

The Daily Tar Heel

The official newspaper of the Carolina Publications Union of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where it is printed daily except Mondays, and the Thanksgiving, Christmas and Spring Holidays. Entered as second class matter at the post office at Chapel Hill, N. C., under act of March 3, 1879. Subscription price, $3.00 for the college year.

1939 Member 1940 Associated Collegiate Press

REPRESENTED FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISING BY National Advertising Service, Inc. College Publishers Representative

Editor Martin Harmon Managing Editor Morris W. Rosenberg Business Manager William Ogburn Circulation Manager Larry Ferling

EDITORIAL WRITERS: Ed Rankin, Don Bishop, Bill Snider, Ray Stroupe. REPORTERS: Bill Rhodes Weaver, Louis Harris, Doris Goerch, Dorothy Coble, Jo Jones, Grady Reagan, Shirley Hobbs, Bucky Harward, Sylvan Meyer, Dick Young, Trudie Darden, Campbell Irving, Gene Williams, Zoe Young. COLUMNISTS: Adrian Spies, Johnny Anderson, Mack Hobson, Jimmy Dumbell. FEATURE BOARD: Martha LeFevre, Vivian Gillespie, Hal Tysinger, Jesse Mock, Sanford Stein, Philip Carden.

Technical Staff NEWS EDITORS: Carroll McLaughhey, Charles Barrett. NIGHT SPORTS EDITORS: Leonard Lobred, Fred Cazal, Rush Hamrick. DESK MEN: Edward Prizer, Bob Thomas, Ben Roebuck.

Sports Staff EDITOR: Shelley Rolfe. REPORTERS: William L. Beerman, Richard Morris, Harry Hollingsworth, Jerry Stoff, Jack Saunders, Frank Goldsmith.

Circulation ASSISTANT MANAGER: Jack Holland. OFFICE: Bradford McCuen, Larry Dale, D. T. Hall.

Business Staff LOCAL ADVERTISING MANAGERS: Jimmy Schleifer, Bill Bruner, Andrew Gennett.

LOCAL ADVERTISING ASSISTANTS: Hallie Chandler, Dot Pratt, Rufus Shelkoff, Tom Nash, Jack Dube, Sinclair Jacobs, Buck Osborne, Steve Reiss, Leigh Wilson, Bill Stanback, Griswold Smith, Junius Davis, Carrol Milam, Gene Tyler, Bob McNaughton.

DURHAM ADVERTISING MANAGERS: Bill Schwartz, Alvin Patterson. COLLECTIONS MANAGER: Morty Ulman.

COLLECTIONS STAFF: Donald Schlenger, Sanford Goldberg, Morty Goloy, Parke Staley, Dan Retchen, Mary Susan Robertson, Mary Ann Koonce, Elinor Elliot.

OFFICE MANAGER: Phil Haigh. OFFICE STAFF: Grace Rutledge, Bill Stern, Sarah Nathan, Oren Oliver, Dick Freeman, Bill Vail, Mickey Grindlinger.

For This Issue: News: RUSH HAMRICK Sports: SHELLEY ROLFE

MR. COATES

New Ship For Institute

Were Albert Coates a child, WPTF's afternoon birthday announcer, Uncle Scotty, might tell Mr. Coates he would find his birthday present over on Franklin street, across from Graham Memorial.

But it isn't Mr. Coates' birthday in the first place; its the tenth birthday of the Institute of Government.

The $50,000 building, however, is a gift for Mr. Coates — whose idea became the organization and whose work and perseverance has resulted in success for a needed institution.

Back in 1929 the Institute was begun and it's been growing ever since, first housed in the basement of Manning hall, then in the state capitol at Raleigh, now in the Methodist church and in two days to move into a spacious, well-built home of its own. Mr. Coates, a University law professor, could hardly have dreamed of the expansion of the institution in 1929—when stocks were dropping and banks were closing doors faster than the speakeasies of the "roaring twenties" period.

But the most important function of the Institute of Government is welding the principals and principles of local, county, state, and federal government into an efficient and money-saving hierarchy — to replace out-moded methods of government and to instruct office-holders in the requirements of their positions.

The men who should know, economists, historians, politicians, will tell you that in spite of the general hullabaloo being raised because of the federal government's vast spending program, federal government is far more efficient than any other branch; that the taxpayer gets more for his dollar in federal services than in local services.

This is the purpose of the Institute of Government, to eliminate the deadwood and waste from public administration. Already many achievements have been gained merely by distributing information throughout the state.

