Round Table Discussion To Deal With American Defense

IRC Will Present Students And Profs This Afternoon

The University of North Carolina Round table goes on the air again this afternoon as the topic, "American Defense" is discussed. These broadcasts are a weekly feature of the International Relations club and have been held since September. The time of the broadcasts has been changed from three o'clock to 2:15 and will continue until 2:45.

Henry Nigrelli, president of the club will preside and those participating are Dr. C. B. Robson of the political science department, Dr. G. E. Mowry, of the social science department, Lee Wiggins and Ann Martin, student members of the club.

HEARD IN THREE STATES

The broadcasts are heard in three states: North Carolina, Virginia and South Carolina and have received considerable attention. It is hoped that by next year the broadcasts will be a weekly presentation over the en-

CHRISTIAN GROUP WILL GATHER IN GREENSBORO

Dr. George Thomas To Lead Conference At First Meeting

More than 150 student delegates representing 20 institutions of higher education in this state are scheduled to attend the inaugural meeting of the newly formed Student Christian Movement of North Carolina at Bennett College in Greensboro this morning.

Dr. George F. Thomas, professor of philosophy here and leader of the conference, will give two addresses at the meeting on the general subject, "The Meaning and Necessity of the Christian Choice."

The problems and responsibilities of student Christian leadership will be the topic considered by several discussion groups to be formed during the morning. Other business of the meeting will include the election of officers and the ratification of the constitution. The conference will convene at 9 o'clock and adjourn at 4 this afternoon.

GRAHAM RETURNS FROM UNIVERSITY OF PUERTO RICO

Back After Tour Of Island School And Visit To Annapolis

Dr. Frank P. Graham returned yesterday after an absence of three weeks, during which time he served on a committee appointed by President Roosevelt to inspect the University of Puerto Rico and present a report on the possibilities of making the institution a Pan-American university. He was also a member of a board of visitors appointed by the president, which made an annual tour of the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Headed by Dr. Isaiah Bowmans, president of Johns Hopkins university, the committee included President Cranford, of the University of Hawaii, Dr. Alvin Johnson, director of the New School for Social Research, and Dr. Graham. The committee spent 18 days inspecting the University of Puerto Rico and upon their return, the members submitted a report to the president on the possibilities of making it a Pan-American university for students of North and South America.

Upon his return, Dr. Graham, along with presidents of four other universities, six senators, and six representatives, made a three-day inspection tour of Annapolis. An annual affair, the tour is made each year by men named by the President, the vice-president, and the speaker of the House.

While in Washington, Dr. Graham also attended a conference on Children and Youth, for one day. When asked whether he is here to stay for awhile, the president replied that he will be here until August, except for making a few commencement addresses at various schools.

Senior Regalia

Caps and gowns measurements will be taken tomorrow on the YMCA mezzanine at the following times: 8:30-9:30, chapel period, and 4:00-5:00. A fee of $1.60 will be charged.

All seniors expecting degrees at graduation this spring should attend to this matter immediately.

New Alumni Officers

Pictured above are three of the new officers of the General Alumni Association of the University of North Carolina who were recently elected in a mail ballot.

Left to right, they are Charles W. Tillett of Charlotte who succeeds Former Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus of Raleigh as president; Fred I. Sutton of Kinston, who succeeds T. C. Boushall of Richmond as first vice-president, and W. A. Blount of New York City who succeeds Dr. Roy B. McKnight of Charlotte as second vice-president.

Student Interest Stirred As 'Prof' Poll Continues

RADMAN PITCHES SAFE BALL IN FIRST HOME START

Topkins, Jennings And Stirnweiss Are Standout Hitters

By SHELLEY ROLFE

Wisely reasoning that their mid-season hitting slump had gone about far enough and realizing they were getting elegant pitching from George Radman who was making his first home start, the Tar Heels rose up at Emerson field yesterday afternoon and swatted Virginia, 16-4, making 19 hits including four home runs and two doubles against two Virginia pitchers who at times seemed utterly hopeless.

With Matty Topkins leading the charge, Carolina wasted little time or motion in getting into the scoring column and once they started making runs they continued manufacturing them in wholesale lots, scoring in every inning except the sixth when they ran down after pushing over five tallies in the fifth. The Tar Heels made three in the first to greet Joe Pinder, then picked up single tallies in the second, third

Tar Heel Plans To Publish Outcome of Instructor Rating By The Middle Of This Week

The professor poll goes into its fourth day today without any serious repercussions and with gratifying results. It is reported that one professor lectured for 45 minutes on the worth of the poll and considered it to be one of the biggest things to hit the campus in a long time. No reports have been heard from the other side.

