Freshmen Nominate Presidential Timber Today

Deans Clamp Down On Physical Ed Cuts CPU, IRC Leaders Move To Quell Conflict

Both Political Parties Claim No Open Interest

Over Three Cuts Places Student On Probation

All University students who have more than three unexcused absences in compulsory physical classes are automatically on probation, Dean A. H. Hobbs, chairman of the Athletic Council, announced yesterday after a meeting of the academic and administrative deans.

Any more absences unexcused by either the infirmary or class instructor will result in suspension from school.

Students on probation are required to arrange immediately with Dr. O. K. Cornwell of the physical education department about making up the work missed. They must then carry notes to their academic deans stating that suitable arrangements have been effected.

The deans also made provisions for students who have not yet registered for physical education. Those who are to be excused because of inadequate physical condition or other reasons must receive exemption from the committee headed by Dean of Students F. F. Bradshaw.

Make-Up Classes

Unexcused students must arrange to make up those classes missed or be ineligible to reenter school the winter quarter.

Present at the meeting yesterday morning were: Arts and Sciences Dean A. H. Hobbs, who called the meeting as chairman of the Athletic Council, Dean C. P. Spruill of the General College, Dean D. D. Carroll of the School of Commerce, acting Dean I. W. Rose of the Pharmacy school, Administrative Dean R. B. House, Dean of Students F. F. Bradshaw, and Dr. O. K. Cornwell, professor of physical education.

Compulsory physical education at the University was instigated in July at a meeting of the Board of Trustees. Undertaken in cooperation with national defense, the program is intended to serve as a substitute for military training.

It requires that all undergraduate See PHYSICAL ED, page 4.

IRC Accepts Seven Tryouts

Seven members were voted into the International Relations club last night in Graham Memorial.

The seven members were chosen from a list of approximately 75 applications submitted to the membership committee of the organization. The new members bring the club's total up to 30, and Manfred Rogers, president of the club announced that the club's total membership may reach as high as 40.

The members accepted were: Richard Eddy, Jennie Newcome, Lawrence Hutchins, Harry Belks, Douglas Moody, James Quarles, and Alan Grimes. Rogers said that the new members were accepted because the membership committee deemed their applications as outstanding. He explained that the committee will keep working and will gradually fill the vacant positions.

Roosevelt, Willkie Both Assert Faith in Democracy; Italians Retreat in Confusion; Storms Help England

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt reasserted his faith in the survival of democracy today calling for elimination of anti-social American minds and restoration of honor in the written and spoken word. "We recognize," he said, "that the processes of democracy must be greatly improved in order that we may attain those purposes."

In Armistice day tributes to the living and the dead of the nation's defense forces, Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the "new order of the ages—demo-

Roanoke Colony Memorial Donates $1500 to Library

Money To Be Used For Raleigh Fund

By Elsie Lyon

A fund amounting to about $1500 has been given the University library by the Roanoke Colony Memorial association, Alan Cook, assistant librarian, announced last night.

The money will establish a Sir Walter Raleigh Memorial Fund to purchase books, pamphlets and manuscripts relating to Sir Walter Raleigh or his colonies. The articles will be placed in the North Carolina Collection in the library.

The Roanoke Colony Memorial association, founded in 1893, raised funds for the purchase of Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island. It has kept alive interest in the lost colony and its founder for the past 50 years.

Assets Allotted To Library
Since the Fort Raleigh site was recently donated to the Federal Government making the continued existence and activity of the association unnecessary and impractical, the Board of Directors decided on August 25, 1939, to give all its assets to the University of North Carolina library.

The fund will be spent in purchasing (1) writings of Raleigh in the rarest editions that available funds will allow; (2) Biographies of Raleigh, of which there are perhaps more than of any other celebrity; (3) magazine articles dealing with Raleigh; and (4) material on the Roanoke Island Colonies and members of the Colonies, manuscripts, or photostatic reproductions of manuscripts, relating to Raleigh and his colonies.

