Fifth Student-Faculty Celebration Tuesday

New Tar Heel Heads Take Over

Members of the DAILY TAR HEEL staff will gather tonight at 7:30 in Graham memorial for a banquet at which the new heads of the campus daily will take over. Martin Harmon, left, succeeds Allen Merrill as editor, and Morris Rosenberg, right, takes Will Arey's position as managing editor. Dr. W. A. Olsen will be toastmaster at the banquet.

April Marriages Of Former UNC Students Are Announced

Quinn-Privette And Dunn-Weaver Vows Recently Solemnized

Max Weaver, a former University student, and Miss Dorothy Swain Rivers of Plymouth were married in Durham at the home of Mrs. Maude Dunn April 8.

The bride attended the Durham Public schools and is employed with the Hospital Care association in Durham. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ralph Weaver of Chapel Hill. He is now connected with the Durham branch of the Durham Dairy Products company.

The couple is residing at an apartment on South Duke street, Durham.

QUINN-PRIVETTE

William G. Privette, II, a University graduate of 1936, and Miss Frances Quinn of Durham were married in St. Michael's church in Charleston, S. C., Saturday, April 15.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Quinn of Durham, formerly of Spartanburg, S. C. She is an alumna of Converse college. The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Privette of Chapel Hill, received his B.S. degree in chemical engineering three years ago.

The groom has been a cadet in the Naval Aviation corps for the past two years. Last Sunday, he received orders to return to the naval base in Norfolk.

Federation Prexy

Like father like son, it appears to be in the case of William Dees, University sophomore, who was recently elected president of the North Carolina Federation of Students. Dees' father, William Archer Dees, Sr., was president of his senior class, '11, a member of the Golden Fleece and Phi Beta Kappa, and prominent in other activities as an undergraduate.

GWEN PHARIS WINS DRAMATIC AWARD

$100 Prize Presented At Canadian Festival

Miss Gwen Pharis, holder of a Rockefeller fellowship in playwriting in the department of dramatic art, received the annual award of $100 for the best Canadian play produced at any regional festival held in Canada. The award was presented April 19 by the executive committee of the dominion drama festival.

Miss Pharis was presented the award for her play, "Still Stands The House," which was first produced by the Playmakers on March 3, 1938 and was repeated for the June commencement program last year. The play, a tragedy of the Canadian pairie, was written in Dr. Frederick H. Koch's playwriting course last year and was published in The Carolina Play-Book, June, 1938. It was produced by the Medicine Hat Little theatre at Alberta Dramatic festival on March 25.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Announcement of the award was made by the Governors of the Dominion drama festival of which Vincent Massey, brother of Raymond Massey, the actor, is president.

Early in March, Miss Pharis won the Gwilym Edward award of $25 for her one-act folk comedy, "Chris Axelson, Blacksmith" in an Alberta playwriting contest sponsored by the provincial dramatic festival. The play was also written and produced for the first time at Chapel Hill last year.

Miss Pharis who comes from Magrath, Alberta, Canada has been studying in the department of dramatic art for the past two years. She will receive her M. A. degree in that department at the University this spring.

Greensboro Bus Has Accident; No Injuries

Yesterday afternoon the bus from Greensboro, scheduled to arrive in Chapel Hill at 1:30, met with a slight accident about 20 miles outside the city limits. A large piece of lumber, which fell from a passing truck was the cause of the accident.

The front windshield and several of the side windows of the bus were shattered, the flying glass inflicting only slight scratches on several of the passengers. No serious injuries were reported.

After a new bus had been summoned to the scene, the trip was completed without further incident. The delay made the bus a half hour late in arriving.

HENDRIX, MARCH, CORPENING AND JENNINGS SHINE

One-Mile Relay Team Establishes 3:22.4 Fetzer Field Record

By LEONARD LOBRED

Digging their spikes deep into Fetzer field binders, Carolina's Southern conference track champions played havoc with the Duke track team and the record books as they buried the Blue Devils under a 78-53 count yesterday afternoon. The Tar Heels established four new records and tied another, and of these, three were new University marks.

To single out any race as the top performance of the day is unfair, because the record times of Boyce Jennings in the quarter, Bill Hendrix in the half, Bill Corpening in the high hurdles, Harry March in the low hurdles, and the one mile relay team of Jennings, Joe Russell, Dave Morrison and Hendrix are marks which probably won't be approached often this year.

Jennings' mark was the least expected yet the most spectacular. Boxed on the pole from the start in (Continued on page three)

Local Police Halt March Of Time

The March of Time was almost forced to mark time for awhile here Friday when its photographers were shooting South building for a forthcoming March of Time feature on the nation's number one economic problem—the South.

Driver Jack Glenn of the picture-taking crew parked his car between two "no parking" signs on Cameron avenue. When he prepared to leave, he found a ticket on the car ordering him to Chapel Hill court.

The big-time newsman decided otherwise, however. He leaped out of the auto, muttering his exasperation.

"What kind of police department have you got here? The crazy (censored) probably have never seen a press car." (The car was plainly marked PRESS.)

He dashed over to South building and called upon Miss Katharine Lackey to intervene for him. She wielded her influence on Policeman J. D. Blake, and the local officer told Glenn he would take care of the matter.

