KOCH WILL READ CHRISTMAS CAROL SUNDAY NIGHT

Community Sing To Precede Annual Presentation

Dr. Frederick H. Koch will read Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" for the 177th time Sunday night at 8:30 in Memorial hall. In addition to the one-man drama, Dr. Sherman Smith of the chemistry department, accompanied by a brass choir and the organ, will lead a community sing for a half an hour preceding the reading.

Koch first began his reading of the "Carol" some thirty-five years ago when he accepted an invitation to read the Dickens story at the University of North Dakota where he was teaching. Word of this performance spread quickly and soon he was accepting invitations to bring the Christmas story to many Dakota towns. On one occasion he was forced to ride a freight train to reach a performance in a small town, cut off from all other means of transportation by a blizzard.

When Dr. Koch came to the University in 1918, he brought the "Carol" tradition with him and again the fame of his performance spread and the invitations began to pour in. Since he has been at Carolina he has read the famous story in nearly every town and city in North Carolina and has presented his reading four times in New York City's Town Hall.

Dr. Koch opened his season this year at Winthrop college in Rock Hill, S. C. on December 2. During the next two weeks he will appear in Edenton, New Bern, Elizabethtown, Fairmont, Laurinburg, Rockingham, Raleigh, Wadesboro, Durham, Spring Hope, and Warrenton. He will close the season with a reading in Ayden on December 22.

Unbeaten, Unscored-On Teams Clash In Eight-Bowl Today

Two undefeated, untied, unscored-on and unplayed teams will meet on Fetzer field at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the annual Eight-Bowl football classic between juniors and seniors.

Cheerleaders and sponsors will represent both classes. Lois Barnes, Melville Corbett, Helen Jacobs, Dot Coble and Ethel Laidlaw sponsor the senior eleven, and Frances Dyckman, Marjorie Johnson, Alice Wells, Elaine Terriss and Stacy Crockett are to be sponsors for the junior team.

With these coeds on hand to cheer, both elevens are confident of victory. The battle promises to be a cleanly fought one. As a matter of fact every player is going to take a bath whether he needs it or not. To insure the best officiating Dan Desich has been signed as head referee, Chuck Slagle, as time-keeper, and Bob Hermson as head linesman.

COED COMMITTEE

Vance Hobbs, George Coxhead and Chasley Nelson are slated to lead the senior cheering section, and Tiny Hutton and Paul Harper will be junior cheerleaders.

A three-party committee headed by

Holiday Date Is Advanced To February 6

Barbara Liscomb and Tom Stanback were appointed co-chairmen of the arrangements committee for the annual Student-Faculty day to be held February 6, it was announced yesterday by John Bonner, president of the YMCA. The appointments were made by Bonner and Louise Jordan, president of the YWCA.

Miss Liscomb is a senior and a member of Pi Phi sorority. Stanback is also a senior, member of Sigma Nu fraternity, treasurer of the YMCA, and former publications union board member.

A committee of 40 students will meet tomorrow morning at 10:30 in the YWCA room to tender suggestions for the Student-Faculty day program. A tentative plan will be drawn up and submitted for approval to Administrative Dean R. B. House who will also suggest members of the faculty to be placed on the arrangements committee. The final selection is in the hands of the co-chairmen.

DATE ADVANCED

Date for the celebration was chosen on Wednesday by the campus affairs committee of the YMCA and YWCA. Because of the crowded spring quarter it was moved up to early February instead of remaining in the spring where the annual holiday was placed in 1937 and 1938.

The purpose of setting aside one day a year for Student-Faculty day is to enable the two branches of the University to come in closer contact with each other and to foster a more mutual understanding. A feature is that no classes will be held.

Local ASU To Send Two Delegates To National Meet

The local chapter of the American Student Union will be represented by two delegates when the fifth annual ASU convention convenes at the University of Wisconsin during Christmas week. Approximately a thousand student delegates and observers from over two hundred universities, colleges, and schools throughout the nation will be present.

In addition to the ASU members several prominent campus leaders have expressed their intention to attend.

