NEW OFFICERS' CONFERENCE MAY BRING REFORMS

Chairman Ellis Says Small Groups Will Make Reports

Although the main purpose of the new officers' training conference beginning tomorrow is to better qualify campus leaders through frank, lively discussions of their responsibilities, the sessions are not likely to be just talk and nothing else, Phil Ellis, program chairman, pointed out yesterday.

Any special interest groups in the conference which hit upon ideas for reorganization, reform or improvement in student government or organizations, will be asked to state the idea in a written resolution which will be passed on to the student legislature or the most appropriate student body, Ellis said.

"Anyone who has a complaint to register against student government or organizations now has a chance to do something about it," Ellis said. "A complete rejuvenation and several significant alterations in student government might easily develop from this conference."

Features of the Conference

Features of the conference from which such alterations are likely to evolve include cross-examinations of student council members and all fee-administrating boards, a special session on all independent campus organizations and a general discussion on the Buccaneer, expected to be one of the warmest talkfests of the conference.

The program will open at 1 o'clock tomorrow with a luncheon meeting, at which Dean of Students F. F. Bradshaw, and his assistant, Fred Weaver, will be the principal speakers.

At 3 o'clock and later at 7:30, the conference will divide into special interest groups on fraternity government, women's government, dormitory government, class officers, independent organizations, publications, and woman's dormitory government.

Dogwood at Carolina

Here is a glimpse of Battle park showing a portion of the dogwood—both pink and white—which is now flourishing throughout the village and surrounding countryside. The blossoms are in their full glory and hundreds of sightseers are visiting the University daily to see the campus and village in their spring raiment.

The University is providing student guides, with headquarters at the Old Well in front of the South building, for Sunday afternoon visitors, and most of the buildings are open to the public at that time.

Dorm Council, Phi Assembly, Monogram Club To Elect New Officers At Meetings Tonight

Phi Will Discuss Arboretum Benches

Full quarter officers of the Phi assembly will be elected at tonight's meeting of the society which will be held at 7:30 in the Phi hall, fourth floor New East.

Speaker Marian Igo announced yesterday that only those members who had attended at least half of the meetings during the past quarter would be allowed to vote.

The two bills up for discussion at tonight's meeting are: "Resolved, That the President should not make any attempt to secure strategic military islands in the western hemisphere from foreign powers in part payment of their war debts;" and "Resolved, That more benches should be placed in the arboretum."

Speaker Igo yesterday explained that the assembly was holding its elections this year early in the quarter so that the newly-elected officers may be able to take part in the New Officers' Training conference, which will open tomorrow.

Hillel Foundation To Meet Tonight

Members of the Hillel cabinet will meet tonight at 7:30 in Rabbi Samuel Sandmel's cottage next the Carolina Inn. Nominations of next year's officers will be made at that time.

N. C. Symphony Orchestra To Give Concert Sunday Night In Hill Hall

The second concert of the recently reorganized North Carolina symphony orchestra will be presented next Sunday night at 8:30 in Hill music hall, under the auspices of Graham Memorial and the Student Entertainment committee.

Featured in Sunday night's program will be the popular "Rhapsody in Blue," by the American composer George Gershwin. The orchestra will follow the original score of this jazz rhapsody, first performed in Carnegie hall in 1924. Ferde Grofe made the now-famous orchestral score, which

CHRISTIAN GROUP ELECTS OFFICERS

Susan Klaber Is New Secretary

Robert Bond of N. C. State College for Negroes was elected president of the North Carolina Student-Christian movement for the coming year at the group's conference held here Sunday. Casey Jones of Davidson was made the new vice-president, Susan Klaber of Carolina was chosen secretary, and Walter Evans of A. and T. College at Greensboro was elected treasurer.

Representatives from 25 white and colored colleges from all over the state met from 10 o'clock until 4:30 in Graham Memorial for the conference in an effort to effect better coordination between the Student- (Continued on page 2, column 6)

Five in Interdorm Presidential Race

New officers of the Interdormitory council will be chosen tonight as delegates meet at 7:30 in Graham Memorial to pick a president from five previously nominated students, and nominate and elect a vice-president and secretary-treasurer.

In the five-way race for the presidency are Ott Burton, president of K; Preston Nisbet, athletic manager of Mangum; Bill Shuford, vice-president of Grimes; Ben Heath, vice-president of Steele; and Bob Farris, president of H.

The president, succeeding Jack Vincent, will be inaugurated immediately after his election.

All of the new officers will attend the officers' training school, which begins tomorrow.

Election of officers in separate dormitories began yesterday and will continue through today and tonight.

Jackson To Speak During Peace Day

Following an afternoon speech to the American Student union at Woman's College of the University, Gardner Jackson, national legislative representative of Labor's Non-Partisan League, will deliver the key address of the ASU Peace Day celebration on Thursday evening.

Jackson will speak on "Civil Rights and the Public Mind," as related to peace, and will lead an open forum discussion after his address.

COED STUDENTS TO TAKE PART IN CONFERENCE

Corbett, McLean, McMaster Will Lead Discussion Series

For the first time in the history of Carolina, women's self-government will be considered along with that of men when the annual new officers' training conference opens Wednesday.

