Fritz Kreisler Will Perform Here For Concert January 16

Famous Violinist To Be Presented By Music Fraternity

Fritz Kreisler, world renowned violinist, will present a violin concert in Memorial hall on the night of January 16, it was announced yesterday by the local chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, national honorary music fraternity.

President of the fraternity, Hubert Henderson, said last night, "We are justly proud to call the attention of the student body to this forthcoming event, for Mr. Kreisler is undoubtedly the most outstanding violinist in the world today."

Kreisler made his debut in Berlin in 1899. On his second visit to the United States in 1900-1 he appeared as soloist and in ensemble with Hofman and Gerardy and carried his audiences by storm. At the beginning of the World War he served at the front as an Austrian captain, and for a time his music was neglected. But later he visited and established his reputation in every civilized country in the world.

The London Philharmonic Society awarded him the Beethoven gold medal; the Vienna Conservatory gave him first prize and the gold medal, and the Paris Conservatory gave the Premier Prix de Rome.

Kreisler owns two of the most valuable violins in the world, the Josef Gaurnerius del Gesu of 1737, and the

Staunch Admirers At Home Lure Students To University

Excellent Example Is Case Of James Shaw From Toronto, Canada

By BILL SNIDER

Perhaps the best publicity put out by any college or university consists of its loyal students, who flock to the four corners of the continent during the summer months and drum up trade for their alma maters. An excellent case in point is Canada's addition to the University of North Carolina freshman class, James Shaw, who was lured into the South by a Baltimore friend visiting in Toronto last August.

Knowing little or nothing of the University prior to that time, Shaw was so greatly impressed by his friend's recommendation that he put in his application at Chapel Hill soon afterward. Now after spending slightly more than two months on the Carolina campus, he has become one of the Uni-

YOUNG DEMOCRATS WILL HEAR EURE SPEAK TONIGHT

Secretary Of State Of North Carolina Is UNC Alumnus

Thad Eure, Secretary of State of North Carolina and University alumnus of the class of '21, will speak tonight at 9 o'clock in Gerrard hall at the meeting of the Young Democrats club.

The youngest man to post his candidacy for an office decided by statewide Democratic primary, Eure has been prominent in state politics since his election as mayor of Winton, Hertford county, one year after receiving his law degree from the University in 1922. Eure served as mayor until 1928 when, at the age of 29, he was elected to the North Carolina house of representatives by Hertford county. In the house, Eure was elected to serve as principal clerk during the session of 1931, 1933 and 1935.

AS AN UNDERGRADUATE

At the University, Thad Eure was a member of the Theta Chi fraternity, the Phi assembly, and the basketball, football and track teams. He is now escheats officer for the University. His duties in this office are to visit county

PLAN RELEASED FOR POST OFFICE CAMPUS BRANCH

Sub-Station May Be Located In South Building

The Student Advisory committee, medium between the students and the administration, yesterday disclosed details of their recommendation, concerning a student post office, which will be handed to the administration the end of this week or the first of next week. The post office, as planned, is to be centrally located on the campus, to simplify delivery problems and to give students quicker and better service.

At present, the plan is to put the post office in the basement of South building. Other sites have been considered, but since all students pass by South several times every day, it is considered preferable to place it there. The office will be similar to a branch office which receives and sends out mail directly. It will be supplied with parcel post, stamp, and money order windows, and will have 1545 individual boxes.

NO DORM DELIVERY

If the plan is adopted by the administration, it will mean that the present system of mail delivery to dormitories will be discontinued. In the past difficulty has been experienced in preventing students from opening other boxes than their own since the combinations are easily worked out. It is now also possible to reach through one box and take mail from the box next to it. If boxes are taken out of the lower quadrangle it is probable that the long desired telephone booths can be installed. Dormitory L which has no delivery at all; K, whose managers distribute the mail to each room; and dormitory H which has pigeon holes supplied in the store will all profit directly from the new plan.

The new system will mean five deliveries each day, instead of the two at present. Mail will also be put in boxes on Sundays and holidays. For this added service, however, it is probable that a box rental fee will be charged to the students who will have key boxes instead of the present combinations.

