

Olive Cruikshank Elected Queen Of May Day Festival

Handbook Editor

Donald Bishop, editor of the Freshman Handbook, yesterday asked all members of the staff to come by the DAILY TAR HEEL office before 4:30 this afternoon. Bishop is the University party's candidate for junior representative to the Publications Union board.

STUDENT-FACULTY PRIMARY TODAY FOR KING, QUEEN

Final Election For Royal Couple Set For Tomorrow

All students will participate today in the primary election of one faculty member and one co-ed to reign as king and queen of Student-Faculty day on April 25.

In this primary students will vote for a single faculty member and co-ed from the whole campus. The three highest men and the ten highest co-eds will be chosen for the final elections tomorrow and the king and queen will be selected from these by another all campus vote. It is rumored that "Skipper" Coffin already has the lead in the race for king. The coronation ceremony will take place at 10 o'clock the morning of Student-Faculty day. Miss Edna Hines Bynum and Professor Harold D. Meyer are chairmen of the Coronation committee and the Playmakers (Continued on page two)

Campus Vote Names Mollie Albritton As Maid-Of-Honor

Miss Olive Cruikshank will reign as queen of the University's fourth May day festival and Miss Mollie Albritton will attend her as maid-of-honor.

Members of the court elected yesterday in an all campus vote are: Misses Roberta Winton, Melville Corbett, Jane Hunter, Bernice Brantley, Helen Jacobs, Janet Lawrence and Miriam Durrett. Miss Ethel Laidlaw, Miss Lib Gammon and Miss Betty Redfern, candidates for queen and maid-of-honor, also become members of the court.

COURT MEETS TODAY

There will be a compulsory meeting of the entire court with Miss Betsy Jean Johnson today at 1:30 in the small lounge of Graham Memorial.

The queen and her court will be presented in a unique coronation ceremony on May 15, Miss Kathryn Fleming, president of Alpha Kappa Gamma, the honorary woman's fraternity which sponsors the annual pageant, announced yesterday.

DATE NAMED

The event will be held before the last tea dance of the Junior Seniors, and the court will be presented at either the tea dance or the dance that night.

Elaborate plans to make this May day attractive and unusual are being made about the plan of the pageant, "The Old South." Headed by Miss Kathryn Fleming and Miss Melville Corbett, members of the May day committee are Misses Barbara Burroughs, Mary Wood, Edna Hines Bynum, Mary Lewis, Helen Jacobs, Barbara Lipscomb, Sarah McLean, Betsy Jean Johnson, Mary Jane Yeatman, Ruth Parsons, Adele Austin and Martha Kelly.

PROFESSOR TALKS AT PEARSON RALLY

Over 800 Students Pack Swain Hall

Over 800 students filled Swain hall last night at a pep rally for Bill Pearson, independent candidate for president of the student body, smoking cigarettes, drinking punch, and swinging to the rhythms of Jeep Bennett and his orchestra. The students heard E. J. Woodhouse, main speaker of the evening, urge them "to run your own business. I am not telling you how to run your affairs," he continued, "but I am telling you to run your own affairs." (Continued on page three)

For Vice-President

Jack Fairley, University party nominee for vice-president of the student body, yesterday said he favored better explanation of the honor system to freshmen during Orientation week if elected to the office Thursday. Fairley is now serving on the Student council and in the Student legislature.

FAIRLEY FAVORS CLARIFICATION OF CAMPUS CODE

Candidate Declares Belief In Principles Of Legislation

Now serving on the Student council and in the Student legislature, where his duties would continue if he is elected, as vice-president of the student body, Jack Fairley, University party nominee, in a statement yesterday advocated better explanation of the Honor system to freshmen during Orientation week. At the same time he approved the "fundamental principles" of the Student legislature.

"I have noticed," he said, "that during the past year many of the cases brought before the Student council have involved freshman or transfer students who have misinterpreted or misunderstood the Honor system and the Campus code.

"This, I believe, could be remedied (Continued on page two)

SMITH FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON

Beloved Resident Was Well-Known

Funeral services for Captain Fred Coit Smith, 80, a familiar University village character, known to hundreds of University alumni as the Skipper of the "Carrboro Special," will be conducted by Rev. Frank K. Poole, pastor of the Chapel Hill Baptist church, assisted by Dr. O. T. Binkley of Wake Forest, at the chapel of the Baptist church this afternoon at 2:30.

