Nine Frosh Candidates Meet In Final Elections Tomorrow

Poteat And Crudup Still In Race For Presidency

Freshmen will cast their final ballot for first year officers in the YMCA tomorrow in a run-off election between Yates Poteat and Tommy Crudup for president; Wallace Gibbs, Merlin Martin, and Floyd Cohoon for vice president; Alston Lewis, and Buck Osborne for secretary; and George Adams and Ernest Hill for treasurer.

Polls will be opened at 10 o'clock in the morning and remain open until 5:30 in the afternoon.

Running on a non-fraternity platform every member of the Poteat ticket survived the first voting and still have all four candidates on the ballot. Since the Fitts faction, which was also carrying dormitory support was eliminated, with the exception of Gibbs, vice-presidential nominee, it is uncertain toward whom the backers of that group will throw their weight.

Crudup, DKE pledge, is reputed to have solid fraternity backing and may also receive a large number of the Fitts votes. All candidates on his ticket will also face the freshmen approval again tomorrow.

Yates Poteat, Spindale, was outstanding in his secondary school activities, having held many important offices in local and state wide scholastic organizations.

Tommy Crudup, a product of Henderson, graduated from Virginia Episcopal School where he was a prominent member of the student council, a stellar gridiron performer and a champion boxer.

Jack Fairley, student body vice-president, yesterday urged the members of the freshman class to vote. "The small number of votes cast in the last election is evidence of disinterest on the part of freshmen," Fairley said, "It makes no difference whom you vote for, but support your class and vote for someone."

Junior-Senior, YWCA Cabinets Attend Other Meetings

Both the YWCA cabinet and the Junior-Senior cabinet of the YMCA will be away from the campus tonight for meetings at other schools.

The YMCA Junior-Senior cabinet will go to Greensboro tonight to attend the opening platform of "Religious Emphasis" week at WCUNC. Dr. Roswell Barnes will speak.

LEGISLATURE MEETS TOMORROW IN PHI HALL

Group Will Select Five New Members At First Meeting

The Student legislature of the University will hold its first meeting of the year tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Phi assembly hall, Jack Fairley, vice-president of the student body and president of the legislature, said yesterday.

Purpose of the meeting, Fairley said, will be to get the legislature organized for the year's program of activity, and to elect five members-at-large.

The legislature is made up of representatives from every part of the student body in addition to four sets of class officers, who are automatically members of the legislature. There are in the organization five delegates from the coeds, 10 members from the Inter-dormitory council, five from the Interfraternity council, one each from the law, medical, and pharmacy schools, and 10 members at large.

Five of the members at large stand every year. These are the editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL, the president of the Athletic association, a representative from the Debate council, a representative from the Student Entertainment committee, and a representative from the PU board. The other five members at large will be elected in the meeting tomorrow.

Jack Fairley, vice-president of the student body, announced yesterday that the legislature will meet sometime within the next two weeks to consider a report from a committee appointed last year by the president of the student body which was to investigate the Buccaneer. The report recommends that the administration cease collecting subscriptions for the Buccaneer and that the publication be made independent. Bob Magill, director of Graham Memorial, is the chairman of the committee.

The legislature will make plans for a Student Safety council. This council will be a committee in the legislature which will have authority over students with automobiles on the campus. They plan to require each student with a car to secure written permission from his parents to drive the car. If a student is in a wreck or is arrested for reckless or drunken-driving he may be required by the council to give up his driving license.

The cast of Howard's play includes Carroll McCaughey, Helen Copenhaver, Don Rosenberg, Sanford Reece, Wieder Sievers, Joe Lederman, Howard Richardson, Eleanor Maupin, and Herbert Wolf.

Lalanne's Aerial Attack Paces Team's Last-Half Scoring Rally

Sweet Is The Word For Him

"SWEET" JIM LALANNE, QUARTERBACK, NORTH CAROLINA

Here's the boy that sparked the Carolina team in its second-half rally yesterday to tie Tulane's Green Wave 14-14. Jim Lalanne, quarterback, ran the Greenies ragged by throwing passes all over the field—passes that clicked despite almost desperate efforts to bat them down.

DAILY TAR HEEL Editor Sees Carolina-Tulane Clash, Picks Up Colorful Sidelights

By MARTIN HARMON

TULANE STADIUM, New Orleans, Oct. 21—At 1:45 today most of the 33,000 spectators had gathered in the massive Tulane Stadium, just a small city block from the home of the late Huey P. Long, former United States senator and Louisiana political boss.

Around 50 Carolina students and faculty members were here for the game, including Spike Saunders, alumni secretary, and Dean R. B. House. One of the DAILY TAR HEEL's delegation, Managing Editor Morris Rosenberg, held down a spotting job in the radio booth above the press box.

