

NATIONAL CONTEST GIVES MAGAZINE SUPERIOR RATING

Judges Praise Green's Edits, Katz' Fiction

The Carolina Magazine, under the editorship of Allen Green, has received a rating of All-American Superior in the recent nation-wide contest sponsored by the National Scholastic Press association. The Magazine was one of the three such college publications to be given this rating out of the 32 entries in the contest.

The Mag, in scoring 950 points out of a possible 1,000, was especially praised by the judges on the general and editorial content. In rating the fictional features of the publication the judges saw fit to give a score of 90, that is, a superior mark. In commenting on the fiction the judges especially remarked on the writings of Irwin Katz, in October, 1939, issue, saying he showed considerable talent. Other work of this type by other student authors was acclaimed because of general effectiveness, good writing ability, clear thinking, and consistency.

The features of the Magazine came in for their share of the honors. The work of Dorothy Bonnell in the October, 1939, issue was commented upon highly and the series of "Professional Portraits" which has been running in the magazine for some time was called a "good idea." On the score sheet the features were given a superior rating of 65.

Want More Editorials

The small number of editorials in each issue was said by the judges to be the only fault in this field, but that the high degree of excellence shown in the editorials themselves counterbalanced any other drawback. Those of the November issue of last year came in for particular compliment by the judges.

Writing of a critical type could be enlarged in scope; that is, the coverage of the magazine could be broadened to include more fields of partic-

Germans Charge Allies Embarked For Norway Before Nazi Invasion

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Germany made public tonight documents which Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop charged show that Allied troops embarked for Norway 48 hours before the Germans landed and that Norway's ostensible neutrality was only a mass for pro-Allied partiality. The official gazette proclaims a decree by Chancellor Adolph Hitler asserting that Norway "by its attitude and the military hostilities, has created a state of war between Norway and the German Reich."

LONDON—British government officials charged German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop with a despicable lie designed to cover up German aggression in Norway and promised that the Allied power would throw all of their resources into war against Germany in the North. Air Minister Sir Samuel Hoare said in a broadcast speech that the Nazi Foreign Minister was a "sinister adventurer."

STOCKHOLM—German motorized columns reported to be moving up a narrow snow-drifted mountain pass road to within striking distance of the Dombas-Stoeren railroad—vital to the Allied position in central Norway and southern key to Trondheim. Reports received here from Norwegian frontier indicates that the Germans' main thrusts up the Gudbrands and Oester valleys have been slowed down temporarily.

BERLIN—The high command announced that two British cruisers and two transport ships have been blasted by Nazi aerial bombs off the Norwegian coast and that almost 300 British prisoners have been taken in hiding in Central Norway. The prisoners included staff officers and men of the King's own regiment, the communique said.

Dr. Hornell Hart Will Deliver Last University Sermon Today

Delivering the final University sermon of the year, Dr. Hornell Hart of Duke university will discuss "Life Ought to Be Thrilling" tonight at 8 o'clock at Hill hall.

Dean R. B. House will introduce the speaker, and he will be assisted in presiding by Julia McConnell and Syd Alexander, newly elected presidents of the YMCA and the YWCA. Immediately following the sermon, a reception will be held at Graham Memorial to which members of the audience are invited. Mrs. M. H. Stacy and Mrs. Allen Bonnell will pour punch, and the new officers of the YMCA will serve.

Supper Forum Tomorrow

Tomorrow, Dr. Hart will speak on "Religion in an Age of Science" at a faculty luncheon to be held at Carolina Inn. Tomorrow night at 6:30 at the Presbyterian church, he will discuss "The Student Looks at Love and Marriage" at the weekly junior-senior supper forum. Plates will be 30 cents each, and tickets should be purchased in advance at the YMCA.

A widely known lecturer on social and religious subjects, Dr. Hart was born at St. Paul, Minnesota, and educated at Oberlin college, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of Iowa. He has taught at the University of Iowa, Bryn Mawr, and Hartford Theological Seminary, and is now professor of sociology at Duke.

Besides being a lecturer, the speaker is the author of six books, among which are "Personality and the Family," "Living Religion," and "Skeptic's Quest." In 1930 and 1931 Dr. Hart was an investigator for President Hoover's commission on social training. He is a Quaker.

