PLAYING THE GAME

With LEONARD LOBRED

Wimpy Lewis is a little man to be going to classes, making the honor roll, holding down a self-help job and running cross-country and track all year 'round, but somehow he does it. In fact, he does it in such a convincing manner that his teammates on the cross-country squad elected him captain of the Carolina harriers for 1940.

Wimpy Lewis is a self-made man all the way through. He comes from Fallston, a crossroads town somewhere in the vicinity of Shelby, where he had no opportunity to participate in organized athletics. He had a try at American Legion baseball and made the team, but never tried to continue in the game. He started to work as soon as he came here, and has worked ever since, whether at his job or on the track.

Wimpy is almost like a "daddy" to most of the girls at the Shack, now that they've learned of his deeds on the track. He works in the kitchen there, and has some fancy title like kitchen superintendent. But he was just another nobody to the girls until they and a couple thousand other interested spectators saw him pedal around the board track at Woollen gym 20 times last February 25 and take second place in the two-mile run in the Southern conference Indoor Games. It was the first championship track meet in which he had ever competed.

Wimpy got started in track by what one might call accident. In his first quarter here, Wimpy went with George Zink, defending champion and record-holder in the Cake Race, to work out for the annual 1.9 miles intramural run. After taking his workouts, he decided to start. He finished second, the winner being Harry March, the one man track team on the Carolina squad.

Wimpy didn't run indoor track, but in spring track he ran the two-mile and ended the season with a second place against the Duke freshmen.

He ran cross-country last year as a sophomore, and although not starting the season with any too great a flourish, he finished with a bang. Coach Dale Ranson selected him at almost the last minute to run in the Southern conference harrier meet, and Wimpy surprised a good many folks by taking twelfth in the conference field, the seventh of eight Carolina starters.

Then came the Indoor Games! Tommy Fields of Maryland, a sophomore himself, lived up to advance notices and led the field all the way around the 10-lap track. Wimpy Lewis, letting other men pass him when they wanted, but running a steady pace regardless, came off the last turn into the finish in second place amid the cheers of the girls of the Shack, who didn't know until then who Wimpy really was.

Wimpy ran track last spring, and was a consistent placer in the two-mile. With Tom Crockett, Drewry Troutman, occasionally Dave Morrison and toward the end of the season Fred Hardy running the same distance, he had to fight for his berth, but he held it. At Virginia he, Troutman and Morrison finished in a triple tie for first place.

When Wimpy goes in for something, he really goes in right. He is majoring in statistics—of all things

NOVICES SHOW IMPROVED SKILL IN MITT BATTLES

By HARRY HOLLINGSWORTH

"It was the most successful boxing tournament that I have seen since I've been here," said Boxing Coach Mike Ronman yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of the finals in the All-University boxing tournament, which saw seven men crowned winners in their divisions.

All of the bouts went off as scheduled but the 135-pound class one which was forfeited to Tom Hughes when his opponent, Donald Sager, failed to show up. In each of the eight bouts the novices demonstrated that they had learned something of boxing in advancing to the finals, and many of them showed improvement over their earlier bouts.

The feature bout of the afternoon was in the 155-pound class in which Jules Brantley outboxed Murray Cohn to gain a decision. Cohn looked good in the first round, but Brantley came back strong in the final one to get the nod from the judges. They divided the second.

In the 165-pound class it was necessary to stage two battles, since three men qualified for the finals. Nick Walker and Stewart were paired off in the first one; Edwards drew the bye. Walker decided his opponent, and after resting until all of the bouts were over except his, lost to Edwards in a close count. Walker was strong at the finish, but Edwards had built up too much of a margin in the first two rounds.

Bill Hamlin gained the only TKO of the finals when he caught Cherry on the head with a hard blow, which dazed him so much that he was unable to continue. The telling blow came after 30 seconds of the second round.

Kent Merrill won a clean cut decision over Deacon Gibbs in the unlimited class. Punching hard and vicious from the beginning, Merrill continually hit Gibbs with left jabs to gain the nod from the judges.

In the other two fights Powers defeated Tull in the 145 division, and Klitenick beat House in the 127-pound class.

