Morrison Speaks To 150 Delegates On Ideals, Aims

By CHARLES BARRETT

Over 150 Student party representatives from all portions of the campus last night nominated Herb Hardy for president of the senior class, and Ed Kantrowitz and Bill Ward for membership on the debate council.

The nominations, made at the second mass Student party assembly of the year and the largest in history, increased the number of candidates announced by both parties to seven, a new record for this season of the year.

INTERDORM MAN

Hardy received the nomination by a considerable majority in an intra-party contest with Ott Burton. He has been a leader in campus activities for three years, having concentrated his extra-curricular work in the interdormitory council, student legislature and intramural athletics.

This year he has been elected president of Mangum dormitory, vice-president of the interdormitory council, junior class commencement marshal, and an interdorm council representative on the student legislature, being one of the only juniors ever to have held the interdorm vice-presidency.

He has received special commendation for his work on the dormitory committee for Student-Faculty day and as chairman of the dormitory social room committee. He is also a member of the junior class dance committee and the Young Democrats club.

Ward and Kantrowitz, nominees for the debate council, have been active in campus literary and debating societies. Ward is sergeant-at-arms of the Phi assembly, a prominent member of the debate squad, and held several important positions at Davidson college before transferring here.

Kantrowitz has been prominent in the Di senate, the Carolina Political union, and the debate squad.

Dave Morrison, candidate for president of the student body, spoke a few words to the assembly on his ideals and aims in student government.

"We on this campus are proud of our system of student self-government," he said, "the history of which has been a long and interesting story of forward progress. The party system (Continued on page 4, column 6)

College Students Disfavor Compulsory Military Duty

21 Per Cent Of Women Vote To Require Men To Serve Either In Army Or Navy

While the youth of Europe marches off to the battle fronts, American college students stand overwhelmingly opposed even to the mention of compulsory military service in the United States.

This is revealed in a coast-to-coast poll conducted by the Student Opinion Surveys of America, results of which show that 81 per cent of the men and women attending the nation's colleges and universities are against requiring "every able-bodied American boy 20 years old to go into the Army or Navy for one year."

SCIENTIFIC POLL

The poll was taken using a scientific cross section that includes exact proportions of the different types of students registered in all the institutions of higher learning. College men, who would have to carry the guns and do the marching, were found to be the most opposed, only 17 per cent favoring. But 21 per cent of the half million girls going to college said they favored military training—for the boys.

The national results follow:
Men Women Both
Should require — 17% 21% 19%
Should not require 83% 79% 81%
These figures contrast with those of a recent poll taken by the Surveys, in which 87 per cent of the collegians declared themselves for ROTC training on the campus, 4 per cent more men than women giving their approval. Of those approving, however, 58 per cent (Continued on page 4, column 5)