Invitations will be sent to all undergraduate girls to attend the three meetings featuring discussions of problems confronting the coeds, in order that all women students, instead of just newly-elected leaders, will receive training. All meetings will be held in the Institute of Government building.

The first in the series of discussions will be led by Melville Corbett, on Wednesday at 4 o'clock, with a general criticism of the policies and functions of the women's student council. Such problems as those of the honor code and campus code, student entertainment, the Buccaneer, and fraternities will be considered.

That evening at 7:30 Sara McLean will conduct a session on the type of house government desired at Carolina. Coeds will discuss ways of remodeling the present system and of increasing social activities in the dormitories.

The final meeting will take place Thursday at 7:30 when a program will be planned for the Woman's association for next year in the light of the problems that will be brought up during the conference. The main problem to be discussed at this time will be a determination of principles. Under the direction of Jane McMaster coeds will decide if the women's association should be an integration of women's organizations, an advancement of women as a whole, or a harmony of the two.

AAA COMPLIANCE COURSE BEGINS

Students Trained For Summer Work

A short course on checking compliance under the AAA program of the United States Department of Agriculture will begin tonight at 7:30 in room 103 of Bingham hall, where all classes are to be held during the course.

The full course consists of six classes, five of which will be devoted to lectures and instructional work, the sixth to an examination. The course is under the supervision of H. A. Patton, head field officer; and R. C. Barnes, principal field assistant of the North Carolina State office of the AAA.

The purpose of this short course at Carolina is to permit students to take it who wish to apply for work in their home counties this summer on checking compliance. The same course was given here in the spring of 1939 and resulted in 63 Carolina stu- (Continued on page 2, column 4)

Folk Dancers To Demonstrate Art Of Mountain People At Grail Dance

A group of folk dance artists who have performed before the King and Queen of England will come down from the mountains of Buncombe county Saturday night, May 4, to demonstrate their ancient art to local dancers at the second Spring quarter Grail dance.

Under the direction of Bascom Lamar Lunsford the mountain folk dancers will give "floor shows" from 9 until 10 o'clock and again from 11 to 11:30 o'clock. The dance hours will be from 8 until 12 o'clock, and Charlie Wood and his orchestra will play for the regular dancing. The folk the Institute for Research in Social Science at the University this week.

Noted social scientists from many parts of the nation will attend the combined sessions which will continue through Saturday, marking a sort of "re-dedication" of the renovated and enlarged Alumni building now turned over to the Institute, headed by Dr. Howard W. Odum.

Participating in tomorrow's seminar to be presided over by Dr. Rupert B. Vance, University sociologist, will be: T. V. Smith, Louisiana State university; W. E. Garnett, V. P. I.; Paul Foreman, University of Mississippi; Rudolph Heberle, Louisiana State university; W. E. Cole, University of Tennessee; Carl Rosenquist, University of Texas; John MacLachlan, University of Florida; H. L. Geisert, University of Alabama; O. D. Duncan, Oklahoma A. & M.; Warren S. Thompson, Miami university; B. O. Williams, Clemson college.

Population Association

Dovetailing the Conference program on population and regional research beginning Wednesday will be the annual meeting of the Population Association of America to be held here this week.

Wednesday's and Thursday's program will present current research in population by leaders of the Population association and on Thursday evening there will be a joint meeting of the Population association and the University conference.

Friday and Saturday will be turned over to the conference with discussions on such topics as general structure of Southern regional industry, capital wealth, regional income and wealth, resources and utilization, population, education, economy, race and regional culture, functional aspects of the region and sub-region for research and planning, attitudes, education, the library, the press and civic effort.

Wood's Orchestra To Play For Coeds At Friday Formal

Coeds will have an opportunity to return boys' invitations at the annual Woman's association formal dance Friday night in Woolen gymnasium. Charlie Wood and his orchestra will play.

Incoming officers of the Woman's association will participate in the figure and will receive keys from the old officers. Girls receiving awards are: Jane McMaster, president; Anne Williams, vice-president; Sara Sawyer, secretary; and Mary Winslow, treasurer.

Girls may purchase bids to the dance at the dormitories or sorority houses. Escort bids will be $1.00, stag bids 50 cents.

A special section of Saturday's DAILY TAR HEEL will be edited by coeds, with Doris Goerch and Ruth Curtis Robeson as editors. The staff will be composed of Zoë Ellen Young, Allen Cutts, Rachel Howard, Helen Plyler, Jo Jones, Martha LeFerve, Vivian Gillespie, and Ernestine Hobbgood.

Louise Hudson will preside as queen over the May day festival in the arboretum Saturday afternoon. The Grail will sponsor an informal dance Saturday night when the ten most outstanding senior girls, elected last week, will be announced during the figure.

dancers will perform and then teach their art to some of the local dancers.

Maud Carpeles, British Folklorist and folk dance authority, said of the American folk dance, "The form of dance that is known to the mountain people has an infinite variety of figure and is a finely constructed dance, expressive of great beauty and forceful emotion."

Another authority has said: "It is well recognized that the Southern Appalachian region has a greater wealth of folk material than any other section of the nation. The reason lies (Continued on page 2, column 5)