Convention of notables here tomorrow and Thursday is merely another feature in the program to promote understanding and good fellowship throughout the hierarchy.

Considering the first ten years' progress and the needs of such an organization, we must compliment Mr. Coates and his staff and bid them bon voyage on the next trip. We're glad they've got a new ship.

GOOD MUSIC Fritz Kreisler To Return After a highly successful concert here eight years ago, when the depression was still fresh in the minds of local audiences, Fritz Kreisler, foremost violinist in the world, returns here in the winter quarter. Sponsored by the local chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, national honorary music fraternity, his appearance will be in Memorial hall. And there is every reason to believe a sell-out audience will be there to hear him.

GOOD MUSIC

Fritz Kreisler To Return

Phi Mu Alpha is far from being a headline hunter. It is the sort of organization one hears little of. And it is gratifying to see that when it does break into public print, it does so with distinction.

Dismissing the controversy which occasionally bobs up as to the value (in 10 cent beers) of student entertainments scheduled by the Student Entertainment committee, we wish to congratulate Phi Mu Alpha for bringing here an artist in whose ability there is no doubt.

Lost Articles Now In YMCA Office Several articles lost are now at the YMCA office. The articles are a gold wrist watch, fountain pens, an overcoat, and some books.

Tempe Newsome said yesterday that YMCA cards were ready for those students who have not received them.

HELLO SUCKER!

By ED RANKIN

SOMETHING PHONEY The other evening in the YMCA telephone booth, a boy slumped against the wall twirling the dial. There was nothing unusual in that. But if you had looked close you would have observed that he was having difficulty making his connection.

Yeah, you guessed it. He was calling a coed dormitory. Pausing for a few seconds between attempts, he dialed 25 times straight without getting anything but the Bell Company's Bronx cheer, the busy signal.

The girls get many calls but not so large a number that you can't break in somewhere over a decent interval.

Which brings up the matter of what's wrong with Chapel Hill phone service in all the dormitories.

According to my very conservative estimates there are approximately 2,100 students living in Carolina's 21 dormitories. Seventeen of these dormitories have one phone to serve their 100 or so residents, while the four women's buildings have a phone on each floor.

If I'm not mistaken, the 17 men's dorms are split up on two party lines. This means, 200 prospective callers are served by one telephone line.

The complications are endless. In the women's dorms the regular first floor phone must be used to call up to the second and third floors for dates. If a fellow is calling, say, the second floor of No. 1, either the girls may be calling out, the first floor may be calling up to the second, or boys may be calling in. Try 6096 sometime if you don't believe me.

In the men's dorms there is only one phone and it takes time for a boy to get downstairs to receive his call, while there may be other callers outside, not mentioning the other dormitory on the line.

A general campus switchboard similar to the one at Woman's college in Greensboro has been suggested as a possible solution to the telephone problem. Phone booths in the men's dorm halls have long been a policy of various campus welfare boards to give the callers a sporting chance of hearing part of the conversation.

It seems to this writer that a house phone system, like the one in the Shack last year, should relieve coed dorm tangle. A direct line to each dormitory would help the other 17 men's buildings tremendously.

The University is a school of a thousand organizations. At least one group should take up the fight for better phone arrangements on the campus—if for no other reason than justify their existence.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

Here's something new in bowl games: University of Dayton students are planning a "pansy bowl." The game'll be played between the "Dazzling Day Dogs" and the "Battling Border Rats."

Which doesn't sound a bit pansy-like to us!

Boy, you really need those extra smokes per pack, if you're an Emory University student. A survey there revealed that if you buy one pack, you're almost sure to have one-quarter of the 20 bummed before the last one is gone.

Definitely, two can't smoke as cheaply as one!

Here's something new the democrats are being blamed for these days. The editor of the Wheaton College Record received a letter which said: "Dear Editor (You Democrat): We never froze at homecoming when Coolidge and Hoover were presidents."

An Ohio State University sociology class survey shows that the social distance between members of a class is great—but there was a high degree of "interaction" reported between students and their teachers.

Which explains why "An Apple for the Teacher" is a popular theme song!

