

ARMY AIR CORPS CALLS FOR 4,000 FLYING CADETS

Exams May Be Taken
At State College,
November 13-18

Lieutenant Norris Perry of the United States Air Corps yesterday visited Chapel Hill in behalf of the drive of the national government for prospective candidates for flying training in the army. An immediate need for 4,000 flying cadets to be trained at government schools under President Roosevelt's expansion program exists for the Army, and it is this that the candidates are needed.

Lieutenant Perry announced that a flying fortress will come to the Raleigh airport Monday, November 13, bringing a staff of air corps examiners who will give examinations in State college infirmary until noon November 18.

APPLICANTS

Applicants are required to be between the ages of 20 and 26, inclusive, before physical examinations may be taken. A mental examination is necessary for all who have not completed two years of college work. An evidence of the date of the applicant's birth is also required. The examiners will include two army officers, one army flight surgeon, and several enlisted men.

The course of training will consist of 12 weeks training in one of the many civilian training fields installed in colleges and universities throughout the country. The second 12 weeks training will be given at Randolph Field, Texas, the army's "West Point of the Air." The last 12 weeks will be spent at Kelly Field, also in Texas. Throughout the nine months training period each cadet receives a salary of $75 per month, plus uniform, clothing, medical care, transportation and meals.

All students in the University who are interested and are unmarried men between the ages of 20 and 26 are asked to apply at State college infirmary next week.

Carolina, Oxford Debaters To Hold Panel Discussion

On suggestion from the Oxford university debating team, the form for Saturday's meeting of the English debaters with the Carolina team has been changed from the usual formal debate to a panel discussion of the question, "Isolation, Neutrality, or Active Participation in the War—What Part Should the United States Play?"

In the final tryouts Tuesday night Carroll McGaughey of Atlanta, and Phil Ellis of Spruce Pine, were chosen to represent the University in the discussion. Lewis Hamlin will be first alternate and Joe Dawson, second alternate.

ENGLISH SQUAD

Peter Street of London and Edward R. G. Heath of Broadstairs, Kent, will represent Oxford university. In proposing the change in the form of the meeting, the English debaters expressed a "sincere desire to avoid giving the impression" that they are propagandizing.

Professor W. A. Olsen, faculty member of the debate council, said that the council is heartily in favor of the change since there are so many possible positions to be taken on the subject. A discussion, he said, will allow two American and two British viewpoints to be aired.

For a 30-minute period the program will be opened to discussion from the floor, but each speaker will be limited to two or three minutes.

SENIORS TO MEET TO PASS BUDGET NEXT WEDNESDAY

Rosenberg Appointed
Temporary Treasurer
To Replace Zink

The senior class will meet next Wednesday to pass its budget, it was decided last night at a meeting of the senior class executive committee in Gerrard hall. After the budget was read and approved by the committee, Bert Premo was appointed by President Benny Hunter to see that it is passed.

Because the senior class treasurer, George Zink, was forced to withdraw from school this quarter on account of illness, the committee approved Hunter's appointment of Morris Rosenberg, who ran against Zink in the spring elections, as temporary treasurer.

President Hunter asked each member of the committee to submit at least five suggestions for some original or entertaining activity that might be indulged in by the class during senior week, or any time during the year.

"Step-On-It" Brown, Negro Cheerleader, Dies In Tuskegee

"Step-On-It" Henry Brown, 47-year-old Negro cheerleader, will not root for the Tar Heels at the Duke game Saturday a week.

Known by thousands of Carolina football fans over 30 years, "Step-On-It" always attended the Carolina-Duke games, jumping waving arms, throwing his hat in the air, and yelling for the Tar Heels. Five years he has been in a World war veteran's home in Tuskegee, Ala., and four times he has returned home to hearthen his boys.

Twenty-two years ago he married Geneva Smith, daughter of the University's Negro bellringer. They cooked for Swain hall, campus eatery. Step-On-It followed the team everywhere and players even tied him atop buses at times when there was no room inside.

The colored mascot will yell no more. He died Tuesday night. The body arrived late last night and services will be held tomorrow afternoon.

There will be a report by president Lee Wiggins on the recent district meeting held at Greensboro.

Classes In Logic To Hear Several State Leaders

"In an attempt to put a little fresh air in the academic process," as he puts it, Dr. L. O. Kattsoff, professor of philosophy at the University, has invited several leaders in state affairs to speak to his class in logic on ways that the subject is applied in everyday life in their various fields.