Present At Kenan Stadium Thursday

Sensation of the Virginia backfield for three seasons is Halfback Jim Gillette, who will make his final collegiate appearance here Thanksgiving Day when the Cavaliers hove on the local scene for the annual renewal of one of the South's oldest and most colorful football rivalries. Gillette is a powerful runner and fine punter, but it is his brilliant left-handed passing that has paved the way for the Cavalier victories over Hampden-Sydney, Maryland, W&L, Chicago and W&M.

Twelve Sophs Have Rendered
Valuable Service On Gridiron

When Raymond B. Wolf closes the books on the 1939 football season after the Virginia game Thursday, he will have no regrets about the services rendered by the sophomores this year.

At least 12 men came up from a Tar Baby squad, described as one of the poorest in recent years, and made their presence felt on the varsity. Three of the 12 have played first string most of the season. Wolf's prize rookie crop includes Dick White, Harry Dunkle, Bill Faircloth, Pinky Elliott, Fred Stallings, Stew Richardson, Bob Stoinoff, Frank O'Hare, Charley Baker, George Spransy, Gwynn Nowell and Carl Suntheimer.

White, Faircloth and Dunkle have been starters almost from the beginning of the year. Suntheimer, dividing time with an injured Bob Smith, has been outstanding on offense and defense ever since the Tulane game when he played most of the second half after Smith had been hurt early in the second quarter.

At the start of the season, Wolf had a tackle problem. Steve Maronic, an All-American a year ago, had graduated and left a gaping hole. Wolf tried moving guard Chuck Slagle and he gave sophomore White a shot at the post. From the start, White proved to be the answer to the bossman's prayers. Dick charges hard, hits fast and generally conducts himself as befits an outstanding tackle.

Dunkle has one of the best kicking averages in the nation. He has made three fieldgoals this fall including the points against Duke last Saturday. Towards the end of the season he has been picking up on offense and defense and doing everything possible to keep letterman Sid Sadoff on the bench.

Faircloth was the greenest soph in the lot when he reported for the squad. He had played exactly six games of high school football before he went out for the freshman team last year. But

All students wishing to work as fence guards or ushers at the Carolina-Virginia football game on Thanksgiving are requested to see Herman Schnell in 307 Woollen gym or to call 3431 on Monday.

HEELS, VIRGINIA TO MEET AT NET

Carolina and Virginia, whose rivalry, is the oldest in the south, renew their athletic hostilities here Wednesday in their annual Thanksgiving day and fall tennis exhibition.

Although the Tar Heels have lost but three times in the 15-year-old history of the tennis series, they will be rated no better than even against the Cavaliers, who won last year by a 5-to-2 count. Both schools have lost three men who were of about equal ability. Virginia lost Dunclan, Mahoney and Thompson, all of whom won their matches last year; while Carolina lost the Roods, Carl and Bill, and Frank Farrell.

For the Tar Heels this will be the only team match of the fall quarter, and they are eager to get at the Virginians, who won only in 1928, '29 and last year. The score was 3-2 last year when it became dark, and the final matches won by Virginia were played in total darkness. Two matches weren't played at all.

Playing for Carolina in the number one, two and three berths will be Co-captains Charley Rider and Bill Rawlings and Walter Meserole, while the remaining three starters will be chosen from among Zan Carver, Ham Anthony, Blair Rice, Dave Early, Joe Greenberg and Melville Jordan.

Virginia will be led by Charley Channing, tall blond No. 1 man, and Ricky Fulle and Henry Buchanan, who were here last year.

Duke Wins Conference Crown
For Second Consecutive Time

By SHELLEY ROLFE

RIDDICK STADIUM, Raleigh, Nov. 25—Duke's sturdy Blue Devils, a powerful unit of football wealth gathered from here, there and everywhere along the eastern part of the nation, captured their second consecutive Southern conference championship and their fourth in five autumns this frigid afternoon, crushing State, 28-0, and doing a thorough and effective job, statistics to the contrary.