Whether they're interested or not, (Continued on page 4, column 5)

OUR CHRISTMAS WRAPPINGS Will Give Your Gift Books That Seasonal Air THE BULL'S HEAD BOOKSHOP Browse — Borrow — or Buy

LAST CENTURY AUTHOR

HORIZONTAL Answer to Previous Puzzle

- 1,6 Pictured American author. 12 Oil bean. 13 Three-cornered cape. 15 Epilepsy symptom. 16 Ancient legend. 17 To sin. 18 Moss fuel. 19 Curious inspection. 20 Reverence. 22 Man fish. 25 Birds' feathers. 29 Perfect type. 30 Low river land. 31 Pith of a matter. 32 He was a famous or thinker. 35 Thought. 37 Over again. 38 Wasteful time.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

- 11 Stream demon. 13 Woods plant. 14 Credit. 19 Sanskrit dialect. 20 To permit. 21 Type measure. 22 Imitative. 23 To repulse. 24 City ward division. 25 Acts as a model. 26 Grew old. 27 Lens. 28 Chief actor. 30 Sweet substance. 33 Store room on a ship. 34 Hurried. 36 Indian shrine. 40 Bone. 41 Disordered. 43 Italian coin. 44 Cat's foot. 45 Measure of cloth. 46 Golf device. 47 Ovens. 50 Electrical unit.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

ODDS AND ENDS

By DON BISHOP

Reverberations of a cataclysm: Called on by his father to speak the blessing at the supper table on the Friday night before the Duke-Carolina incident, little Roy Armstrong, Jr., bowed his head and reverently said: "Hark the Sound of Tar Heel Voices — Amen!"

Several Chapel Hill children were in a heated discussion on the World War II. They were familiar with all the questions involved: participants, location of the battlefronts, etc. But there was some question about the fruits of victory that would go to the winner. One little fellow finally ventured the suggestion that the winner would get an invitation to play in the Rose Bowl...

As his literary works gain their deserved recognition with the passage of time, little incidents connected with the life of Thomas Wolfe, the University's greatest contributor to literature, will be of interest to his admirers. On one occasion several years ago, Wolfe and Alumni Secretary "Spike" Saunders were traveling by train from Atlanta. Mr. Saunders, who was at the time reading Maragret Mitchell's verbose novel of the Civil War South, inquired if Wolfe had read "Gone With the Wind." "Oh, no," he answered, "It's much too long for me."

From an item in an old Alumni Review: At the Asheville "jamboree" on August 28 the exhibits were Thomas Wolfe '20 and Judge Robert W. Winston '79. Massive, mountainous, and yet halting and faltering as he responded to an introduction, Mr. Wolfe scored the hit of the party when he stammered: "I suppose you folks will not believe me when I tell you I'm at loss for words. But I am."

In "Look Homeward, Angel," the author (who incidentally, was editor of the TAR HEEL) recounts how he would be walking along Franklin street and would suddenly dash up to a house, fall on the porch floor, and gaspingly cry for water, all the while pawing at the door. An excited housewife would find him there, frantically bring him water, and attempt to revive him. He would then suddenly stand erect, say "Thank You," and stalk away, apparently in perfect health. . . . Such are the attributes of genius. . .

today

- 3:00—Medical aptitude test in 206 Phillips hall. Coed archery on the coed field. Coed tennis at the courts. 4:00—Coed golf on the coed field. 5:00—Coed tennis at the courts. Coed fencing in Woollen gym. 6:40—Vespers in Gerrard hall. 7:15—Executive session of Di senate in New West. Phi assembly meets in New East. 7:30—Film forum in main lounge of Graham Memorial. 8:45—Debate squad meets in Grand room of Graham Memorial.

Vacationists In Bed

Having completed their weekend vacation, fourteen of the 34 patients in the infirmary, Saturday had left by yesterday. The 20 who decided to stay a little while longer were: Ben Wyche, Paul Quinn, Wallace Brown, Lloyd Hollingsworth, Thomas Clark, Royal Gilchrist, Charles Savarese, William Wright, Daniel Wolfe, Philip Green, Mack Stevens, Walter Clark, Richard Roberts, Bob Swain, Mary Lewis, Jesma Prevatte, Virginia Kibler, Elaine Ewald, Ernest Scarborough, and I. J. Kellum.

BIRTHDAYS

- Barber, Robert Kennard Beadles, Nicholas Aston Bunch, Velson Vance Dean, Priscilla Germany, Archie Herman Holcombe, Richard Bruglin Holland, Woodrow Wilson Jones, Charles Blake Morgan, James Virgil Robertson, Leon Whitfield

Williams college students have voted to retain hazing as part of the college's fraternity program.

Yale university has more endowment per student than any other U. S. college or university.

CHRISTMAS CARDS NOW ON DISPLAY LEDBETTER-PICKARD

A MASTERPIECE COMES TO LIFE! PAUL MUNI WE ARE NOT ALONE JANE BRYAN