

Baby Chicks Are Surprise Gift For Spencer Girl

The girls in the "Shack" have a habit of asking anyone who's going out of town to "bring me a surprise." And they often get shocked.

But, nevertheless, persons other than the girls are surprised, too.

Other day, Helen Redfern, who's Shack president, called the request as Melville Corbett, woman's association head, was leaving for a trip to Durham.

When Helen entered her room that night, she found pecking around the floor two, downy baby chicks, the gift of Melville. Helen kept them a couple of days. The biddies followed second floor residents all around the halls.

But Mrs. Lee heard about the young fowls and called one on Helen. Mrs. Lee, whose heart is not composed of matter which would incline her to push little biddies into a creek, said she was sorry but that Spencer hall shouldn't be turned into a poultry farm.

So Helen and her friends had to part with the birds. She gave them to Irene, the colored maid, who promised to treat them "real good."

FLYING GROUP TO MEET TODAY IN BINGHAM HALL

Men Interested Will Hear Talk By Parkinson

Students, interested in enrolling in the aviation courses now being offered at State college are asked to meet in room 103 Bingham hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Professor Parkinson of State college will address the group on the possibilities of enrolling in the course and will answer any questions students may ask him about the entire program.

Members of the University administration have been communicating with officials of State college in Raleigh for the past week and this afternoon's meeting will be the first definite step taken to enroll in the courses, most of which will be offered in Raleigh.

It is possible that some courses may be taught here if the plan goes through but actual flight training will be given at the flying field in Raleigh.

Requirements for admission to the course include a fee of $40.00 to cover preliminary examinations and insurance and it has been announced that no student will be allowed to enroll in the course without the written consent of his parents. All students will be expected to provide their own transportation between Chapel Hill and the flying field.

Whether or not the course will be available to students here will depend largely on the number interested, Dean House said. If only a small number of applications is received it is doubtful whether or not presentation of the course will be practical.

Descendant Of University's First Student Now Enrolled

Chauncey Broome, Freshman, Is Great-Grandson Of Hinton James

By ARTHUR S. LINK

Chauncey Broome, freshman, holds the honor of being the great-grandson of the first student to register at the University.

It was the year 1795 that the University opened its doors to students. A tired, straggling lad walked into the small village of Chapel Hill. He was Hinton James, Broome's ancestor, who had walked from Wilmington to Chapel Hill and who was the University's first student.

The roads that James travelled, if they may be called roads, had been dusty and rocky. His feet were numbed with pain for the journey had been long and hard.

The sight that greeted his eyes when he first looked upon Chapel Hill and the University must have been strange to him. He saw a few buildings set amidst an immense forest of pines and oaks. But, small though the University (Continued on page 2, column 3)

HOBBS TO LEAD GIGANTIC RALLY TOMORROW NIGHT

Jenkins, Garland, Warren Appointed Rameses' Custodians

A gigantic rally was organized for tomorrow night, and Rameses, Carolina's "battering" ram mascot, was assigned his custodians at the Tuesday night meeting of the University club, it was announced yesterday. Cheerleader Vance Hobbs, cooperating with Club President Reddy Grubbs, will act as director of the rally.

Chunk Jenkins, Jiek Garland, and Miss Mickey Warren will take charge of Rameses at Saturday's football game with Citadel. The coed guardian will be changed at every game, a new girl assuming the post each time. Jenkins and Garland, however, will retain their positions throughout the season.

COUNCIL OF WAR

At a meeting of the Interdormitory and Interfraternity councils, and the University club tonight at 7:30 in Gerrard hall, plans will be laid to introduce freshmen to the Carolina spirit and bolster morale for the Citadel game.

Hobbs, who will lead the festivities, last night said that he expected "at least two-thirds of the student body to attend the rally."

Committees for the rally are: Location, Bill Broadfoot; Interfraternity council, Bill Brunner; Public address system; Bill Brunner, Noel Woodhouse and Louis Gaylord, Interdormitory council, Joe Welburn, and Chunk Jenkins; Parade, University club officers; and Bellringing, Ben Heath.

Lee Wiggins Calls Initial Meeting Of Student Union

The American Student Union will hold its first meeting of the year this evening at 7:30 P.M. in room 212 of Graham Memorial, President Lee M. Wiggins announced today. The purpose of the meeting will be to lay plans for a definite program for the present school year. All students who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

Chief problem to be discussed is that of American neutrality in relation to the present European and Far Eastern Wars. A report on proposed congressional neutrality legislation will be presented by M. M. Malkin, secretary. Other current campus and national problems will also be considered.

The ASU is an independent non-partisan organization of American college and high school students interested in "making the American Campus a genuine Fortress of Democracy." Concerning these efforts, President Roosevelt, in a letter to Joseph P. Lash, national secretary of the ASU, recently said: "The freshness of point of view of youth should make your discussions especially valuable not only to the youth of the country but to the country as a whole."

PU BOARD TO BUY NEW TYPEWRITERS

An allotment of funds for two new and two reconditioned typewriters for the DAILY TAR HEEL office was made by the Publications union board yesterday.

Passage of the budgets of the four campus publications, the DAILY TAR HEEL, the Yackety Yack, the Carolina Magazine, and the Buccaneer, was deferred until next week. Reason for the delay was the improper technical statements in the financial programs. It was pointed out, however, that several phases of all budgets have already been passed.

Business Manager Bert Halperin of the Yackety Yack was granted $3.50 for posters urging juniors and seniors to have their yearbook pictures taken. The board will meet again tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock with the special committee recently appointed by J.M. Davis to investigate student fees.

Lemonade, Cakes Cause Near Fight Between Di, Phi

The ancient rivalry of the Di's and the Phi's was restored briefly Tuesday night, all over 10 gallons of lemonade and a few dozen sweet-cakes.