Dr. Otho Ross, Charlotte physician and alumnus of the University, has already addressed the class on "Logic in Medicine." Professor Kattsoff said yesterday that three others will appear before the end of the quarter. C. W. Tillett, president of the University alumni association and a Charlotte attorney, will speak some time this month on "Logic in Law." Major J. P. McLendon, attorney and political leader of the state, will talk on "Logic in Politics," and R. M. Hanes, president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. of Winston-Salem and this year's president of the American Bankers' association, will discuss the subject, "Logic in Business."

REGULAR CLASS

Professor Kattsoff explained that these addresses are not open to the public, but are regular class sessions. C. W. Tillett, who is making one of the addresses, in a speech before the University faculty, advocated the use of some classroom program to bring the academic process and everyday life more closely together and is assisting Kattsoff in bringing the speakers before the class.

Undergraduates Give Opinions Concerning United States Stand

(By ACP)

With all elements of the nation ardently campaigning for one side or another in the current debate over the United States' position in the current world situation, college students are strongly asserting their views on just what should be done to clarify their country's stand on international politics. Here is a summary of most recent polls—a summary that tells you just how the wind is blowing so far as the nation's undergraduates are concerned:

1. A little more than 58 per cent of the college youth favor the move of the U. S. senate in voting repeal of the embargo against shipment of arms to foreign nations.
2. However, when it comes to the question of furnishing military aid to the allies (Britain and France) if they face defeat, collegians vote 68 per cent against sending our men and machines across the Atlantic.
3. The above vote is despite the fact that 91 per cent of the undergraduates voting favor the cause of the allies against the totalitarian alliance.
4. In keeping with the expressions given above, 96 per cent voted in the Campus political rumblings, except in the student legislature, are nil. Party lines haven't even been redrawn. Press Nesbit has been chosen chairman of the Student party. Nothing's happened. Bob Sumner became University party head last spring. Nothin's happened.

Back to the legislature, there are two standouts from Monday night's meeting and it would be an injustice to give either Chuck Kline or Joe Dawson the top position. Charmin' Charles, ex officio representative from the athletic association who boils water and other substances over in Venable and plays football in his spare time, forgot his injured knee and sparked a sufficiently large minority to a victory over the (simple) majority bloc which wanted the constitution amended to allow seating of the four illegally elected members Vaughan Winborne, Bernard Nordan, John Hall and Jack Vincent.

Negro Musician To Appear In Memorial Lounge

"Modern American Music" is the subject of lecture-recital to be given by Dr. R. Nathaniel Dett, negro pianist and composer, this evening at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. Tonight's program will be the first of a series of lectures to be presented by the Carolina Arts group this quarter.

At the present, the director of music in Bennett college in Greensboro, Dr. Dett has been acclaimed by critics in the music centers of the world. Listed among the tributes to his ability is membership in Pi Kappa Lambda, honorary music fraternity; an honorary doctor of music from both Howard and Oberlin; the winner of the Francis Boott music prize and the Bowdoin Literary prize at Harvard University; and the first award in music at the Harmon Foundation.

LAUDATORY NOTICES

Dr. Dett has received laudatory notices as pianist, composer, and conductor. The New York Herald Tribune commented on his writing ability, "Dr. Dett's five choruses were skillfully, often elaborately wrought." The Etude called him a "musician of pronounced gifts," while Musical America praised him stating, "He's a sterling American composer."

After an appearance in Winnipeg, Canada, the Evening Tribune wrote, "The reason why the concert by the St. Cecilia was the most successful yet given is obvious. It was because R. Nathaniel Dett, the Canadian Negro composer was engaged as solo pianist for the occasion." The Chicago Post acclaimed him, "Mr. Dett is a pianist of distinct quality."

In a concert tour of Europe, Dr. Dett achieved prominence as a conductor. The London Spectator said, "There was remarkable enthusiasm and applause, and many there paid the fine tribute of tears." In Vienna, (Continued on page 4, column 3)

The discussion afterward will be presided over by Charles Putzel, president of the Di. Robinson Woodward is in charge of radio reception. The meeting will be open to the public.

Contrary to reports, SP moguls aren't angered because Benny Hunter has appointed Morris Rosenberg (UP) temporary treasurer of the senior class for ailing George Zink. And it's certain Benny has added a friend in the person of Professor E. J. Woodhouse who, you'll recall, was putting up a tremendous howl about this time last year because the district Democratic executive committee gave Carl T. Durham a one-way airplane ticket to the United States Congress. The good professor was backing Oscar Barker, defeated by the duly elected candidate who died before taking office. Zink defeated Rosenberg in the treasurer's
