'Cleopatra' Will Be Feature Of Glee Club Concert Tonight

Comic Operetta Is Revival Of Old, Old Story

Presentation of the comic operetta, "Cleopatra," and a group of two-part songs will feature the joint concert of the men's and women's glee clubs tonight at 8:30 in Hill Music hall.

According to Professor John E. Toms, the men's glee club's presentation of the operetta "is the best performance the club has given in my three years here." The club sang the operetta several times during the spring tour, and it was very favorably received each time. This is the first time the group has attempted to do such a thing.

COLD VAMPIRE

A modern version of an old story, "Cleopatra" deals with Cleo, the cold vampire, played by Paul Simkoe, who vamps the football hero Caesar, played by E. G. Shaw, and Anthony, played by Glen Starnes. The part of Pompey is played by Brooks Griffin, and Charles Phillips sings the part of King Tut. A highlight of the performance is the presentation of a chorus song and dance by the 35 members of the club.

The group of eight songs to be sung by the women's glee club will include the following: "God Our" (Continued on page 4, column 2)

KNIGHT SPEAKS TO ALABAMA PTA

Asserts Democracy, Education Linked

"The failure or success of democracy is reflected in the failure or success of education, and the failure or success of education appears in the failure or success of democracy," Dr. Edgar W. Knight, Kenan professor of education in the University, declared yesterday in an address before the annual meeting of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers in Montgomery.

"The democratic aspiration is the foundation of a really democratic school system," said Dr. Knight. "It asserts direction rather than destination, and means a way of life and living rather than the end of a journey."

Tracing the relationship of the modern educational system to the functions of a democracy, Dr. Knight said that the school must do more than transmit the culture in which it exists.

SOCIETAL WELFARE

"It must help to develop in individuals those qualities, capacities and dispositions that are commonly recognized as useful for the general societal welfare—independently thinking and acting individuals who see their noblest tasks in societal service," he continued. Dr. Knight said the aims of education in a modern democracy are essentially the same today as they were when the American republic was founded.

In response to the argument of many that changing conditions alter all educational processes, Dr. Knight pointed out that, regardless of social change, certain aspects of culture remain static, thus making it necessary that certain educational principles remain static.

NEW FEATURES OF SUMMER SESSION ARE ANNOUNCED

Instruction, Visitors, Dates Are In Catalog

A new plan of graduate instruction, dates, and visiting faculty members are announced in the new 1939 Summer Session catalogue of the University.

Advance reservations indicate that the enrollment for the two terms will exceed the 2600 of last summer, Director R. B. House has said.

The first term will open June 8 and end July 18 and the second term will be from July 19 through August 26.

FEATURES

Special features will include the 12th annual Parent-Teacher Institute, August 7-11; the 18th annual Coaching School for Athletic Directors and Coaches, August 14-26; the Professional Relations Institute beginning June 15; the Carolina Institute of International Relations, June 26-July 5; a Conference on Visual and Safety Education, July 6; the annual Southern Conference on Education, and a Conference on Rural Education, June 21-22.

Among a number of special courses to be offered are a six-weeks course (first term) in radio to be given by the Physics department; a six-weeks course in dramatic art for high school students, also during the first term; an All-State high school music course which will be open to high school band and orchestra players and members of high school choruses; and a teacher's training course in Creative Music Materials and Methods for Children, to be given under the direction of Mrs. Adeline McCall.

MUSIC ART

Special interest, it was pointed out, has been shown at this date in courses in music and dramatic art.

A new plan of graduate instruction will be inaugurated this summer. According to the Summer Session bulletin, candidates for the Master's degree with a major in education may follow one of two plans—the first requiring a reading knowledge of a modern foreign language, and the second (Continued on page 2, column 3)

Negro Congressman Praises University, Endorses Roosevelt

"The University of North Carolina is the most conducive of liberal thought of any school in the South," said Congressman Arthur W. Mitchell of Illinois, only Negro member of Congress, who recently completed a good will tour of southern states.

