

Legislature Passes New Humor Mag Bill

Defeats Move To Combine Buc, Magazine

The Student legislature last night, meeting in special session, overcame attempts to block passage of the humor magazine bill and after lengthy argument approved it by an overwhelming majority.

A heated debate raged when opponents of the proposed humor magazine attempted to change the bill calling for a new publication with an amendment to combine it with the Carolina Magazine.

After a vote was taken defeating the proposed amendment, the legislature approved the original bill by 25 to 8.

W. J. Smith, member of the Ways and Means committee, introduced the bill drawn by his committee. The bill, for the most part, accepted the recommendations of the original investigating committee to set up a humor magazine of "the highest moral level."

Jick Garland, representative of the Interfraternity council, leading the forces which asked that an amendment be made to the bill, argued that if both magazines were combined, the money saved would amount to enough to publish a campus picture magazine.

Bishop Opposes Amendment

Don Bishop, editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL, opposed the amendment because "seven qualified students have studied the problem and found after investigation that the combination would be impractical from a financial and literary standpoint." Bishop questioned the desirability of overriding the suggestions of a committee which had spent much time investigating the possibility of a joint publication.

Dave Morrison, president of the Student body, spoke in behalf of the amendment and opposed the amendment. Morrison said that he believed it impractical at present to combine the two publications.

Ferebee Taylor, president of the University club, stated that if the amendment was passed it would call for a new bill entirely.

Speaker of the legislature, Bill Cochran, said after the meeting that "the legislature has granted a charter to the new humor magazine under which it will operate. One of the salient features of the charter is that the staff publish a magazine which will be in keeping with the high ideals and (Continued on page 4, column 5)

Hundreds Plan Fordham Excursion

Deadline Today On Reservations For Bus Seats

"Two hundred students have already signed up to make the Fordham trip this weekend, and we expect 500 or 600 to be ready to leave Friday," Jimmy Howard and Al Hughes, co-workers in charge of transportation, announced last night.

Howard stated that those students who expect to leave by bus on Thursday must make reservations at the YMCA today. Those who are going by train have until Friday to make reservations.

Either Howard or Hughes will be at the YMCA every day this week at chapel period or in the afternoon from 2 until 5 to give any additional information needed.

No definite plans have been released by the University club but President Ferebee Taylor will announce the New York activities in tomorrow's DAILY TAR HEEL.

Carolina's showing against Tulane has increased the number of students who are expected to attend the game this weekend.

Both the band and Cheerio club are going to attend the game in a body. Howard and Hughes pointed out that those students who are going on the train will be riding with the football team, Cheerio club and band. The entire Carolina student body will be together.

Headquarters for Carolina students on the Howard-Hughes trip in New York will be at the Hotel Lincoln. Plans are underway now to obtain special rates. The Hotel Piccadilly is offering a special student rate. Reservations must be made in advance.

Around fifty girls from the Woman's college in Greensboro have already made reservations to go up on the train with the Carolina student body.

Last year Carolina students followed the team to Philadelphia for the Penn-Carolina game. Around 500 students made that trip. The entire train carried nothing but the Carolina band, football team, and students.

Howard stated that last week many girls felt they could not make the trip because riding the bus would be too strenuous. "That is the main reason for securing the train," Howard said. "Girls can go. The trip will not be hard on anyone, and it is very easy for students to mingle with one another."

Transportation by bus will be $10.85 round trip. Train fare is $13.40. Tickets on the train are good anytime within 10 days.

CPU Speaker, Dr. Muste, to Explain Pacifist's Alternative to Warfare

Foremost Pacifist Spokesman Talks Here Thursday at 7:30

Declaring that the United States should not capitulate to Hitler, Dr. A. J. Muste in his recent pamphlet "Total War or Total Pacifism" said, "Let us take the initiative away from Hitler by ceasing to be afraid of him. Let us turn to God and stop trembling before Adolf Hitler."

Establish Righteousness at Home

Dr. Muste, director of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, pointed out in his pamphlet, "The events of recent months signalized by the German subjugation of Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium and France, admittedly placing Britain in great peril, and presenting the possibility of a swift and decisive German victory in the European war, confronts us with the necessity of making a clean-cut choice between total war and total pacifism—a choice between unlimited SKIPPER BOWLES and his band will serve as bait this morning to lure seniors into Gerrard hall to vote on the fourth-year budget.