At its last pre-convention meeting held last night the local chapter passed several motions in instructing the delegates. Motions were passed against a compulsory ROTC, militarizing of the CCC, increase in armament expenditure over the present fiscal year, moral embargo of Soviet Russia without more certain knowledge of the invasion of Finland, entry into war, proposed M day bills under and all conditions.

With the theme, "Student America Organizes For Peace," the delegates and observers will discuss the question of a foreign policy for the United States, and how to make democracy

Head Librarian

DR. CARL M. WHITE

UNC LIBRARIAN ACCEPTS POSITION WITH ILLINOIS

Resignation Of Dr. Carl White Effective In Fall

Dr. Carl M. White will terminate his career as University librarian September 1, 1940 when he takes up his duties as director of the library and library school of the University of Illinois, it has been announced. White will succeed Dr. P. L. Windsor, who is retiring from the Illinois post in which he has served since 1909.

White, a native of Oklahoma, came to the University in August, 1938, after teaching in the summer school at Michigan. Four years prior to coming to Chapel Hill, he was librarian at Fisk University. A graduate of Oklahoma Baptist university, White received his Ph. D. degree from Cornell in 1938 and his training in librarianship at Columbia.

When questioned about his resignation, the librarian stated: "I have the better part of a year yet as the librarian of the University of North Carolina, and my first concern is to put as much as I can into my work here."

Fashion Designer To Be Here Today

Students interested in fashion careers will be able to discuss opportunities for training and work in the field of fashion when Miss Julia Coburn of the Tobe-Coburn school for Fashion careers in Rockefeller plaza appears this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial.

Miss Coburn is well known and highly regarded throughout the fashion industry. She is qualified to discuss positions in buying, styling, merchandising and advertising in department stores and other organizations; in fashion writing, editing, advertising, and promotion with magazines, newspapers and advertising agencies.

Coeds Offered Two Physical Ed Courses

Two courses in physical education will be offered in the winter quarter to women minoring in physical education, or majoring in education, or are needing electives to supplement their major in other fields.

The first course, physical education 85b, deals with the development of rhythm among high school girls.

The second course; 52b, is the laboratory part of physical education 52 and will consist of the methods and materials used in the teaching of swimming and the coaching of basketball.

Schinhan Will Speak To Community Club

Dr. J. P. Schinhan of the University department of music will speak on "Folk Music" to the Chapel Hill Community club this afternoon at 3:30 in the Episcopal parish house.

Dr. Schinhan, who is in charge of collecting and analyzing folk music in connection with the WPA folklore project in North Carolina, will discuss music of several countries with emphasis on that of North Carolina.

STUDENT INJURED IN UNRULY LINES AS 613 REGISTER

Hill Carter Pushed Through Glass Panel In South Building

Unruly lines in South building yesterday as 613 students registered for the fall quarter resulted in lacerated wrists for Hill Carter, sophomore, who was pushed through a glass panel around the door leading to the General College.

I. C. Griffin of the Central Records office termed the crowd this year as the rowdiest in history.

The total of 613 for the first day of registration compares with 509 for the same time a year ago.

Registration blanks were distributed from the Central Records office to individual advisers and deans at 2 o'clock. Lines were begun as early as 1 o'clock.

Administration officials yesterday urged students to cooperate in carrying out registration according to the procedure suggested in yesterday's DAILY TAR HEEL, in order to simplify and hasten work.

Registration will begin again today at 9 o'clock for undergraduates and will continue until 1 o'clock tomorrow. Next week graduate students will begin their registration on Monday morning and continue, with the undergraduates, through the entire week until Saturday, December 16, at 1 o'clock. All students now in school are asked to register by that time.

Freshmen and sophomores should go to their advisers and then proceed to Memorial hall for the tally desk. Upperclassmen, with the exception of those in Arts and Sciences and graduates, are asked to go direct to their respective deans before going through the tally line. Other students go to their departmental advisers and then to their dean.

No Annual Picture Unless Fee Paid, Says Editor Lynch

"Those third-year students who have had their pictures taken for the junior section of the Yackety Yack but have not paid the necessary fees are requested to come by the Yackety Yack office between 2 and 6 o'clock this afternoon and either pay or make arrangements to pay, or their photographs will be left out of the yearbook entirely. Lack of payment is probably due to a misunderstanding that can be cleared up in a few minutes, but at any rate, they'd better see about it today—or else," Editor Jack Lynch said yesterday.

