French Instructor Found Dead In Home

Body Found In Gas-Filled Bathroom

W. B. Napier Had Fellowship Here Since 1935

William Benjamin Napier, 30, University French instructor, was found dead last night in the gas-filled bathroom of his home on E. Franklin street, across the street from President Graham's house.

Walter Creech, another French instructor, discovered the body and summoned a physician but efforts to revive Napier failed.

Napier, who has held a teaching fellowship here since 1935 and virtually had completed work for his doctorate, had been in ill health for sometime and was recuperating from an attack of pneumonia.

He left a Durham hospital Monday, September 23, and already had attended several classes this quarter.

At midnight relatives said funeral arrangements had not been made but that the body was at Andrews Funeral Home here.

Napier was a native of Fayetteville and was graduated from the Wilmington high school. He attended Virginia Military Institute a year before entering the University. He was graduated here in 1931.

He spent the year 1937-38 in study and travel abroad on a fellowship awarded him by the Belgian government.

Survivors include his widow, the former Miss Elizabeth Dixon of Fayetteville, an employee of the University News Bureau.

Others are his mother, Mrs. J. Napier of Wilmington and Whiteville; and three brothers, Errol Napier, Wilmington; George Napier, Miami; and Charles Napier, Monroe.

Lee Wiggins Resigns A.S.U. National Chairmanship Because Disagrees With Organization's Policies

University Senior Favors Roosevelt Administration

Lee Manning Wiggins, University senior, has resigned his position as national chairman of the American Student union, a post to which he was elected last December at the national convention of the ASU.

In a letter to Herbert Witt, executive secretary of the Union, Wiggins declared that he is not in sympathy with the position the ASU has taken in fighting Roosevelt and "branding the brave anti-fascist struggle of the British people as a purely imperial-ist war." This platform, Wiggins believes, is working "to destroy the last best hope of democracy and progressive social development."

Wiggins Disagrees

"To assert, as the American Student union does," declares Wiggins, "that there is no difference between the major parties is not only contrary to the record, but dodges the responsibility of every American to influence the future of our country in every possible way; and it plays into the hands of the enemies of the New Deal, many of whom have been the enemies of academic freedom..."

Wiggins, former president of the branch of the ASU here on the campus, goes on to say that he supports the Roosevelt ticket because "through it, and through it alone, with the constant vigilance of our entire citizenry, lies the hope of continuing government sensitive to the needs of the people. Willkie's record and the nature of his support indicate that his way is the certain path to reaction."

Charts New Path

"The Roosevelt administration has charted a new path of progress for American democracy," says Wiggins. (Continued on page 4, column 3)

Di Disapproves Buccaneer; Speaker Sloan Addresses Phi

Linker, Rogers Debate Question

"The misuse of freedom is the death-knell of our student government," Senator Arthur Linker declared last night in an intense debate at the first meeting of the Di senate which ended in a resolution to abolish the Carolina Buccaneer.

The resolution that the Buccaneer be abolished was carried despite the emphatic maintenance by Senator Manfred Rogers that such a decision would tend to "prove student government here a farce, used by the board of trustees to cover their actual governing of important campus activities."

"If the Buccaneer is discontinued we shall be the only large University without a humor magazine," he challenged.

This discussion closed the meeting open to all those interested in public speaking and debating. For their benefit, Dr. A. R. Newsome, former president of the Di senate and head of the history department, traced the history and significance of the Senate organizations in the University.

Concluding his discussion, Dr. Newsome advised, "If I were a new student interested in doing the most beneficial thing for fitting myself to establish happy relations with my fellows in the outside world knowing what I now know, I should recommend joining one of these organizations."

Koch Will Give Illustrated Talk At 7:30 Tonight

Included among the more than 100 slides which Dr. Frederick H. Koch will show tonight at 7:30 in his annual illustrated lecture in the Playmaker theater will be a new set of pictures on the Drama Festival held here last April. Just received from the photographer, these pictures show scenes from The Carolina Playmakers production of Paul Green's "The Field God" given here during the festival, and shots of the notables who came to Chapel Hill to do honor to the Playmakers "coming of age."

Clifford Odets, DuBose Heyward, Barrett Clark, Arthur Hobson Quinn, George Denny and John Selby were among those attending.

New pictures of some of the productions of some of the original plays written in Koch's playwriting classes last year have been added to the collection of years past, and will be shown during this account of the growth of The Playmakers.

Famous Playmakers who will be pictured will be Paul Green; Thomas Wolf; Kay Kyser; Eugenia Rawls; Sheppard Strudwick; George Denny; Josephina Niggli; and Foster Fitz-Simons.

The meeting is scheduled for The Playmakers Theater at 7:30 tonight.

New Head Gives Inaugural Talk

Before a large crowd, large in spite of the pep rally, Bob Sloan, new speaker of the Phi assembly, gave his inaugural address last night at the first meeting of the organization for this year.

Stressing ways in which the Phi might "better serve its members," Sloan stated that the "Phi must analyze and discuss topics... of vital interest" to the students, "should widen its activities in regard to public speaking and debate," especially radio programs, and finally to "stand for cooperation between its own members and between other campus organizations."