The plan will call for approximately

Riot Of Color Foreseen For Chocolate Bowl Grid Classic Here

Barring earthquakes, hurricanes, another Carolina-Duke football game, or other major catastrophes, the colorful classic of classics, the Chocolate Bowl, will be held on Fetzler field tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock when the Dusky Devastators from the Orange County training school clash with the Ebony Eleven of William Penn high school of High Point.

The first bowl game of the present gridiron season, the event is expected to draw an estimated crowd of approximately 753,461 rabid, yelling, drinking, parading, groaning, cheering, hysterical, gay, rowdy, colorful fans.

NO OFFICIALS

Officials for the contest have not as yet been selected, since all past ones have either inherited six feet of earth or lie maimed in veterans' hospitals, and all likely prospects have deserted for more quiet regions along the Franco-German frontier.

The game promises to be one of the best fights since Napoleon had it out at Waterloo. Ambulances from nearby states began arriving yesterday to take care of the crowd. Last year the two teams played for 10 minutes without using the ball.

Athletic officials of both schools have been given the latest military weapons developed by the United

Last Business Meet

The Economics and Commerce club will hold its last business meeting of the quarter tonight at 7:30 in Bingham 108.

Drawing Card

Charley Wood, who, with his Carolinians, will play for the meeting of the junior class today at 10:30 in Gerrard hall when the group meets to hear the reading of its budget and to vote on its acceptance.

JUNIORS TO HOLD BUDGET MEETING TODAY AT 10:30

Members Of Wood's Campus Orchestra To Provide Music

Juniors who will gather in Gerrard this morning at 10:30 to vote on their 1939-40 class budget, will be treated to a jam session by several members of Charlie Wood's orchestra.

Balloting will be done in writing and a pledge will have to be signed on the ticket to make it valid.

Although 324 votes are required to give the budget official sanction, Gates Kimball, third year president, was optimistic last night and expressed his conviction that the attendance at the meeting will be more than sufficient.

All expenditures for the Junior-Senior dance will be shared equally with the senior class. The balance, if any, will be divided between the groups.

The final draft of the budget follows:

Auditing and bookkeeping	$10.00
Printing	15.00
Donations and awards	125.00
Supplies and materials	8.50
Yackety Yack	1,941.00
Wooten-Moulten	808.75
Dance	1,500.00
Bad debts	25.00
Miscellaneous	100.00
Introduction in Yackety
Yack	110.00
Final dance marshalls	50.00
Total	$4,693.25

"Frosty" Snow, junior treasurer, will read the budget for the class' approval. The class and dance committees, meeting last week altered the budget slightly and then approved it for presentation to the members of the class. The dance allotment was raised to $1500, the miscellaneous appropriation was cut and a statement of class finances was made showing a balance of over $500 over the amount stated in the budget.

CPU To Entertain Applicants Today

The Carolina Political Union will hold a reception for all applicants this afternoon at 4:30 in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. Chairman Harry Gatten yesterday stressed the importance of attendance at the gathering, since three new members will be announced shortly afterwards.

Due to the failure of Don Ward to return to school this year, and the resignations of Willis Sutton and Hyman Phillips, three vacancies in the CPU were created. To fill the union's quota a special selection period had to be provided. There are 26 members of the CPU, including 23 regular students, a faculty member, the president of the student body, and a reporter from the DAILY TAR HEEL.

All present members of the union are to meet at 4 o'clock in the Grail Room to have their pictures for the Yackety Yack taken.

Soph Pharmacists

The sophomore class of the pharmacy school is to meet this morning at 10:30 for the purpose of electing a class vice-president.

DI WILL SPONSOR FORUM TONIGHT IN STUDENT UNION

Group Will Discuss American Democracy After "Town Hall"

The Di senate will sponsor an open forum tonight in the Graham Memorial lounge on the subject: "What does American democracy mean to me?" The same subject will be discussed on the Town Meeting of the Air radio program preceding the forum.

Students will listen to the broadcast and then hold an open discussion on the subject.