FERGUSON SPEAKS HERE ON TUESDAY

Commerce Groups Sponsor Alumnus

Garland Ferguson, Jr., member of the Federal Trade commission and distinguished alumnus of the University, will speak at a public lecture Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard hall. Ferguson, whose visit here is sponsored by the School of Commerce in cooperation with Beta Gamma Sigma and Delta Sigma Pi, honorary commerce fraternities, will speak on "The Administration of Federal Laws Affecting Business."

Ferguson, of Waynesville and Greensboro, is also a member of the temporary National Economic committee. He received an honorary LL.D. from the University last June for his contributions to public service.

"The Federal Trade Commission's Jurisdiction Over False and Misleading Advertising" will be his subject at a special lecture at 9:30 Tuesday morning for Professor M. D. Taylor's class in advertising. Anyone especially interested in this subject is invited to attend the class, to be held in 103 Bingham hall.

Visitors To Have 30 Guides Today

Since visitors to the University kept 15 student guides busy last Sunday at the administration's inauguration of the free service, over 30 guides have been made available for today's crowds.

The service set up to provide guides for visitors to the University campus and buildings and Chapel Hill will be continued as an experiment through the remainder of the school year.

Headquarters are at the Old Well opposite South building. A number of self-help students have been enlisted to act as guides. No regular tour has as yet been worked out, but visitors are provided with a mimeographed list of the points of interest.

May Day Production On Saturday To Take Form Of Mexican Fiesta

Carolina's coeds will be transformed into gay señoritas Saturday when May Day will be celebrated on this campus in the form of a Mexican fiesta, according to Mary Wood, president of Alpha Kappa Gamma.

Music, dancing pageantry, and a mock bull fight will be climaxed by the May Court and the crowning of Queen Louise Hudson. The script was written by Sanford Stein with special music by Jack Page and Jim Byrd and will be given with an all-student cast (weather permitting) in the arboretum. Stein and the team of Page and Byrd cooperated in the creation of the Student-Faculty Jamboree last

EDUCATION SCHOOL WILL OPEN WEEK'S UNC BROADCASTS

Health Department, IRC, Livingston, Playmakers Booked

The regular weekly schedule of the University radio studio begins today at 3 o'clock with a program sponsored by the Department of Education as a part of the "Know Your University" series. The broadcast will be carried over the Southern Broadcasting system.

Sponsored by the Department of Public Health, a second "Know Your University" program will be aired on Tuesday night from 8:30 to 9 o'clock over the Tar Heel network, which consists of stations WBIG, in Greensboro, and WDNC, Durham.

Wednesday's University Round table, with "The International Situation with Special Reference to the War in Norway" at the topic, will go on the air at 6:30 over the Tar Heel network. Taking part in the discussion will be E. J. Woodhouse, J. L. Godfrey, and J. C. Sitterson.

A recital by Herbert Livingston, pianist, will be broadcast on Thursday night at 7:30 as the "University Hour." WPTF in Raleigh will carry this program.

The Carolina Playmakers of the Air go on Saturday at 2:30 over the Mutual Broadcasting company national hookup, with a radio adaptation of F. H. Koch, Jr.'s play, "Smoky Mountain Road." The drama was adapted for radio by Robert Finch.

The studio yesterday made the following announcement concerning changes in time of broadcasts:

"Because of the beginning of Daylight Saving Time the following changes in the radio schedule have been made: Monday program changed to Wednesday from 6:30 to 7 o'clock; Saturday program moved up one hour, 2:30 to 3:00; Thursday program moved up one hour, 2:30 to 3:00; (Continued on page 4, column 3)

New Officers' Conference Will Give All The Answers

By Philip Carden

The oft-repeated mental phrase among newly elected campus officers, "Now I've got it, what am I going to do with it?" will be answered Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week in the second annual new officers' training conference which will bring together all prominent members, new and old, of campus organizations in lively, frank discussions of what student government is and what it ought to be.

IRC Announces Acceptance Of 15 New Members

Fifteen applicants have been admitted to membership in the International Relations club, President Manfred Levey announced yesterday.