Interment will follow in the village cemetery. Grave services will be performed by members of the North Carolina Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias and members of the local lodge.

Up until a short time before his death last Sunday Captain Smith had been active in social and religious affairs of the village, and his daily walks to the postoffice, two blocks from his cottage, were a series of greetings until he took his regular seat at the steps of the building.

A keen observer of college life, he was well-known to many generations of University students, and often recounted tales of the old days in the village.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ida Westcott Smith; a daughter, Mrs. J. Ralph Weaver of Chapel Hill; two sons, Fred C. Smith, Jr., of Wilmington and E. Westcott Smith of Durham; two brothers, Loren L. Smith of Detroit, Michigan, and Charles G. Smith of Goldsboro; 12 grandchildren, Mrs. C. S. Bartlett, Mrs. Carl E. Graetz, Miss Elizabeth Weaver, University junior, Miss Hilda Weaver, James R. Weaver, Jr., William R. Weaver, University senior, Max C. Weaver, and T. (Continued on page two)

Tar Heel Plans Election Party; Other Candidates Will Follow Frosh With Nominations Today

Meetings To Be In Memorial, Bingham And Phi Halls

Names of office-seekers already announced to the public through the DAILY TAR HEEL will officially enter the records this morning when student body and class officers are nominated in Memorial hall, Phi assembly hall, and Bingham hall.

The freshman class completed this formality yesterday in regular assembly, rival slates being advanced by the University and Student parties. Nominated were Bill Alexander (UP) and Bill Croom (SP) for president, Charles Reece (UP) and Pinky Elliot (SP) for vice-president, Ridley Whitaker (UP) and Bill McKinnon (SP) for secretary, Truman Hobbs (UP) and Alex Bonner (SP) for secretary, and W. T. Martin (UP) and Warren Mengel (SP) for Student council.

JOYNER TO PRESIDE

Student Body President Jim Joyner will preside in Memorial hall at 10:30 a. m. today as the University and Student parties made their nominations and independents are placed on the ticket. Thus far only two independents have announced, Bill Pearson for student body president, and Walt Kleeman for DAILY TAR HEEL editor.

At the same time, sophomores will meet in Phi assembly hall, New East, to nominate rising junior officers. President Hargrove Bowles will preside. With President Charlie Wood presiding, the rising seniors will meet in 103 Bingham to make nominations.

With the campaign thus officially set in motion, some of the candidates will have an opportunity to air their views from the platform of Memorial hall tomorrow at assembly period. Sec- (Continued on page two)

KIMBALL HOPES TO UNITE CLASS

Ex-Service Man Would Lower Fees

Student party nominee to the presidency of the rising junior class, Gates Kimball yesterday issued the following statement to the DAILY TAR HEEL: "If I am elected, I hope to unite the class of '41 by more social activities, and in the organization of class teams for competition with other classes and other schools. I am in favor of a reduction of junior class fees. If I am put into office, I intend to put all my energy toward furthering what I believe (Continued on page two)

Gives Platform

Gates Kimball, Carolina athlete and Student party nominee for president of the junior class, yesterday announced his program if elected, favoring a reduction in class fees and more class socials.

WILDER'S "OUR TOWN" OPENS AT THEATER TONIGHT

Harry Davis Has Lead; John Parker To Be Director

Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" will be produced for the first time by the Playmakers tonight at 8:30 in the Playmaker theater. Other performances will be given Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights.

This will be the first time that a non-professional group has produced the play, which is done without scenery and with the curtain always up. John Parker, Playmaker business manager, is directing the play.

The leading role, the "stage manager," will be played by Harry Davis, associate director of the Playmakers. Earl Wynn, technical director, has one of the leading roles in Dr. Gibbs, father of the hero of the play, George Gibbs, who will be portrayed by Don Muller on Boonton, N. J.

Other leading roles will be Dr. Gibbs' wife played by Miss Catherine Moran (Continued on page two)

Officials Believe It'll Be All Over By 8:30 O'clock

The DAILY TAR HEEL will hold its second annual "Election Party" Thursday night in the main lounge of Graham memorial while Student council members are tallying the votes of five automatic voting machines.

Sharply contrasting with the party last year, which lasted long after midnight, this year's affair should be over by 8:30 p.m. Election officials are expected to open the machines around 7 p.m., make necessary inspections, and tabulate the results.

Five machines will be in operation. Freshman, sophomore, and junior classes will have one machine each. They will vote for class and campus offices on the same machine. The remaining two automatic devices will be used by the present seniors, graduate students, law students, medical students, pharmacy students, and others, for voting on student body offices only.

