Allen To Present Journalist's Viewpoint On Modern Politics

Kentuckian Speaks In Memorial Hall Tomorrow At 10:30

By TOM DEKKER
A journalist's viewpoint on the national and international trends in modern politics and government will be presented on the University campus tomorrow morning at 10:30 when Robert S. Allen, co-author with Drew Pearson of the syndicated "Washington Merry-Go-Round," speaks in Memorial hall.

The 39-year-old Kentuckian, who is appearing in Chapel Hill under the sponsorship of the Carolina Political Union, is scheduled to make a short prepared talk, devoting most of his time to an open forum discussion. Since Allen and his partner have a reputation for downright frankness, CPU Chairman Voit Gilmore said yesterday that pertinent comments on the political situation in the nation's capital and predictions for the 1940 presidential campaign are expected.

"Fleet" Williams, for many years Washington correspondent for the Raleigh News and Observer, will introduce the columnist.

A GO-GETTER
Robert Sharon Allen, who earns over $40,000 yearly for telling the rest of the nation the low-down on the capital, is a Washington balloon-buster known to tell government officials in choice, exact language just what he thinks. He shouts and roars at officials until someone gives him an exclusive. In his own words, he is always preparing "to cut somebody's heart out."

Editor of a newspaper while still in grade school, Allen financed his way through the University of Wisconsin by working on a paper. He roamed over Europe and studied at the University of Munich while a

LIFE MAGAZINE TO TAKE SHOTS OF "OUR TOWN"

Section To Feature Photos Mrs. Wooten Will Take Tonight

Life magazine will again feature the University and its activities when it runs a group of photographs of the audience, the performance, and close ups of the cast of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," Playmaker production which is being presented on the campus tonight, tomorrow night, and Saturday night.

A telegram from Life was received here yesterday requesting pictures by a reliable photographer of the performance. Mrs. Bayard Wooten will be at the presentation tonight to take exterior shots of the theater, close-ups of the performance, a rear view showing the audience and their reaction to the play, and close-ups of the cast and directors.

SOMETIME SOON

The pictures are to be in Life's office not later than April 20 and they will be featured in an issue in the near future. The pictures are to be used in a series with four other groups of amateur playmakers from other sections of the country.

The performance will begin at 8:30 in the Playmaker theater and tickets are now on sale at Ledbetter-Pickard's stationery store or at John Parker's office, 314 South Building. Student tickets will be fifty cents while all others will be seventy-five cents.

Exhibit Will Open In Person Today

The high school and college division of the second annual North Carolina school art exhibition opens today at 10 o'clock in Person hall art gallery with an exhibit of 66 pieces of work submitted by high schools and colleges throughout the state. Also included in the showing is a special 22-piece exhibit of work by students of Josef Albers, well-known American artist and teacher at Black Mountain college. Russell T. Smith, head of the art department, will give a gallery talk on the exhibition Sunday at 4 o'clock.

ILLUSTRATIONS

The exhibit contains illustrations, paintings in oil and watercolor, prints and sculpture. Subject matter of the pieces varies from ultra-modern abstractions to conservative landscapes.

YMCA Officers, Honor Councils To Be Selected

By DONALD BISHOP
Office-seekers who generally do no politicking—YMCA nominees and candidates for class honor councils—will have their names before the public today, as well as the old line politicians hankering for campus and class jobs.

The YMCA contest, somewhat of a Chinese crossword puzzle, will hold the center of the stage in this particular group of elections. John Bonner and Charles Putzel were put on the ticket for president and vice-president—second man automatically to take the back seat spot—but David Sessoms complicated the scene by running for vice-president. A senior YMCA nominating committee had drawn up the slate naming Bonner and Putzel.

YMCA NOMINEES

Others nominated for YMCA posts by the nominating committee and undisputed so far as the general public is concerned, were Tom Stanback and Tom Keys for secretary, and Syd Alexander and Joe Zaytoon for treasurer. The entire student body will vote in all YMCA elections.

Voters in each class will be faced by 20 names of men nominated by their class honor councils and the student council for next year's class Honor councils. Six of the 20 may be voted on in each class.

Those nominated for the senior hon-

MYSTERY SHROUDS CHOICE OF QUEEN AND ATTENDANTS

Committee Plans To Keep Close Guard Over Vote

By LOUISE JORDAN

Not until they appear in regal splendor for their coronation on the morning of April 25 will the identity of the king and queen of Student-Faculty day and of the queen's two maids of honor be revealed.

The complete freedom with which the returns from the primary election were counted in the anything but secret atmosphere surrounding the book exchange completely disappeared yesterday when the election committee checked the results of the final ballot.

CLOSE ATTENTION

Close attention to the direction many of the voters came from and took upon leaving the polls would have dispelled from many minds much of the speculation as to which faculty member would be elected king. Mystery, however, shrouds the choice of the queen and her attendants.

While Miss Edna Hines Bynum and Dr. Harold D. Meyer, co-chairmen of the coronation committee, measure the heads of the monarchs in secret, other plans for the festive occasion are being made that will increase the enjoyment of all. Elmer Nance and Walter Spearman have taken charge of the evening jamboree program as both Bob Magill and Dr. W. A. Olsen had to resign their positions on account of illness.

Chamber Ensemble To Give Concert

The Chamber Ensemble, a quartet composed of three graduate assistants in the music department and one high school student, will present a recital in the main lounge of Graham Memorial Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Members of the quartet are: David Bennett, flute; William Klensz, cello; Dale Sandifur, piano; and Truett Bennett, oboe.

The Sunday program will include compositions by two members of the Ensemble, Klensz and David Bennett, in addition to selections from Pergolesi, Couperin, Stringfield, and Rameau.

Don't forget to vote! It will not take but a minute!

Students Invited To Watch Returns In Student Union

With election signs in the form of campaign literature marking every building on the campus and deluging student residents, the chief interest of scores of politicians and some 3,000 University youths will be concentrated on the student union today and tonight. Tonight is included because the second annual DAILY TAR HEEL election party is scheduled to get under way at 7 o'clock.

Blackboards bearing the names of all candidates will be placed in the main lounge of Graham Memorial and balloting results will be posted immediately following the student council's tabulation of each office listed on the five automatic voting machines which are to be in operation.

NO TELEPHONING

The DAILY TAR HEEL, in cooperation with the student council, hereby issues a special invitation to all candidates and their friends to attend the party and watch the returns until the final tabulations are posted. The campus paper will not be able to give voting information on the telephone and those interested in the progress of the 1939 election are asked to drop by the lounge.

Students who attend the party are asked not to crowd around the black-

Elected

One candidate who doesn't have anything to worry about today is Allen Green, unopposed staff nominee for editor of the Carolina Magazine. In fact, Green has already taken over the duties of his job.