The congressman said North Carolina is one of the most progressive states in the Union, and that "development of common understanding is aided by the most liberal university in the country."

Mitchell has endorsed President Roosevelt for a third term "if he wants it." He said 15 important pivotal states will be controlled in the next election by Negro votes.

DECISION SETTLES CASE CONCERNING ELECTION LEAFLET

Students Found Guilty Of Campus Code Violation

A committee of eight faculty members yesterday upheld action of the student council in suspending a University senior and freshman charged with lying in connection with certain circumstances in recent campus elections.

The faculty group thus honored a tradition of complete acceptance of student government, which has been broken only once in the University's history since student government was inaugurated.

No further opportunity of appeal awaits the suspended students, and they are expected to leave school very soon.

The case is believed to have arisen from a handbill issued on election day, although the student council and the faculty have maintained their usual secrecy concerning suspensions. It has been reported that the students, when queried during elections, denied any knowledge of who issued the handbill.

The council then allegedly conducted an investigation and discovered that the two students were largely responsible for appearance of the handbill, whereupon the students were tried for violation of the campus code and found guilty.

Taking the only alternative left, the students appealed to the faculty for reinstatement. The group which refused the appeal was composed of W. C. George, chairman, and John W. Lasker, administration appointees; W. D. Perry and William Wells, appointed by request of the freshman; A. C. Howell and W. J. E. Crissey, appointed at request of the senior; and E. L. Mackie and C. P. Spruill, appointed by the Student council.

Seniors To Buy '39 Regalia

Seniors planning to buy the official senior regalia for Senior Week should go today or tomorrow to Jack Lipman's on East Franklin street to place orders and be measured, Class President Felix Markham said yesterday.

The official regalia is a linen blazer coat of Carolina blue. Price is $1.25, payable when the coats are delivered. Over the heart will be a "39" in white felt. The long-sleeve coat has two pockets.

Since the coats must be delivered before Senior Week, which begins May 8, Markham said it is absolutely necessary for seniors to place their orders today or tomorrow. Lipman said he would be in his establishment until 10 p.m. each night.

Student-Faculty Day Rulers

ANNUAL JAMBOREE FURNISHES FUN FOR CELEBRATION

Elizabeth Gammon, Roberta Winton Are Maids Of Honor

Mystery was unshrouded yesterday morning when Miss Molly Albritton of Hopkinsville, Ky., and Prof. J. P. Dobbins of the Chemistry department were united in an elaborate wedding ceremony performed in Memorial hall as the opening event of the fifth annual Student-Faculty festivities.

The bride, wearing a gown and veil of white tulle was given in marriage by Administration Dean R. B. House. Professor E. J. Woodhouse, last year's king, was the groom's best man.

Maids of honor who preceded the bride to the altar were Miss Lib Gammon of Charlotte and Miss Roberta Winton of Fort Worth, Texas, who wore blue and pink tulle dresses respectively. Bill Morgan, Playmaker from Roxboro, performed the ceremony and the train-bearers were little Misses Mary Ethel Ellington and Jane Basnight.

Minister Morgan concluded the marriage vows with "I hereby join student and professor together and what the student body has elected let no man put asunder." When the king and queen had been crowned Woodhouse asked for their requests and presented to them Prime Minister J. M. Booker who with his umbrella under his arm gave a report of the conditions of the empire. This now famous satire on University life included everything from a take-off on the Music department to a severe ribbing of the co-ed student body.

Attendants at the court were Dean F. F. Bradshaw and Professors W. M. Dey, Lee Brooks, R. E. Sharpe, Walter Spearman, Ed Cameron and J. M. Booker. Miss Averil Gentils of Montclair, N. J., and Damon Turner, Spanish instructor, burlesqued the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet.

The annual Jamboree furnished the entertainment of the day's activities. The originally scheduled seven acts were supplemented by two more skits. With the music of Freddy Johnson and Char- (Continued on page 4, column 5)

American College Youth Now Has Outlet For Its Opinions

STUDENTS WIN ALL BUT TWO EVENTS OVER PROFESSORS

Physical Education Faculty Takes Two Over Grail Clubmen

Students and faculty members unfolded their athletic prowess before the eyes of hundreds of cheering spectators yesterday afternoon in the athletic portion of the fifth annual student-faculty day celebration. Activity in the sport events was marred but not halted by April showers.