Glenn returned to his car, asserted "I taught them what P-R-E-S-S spells," and drove off with new ideas about the nation's number one problem.

Impersonators Will Parade At Variety Ball Tuesday Night

JAMES SPRUNT STUDIES REVIVED

Research Papers To Be Published

The James Sprunt historical studies have been revived recently under the joint sponsorship of the History and Political Science departments. Formerly a series of short monographs published from about 1900 to 1934, the studies are to be published twice a year as book-length pieces of original research in fields of interest to these departments.

The first study to come off the University press is entitled "The Presidential Election of 1824 in North Carolina," by Dr. A. R. Newsome, head of the history department. The next, by J. C. Sitterson, will be "The Secession Movement in North Carolina."

The James Sprunt historical studies are similar to those published by Johns Hopkins and Columbia university. The departments publishing them believe that they will increase the attractiveness of the graduate schools. The publication of scholarly studies and theses prepared by graduates will end the shelving of important manuscripts.

The University library will also gain (Continued on last page)

Prizes To Be Given For Best Costume In Each Of Four Groups

A parade of impersonations may be expected by anyone who attends the Variety ball being staged by the Order of the Grail Tuesday evening as part of the program for Student-Faculty Day.

Announcement of plans for the costume dance were released yesterday by Pudding Wales and Olive Cruikshank, Co-chairmen of Student-Faculty Day. Student Body President Jim Joyner and Alumni Secretary Maryon Saunders, as co-chairmen for the dance, arranged plans for the event.

Prizes in four general classifications of impersonations are planned. The classifications include: 1. Political figures; 2. Movie stars; 3. Fiction and literary characters; 4. An unclassified and unlimited group.

DUPLICATIONS
 Last year's costume dance produced several Hitlers, Mahatma Ghandis, and other ranking politicians. The contest of political impersonations this year may be expected to add to the Hitlers and Ghandis many Chamberlains, Mussolinis, Zogs, Queen Wilheminas, Wallies, etc. Chairman Joyner has suggested as first prize in this group a box of cigars although the competition of coeds may not make such a prize universally acceptable.

The movie star impersonations should have the effect of bringing Hollywood to Chapel Hill for next Tuesday evening, while the literary impersonations will give opportunity for studiously inclined persons to reincarnate their literary heroes and heroines.

The unclassified and unlimited group definitely will have its limitations according to the chairmen. The classification affords opportunity for originality in costume and is expected to be one of the best contests.

Plans to place interest in the four groups of exhibit during the dance have been made and all present will by the degree of applause select winners in each contest.

The Grail has taken the responsibility of staging the dance.

American Peace Is IRC Theme Over WPTF

This afternoon's International Relations club's broadcast over WPTF at 3 o'clock will be based on the subject "What Price Peace for America."

With John Kendrick presiding, two students, DeWitt Barnett and Dexter Freeman and University Professors Sitterson and Mowry will without scripts take part in an informal round-table discussion.

CORONATION SET FOR 10:30 IN MEMORIAL HALL

Identity Of Monarchs Remains A Mystery; Program Is Released

By LOUISE JORDAN

An all day holiday for everybody will be granted Tuesday in honor of the fifth annual celebration of Student-Faculty day. Mystery shrouds the gala occasion as the identity of the king and queen, who will preside over the festivities, has not yet been disclosed.

All Tuesday classes have been canceled, it was announced yesterday, but a fine of $2.50 per class will be levied against students cutting either tomorrow or Wednesday, in accordance with the usual rule concerning cuts before and after holidays.

Begun two years ago, the custom of choosing a faculty member as king and a coed as queen in an all campus election has attracted even more curiosity and attention this year because of the absolute secrecy surrounding the elections. Those in the know as to the results of the campus vote have maintained a strict silence, and the report is that Puddin Wales, co-chairman of the event, refused to hear the final returns to avoid the temptation of telling everybody else.

GLEAM

With a knowing gleam in their eyes, Edna Hines Bynum and Dr. Harold Meyers chairmen of the coronation committee, continue their plans with the assistance of the Playmakers, for an elaborate and original opening spectacle. The performance will be staged at 10:30 in Memorial Hall with costume, court and heraldry.

An hour later, faculty, fraternity men, and coeds are invited to the dormitory open-house plans for which are progressing under the direction of Felix Markham and Fred Weaver. The dormitories will be entirely open for inspection and a prize will be given for the best room on the campus. Two coed hostesses chosen for the women's dormitories will preside at each open-house.

LUNCH

Students will entertain the faculty members at luncheon at 1 o'clock. Jimmy Davis and Dr. H. K. Russell are in charge of the arrangements, and Reddy Grubbs and the University club have served as a clearing house for making dates. Any date made outside their bureau is not valid if the same faculty member has been granted to a student who has made arrangements with the bureau.

Marvin Allen and Herman Schnell are directing the recreational activities planned for the afternoon. From 2:30 until 4 o'clock the tennis courts will be open for all, but student-faculty matches will be given precedence. The pool will be open at the gym and horseshoe facilities will be available at Fetzer field. Four soft ball games have been scheduled which promise (Continued on page two)

Heads Association

Miss Melville Corbett, newly elected president of the Woman's association. Miss Corbett succeeds Miss Bill Malone, retiring president of the organization.