Planning a social event in connection with their first meeting of the year, the Di's ordered the lemonade and cookies from Swain Hall. But just before meeting time Tuesday night, representatives of the Phi assembly called for the refreshments. So when the gentlemen of the Di arrived, there were no lemonade and cookies on hand.

It appeared for awhile that the old feud might be revived on a permanent basis, but the dining hall management hurriedly mixed up some punch and saved the day.

GROUP PLANNING RADIO COURSE

Will Meet Sunday Night At Theater

Plans for courses in radio script writing, radio management and radio newscasting will be discussed at a meeting Sunday evening, September 24, at 7:30 in the Playmakers' Theater under the direction of the dramatic art department in collaboration with the journalism department.

Members of the committee interested in launching the radio course include Dr. Frederick H. Koch, Playwright Paul Green and Voice Instructor Earl Wynn of the dramatic art department, Phillips Russell and Walter Spearman of the journalism department, Russell M. Grumman and Dr. Ralph McDonald of the University extension division, and Dr. J. O. Bailey of the English department.

All faculty members or students interested in doing any variety or radio work, including script writing, dramatizations, musical arrangements, technical management, program directing or newscasting, are invited to attend the Sunday evening meeting, to participate in the discussion and to enroll for the course.

GREEN WILL TALK

Dr. Koch will preside at the meeting. Paul Green will explain plans for the course and discuss the art of writing for the radio. Professors Russell and Spearman will discuss the journalistic phase of radio and Dr. McDonald and Mr. Grumman will stress the tie-up of radio work with extension activities throughout the state.

No University credit will be given for work done in the radio course during the fall quarter, but faculty members of the two departments hope that after the course has been set up on a working basis such credit can be secured.

Plans are also under way for securing a University radio studio and hook-ups with several radio stations as an outlet for work of the class.

IRC Plans Regular Broadcasting Over State-wide Hook-up

Last night at the meeting of the International Relations club Walter Kleeman, president, announced that the club will be broadcasting probably weekly, over WRAL by September 24. Since this includes Salisbury, Winston-Salem, Charlotte, and Raleigh, it will give a state-wide coverage. President Kleeman left the meeting early to make final arrangements with the officials of MBS.

New members will be admitted to the club in two weeks. The present limit of 60 may be increased because of the activity anticipated during the Southeastern International Relations conference. The club will not set membership fees until after a report from the budget committee.

A motion recommending that members of last year who will be unable to take an active part in the program be made associate members was defeated by an overwhelming majority. Wednesday night at 8 o'clock will be the regular meeting time for the remainder of the year, it was announced.

Final Call!

Final rehearsal of the University band before the Citadel game will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in Hill Music hall.

BOARD RELEASES STUDENT UNION PLANS FOR YEAR

Graham Memorial To Show Films At Movie Forum Series

A series of "movie-forums" on pressing issues of the day will be inaugurated this year by the Graham Memorial student union, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the Board of Directors. The program will include the showing of films such as "The March of Time" with open discussions following.

Action on the educational film forums was taken at yesterday's meeting of the Board. The entire budget was passed at that time with slight variations from the program drawn up by the budget committee.

In an effort to strengthen the ties between faculty and students, the Board passed a measure arranging for regular teas on a departmental basis. It is planned to hold eighteen of the social functions in the course of the year.

MONTHLY AMATEUR HOURS

Amateur contests, initiated last year, will be continued on a monthly basis. Community sings will be held alternately with non-professional shows, totaling approximately 10 for the entire school term.

In an attempt to aid freshmen and sophomores in planning their futures, a series of speakers of all professions will be presented. The Board of Directors believe that this study will aid the University's vocational guidance program.

Football clinics, begun last fall, will be continued for a period of nine weeks, covering the entire season. Coach Ray Wolf is expected to direct the gridiron analysis again.

The Sunday afternoon concerts will be carried on, the board report also stated. An attempt will be made to increase the attendance at the bi-weekly programs.

The request of Phillips Russell to hold his creative writing classes on Thursday evenings in the Grail Room was granted. Permission was also given to the University to hold classes in the banquet hall during the morning hours.

The office of the DAILY TAR HEEL editor will be divided to provide an office for the Carolina Political Union. The front half will be allotted to the editor, while the other section will be the new site of the CPU headquarters.

GRAIL TO HOLD DANCE IN GYM

Tin Can In Use As "Warehouse"

Location of the first Order of the Grail dance Saturday night was changed yesterday from the Tin Can to Woolen gymnasium, Dick Worley, checker of the Grail, announced.

The Tin Can is being used temporarily for storage of furniture for the incomplete Dormitory "K," it was learned, necessitating the change in the dance site.

Charlie Wood and his Carolinians will furnish the music for the dance. Wood's orchestra played for two dances weekly in summer school and completed the summer with engagements at Atlantic Beach and at the Isle of Palms, near Charleston, S. C. During the summer he added a vocalist, Miss Jean Chandler of Durham.

Due to fraternity rushing rules, freshmen will not be admitted to the first dance. They will be admitted to future dances, however. Transfer students may attend the first dance. Script is one dollar at the door.

Hobbs Asks That Students Check Bank Balances

With a reminder that in years past students of the University have fallen into bad habits regarding the use of checks, Claude Hobbs, Student Council check probation officer, yesterday requested that all check users keep an accurate and careful account of their bank balances.

The check committee works in close coordination with the Student Council and the Chapel Hill Merchants Association. Any violations of the rule against issuing worthless checks are immediately reported to the Student Council which has authority to discipline the guilty student, according to the seriousness of the offense.

In past years so many checks written by students were returned unpaid that the merchants of the town found it necessary to refrain from cashing checks for students to protect them (Continued on page 2, column 5)