The physical education faculty produced the most outstanding accomplishment of the day in handing the Order of the Grail a double defeat in the first double-header of the season. The double win gives the Athletic Instructors a perfect record of four wins and no losses. In the first game the Instructors gained an easy 4-1 victory behind the three-hit pitching of "Doc" Siewert. The only Grail run came in the second inning as a result of Bill McCachren's long home run. Felix Markham obtained the only other hits nicked off the offerings of Siewert. Mullis pitched good ball for the losers but was touched for six hits, two by Siewert, and two by Barclay, and one by Dunham and Cornwell. The second game was a five-inning pitchers' duel between Coach Raymond Wolfe and Felix Markham, with Wolfe and the (Continued on page 2, column 3)

TAR HEEL Doing Its Part In Student Opinion Surveys; Methods Given

"It behooves . . . to allow youth to have its say . . . if we are going to keep ourselves ready to face the world of tomorrow," Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declared in a radio address not long ago. And today just that is happening, the DAILY TAR HEEL doing its part by publishing the week-by-week polls of the Student Opinion Surveys of America.

For the first time in the history of American democracy college youth now has a regularly-recurring sounding board for its opinions, which may well be said are the opinions that will mold the destinies of the future United States. The scientific sampling referenda of the Student Opinion Surveys are presenting a composite picture of campus thinking—and for the first time actually represent all collegians of the country, because all types of students are included in the carefully-selected cross-section.

KEY INSTITUTIONS

At regular intervals ballots from the Surveys headquarters at the University of Texas reach eighty-five key institutions in every part of the nation. Staff interviewers go into dormitories, boarding houses, lounges, halls, and ask series of questions that have been pre-tested for their neutral wording. Within a week returns begin to come back to Austin and electrical machines are tabulating the returns, which are then summarized and mailed back to the DAILY TAR HEEL and other member publications. Nearly 3,000 mathematically-distributed ballots are used in each pool, which statistically provide an adequate sample of the entire student enrollment. Methods used are identical to those of the (Continued on page 4, column 1)

Coronet Publishes Article About Professor Cameron

Dr. Frank K. Cameron of the University Chemistry department attained nation-wide publicity in the May issue of Coronet for a "contribution which may alleviate US's Number One Economic problem, the impoverished South." This magazine contributes two pages of A Portfolio of Personalities to his photograph and outstanding works.

Dr. Cameron discovered that a source of rayon may be obtained by harvesting the whole cotton plant, and he believes that this method will lead to the recovery of the sick cotton industry within two years. Coronet describes his system as "the processing of alpha-cellulose from the entire cotton plant (with everything but the roots utilized). It is found that this type of cellulose is superior to that now obtained.

BRADSHAW HEADS YOUTH SURVEY

WPA Appropriates $20,000 For Project

Dean Francis F. Bradshaw has been appointed director of a state-wide survey of North Carolina youth and will supervise the spending of a WPA appropriation of $20,000 in making a complete canvas of conditions among the youth of the state, it was announced yesterday.

The study will be divided into two parts, one among college students and the other among non-college students. The University will be used as a ground for studying college students while non-college students will be canvassed in different parts of the state.

A staff of 50 will make all reports to Dean Bradshaw and tabulations of the results will be computed here. Only summaries of the survey will be published, it was announced.

ASSISTANCE

Assisting in the survey will be the North Carolina College conference, the state council of Youth Serving Agencies, the state employment service, the NYA, and the University testing service. The general education board will aid in the publication of a general report for the state.

Dean Bradshaw said that the idea for the general youth survey was conceived after a study of high school seniors was made last year under the auspices of the North Carolina College conference and the NYA. Believing that a further investigation into the present conditions existing among older students would be of value, it was decided to conduct this canvas, he said.
