Memorial To Sponsor Dances Every Night In Banquet Hall

Move Seen As Step Toward Opening Of Student Night Club

Beginning next Wednesday, the banquet hall on the second floor of Graham Memorial will be opened for dancing every week-day evening from 9 to 10:20, and from 9 to 11 o'clock Friday and Saturday nights, Bob Magill announced yesterday. Ice cream and milk-shakes will be served as refreshments for the dancers.

"The campus has been demanding a night club for several years. We can't find room for that yet, but, with 500 co-eds here, there should be some dancing in the banquet hall. If it is successful, we'll try to put more equipment in it. Give it a try," Magill, the director of the student union, stated yesterday.

PORTABLE "JEEP"

A portable nickelodeon will be installed in the banquet hall to furnish music for couples to dance to. Chairs from the main lounge are to be brought up to provide comfortable seating facilities. Waiters from the Graham Memorial grill will be on hand to take any orders for refreshments.

Much talk circulated about the campus last year concerning the establishing of a student night club in the Graham Memorial building. The student union board of directors decided, however, that the present allocation of space does not afford such an opportunity.

Last Wednesday evening, the inter-dormitory council went on record as approving the use of the banquet hall for dancing, during the latter hours of the evening. The council called the student union's a progressive step for better relations on the campus.

Duke's Bonfire Burns Too Soon; Allegations Fly

The Duke campus was in an uproar yesterday following the premature lighting of a home-coming bonfire on the freshman field in the early hours of yesterday morning.

The bonfire had been prepared for a pep-rally last night and freshmen had been ordered by upperclassmen to stand guard over it until rally time.

The freshmen allege that the blaze was set by a young man. They also allege that he was wearing a Duke rat cap, and that he escaped in the excitement.

The upperclassmen allege that the young man was from the University of North Carolina, and that he was acting in retaliation of the setting off of a Carolina bonfire in 1937.

Carolina students allege that the 1937 prank was performed by a Duke student.

There were two certainties: the bonfire was burned; and the whole thing is pretty confusing.

Henderson Brings To Light "Davie Copy" Of Declaration

University Professor Restores Historic Document, Publishes It For First Time

Dr. Archibald Henderson of the University math department spoke at a joint meeting of the Caswell-Nash chapter of Raleigh, and the Davie Popular chapter of Chapel Hill of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held in the Raleigh Woman's club building last week. Author of "Washington's Southern Tour," "The Conquest of the Old Southwest," "The Star of Empire" and other historical works Henderson is engaged at present in preparing and editing a comprehensive History of North Carolina.

Not long ago, Dr. Henderson brought to public attention the long-lost "Davie Copy" of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. The document had been lost to sight for many years, and, along with a number of other papers, was recently made available to the public in the archives of the University of North Carolina. Dr. Henderson was the first person to publish the Davie Copy; and although a

SOPHOMORES PASS BUDGET AT FIRST MEETING OF CLASS

Charley Wood Aids Officers To Draw Necessary Quorum

Induced by the rhythmic strains of Charlie Wood's band, 437 sophomores, exceeding their quorum by 20 voters, went to Gerrard hall yesterday and formally accepted the sophomore class budget for 1939-40, which expends a total of $666.50, including a $400.00 dance appropriation.

Bill Alexander, president of the class, announced that a special guest section in the stands for the State game was being reserved for the sophomores and their dates as that game is the week-end of the second year hops. Tickets must be secured for the section before October 28, he said.

BUDGET

Truman Hobbs, class treasurer read the budget and stated that $25.00 remained from the sophomore treasury of '38-39, making the total estimated income amount to $700.

Expenditures amounting to $661.50 were quoted: Printing (programs, dance bids, etc) — $10.00; Pictures of class officers, Woolton, Moulton—$11.25; Dance—$400.00.

"All of these expenses are taken care of in the soph fees paid at the beginning of the quarter and there should be no cause for further assessments," Hobbs said.

"The surplus from this budget will be applied to next year's treasury," he added.

When the vote was called an overwhelming majority of those present for the official action rose to register their approval and the budget was passed without further discussion.