We heard Mrs. Robert Madry, here with Colonel Bob, talking in front of the St. Charles hotel this morning about an autograph of Charles "Buddy" Rogers—he married Mary Pickford—she now owns. Rogers is playing at the Roosevelt hotel Blue Room.

James Lalanne, the Lafayette lad, really put on a show for the home folks, among them Mr. and Mrs. Lalanne, his parents, and his sister Gloria.

New Orleans' famed Canal street was bedecked with pennants for both teams and many department stores had window displays, using Tulane and Carolina player photographs two days before the game.

Carolina Plays Finest Defensive Game Of Season

By SHELLEY ROLFE

TULANE STADIUM, Oct. 21 — Beaten and battered for 20 minutes of the second half, the University of North Carolina football team, unloading its aerial game in earnest for the first time since Ray Wolf took over the Tar Heel throttle in 1936, staged an almost incredible comeback to push over two fourth quarter touchdowns to tie Tulane 14-14 before 33,000 fans this steaming afternoon. The result left both teams still undefeated and perhaps dissatisfied.

Paced by Sweet James Francis Lalanne, who learned his football in the Bayou country of Louisiana and saved the greatest game in his career for the eyes of his compatriots and more especially for his mother and father, the Tar Heels, after spotting Tulane two power scores early in the second half, sent Lalanne in to rescue an almost hopeless game, and Sweet James, pitching twice to Paul Severin, clicked for two touchdowns drives and another march that ended in the final minute of play with Harry Dunkle missing fire on a field goal in the face of an onrushing line.

Unloading his right arm, Lalanne threw two passes for the first touchdown, one to Jim Mallory for 35 yards and a touchdown toss to Paul Severin for 47. It took eight plays for the tying score which came after Lalanne had recovered a Tulane fumble on the kick-off following the opening Tar Heel score, and on three of the plays, Jim threw passes, clicking one for 17 yards to Severin again for the score. Dunkle converted both extra points.

Tulane wasted little time moving in the second half. Wolf started a second team and for a time it seemed his gambling would prove fatal and dump the Tar Heels from the ranks of the undefeated. Recovering the kick-off after Slotnick had fumbled, the Greenies pushed over a touchdown that broke the scoreless tie on six power plays.

Starting on the Tar Heel 24, Kellogg and Cassibry alternated until they had brought the ball to the three, where Kellogg hurled the right side of the line and then kicked the extra point. It was Kellogg who carried the ball over the second time and seemingly sent Tulane into a safe and sound lead.

Cassibry and Kellogg were the entire Tulane attack. Running behind the hardest charging sets of lines the Tar Heels will be forced to face the entire year, they rolled almost all of the 18 Tulane first downs. For the first furious 20 minutes of the second half, they appeared to be the greatest set of running backs in the country, but once Lalanne started throwing they were lost in the flood of Carolina aerials.

Neither team could get anywhere in the first half. Tulane unleashed two power drives but got no nearer the goal than the 19 yard line. Early in the first quarter, paced by Kellogg and Cassibry, the Greenies began moving on the Tar Heel 35 after Dunkle had punted from behind his goal line and got down to the 19 before the Car. ### Campus Scarred With Paint; No Accusations Made

Damage of unestimated cost was suffered Friday night on the campus when unidentified persons sloshed blue enamel paint on several University buildings.

Administration officials declined to make any accusations but said that actual damage done was far the most serious in years. The words, "Duke '43," scrawled on several buildings led to the belief that the attack was made by Duke freshmen, but it is felt that it may possibly have been done by Carolina students attempting to incite an antagonistic attitude toward Duke prior to the Duke-Carolina football game.

GROUPS SPONSOR WORSHIP SERIES

Nightly Services Begin Tomorrow

Introducing a new phase of the year's program to the campus, the University Christian associations will present tomorrow night at 6:40 in Gerrard hall the first in a series of worship services.

The services, under the joint sponsorship of the YWCA and the YMCA, will be held each week night at the same time, and will afford a short period of quiet meditation for those who feel the need for such inspiration. The programs will be varied and will include instrumental music of various kinds, hymns, readings, and prayers. In keeping with the occasion, lighting effects will be arranged to lend atmosphere.

This week, the services will be in charge of Louise Jordan, John Bonner, Bill Gordon, Martha Clappitt, and Charles Putzel.

YM-YWCA Cabinets Will Entertain

As part of the quarter's program, the three cabinets of the YMCA and the YWCA cabinet will entertain tomorrow night at a social at the Episcopal parish house instead of at Graham Memorial as was announced yesterday.

Both square and round dancing, and singing will be enjoyed during the evening at the close of which refreshments will be served. Members of the Sophomore cabinet of the YMCA will be allowed to bring dates, but Junior-Senior cabinet members will come stag. All coeds are invited to attend.