PANEL

The large panel of speakers on the broadcast will include: H. Jerry Voorhis, United States Representative from California; Pietro di Donato, author of "Christ in Concrete"; Alice Salomon, German refugee, sociologist, and author; E. McNeill Poteat, pastor, Calvary Baptist church, Cleveland; Mary McLeod Bethune, director, Negro division of the National Youth administration; Jack McMichael, chairman, American Youth congress, and a direct descendant of George Washington.

Members of the senate will preside over the forum which is open to the public. Tonight's program has added significance in that the topic being discussed is also the subject of a nationwide essay contest sponsored by Town Hall.

"I Wish I'd Never Said That," Lament Rotary Clubmen

"Whatever you put into it comes out—and how," is a lesson learned by several prominent Chapel Hillians last night at a Rotary club banquet in the Carolina Inn.

The "it" referred to is a recording machine, fiendish device owned by the public speaking department and operated by Professor W. A. Olsen of that department. Olsen set the machine up at the banquet last night and had the unsuspecting members answer a number of embarrassing questions into the microphone, questions which concerned personalities well-known on the campus and in town.

The record was played back immediately for the amusement of the audience, and some of the group, evidently not on the record, became convinced that it was too amusing to be confined to such a small group and that the record should be played at the Carolina theater tomorrow night. An auction was held and the record bought by Bill Scott of the Service Insurance agency, who turned it over to E. C. Smith, manager of the theater

Health Officer Criticized After Forum Sunday

In reply to charges made by Dr. Donald Stewart, the DAILY TAR HEEL, and several students and townfolk, Dr. William P. Richardson, county public health commissioner, last night issued a statement explaining action which was taken by the health and welfare departments in presenting information concerning living conditions in and around Chapel Hill on last Sunday evening's Union Student forum program.

Richardson was first rapped for allegedly backing down from his original promise to present case reports to the forum, either in the form of a skit or merely a reading. In explaining his action before the program the health commissioner stated that "the health and welfare departments cannot with propriety reveal living conditions as they exist in and around Chapel Hill," and that the two departments could not be used as charitable organizations.

The text of Dr. Richardson's letter to the editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL is as follows:

"To the Editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL: I should like to express my appreciation of the fair attitude expressed in your editorial in Wednesday's DAILY TAR HEEL.

In reply may I say in the first place that, as I understood it, the question at issue relative to the program Sunday evening was not one of withholding or revealing any set of facts, but of the best way to acquaint the students with some of the social and economic problems encountered—in Chapel Hill and in every other community in the country—by health and welfare workers.

In the second place, the program presented was agreed upon after thoughtful consideration at a meeting of a representative group Sunday afternoon. Ample opportunity was given for questions, and anyone interested in having any specific conditions revealed could have accomplished this by asking questions about them.

The record of the Health Department is consistently one of making known facts and conditions, because only in this way can efforts be stimulated which will bring about improvement. We have cooperated with and in return are receiving the cooperation of every community agency in any way interested in community betterment, and of countless individual citizens.

The past year has seen an imposing list of sanitary menaces eliminated. Half a dozen groups and organizations have made large contributions toward meeting specific types of needs, and there have been many more modest contributions from both town and country

Riddle Blasts State Democrats Before Young Republicans

"Up until 1928, the Republican minority was so strong that the Democratic majority was afraid to pull any foul tricks, but since that time the Republican party has decreased while the election laws of North Carolina have become more corrupt at each election," said J. Bennett Riddle, Jr., of Morgantown, chairman of the YRC college organization, in an address to the local YRC Tuesday night.

Mr. Riddle, past president of the YRC of North Carolina told the Young Republicans that North Carolina Republicans often cast 43 per cent of the vote polled.

After his talk, the members joined in a discussion with Mr. Riddle. He suggested many ideas that Secretary Mashburn recorded for future use.

Illiterate citizens of North Carolina and Orange county are now being given elementary education in reading, writing, and arithmetic by teachers from the "State Education Aid" bureau, assisted by volunteers from the Freshman Friendship council and other YMCA organizations on the campus.

Last Thursday night four freshmen went with Miss Rebecca Wall, head of adult education in Orange county, and Mrs. William Richmond, full time adult teacher, to a small shack about two miles out the Hillsboro highway.
