Candidates For Class Councils Are Named

NOMINATIONS ARE OFFICIAL WITHOUT SINGLE SURPRISE

Wants Class Action

Reddy Grubbs, nominee for president of the junior class on the University party ticket, has a campaign platform headed by a plank which would seek to stimulate interest in class activities.

REDFERN ELECTED TO HEAD SPENCER HALL NEXT YEAR

Coed Dorm Leader Is To Succeed Lillian Howell

Miss Helen Redfern was elected president of Spencer hall for next year at a meeting of the dormitory Monday night. She will represent Spencer hall on the Council of the Woman's association, preside at all house meetings and assist in any way possible in the conduct of the dormitory. Miss Redfern is from Raleigh and is a graduate of St. Mary's Junior college. She is majoring in Zoology.

1940 ORIENTATION

Her position is especially important because Spencer is predominately a junior dormitory and she will have great responsibility in the orientation of the new women students next year.

Miss Redfern will be not only a dormitory president but a member of the co-ed governing body which deals with all violations of the Honor code and has disciplinary powers to enforce the Campus code as it relates to the women students and the rules and regulations of the Woman's association.

She will succeed Miss Lillian Howell, one of the few coeds in the Commerce school. She is better known by many of the male visitors of the "Shack" as the "lass-who-politely-bids-you-goodnight" at curfew time.

11 Coeds, 3 Profs Remain In Race Following Primary

Final elections will be held today for the king and queen to reign over the Student-Faculty festivities on April 25. Polls will open at the YMCA at 10 o'clock and close at 5.

Results of the primary election yesterday leave the following 11 co-eds in the race for queen: Misses Mollie Albritton, Roberta Winton, Ethel Laidlaw, Lib Gammon, Miriam Durrett, Lucy Belle Eckles, Barbara Liscomb, Mary Wood Winslow, Mickey Warren, Pat Dickenson and Caroline Belser.

From this list the woman student receiving the highest number of votes today will become queen and the two next highest rivals will be maids of honor. (Pictures of the 11 girls will be (Continued on page two))

WORLEY STRESSES SENIOR FINANCES

UP Candidates Give Platform

Richard "Fish" Worley and his running mates on the University party ticket for senior class offices yesterday reiterated a platform previously announced and urged students who live in town to take part in the election tomorrow.

Worley, the presidential candidate, enumerated his six-point platform:

1. To foster some better method of budget passing than is now in use.
2. To set up an efficient and capable control over class expenditures, and of all matters concerning class fees.
3. Publication of all class transactions, and an efficient administration of all Student council regulations concerning class invitations, rings, etc.
4. A sincere effort towards determining the views of the entire class on class matters.
5. A worthwhile and whole-hearted participation of seniors in class affairs.
6. An attempt to steer class participation in affairs concerning the campus as a whole.

Worley and the others on his slate—Bill Blalock for vice-president, Gilly Nicholson for Student council, George Ralston for secretary, and Morris Rosenberg for treasurer—especially urged town students, whatever their class, to vote tomorrow.

SP Chairman Spikes Rumors About Davis

Mitchell Britt, chairman of the Student party, last night announced that contrary to any and all rumors floating about the campus he and the party "stand wholeheartedly in support of Jimmy Davis for presidency of the University student body." Statements to the contrary were becoming more prevalent daily, Britt said.

Senior Candidate

Richard "Fish" Worley, University party candidate for president of the rising senior class, who yesterday announced a six-point program for his campaign as well as that of his running mates. The platform includes a plank for better methods of handling class budgets.

PHARMACY SCHOOL PICKS 10 TO RUN AT HOWELL POLLS

NCPA Officers For Coming Year To Be Selected

General nominations were held in the Pharmacy school yesterday morning with the result that ten candidates were nominated for five offices in the general school of Pharmacy, and candidates for offices in the student branch of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical association. Elections will be held tomorrow in Howell hall.

NOMINEES

Nominated for the office of president of the school of Pharmacy were Henry Dillon and M. S. Hamer, while Miss Alta Jane Holden and Wriston Smith were nominated for the office of vice-president. Ed Royall and Ed Campbell were nominated for the position of representative to the Student legislature, Donald Plemmons and Alfred Costner were the nominees for representative on the Student council, and Leo Lorek was the sole nominee for the office of secretary-treasurer.

