will be held at 4 o'clock when the gathering will be addressed on the subject of sports writing by a prominent state sports writer. The speeches, (Continued on last page)

Duke, UNC Are Hosts To Society

Duke and the University are this week-end hosts to the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology.

Yesterday's session opened in Durham and the delegates will come to Chapel Hill this afternoon when Dr. Stephen A. Emery is to be chairman of the philosophy meeting at 2 o'clock in 201 Peabody.

The psychologists will gather at the same hour in Peabody with Helge Lundholm acting as chairman of section one in room 204 and Robert J. Wherry heading section two in room 208.

A special section in extra-sensory perception will be held at 4 o'clock in room 202 with Duke's Professors J. G. Pratt and J. B. Rhine leading the discussion.

Resurrection Is Topic Of Service

"The Significance of the Resurrection" will be the theme of an Easter Sunrise service held tomorrow morning at 5:15 a. m. on Fetzer field. Sponsored by the YM and YWCA cabinets, the service will be presided over by John Bonner, YMCA vice-president, and Miss Jo Martin.

To the strains of music from the Bell Tower, the service will begin promptly at 5:15. Bonner will lead invocation, and a hymn "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today," will be sung, led by the men's and women's glee clubs.

Brooks Patten, president of the YMCA, will read the scripture, and after prayer, another hymn will be sung, "Come Ye Faithful Raise the Strain." The YMCA quartet will render a special selection, "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful."

After meditations on the theme of the service, the audience will sing "The Strife Is O'er," and benediction will close the service.

Smith Declares Specialization Is Democracy's Chief Enemy

Directed Human Relations Institute

John Kendrick, left, chairman of the Human Relations Institute, and Harry F. Comer, executive secretary of the YMCA, were the guiding forces behind the eight-day institute program which was concluded here yesterday.

Illinois Legislator Concludes Institute With Morning Talk

Dr. T. V. Smith, congressman from Illinois, former professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago and known as the "scholar of the house," closed the eight-day Human Relations institute in Memorial hall yesterday morning by presenting what he calls the philosophical approach to the problems facing democracy today.

The clement Dr. Smith considers as the greatest enemy of democracy and civilization today is that of intensive specialization in the industrial and, particularly, in the professional fields combined with the lack of confidence which this continued segregation fosters. This is shown, he says, by the gaps which are growing not only among the professions, but within the professions themselves. Thus for lack of contact there is a resultant lack of sympathy and understanding, which are requisites of a democracy.

He believes that this state of affairs will ultimately result in a "moral man and an immoral society." That is, although the actions of the individual are moral in relation to his associates, his attitude toward society has the bad effect of breaking down the unity of the existing social order, democracy.

To Dr. Smith this segregation is making us no better or even worse than the dictatorships of Europe and Asia. These nations have, at least, preserved their national unity, while we sit by and allow our social order to disintegrate.

He says, then, "How shall we go forward? Should we renounce division of labor and professions?" He thinks not, but suggests that we turn to what he calls the American barnyard and pool-room politician. In justifying this, he says, "The promise of American life and the promise of American politics are not divorced from the promises of American politicians... and it is the politician who has the job of compromising principles without compromising himself."

'OUR TOWN' CAST CONTINUES WORK

Drama Will Begin Series April 11

Rehearsals for the Playmaker production of "Our Town" have been underway for several weeks and preparations are now being made for the presentation of Thornton Wilder's drama on the nights of April 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15 at 8:30 in the Playmaker theater.

Ora Mae Davis, director of costumes, has collected an amazing permanent wardrobe for the Playmakers but it required much supplementation for the large "Our Town" cast.

However, no costumes could be as effective for the production as are the authentic products of the period that have been procured from a dressmaker of those days in Durham, and from a forgotten country store about ten miles down the road from Whitakers.

COUNTRY STORE

The country store was found to contain supplies of every kind and description, which had been purchased during the days before the time of such things as the automobile, and this outdated stock supplied a great wealth of articles to be purchased by the Playmakers at bargain prices.

From the Durham dressmaker came dresses and accessories of just the right sort, made of expensive materials. Among these articles of clothing were: boudoir caps, hats, bed-jackets, "guimps," and even matchless wedding gowns.

Admission to the production will be 50 cents for students and 75 cents for all others.

Good! Too Bad!

Classes will resume their regular schedule this morning, beginning at 8:30.

There will be no Easter holidays.

STUDENTS OPPOSE MOVE TO RETURN GERMAN COLONIES

Negative Opinion Throughout Nation Is 71 Per Cent

American sentiment against Hitler is pointed out in another way, this time among college students of the nation. The latest poll of the Student Opinion Surveys of America reveals an overwhelming majority of students opposing the return to Germany of the colonies taken from her after the World War.

Whatever Hitler's motives are, American college students, members of the group that supplied many fighters for the last war, oppose the idea as shown by their answers to the question, "Should the colonies taken from Germany after the World War be returned to her?" Survey staff members for the DAILY TAR HEEL and the other eighty-four member publications found students consistent in their opinions everywhere. The national totals: FIGURES

ELLIS ANNOUNCES CAMPAIGN STAND

Extension Of Debate Activities Favored

Phil Ellis, Student party candidate for debate council, yesterday explained the policies which he will follow if elected in the balloting next Thursday.

