THE DAILY TAR HEEL

E

By You Sir: I wish to contradict a statement that was published in the TAR HEEL Friday morning in regard to the Graham Dormitory fire which reads as follows:

And

Squawks

Squeaks

"Ed York, who ran from the Avcock as soon as the first shouts of 'fire' were heard, became the hero when he was overcome by smoke and carried from the room unconscious."

The part of the statement that is erroneous is idea that York became a hero. He did nothing compared to the real hero of the fire, "Smoky" Joe Welborn. If any one can be regarded as the hero of the occasion it would most certainly be he. He was the one who rushed into the room, picked up the unconscious body of York and carried him out of the blazing mass of bed clothing and furniture, it was he who began the waste can brigade, it was he who threw the burning matresses out the window, and in fact, it was he who extinguished the raging fire. Joe was the fire chief; so he is now called by all Graham residents "Smoky" Joe Welborn, the fire chief of Graham's volunteer fire department.

Kay and the Infirmary. . .

Saturday morning we tried to find Kyser. He wasn't at the faculty club where the members of his party were staying. We were told later that he was at the infirmary-not sick but sleeping there at the suggestion of his ex-roommate, Dr. Hedgpeth. * * *

And Ginny. . . .

We're no Winchell, but from all we can find out Kay and Ginny are not married. It would have been a little bit of all right if she had helped lead a cheer Saturday.

Two in One.

On the way to the game Saturday we saw a sign in front of a house near Duke: BEAT DUKE. BEAT was on one line with DUKE underneath On the way back we noticed the same sign altered so as to read: DUKE BEAT. But we may as well forget the sign, the game, and everything else.

Attention Webster . . .

Sunday Voit Gilmore, who is now working in the President's office in Washington, left Harry Gatton a note telling him not to come to Washington next week-end, because everybody would be celebrating "FRANKSGIV. ING."

Clinton Boys Doing All Right.

Seems that Ike Grainger, SAE, was down at Simga Nu house after the dance Saturday night painted with lipstick, candle in hand, searching for Blue Devils. In one room he found Clinton's bass fiddle player and Ford Leary doing all right with a couple of dates-coeds. Ike wasn't permitted to stay...