The main business of the session was taken up with discussion of a resolution to the effect that the "Phi assembly, in the interest of fair play and democracy, endorse 'Willkie for President' club on the campus." After much debate the bill was carried.

Plans for a radio program sponsored by the assembly are underway. (Continued on page 4, column 3)

Spontaneous Pep Rally Held 1500 Students Back Up Team

A spontaneous expression by 1500 members of the Carolina student body of their faith in the Tar Heel football squad of 1940 was given voice last night at a rally in Memorial Hall, arranged on the "spur of the moment" by a group of student leaders.

Student body president, Dave Morrison, took the platform first to present the first public announcement of the administration's decision in regard to the drum majorette and coed cheerleaders.

Letter to Squad

A letter to the football squad was read by Billy Shuford, sec-treas. of the student body. It was approved by the students assembled and dispatched to Coach Wolf who will read it to the squad.

Co-head cheerleaders, Charlie Nelson and Jane Rumsey, lead the large turn-out in a few cheers and songs. Several members of the band aided with their music.

Assisting Nelson and Rumsey were: Jeanne Connell, John Feuchtenberger, George Coxhead, and Curry Jones.

The Men's glee club is meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the choral rehearsal room of Hill music hall. Although many boys have tried out and around 100 have been accepted, there are still a few vacancies in the club. Singers desiring membership may come to this rehearsal and make appointments with Prof. Clyde Keutzer for try-outs.

Administration Acts Quickly On Committee Proposals

By Philip Carden

A five-day campus furore ended last night as the University administration approved recommendations of a student-faculty committee that coed cheerleaders and a drum majorette be allowed to continue activity at Carolina football games.

The committee's report also proposed that a group composed of presidents of student organizations be appointed to advise the coeds and to prevent recurrence of trouble similar to that which flared over the weekend.

Debate in the special student-faculty committee ended about 6:30 last night and in less than an hour approval of its recommendations had been granted by President Graham, Dean House, Mrs. R. H. Stacy, adviser to women, Dean Bradshaw and President Dave Morrison.

Members of Committee

Dean House appointed the committee which studied the problem for two days before making its report. In the discussion were Dean Bradshaw, chairman, Dave Morrison, Jane McMaster, president of the women's association, Mrs. Stacy, Ferebee Taylor, president of the University club, and Charlie Nelson, co-head cheerleader.

In issuing the committee resolution, passed by a vote of 5 to 2, Dean of Students Bradshaw issued a statement clearing up "several misconceptions about the problem."

"The approval of the committee's report rests on the faith that the student committee will protect the school and the girls against untoward incidents," he said.

Saturday Alone

"The action last Saturday was taken by the girls themselves on advice given for that day alone.

Keutzer Sings Tonight In Hill

Tenor Presented In First Recital

Clyde Keutzer, new head of the voice department of the music school, is presenting the first faculty recital of the year tonight at 8:30 in Hill Music hall. Mr. Keutzer is a popularly acclaimed concert artist and teacher of New York, on a year's leave of absence from the Philadelphia Opera company, with which he is leading tenor.

The program tonight is essentially the same one Keutzer presented at his Town Hall debut in New York early this year, this debut leading directly to his engagement with the Philadelphia Opera. It opens with a group of German "lieder" by Hugo Wolf. These songs are "Ein Standchen Euch zu bringen," "Alle gingen, Herz, zur Ruh," "Der Soldat—Number II" and "Trunken mussen wir alle sein."

The modern French school of vocal composition is represented in "Las Procession" of Cesar Franck, "Le Manoir de Rosamonde" of Duparc, "Chanson d'Automne" by Jean-Jacques Marquis, and "Seguidille" of de Falla. Sing's Love Song

From "Die Walkure" by Richard Wagner, Mr. Keutzer is singing "Liebeslied" (love song), which occurs in the first act of the opera, when Siegmund comes to the realization of his overpowering love for Sieglinde.

Prof. Keutzer is singing "The Vagabond," of Dr. Jan Philip Schinhan, member of the University music faculty, tonight at its premiere performance in the South. During his concert tour this year he sang in many northern and western cities. Other songs in the English group, "When I Have Sung My Song," Charles, "At Tankerton Inn," Fisher, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" arranged by Quilter, and "The Sleigh" by Richard Konetzky. Germany Becomes Resigned for Longer War; U. S. Warned Not to Aid Britain More Boldly

By United Press

What may be an explanation for Germany's intense diplomatic offensive of the past week and her search for new allies came from the Nazi high command Tuesday.

In an almost outright admission a spokesman of the German war leaders made it clear that the "softening up" of British resistance is a big task and that Germany is becoming resigned to a longer war—at least through the coming winter.

There was no mention of invasion in the spokesman's statement that said that although "cyclonic" air blows will be rained upon England so long as the weather permits Adolf Hitler will count upon his counter-blockade and the ravages of "general hunger" to help wear down Britain's resistance.

This significant statement would appear to lend credit to Britain's assertion immediately after the signing of the Italo-German-Japanese axis in Berlin last Friday that Hitler has abandoned his hopes of a quick knock-out victory and seeking allies for a long war.