Last year's election party offered one of the most colorful features of the elections. Large blackboards were placed in Graham Memorial lounge, which was crowded with anxious office-seekers and their friends.

About every 15 minutes, a runner from the student council counting room would bring in a few more results, which would be posted on the boards. Often during the night the leads would switch.

This year's affair may lack something of the drawn-out tenseness which characterized the last party, as automatic voting machines will lessen the time nervous candidates will have to (Continued on page two)

DAVIS RECEIVES ENDORSEMENTS

26 Campus Leaders Sign Statement

Leaders of nearly every student organization and class yesterday heartily endorsed Jim Davis for president of the student body. Davis, the nominee of both political parties, is opposed by Bill Pearson, independent.

The endorsers said in a statement: "We, the undersigned, having been closely affiliated with him for several years, and recognizing his ability, experience, and qualifications, do heartily endorse Jim Davis for the respon- (Continued on page two)

Croom Says He Will Support Move For Class Legislature

Rising Sophomore Candidate Gives Plans For Class

Bill Croom, candidate for presidency of the rising sophomore class, last night at a meeting of representatives from the quadrangle dormitories pledged himself to support a program of more representative class government.

Croom stated to the members of the group that he would do all in his power to strengthen the unity of the class of '42. His main point was the need of a group of students from the class to form a class legislature similar to the student legislature.

He stated that if the class could get together and forget party affiliations and minor frictions among the class members long enough to select ten conscientious, level headed boys who would represent the best interests of their dormitories and the class, this group would be the class legislature.

NO REPETITION

He cited the incident that happened concerning the dance and smoker this year and explained that with the proposed legislature there could never be a repetition of such a problem because all such events would have to be sanctioned by this group before they would become (Continued on page three)

For Class Legislature

Bill Croom, Student party candidate for president of the sophomore class, yesterday announced before a meeting of quadrangle-ites his plans if elected. Croom favored a class legislature, more class unity, an investigation into student fees. He is opposed for the office by Bill Alexander, UP.

Harmon Favors Edits For Average Student; Kleeman Gives Five-Point Campaign Stand

Would Feature Snapshot Section For Sunday Issues

Walter Kleeman, independent candidate for editorship of the DAILY TAR HEEL, yesterday announced a program featuring a snapshot picture section in the paper once a week, good editorials, a co-ed associate editor, and two columns devoted to co-ed sports and co-ed activities.

Kleeman's platform is as follows: 1. A snapshot picture section in the TAR HEEL once a week, showing events and people on the campus.

2. An IMPARTIAL TAR HEEL in the field of politics.

3. No editorials at all, unless they are good ones, or in other words, no more editorials just for the sake of writing editorials.

4. A fighting TAR HEEL that will take a stand, a definite position where such is needed to further the best interests of the campus as a whole.

5. Inasmuch as the co-eds at Carolina have been growing in numbers as well as stature in student activities, and feeling that they deserve more recognition in the DAILY TAR HEEL, I propose the following: A co-ed associate editor in charge of all co-ed stories, a co-ed activities column, and a co-ed sports column.

Walt Kleeman, rising senior, Sunday announced his candidacy for editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL, thus precipitating the first three-cornered race in the history of the campus daily. Kleeman will be opposed by Martin Harmon, staff nominee endorsed by the Student party, and DeWitt Barnett, University party aspirant.

Staff Nominee Will Take Strong Stand On Campus Issues

Martin Harmon, staff nominee for the DAILY TAR HEEL editorship, yesterday released a triangular program which he intends to follow if he is elected Thursday to head the campus daily.

With the official endorsement of two-thirds of the present staff, Harmon plans a strong editorial policy for the publication which he said would "serve to jell campus opinion."

The three-point plan includes the following divisions: THREE POINTS

1. A definite stand in all editorials. The DAILY TAR HEEL should serve to formulate as well as interpret campus opinion, for only by united action can the student body attain its objectives. This union cannot be achieved if, despite the convictions of the editorial board, the campus is constantly presented with a too carefully "balanced" argument on every issue.

2. Editorials written for the average student. Editorials should be simple and direct, not literary efforts clouded by philosophical ramblings.

3. Uncensored columns and uncensored news. EDIT EXPERIENCE Harmon, a journalism major, has served on the staff of the campus paper (Continued on page two)
