

Wednesday Is Junior-Senior Day In Senior Week Festivities

Student Committee Petitions Faculty For Quizless Week

In further plans for Senior Week released by Chairman Allen Truex yesterday, next Wednesday is set aside for Junior-Senior day. Along with the announcement came the following statement: "We the undersigned, in behalf of the senior class, do hereby petition the faculty for a quizless Senior Week. Thanking you in advance for your kind consideration of this request, we are, sincerely yours, (signed) President Felix Markham, Chairman Allen Truex, Bill Innes, Wills Hancock, Voit Gilmore, Will Arey, Bill McCachren, Jane Hunter, and Paul Thompson."

Members of the Senior Week committee who made the request along with Thompson, chairman of the dance committee, feel that there will be more cooperation and a better turn-out for the May 8 to 14 festivities if the class is not required to spend extra out-of-class hours preparing for quizzes.

Daily additions are also being made for Tuesday night's "Saddle Shoe Stomp," the latest being plans for a fireworks display.

Wednesday's activities will open at 4 o'clock in the afternoon with a baseball game between the junior and senior classes followed by what is expected to be the highlight of the day, the Junior-Senior stunt night in Memorial hall at 8 p.m. Vance "Guinea" Hobbs will be master of ceremonies at the event and music is to be furnished by Jeep Bennett and his orchestra.

She has also acted in many experimental and public bills while at the University.

During her past two years at the University, Miss Malone's activities have not been confined to dramatics alone. She has distinguished herself as president of the Woman's association, hostess of Graham memorial, and also hostess for many social functions on the campus.

BOARD APPOINTS LARRY FERLING CIRCULATION HEAD

Budget Estimates Will Be Considered At Next Meeting

Larry Ferling, University sophomore, was chosen circulation manager of the DAILY TAR HEEL, Carolina Buccaneer, and Carolina Magazine by the Publications Union board at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon. He will succeed Jesse Lewis beginning next September.

Ferling has served this year as assistant to Lewis, who held the position four years. Last year he was a member of the news staff of the DAILY TAR HEEL.

The board made the award to Ferling on the basis of his low bid for the contract and of his experience in circulation work. Previous to his service at the University he has worked for numerous newspapers in Bronxville, N. Y., and for several school publications.

Lewis will continue as manager the remainder of this year to clear up accounts and turn over his affairs to his successor.

At the next meeting the board will receive budget estimates from the publication editors and managing editors.

Faculty Schooling In Honor System Is Also Suggested

Investigation into freedom permitted editors of the Carolina Magazine and the Buccaneer was recommended by the faculty executive committee in a report submitted Wednesday to the general faculty committee, it was learned yesterday.

The report did not propose censorship of either of the publications, but did urge an investigation into present policy.

COUNCIL CONTINUITY

Other suggestions in the report included a recommendation that new instructors and professors be schooled in the working details of the honor system, and that there be an improved method of continuity in the student council.

All reports were accepted by the faculty committee but no action was taken.

Criticism of the Buccaneer has arisen several times this year, although a student council committee appointed to investigate the humor magazine failed to recommend any changes.

ADVISORY BOARD

During a period of attack from several Chapel Hill religious leaders, Dean of Students F. F. Bradshaw suggested that a representative student board be set up to read copy submitted to the magazine and act in an advisory capacity to the editor.

Concerning the proposal for improved continuity in the student council, the report said that several members should be carried over from one year to the next to aid the new council in its work.

Dance By Court Will Be Feature May Day Event

The outstanding feature of May Day, which is to be celebrated May 13, will be a dance by the queen's 11 attendants.

The court dance, which is a unique addition to the customary May Day program, will give the twelve beauties elected by the student body an opportunity to prove their claims to grace as well as pulchritude. Miss Melville Corbett, junior chairman of the May Day committee, said today, "Our aim is to present something absolutely new in the way of a May Day program. We promise that the rest of the celebration will be as novel as the introduction of a court dance."

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

The Girls' Glee club will appear in black-face and costumes appropriate to the "Old South" theme of the pageant. Their old southern songs will complete the colonial atmosphere.

Members of the court are Miss Olive Cruikshank, queen; Miss Molly Albritton, maid-of-honor; and Misses Roberta Winton, Elizabeth Gammon, Helen Jacobs, Betty Redfern, Ethel Laidlaw, Miriam Durrett, Bernice Brantley, Melville Corbett, Janet Lawrence and Jane Hunter.

Following the May Day program the queen and her court will be presented at the Junior-Senior tea dance.

May Day, which is sponsored by Alpha Kappa Gamma, is put on annually by the women of the University.

Community Club

The Chapel Hill Community club will meet this afternoon at 3:30 at the Parish house. There will be an important business meeting followed by a garden party.