The dormitories and fraternities are being canvassed as quickly as possible, and if you haven't been approached yet, just have a little patience till the DAILY TAR HEEL reporter comes around. It is hoped that all the questionnaires will be answered by tomorrow so that tabulation of returns may begin Thursday.

So far, the A's and B's are exceeding the F's which should serve to allay fears in some quarters. All the returns handed in to date indicate a serious attitude on the part of the students rating the professors, and also seems to reveal that they realize that any spiteful or facetious grades would result in an injustice to members of the faculty.

DAILY TAR HEEL representatives will begin collecting the poll sheets from each dormitory and fraternity tomorrow. Students are urged to make out their grades for their professors as soon as possible so that the results may be tabulated soon.

Ellis Back With New Display Of Indian Oddities

Traveller Shows Collection In Small Lounge Of Graham Memorial Beginning Tomorrow

Joseph Ellis, traveler in the Orient, will display a collection representative of native life in Java, Borneo, Singapore, and the Dutch East Indies in the small lounge of Graham Memorial beginning tomorrow and continuing throughout the remainder of the week.

The display will include native weapons, wood carvings, brass engravings, pottery, and other Oriental materials. Among the unusual specimens he will show are two twin monkeys preserved in alcohol; several sarongs, improvised Java skirts, which Dorothy Lamour made famous in "Hurricane"; skin of a python; a stuffed marmaze, called a golden lion in this country; and several leopard and tiger skins.

Although born in Bagdad, Ellis was educated in American schools in Singapore. In 1932, he graduated from Duke University, with an A.B. degree. Since his graduation from college, he has traveled throughout the Orient, living with the natives and making a study of animal life in Borneo, the Dutch East Indies, and Java.

He has lived in many parts of America and the Far East, but is residing in Durham at the present time. In the course of obtaining his education, Ellis has attended Dickinson Seminary in Williamsport, Pennsylvania; Lawrence College in Appleton, Wisconsin; and finally Duke.

Women Students Now Assured Of Position As Integral Part Of University

By GLADYS BEST TRIPP

The first coeds to enter the University—almost half a century ago—sat behind screens in the classrooms, that the boys might keep their minds and eyes on their work.

Last year a coed was elected to the presidency of the Di society, and although the event smashed a precedent of a century and a half, it caused scarcely a ripple of excitement among the students.

The about-face change in attitude toward the Carolina coed did not come overnight—it has been a long, hard struggle, but nevertheless it has come and undoubtedly is here to stay. For women students are now cordially received on the campus.

Although by 1868 the University executive committee had declared itself in favor of co-education, the trustees shook their heads in horrified disapproval. Carolina was for the future leaders of North Carolina, and those leaders were to be men.

ALDERMAN LEADS

So it was not until 1897 that a far-seeing University president, Dr. E. A. Alderman, convinced the board of trustees that women students should be admitted for post-graduate work. "Post graduate" was a clever adjective inserted by Dr. Alderman. As soon as the ordinance was passed he immediately interpreted it to mean that graduates of any woman's college in North Carolina should be admitted to

UNC Will Furnish Refuge For Germans

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS MEET IS SCHEDULED

Institute Set For June 26-July 5, Grumman To Direct

Bringing a faculty of ten persons well-informed on world affairs and an estimated 150 outside students to the campus, the Carolina Institute of International Relations will meet here June 26 through July 5, as announced yesterday by R. M. Grumman, director of the institute and head of the extension division.

The ten men and women who will lecture and lead discussions on topics concerning international affairs include Wilhelm Sollman, former minister of the interior; T. Z. Koo, secretary of the World Student Christian Federation; Dean Albert Russell, of Duke university; Henri Rolin, vice-president of the International Federation of League of Nations Societies; Keener C. Frazer, professor of political science at the University; Walter W. Van Kirk, secretary of the National Peace conference; Dorothy Detzer, secretary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom; Clarence E. Piclett, executive secretary of American Friends Service committee; and Frau Helene Scheurries, author of "Vienna."

SPEAKERS' TOPICS

The speakers' topics will include discussions of present conditions existing in Europe, the conflict in the Orient, American Naval and military policies, and world organization.

TOWN WILL HOLD ELECTION TUESDAY

Five Local Offices Are To Be Filled

Chapel Hill will hold its two-year election of municipal officers at the town hall Tuesday from 8 to 6:53.

Andrew C. McIntosh is opposed for judge of the recorder's court. Mr. McIntosh, a native of Durham, and his family have been living here since June, 1938. He was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1927, and received his LL.B. degree from the University law school in 1929.