Bowles Plays At Senior Class Meeting Today

Class '41 Always Has Passed Budget On First Attempt

With Skipper Bowles and his orchestra furnishing the bait for a quorum, the senior class will vote on its budget this morning at 10:30 in Gerrard hall.

There is a question which of two traditions the class will follow today. No senior class, at least for the past four years, has succeeded in getting a quorum to pass its budget on the first attempt. On the other hand the class of '41 passed its budget in one try as in its freshman, sophomore and junior years.

The sophomore class started this year's quorum walk last week when its first try brought out about half enough of the class to make a vote valid.

Yackety Yack Space
The class will have $6,225 to spend this year with the nearly $1,000 left from last year's junior budget. Over half this amount will be spent getting senior pictures in the Yackety Yack. Two thousand, nine hundred and twenty-five dollars will go to the Yackety Yack for space and $812.50 will go to Wooten Moulton for photography.

Wooten-Moulton for photography. proposed budget is the $1,500 set aside for the senior share of expenses of the annual junior-senior dance.

It is reported that Bowles' arranger has composed a number as hot as a fresh fox in a forest fire which he calls the "Senior Stomp." This number will be featured for the first time before the seniors this morning.

Flawless Budget
Herb Hardy, president of the class, said last night that much deliberation had been diligently devoted to the drawing up of the budget for the class of '41, and as far as he knew the results are flawless.

The complete budget follows:

Ryan Says University Will Have Nation's Best College Airport

Greeks Stop Italian Drive; Great Axis Offensive Seen From Gibraltar to Persia

By United Press

UNDATED—Premier Benito Mussolini sent his Italian legions smashing at Greece Monday and within a few days, perhaps even only hours, the frontiers of war may spread all across the Balkans.

There was evidence early today indicating that the invasion of Greece is not merely an Italian venture but a carefully planned attack for a gigantic Italo-German offensive reaching from Gibraltar eastward to the Gulf of Persia.

ATHENS, Oct. 29 — (Tuesday) — Outnumbered Greek troops are holding Italy's invading forces at a standstill along the Albanian border, an official communique said early today as British troops and warships were rushed to the aid of Greece.

British warships and troops were reported to have arrived at Greece's great Salonika naval base at the top of the Aegean, the Isle of Crete and on the Isle of Kephallonia, just west of Athens.

BELGRADE, Oct. 28—Neutral diplomats reported tonight that Germany is preparing to attack Turkey through Rumania and Bulgaria as soon as Italy's invading forces have established a strangle-hold on Greece.

Turkey's entry into the war was regarded in well-informed circles here to be only a matter of days, if not hours.

The pro-German military hierarchy of Bulgaria was said to be hastily preparing the way for the German drive down to the Dardanelles. All Bulgarian airports are in charge of Nazi military crews. Large numbers of planes are (Continued on page 4, column 4)

CAA Official Outlines Needs Of Air Defense

"The University of North Carolina airport will be the number one college airport in the nation" when it is completed, Oswald Ryan, senior member of the Civil Aeronautics authority, said last night in a speech in Memorial hall.

He was presented by the International Relations club as one in its series of authoritative speakers on the international scene. He was introduced by Dean of Administration, R. B. House.

Assuming that "we are all agreed" on the necessity of an adequate air defense, Ryan outlined the requirements for its achievement and showed the progress of the Civil Aeronautics authority in helping to achieve these needs.

The first requirement, he said, is an adequate force of planes "on the line" with an aircraft industry capable of completely replacing that force every three months.

Second, he said, is an equally large and replaceable supply of trained manpower to operate and maintain the planes, and third, a system of airports from which the force may operate efficiently.

When the CAA was created two years ago, he said, there were only 21,000 licensed pilots in the United States. The board debated only five hours deciding to recommend the Civilian Pilot training program to Congress.

It took nearly a year to get the first authorization to train 10,000 pilots through Cong.

ed here on the greater efficiency which this decision would have reached under totalitarian government and pointed out that the freedom of objectors to object publicly to such a program was one of the things he prized about democracy.

Few Airports Ready
Also, when the authority assumed office, he said, only seven per cent of the "so-called airports" of the country was fit for military use. He pointed out that the efficiency of both the RAF of England and the Luftwaffe of Germany (Continued on page 4, column 2)