Wesley M. Bagby, Thelma Brammer, Lou Alice Hamrick, George McDermott, William Keppel, Dallas Edwards, Joseph W. Reid, Jr., Charles Elliott, Rudolf Grun, William I. Ward, Jr., Zennie Riggs, Lawrence Lerner, E. Robert Lamson, Randall McLeod, and Joseph Mengel are the newly-elected members. Approximately 35 students applied for membership, 15 of whom were accepted. Action will be taken on the other applicants in the near future, at which time they will be made associate members. The club is limited to 40 members, according to a newly instituted policy, and all other interested students are made associate members and given preference when vacancies are filled.

Arnold W. Kean, New York correspondent for the "Social Demokrat" and an expert on Scandinavian affairs, will participate in an informal student discussion at the regular meeting of the club tomorrow night at 7:45 in the Grail room of Graham Memorial. There will be a short business meeting at which time chairmen of committees will submit reports.

"One More Spring"

The bus station scene in "One More Spring" will be rehearsed tonight at 7 o'clock in Memorial hall, Director Carroll McGaughey announced yesterday. Tomorrow night there will be an important rehearsal of the YMCA and garden scenes at 7 o'clock in Memorial hall and the entire cast is required to be present.

Student-Faculty Day Change Is Proposed

By Bucky Harward

A long-delayed motion to change the date of Student-Faculty day to the fall quarter in order to eliminate "its interference with classwork" will be considered by the University faculty at a general meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Charging that when the holiday is observed on a weekday "it throws a monkey wrench into laboratory work which is planned week by week," Dr. J. F. Dashiell of the psychology department will suggest that the date fall on a Saturday, preferably but not necessarily when a home football game is scheduled.

CHRISTIAN GROUPS FROM 25 SCHOOLS MEET HERE TODAY

Hart, McCorkel To Address Group In Graham Memorial

Representatives from 25 white and colored colleges from all over the state will meet today from 10 o'clock to 4:30 in Graham Memorial for the North Carolina Student-Christian Movement conference in an effort to effect better coordination between the Student-Christian associations in the state.

This morning's worship period will be conducted by A & T Negro College of Greensboro. At 10:30 Dr. Hornell Hart of Duke university will address the group on "Personal Religion."

At noon, George Cole of Duke, president of the conference will conduct a business meeting at which officers for next year will be elected. A buffet luncheon will be served in the banquet room of Graham Memorial.

Roy McCorkel, secretary of the National Inter-Seminary movement, will speak on "College Students in a World Crisis" in the afternoon from 3 o'clock to 4:30.

GENERAL COLLEGE REOPENS OFFICES

Rogerson Announces Additional Changes

The general college and its advisers yesterday reopened at their new offices on the third floor front of South building as assistant controller L. B. Rogerson announced other changes of office location which will take place within the month.

The general college now occupies part of the space formerly taken by the extension division and news bureau, which have moved to Swain hall and Bynum gym respectively. The central records office will move into the rest of the third floor office space.

The offices on the second floor vacated by the general college will be utilized by the self-help office formerly quartered in the Y, and the pre-college guidance, admissions and loan offices all formerly located on the first floor of South.

It has not yet been decided what will be done with the resulting vacant space on the first floor.

The cashier's office will be moved to the basement space left by the accounting department when it moved to Swain hall. The office of Mrs. M. H. Stacey, adviser to women, will then be moved to the cashier's office.

Mrs. Collier Cobb Will Entertain DAR

Davie Poplar chapter of the DAR will meet at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Collier Cobb, Sr.

Social Scientists Meet Here Tuesday For Five-Day Regional Conference

The Alumni building of the University, which during the recent months has been remodeled throughout and elevated from three to four stories, is to get a sort of second dedication next week when it will be formally opened to the Institute for Research in Social Science and the departments of sociology and public welfare social work.

The occasion will be observed by a five-day conference which will bring to the campus some of the nation's leading social scientists for the annual meeting of the Population association of America in joint session with a University of North Carolina conference on regional research and development.

Current research in population will be the theme of the Population association, meeting in continual session May 1-2. Preceding this conference on April 30, leading population experts, including Warren S. Thompson, of Miami university and the Scripps Foundation for population Research, and Rupert B. Vance, professor on the Institute staff and author of scores of research publications, will conduct a special research conference in a study of the Southern population.