Turning on all the strength at their command, the Dukes, looking even better than they did a week ago against Carolina, rushed over two quick touchdowns within five minutes of each other in the opening quarter; added another in the second, and tapered off with a fourth quarter score that did little more than emphasize the complete superiority of the Wademen.

Duke's Finale

	Duke	State
First downs	11	12
Net yards gained
rushing	213	57
Forward passes attempted	12	28
Forward passes completed	6	10
Yards gained by forward passes	69	175
Yards lost attempted forward passes	18	23
Forward passes intercepted by	2	0
Yards gained run back of intercepted passes	59	0
Number of punts	7	9
Punting average from scrimmage	34.4	38
Total yards all kicks returned	31	74
Opponents' fumbles recovered	2	1
Yards lost by penalties	55	30
Touchdowns: Davis, G. McAfee, Robinson, W. McAfee. Points after touchdown: Bailey 3, Prothro.
Duke	14	7

State finished one up on first downs, but at no time in the ball game did the Wolfpack come anywhere seriously threatening the might of Duke. Twice State worked its way to the two yard line and twice the hard-charging, clean-blocking Blue Devil line thrust back the Wolfpack assaults.

SPECTATORS TALK

When the game had ended, the bands were beating out the story of another Duke team eligible for the bowl bid and 7,500 spectators were telling each of a great back—George

McAfee. Behind perfect blocking and running bowlegged the left-handed young man who began his football days at Ironton hard on the muddy Ohio, scored one of the Duke touchdowns and generally conducted himself in the manner of a gentleman who was intent upon living up to all his beautiful press notices. It was the final game of his college career, and he played four brilliant quarters, taking time out only to catch his breath after being hurt midway in the second half.

It took Duke exactly seven minutes to find the scoring range. But once they learned the direction of the goal-line, there was no stopping the boys. Bolo Perdue, who made himself famous in the Pitt game last autumn when he blocked the punt that sent Duke to the Rose Bowl, partially blocked an Art Rooney punt deep in State territory and the ball went out on the Wolfpack 40. Two plays later, Jap Davis galloped 22 yards on a fake reverse for the first Blue Devil touchdown. Bill Bailey kicked the first of his three extra points.

McAFEE AGAIN

George of the McAfees took the second Duke score over five minutes after the first 27 yard jaunt through the State line. With McAfee again leading the way with his running and pass catching, Duke scored in the third quarter with Roger Robinson doing the dirty work on a two yard buck over center.

Tommy Prothro intercepted a fourth period Pat Fehey forward and ran 55 yards to the State 11 before he was hauled down from behind by Art Rooney. Wes McAfee carried the ball twice and scored the touchdown, rounding out a complete afternoon for Duke and the clan McAfee.

State's aerial attack clicked with Fehey throwing and Rooney and Mickey Thompson catching. The Blue Devil front wall did not rush the Wolfpack throwers as hard as it hit the Carolina pitchers last Saturday. But then again there was no Stirnweiss or Lalanne in the State cast.

There wasn't much goal-line power in the State offensive repertoire either.

GRUNT, GROAN
TOURNEY ENDS
FALL PROGRAM

By RICHARD MORRIS

Woollen gym will become the scene of much activity Monday when weighing in for and entering of Intramural wrestling, the final all-Carolina sport on this extensive program for the fall quarter, will take place from 10:30 to 1:00 and from 2:00 to 6:00 in the wrestling room, 101 Woollen gym. Events to be held are 118, 126, 135, 145, 155, 165, 175 and heavy; no over-weight will be allowed in any event.

The draw for the events, which will be held immediately after the entries have been completed, and the schedule for the various bouts will be published in the DAILY TAR HEEL and will be posted in Woollen gym Tuesday. The first round of preliminaries will be held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and the remainder of the meets in both the dormitory and fraternity leagues will be continued Tuesday December 5.

The grunt and groan tournament has for many years been one of the favorite events on the intramural calendar for the fall quarter and this year's meet should go over in an even bigger manner as the race for top place in both leagues for the quarter hinges on its outcome.

To participate in the coming meet it is necessary to have an "A" medical rating, and for a championship to be declared there must be at least one wrestling match. Winning by de-