"It is my purpose, if elected to a position on the Debate Council," Ellis said, "to fight for 'democratized debating.' Having been active in debate during my first two years in college, I believe that the activity should be given its just place in extra-curricular circles—and I believe this can be done only by adopting a debate council policy of urging all persons to participate. At present, no one seems to know how the council operates, or even what it is. It is my aim to try to remedy that situation by publicizing all activities of the group, and attempting to interest everyone in debate. I believe that the students who pay for the operation of the debate council should know how the money is used, and that they should be the ones to benefit from its use instead of the 'closed corporations' of the past."

Ellis, a junior this year, is a journalism major. He transferred from Eveleth Junior college, Eveleth, Minn., where he was a member of the Minnesota state championship debating team for two years, besides holding a position as editor of the college paper. At present he is active in the Phi assembly and is a member of the staff of the Freshman Handbook.

Did You Save Them?

The business office of the DAILY TAR HEEL will pay five cents for each copy of the paper for February 18 and March 25 brought to the office in Graham Memorial.

Barnett Tells Aims If Chosen Tar Heel Editor; 31 Members Of Staff Listed For Harmon

Petition Declares Staff Support Is Help To Efficiency

Publicly declaring their preference for Martin Harmon, staff nominee and Student party candidate for editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL, 31 members of the campus daily's staff yesterday signed a statement to that effect.

The statement, in the form of a petition, was circulated among the staff yesterday and was signed by 31 of the 43 staff members who voted in the staff nomination. The statement is as follows: Considering the recent turn of events, and the fact that only one of the candidates who was voted upon at the recent staff nominations is now in the race for the editorship of the DAILY TAR HEEL, we, the undersigned members of the staff, pledge our support to Martin Harmon, official staff nominee, for the office. We believe that only with the consistent and substantial support of his staff can any editor produce the most efficient results.

NAMES LISTED

The statement was signed by the following members of the staff: Raymond Lowery, Jim McAden, Carroll McCaughey, Bill Rhodes Weaver, Laffitte Howard, Adrian Spies, Elbert Hutton, Ed Rankin, Charles Barrett, Fred Cazel, Rush Hamrick, Ben Roebuck, Bob Barber, Miss Gladys Best Tripp, Sanford Stein, Larry Lerner, Harry Hollingsworth, Sam Green, Jimmy Dumbell, Miss Jo Jones, Arthur Dixon, Charles Gerald, Shelley Rolfe, William L. Beerman, Leonard Lobred, Billy Weil, Richard Morris, Jerry Stoff, Frank Goldsmith, Jim Vawter, and Roy Popkin.

School Exhibit Is Flourishing

By JO JONES

The second annual North Carolina school art exhibition, which opened Sunday in Person Hall art gallery, is composed of 270 pieces of work selected from 797 pieces by students in 19 elementary schools throughout the state. The exhibition contains illustrations in watercolor, chalk, and crayon, modeling and carving, posters, block printing, costume designs, interior designs, and surface pattern designs.

The elementary school entries are divided into two group levels, one for grades 1, 2, and 3 and another for grades 4, 5, and 6. Awards were made in each section of both group levels.

The pieces in the exhibit cover a wide range of subjects and show originality and unusual powers of observation on the part of the young artists. The entries are characterized by their bright coloring and freedom of design. The children seem to prefer doing people and animals rather than landscapes; however the few landscapes in the exhibit show the same originality as the portraits and animal studies. The sun, which is never painted by mature artists except under unusual circumstances (Continued on last page)

UP Nominee Says Editor Must Keep Close To Campus

"The editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL should fully realize his responsibility as a representative of the entire campus by keeping in close touch with campus life and then by serving its various needs as best he can through the pages of the student paper."

DeWitt Barnett, nominated Wednesday by the University party for the DAILY TAR HEEL editorship, yesterday made this statement as a preface to an outline of the purpose of the paper and his aims if elected as its editor.

DECLARATION

"The DAILY TAR HEEL serves as the principal means for articulating student thought, opinion, and action," he declared. "It should make every effort to cooperate with both student and faculty groups in making a more progressive campus democracy. Not only should it be an agent of cooperation, but it should be on the alert to take the initiative in stimulating campus thought and in inaugurating worthwhile thought and action."

Barnett set forth three main functions which the paper should fulfill:

1. Give the student body an interesting, informative account of what is going on in day by day.
2. Seek out and reflect student opinion on campus affairs.
3. Interpret and then take honest, intelligent, constructive stands on issues vital to the student body.

REPRESENTATIVE

"The DAILY TAR HEEL, being representative of and supported by the entire student body, should maintain a policy which will assure all campus groups or points of view appropriate space in its news and editorial columns," Barnett continued.

In conclusion Barnett stated, "The editor should feel it his responsibility to cooperate closely with the reporter and technical staffs in putting out a lively, efficient, and policy-consistent newspaper."

Simon Will Choose All-Campus Band

George Simon, associate editor of Metronome Magazine who is to judge the "Battle of Swing" to be held one week from tomorrow will select an all-campus band composed of the best instrumentalists, vocalists and leaders of the five bands participating. Simon, who has had wide experience in reviewing America's best in modern music, once directed his own college band at Harvard university.

Due to union difficulties, no broadcast of the battle nor records of the bands will be made. The big swing session will start promptly at 3:15 in Memorial hall. The admission price is set at 35 cents with proceeds going to the University band, which organization is sponsoring the contest.