The students involved are:

- Aiken, B. W.; Allen, L. W.; Allgood, W. W.; Anderson, C. M.
- Ballard, H. C.; Barker, C. T.; Barringer, M. C.; Beerman, W. L.; Berger, Martin; Bledsoe, T. R.; Blum, S. B.; Boemmanns, Hermann T. or J.; ossa, H. M.; Bounds, H. V.; Branson, F. A.; Branson, B. L.; Brown, R. E.; Bryant, J. S.; Bunch, V. V.

Senior Meeting Fails To Pass Class Budget; Will Employ Postcards

Senior President

BENNY HUNTER

Hunter Terms More Meetings 'Useless'; $6,000 Remains Idle

In a final effort to pass the senior class budget, President Benny Hunter announced last night that the student council had agreed to permit balloting by postcards after the second class meeting yesterday failed by 80 votes to obtain the necessary quorum of 300.

Hunter said that student lethargy had rendered it definitely useless to plan other class meetings, and that if enough postcard ballots are not turned in, seniors would have no section in the Yackety Yack, no senior week, and no junior-senior dance.

"This is our last move," said Hunter. "If the class doesn't want to be a class, it will have to suffer the consequences."

"The $6,000 in class fees now idle cannot be spent until a budget is passed, and cannot be refunded to students until a majority vote in favor of such a refund," Hunter added.

TWO MEETINGS

The class has attempted at two meetings to secure a quorum of 300 votes under secret balloting rules recently put in effect by the student council. The new budget method adopted by the council last night was intended as a last resort after both meetings failed.

President Hunter said last night he has not yet decided when the postcard ballots would be issued.

The postcards will contain copies of class appropriations for various items during the year. Seniors will study these appropriations and then check whether or not they are favorable. A pledge will be required on each card before mailing it back to class officers.

This method will be something new in the perennial problem of passing class budgets—a problem that time and time again has threatened classes with a complete loss of all class functions.

Wayne County Alumni Will Hold Banquet

University alumni of Wayne county will hold their annual winter banquet next Thursday evening in Goldsboro, Lionel S. Weil, president of the Carolina alumni of that county, announced yesterday.

A record crowd is expected at the meeting and the program will feature a question-and-answer discussion, designed to tell the alumni about various phases of teaching and research at Chapel Hill. Maryon Saunders, secretary of the alumni association of the University, will lead a panel discussion of several members of the University faculty.

Southern Conference Officials Open Parley In Roanoke Today

By SHELLEY ROLFE

Snatching of freshman athletes will be the main topic of conversation, polite or otherwise, at the annual Southern conference meeting which begins a two-day stand at Roanoke today.

Troubled and worried by the practice of some larger colleges stealing promising freshmen away from the smaller schools, Clemson and Furman have proposed two additions to the conference constitution that would do away with the practice by simply making any student who had previously matriculated at a loop school ineligible for athletics at any other college in the conference.

The freshman problem will be the only controversial issue the delegates will have to deal with this year. There is no subsidization squabble such as there has been the past few winters and no schools have given indication of resigning from the conference.

NEW PROPOSAL

The first Furman-Clemson proposal would add a paragraph to Article seven, rule six of the conference by-laws. At present the article says a student who has played a sport at one college cannot transfer to a conference school and play the same sport. The Furman-Clemson change adds: "No student who matriculates at a Southern conference institution shall be eligible to participate in athletics at any Southern conference institution."

The second would delete paragraph two of article seven, rule eight which reads: "No freshman who has been a student at any other college shall be eligible to compete on a freshman team of a Southern conference institution." The following would be substituted in its place: "No student who matriculates at a Southern conference institution shall be eligible to participate in athletics at any other Southern conference institution."

The two proposals are practically the same and they all add up to one thing: It will not pay one conference school to attempt to wean away freshmen from another.

ADDITIONAL PROPOSAL

Richmond university proposes an addition to article seven, rule seven which is the five-year eligibility clause. Spider officials would add the following paragraph: "This rule shall ap-