Three Little Worries

Here are Tulane's three complete lines. (count 'em) all of which outweigh Carolina by an average of almost 12 pounds per man. They are causing Coach Ray Wolf and his boys no end of pre-game theoretical worry today, and are expected to provide plenty of practical worry for the Carolina squad when the opening gun goes off in the Sugar Bowl this afternoon.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS REPRESENTATIVE OF 50 COUNTIES

Club Hopes To Have Member From Each County In State

The newly-created Young Democratic club already has in its membership representatives of 50 North Carolina counties, Ott Burton, co-chairman with Tom Long of the membership committee, reported to the club Thursday night at its regular meeting. With around 90 members in the club, it is hoped ultimately to have a representative in the organization from every county in the state.

As plans went forward for expanding the membership of the club, the secretary, Ernest King was instructed to make arrangements for the formal installation of officers in December. He will contact Forrest Pollard of Durham, president of the State YDC, Governor Hoey, and Carl Goerch, editor of the State magazine, about speaking at the installation banquet.

STATEWIDE BROADCAST

The club will attempt to arrange a statewide broadcast of the installation program. With this aim in mind, the group decided to delay the ceremonies until the University's radio studio is opened in December.

Next meeting will be on Monday night, October 30, at 8 o'clock. Meanwhile, it was announced, students interested in joining the club may obtain application blanks at the YMCA information desk.

YMCA To Hold Dance

The dance for the three cabinets of the YMCA will be held in the main lounge of Graham Memorial Monday night at 7:30. Members of the sophomore cabinet are requested to leave 25 cents at the YMCA before Monday.

American Type Folk Plays May Be Given English Try

London Times Reviewer Seems Puzzled By The American Equivalent Of English Plays

The London Times, reviewing Dr. Frederick H. Koch's recent book, "American Folk Plays," seems slightly puzzled by the American equivalent of the English folk plays of St. George, Beelzebub, "and the rest of the crew that Sir Edmund Chambers has marshalled from rural England," but points out, nevertheless, that the American type might be given a try over there.

"Dialect and the very vividness of the local color might make them difficult to produce on an English stage," the reviewer writes, "but it would be worthwhile seeing whether similar folk plays could not still be evolved from our English scene and so bring to the drama a fertilizing influence similar to that which folk-song has brought to English music in the last generation."

EXPERTS FAVOR TULANE TO WIN; WOLF OPTIMISTIC

Varsity To Unload New Set Of Pass, Defensive Plays

By SHELLEY ROLFE
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 20.—Still undefeated and on the dead run against major league competition, Carolina battles powerful unbeaten Tulane at the Sugar Bowl tomorrow afternoon in a game that holds the attention of the South and nation.

Complete with two teams of letter-men and a third crew of competent substitutes, the Green Wave will be favored to add Carolina to its list of victims which already lists such distinguished company as Fordham, Clemson and Auburn. But looking for the silver lining in every black cloud and thinking of the strange offenses and defenses he has been using in prac-

Although only a small number of students were able to make the long trek to Tulane, a record crowd is expected to follow the game and cheer the team at the Grid-Graph this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Memorial hall.

Direct wires to the stadium in New Orleans will keep the operators informed of the play-by-play progress of the game and students will be able to follow the play in detail by means of the board. The performance is being sponsored by the Monogram club, and admission is 25 cents.

Although only a small number of students were able to make the long trek to Tulane, a record crowd is expected to follow the game and cheer the team at the Grid-Graph this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Memorial hall.

NEW SLANT

This optimism is strange to Wolf. Usually the darkest of pessimists, he enters game biting his fingernails, tearing his hair and hoping the carnage will not be too bad.

This trip around, though, the Carolina bossman promises to unload everything in one final effort to keep his team undefeated until the Duke game November 18. He will shoot pass plays that have never seen the light of a game, but on which he has been working for three years, and he will unload a defense that is scarcely a week old, but has proved to be in that short space of time an effective barrier to all types of offenses.

The Tar Heels will use a six man line in their new defense. To fit the new defense, Wolf has moved the speedy Chuck Slagle back to guard from tackle to take the place of the injured Bill Faircloth. Other linemen will be Paul Severin, who has worked lightly all week, Jim Mallory, Jim Woodson, Bob Smith, Gates Kimball and Dick White.

COUNTING ON DEFENSE

Wolf is counting on the defense and the Tar Heel attack paced by All-American George Strinweiss, who pick-