Groups To Elect Six Out Of 20 Nominees To Serve

Retiring class honor councilmen last night released the lists of candidates who will enter tomorrow's election race to succeed them.

Winning councilmen will be announced along with other campus balloting results at the DAILY TAR HEEL's "Election Party" scheduled to begin promptly at 7 o'clock tomorrow night in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

Each class council nominated 20 candidates to contest for the six positions. Nominees receiving the highest number of votes will compose the new honor council.

INCREASE CLASS INTEREST-GRUBBS

Junior Candidate Announces Program

Reddy Grubbs, nominee for president of the junior class on the University party ticket, announced a four-point platform yesterday, headed by a plank which would seek to stimulate interest in class activities by more class socials and more class meetings.

His complete platform follows:

1. Stimulate interest in class activities by:
 - (a) More class social activities.
 - (b) More class meetings.
 2. Democratic selection of committees.
 3. Careful supervision of expenditures.
 4. Support of student government.
- President of the University club and a member of the University Dance committee, Grubbs has a long record of executive training in high school and (Continued on page two)

Calls SP Rally

Vance Hobbs, Student party candidate for head cheerleader, who has announced an old-fashioned political rally for his party's forces tonight.

HOBBS CALLS SP POLITICAL RALLY FOR 8:15 TONIGHT

Party Set For Old Fashioned Session In Memorial Hall

A regular old fashioned political rally for the Student party tonight at 8:15 in Memorial hall was announced yesterday by Vance Hobbs, rally chairman and party candidate for Head cheerleader.

"There's been too much of this new-fangled publicity," said Hobbs. "We're going to give our supporters and the campus in general a rousing good time without a swing band or lolly-pops."

To lend atmosphere to the occasion Hobbs said that the rally would feature "speechifying" by the principal candidates, pep talks, placards, and peanuts and popcorn with a few balloons thrown in for good measure.

The rally is going to be short and sweet, according to Hobbs. All of the (Continued on page two)

Baseball Team Can Vote At 10:30 Today

Jim Joyner, president of the Student body, last night announced that some 10 members of the Carolina baseball team who will not be on the campus to cast their ballot tomorrow failed to vote with the rest of the squad yesterday. The players are urged to vote at 10:30 this morning in the Student council room on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

Dave Sessoms Now In Race For YMCA Vice-Presidency

With Student council members presiding, campaign speeches by candidates for major campus positions will be made at 10:30 this morning in Memorial hall. Speaking from the stage on the eve of their election battle, featured nominees will be Jim Davis and Bill Pearson, who are in the running for the 1939-40 presidency of the University student body.

Official nominations for all candidates in the political race were run off yesterday at 10:30 without a hitch, with only one previously unnamed candidate being nominated from the floor.

The nomination of Dave Sessoms for vice-presidency of the YMCA was made from the floor after Brooks Patten, this year's president of the organization, had nominated an entire slate of YMCA officers on behalf of the group.

Many of the candidates, weary from late campaign tours through the dormitories, were noticeably nervous until their names were put up from the floor, but relaxed after the nomination went through without surprises. JOYNER PRESIDING

The meeting for the nomination of all student body officers was presided over by Jim Joyner, president of the student body in Memorial hall. With only a few of the candidates and a scattering of their support present, the formal nominations were carried out in approximately 10 minutes. Joyner nearly forgot to call for YMCA nominations, but was checked by Patten before the meeting could be adjourned.

Class nominations, held at the same time but in separate places, were (Continued on page two)

NOMINEES CLEAR CAMPAIGN ERROR

Circulars Misquote Editorial Figures

Following the issuance of conflicting campaign material in the number of editorials written, an official check-up yesterday revealed that Dewitt Barnett, University party candidate in the three-way race for editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL, has had 64 edits while his opponent on an independent ticket has had 58 in print.

The check-up was made by Kleeman and Barnett themselves, who stated they had not intentionally misquoted the figures. Other tabulations on the circular headed "The Editorial Balance Sheet" were found to be correct.

During the combined spring quarters of this year and last, Barnett wrote 26 editorials to Kleeman's 18 while the latter nominee came back during the fall quarter to lead 33 to 22. Barnett lead last quarter by 16 to 7.