Clarence Pickard, partner in the firm of Ledbetter-Pickard of Chapel Hill, is opposing the present mayor, John M. Foushee, who is running again.

Five candidates are listed for the three places to be filled on the board of aldermen. Three present members, P. L. Burch, R. J. M. Hobbs and R. W. Madry, are standing for re-election. Two other candidates for the board are R. W. Linker and Judge L. J. Phipps.

J. B. Hocutt, registrar, is the chief election officer. E. W. Neville and V. A. Hill are election judges. The voting booths will be placed in the fire department quarters.

Graduates Marry In New York

Miss Ramona Carmen Teijeiro of New York and James Manly Daniel of Lexington, both graduates of the University in 1937, were married in New York Saturday, April 15.

The bride was a popular student here, and worked on the Carolina Magazine her junior and senior years.

The groom was editor of the Carolina magazine his senior year. He was vice-president of his junior class, treasurer of the Publications Union board his sophomore year, a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Sigma.

For the past two years, Daniel has been connected with the staff of the News and Observer in Raleigh.

The couple will make their home in Raleigh.

Groups Cooperating To Gain Support For Six Jewish Students

Paralleling the action of 170 universities and colleges over the nation, a campus committee composed of a representative from each of five campus organizations has met to lay plans for having this student body and faculty "adopt" six German refugee students for next year.

Approximately $480 is the lowest possible amount necessary to take care of one student for a year. The International Federation of colleges will provide traveling expenses for these students to Chapel Hill.

To aid six students the committee considers $1800 sufficient. The two Jewish fraternities on the campus have promised to provide board and room for two of the refugees, and the Hillel group has raised $200.00, which cover the expenses of one. The Group thinks it will be able to raise an additional $200.00.

$1400 NEEDED

This leaves at least $1400 to be raised from the campus. The committee considers the following organizations as the logical ones to be depended upon to raise this fund: class funds, Interfraternity council, Interdormitory council, Graham Memorial, YMCA, YWCA, Hillel, Monogram club, Di senate, Phi assembly, Woman's association, University faculty, and the Grail.

Campaigning among the dormitory and fraternity men will probably be started in order to make each student feel that he was making a direct contribution to the cause, and the various campus clubs may take part by making small pledges. The committee believes that if all sources cooperate and contribute something, the $1400.00 will easily be raised.

Harvard, caring for 20 refugees; Chicago, 10; Yale, 10; Texas, 10; and Columbia, 10, are a few of the 170 colleges and universities that are carrying out similar work. In North Carolina Duke, Greensboro College, Wake Forest, WCUNC, State, and St. Mary's are cooperating.

On the student committee are John Bonner, chairman; Miss Mary Ann Koonce; Miss Janet Messenger; Studie Ficklen; Tom Keys; and Sid Schochet. The faculty committee, which will administer funds to the refugees, is composed of D. D. Carroll; chairman; F. H. Edmister, treasurer; Mrs. A. T. Bonnell, secretary; H. F. Comer; H. D. Meyer; Miss Mary Henderson; E. M. Bernstein; and R. J. M. Hobbs.

TOMS IN RECITAL WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Concert To Be Given In Hill Music Hall

Professor John E. Toms of the University music department will present a recital at 8:30 Wednesday night in Hill hall.

This is Toms' third year in charge of vocal music here, being director of both the men's and women's glee clubs and of the Chapel Hill Choral club. While here, he has sung several recitals and has directed the glee clubs in a number of concerts. He recently studied with Edgar Schofield in New York.

During the month of April, Toms has sung five oratorios at various places in the state and one in South Carolina. He sang "Stabat Mater" by Rossini at the Centenary Methodist church in Winston-Salem, "Seven Last Words of Our Lord on the Cross" by Dubois at the Home Moravian church also in Winston-Salem, "Redemption" by Gounod at the Temple Baptist church in Durham, "The Passion According to St. Matthew" by Bach at Charleston for the Oratorical society, and at both Wake Forest and Meredith, he sang Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise." This summer, Toms has an engagement to sing a recital at Duke university on the summer artists' course.

Toms will be accompanied on the piano by Herbert Livingston. The program will be announced later.

Beginning 42 Years Ago, Coeds Have Gained Much In Seeking Recognition At Carolina

Then A Young Lady With Much Nerve

Shown above among a group of then none-too-pleased men students, is the former Miss Mary McRae (now Mrs. R. S. Gray of Raleigh), one of the first coeds at the University.