The library has already made a beginning in collecting such materials. See ROANOKE COLONY, page 4.

PU Board Sets New Provisions

Rules Concerning Mag, Annual Passed

Two-color covers for the Carolina Magazine and a plan whereby the editor of the Yackety-Yack will receive his salary in installments dependent on his meeting deadlines were provided for by the Publications Union board at its meeting yesterday.

The board, in passing the budget of the Mag, makes it possible for the publication to have covers in two colors and to continue printing cartoons.

The provision that the salary of the annual editor is to be paid in installments is no different than in former years with the exception that the payments are made as each deadline for a section is reached and the material completed on time. In case the editor does not get in over the deadline he loses some of his salary. All in all, there are ten sections and a deadline met for each one means a paycheck for the editor. The purpose of this plan is to give added incentive to getting the Yackety-Yack out on time, it was stated by Leonard Lobred, chairman of the PU board.

Simple Mag Cover

Adrian Spies, editor of the Carolina Magazine, said yesterday that the covers for the Mag will be simple in design, with a solid color border surrounding a black-and-white photograph.

The cover for the next issue will feature what Spies called "the best picture." See PU BOARD, page 4.

Wiggins Proposes Plan To Settle Speaker Battle

Taking immediate steps to squash the conflict between their organizations, Bill Joslin and Manfred Rogers, heads of the Carolina Political Union and International Relations club, decided yesterday to confer as soon as possible to discuss plans for scheduling speakers.

The actions were initiated yesterday afternoon by the CPU at its regular meeting, when Lee Wiggins proposed a motion to alleviate the differences between the two organizations. The motion was immediately accepted and passed by the members of the organization.

Wiggins' motion was that the CPU withdraw from the international field and schedule no more speakers from that branch of politics. Wiggins proposed further that the two organizations appoint a faculty advisor, preferably Dr. Frank P. Graham, to consult with the chairmen of both organizations before a speaker is asked to appear, so that neither organization will overstep its bounds. Wiggins also proposed that the two organizations make some sort of an agreement on the dates of various speakers so that there will be no conflict and no flooding the campus.

Agreement Pending

The IRC, when informed of the CPU's action, immediately empowered Rogers to meet with Joslin and work out some sort of compatible arrangement.

Rogers remarked, "I intend to work full-heartedly with Joslin and extend him my full cooperation to make this arrangement work."

The IRC is also heartily in favor of having Dr. Graham as faculty advisor, he said. Both organizations expressed hope that he will be able to serve them.

The actions of both the CPU and the IRC came after a series of articles in the DAILY TAR HEEL pointing out that unless the two organizations effected some sort of compromise they might seriously hurt themselves and the campus by becoming unable eventually to obtain good speakers.

Interdorm Council To Meet Tonight

Ben Heath, president of the Interdormitory council, announced yesterday that the council will meet this evening at 7:30 in Graham Memorial.

Heath remarked that the council merely will discuss routine business matters that have arisen since the last meeting of the council.

Koch Says Playmakers Need More Working Space Here

Tentative Plans Made For Theater

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles outlining the need for a two-year building program as sought by President Graham. The DAILY TAR HEEL will go to the heads of the various departments concerned to find why they need new facilities and what plans they have for them.)

"We need more working space for a growing department which serves the entire campus and the state, in such productions as 'The Lost Colony' and 'The Highland Call,'" Dr. Frederick H. Koch, founder and director of the Carolina Playmakers, said yesterday afternoon in regard to the possibility of a new theater for the dramatists here in Chapel Hill.

The organization has been endowed by the Rockefeller Foundation with $135,000 for the proposed building, provided the University can raise the remainder of the necessary amount.

President Graham will discuss the building program for the next two See KOCH SAYS, page 4.

Di To Debate Party System

The Di senate will discuss a bill entitled "Resolved that the one-party system now existing in the South is detrimental to this region," at its meeting tonight at 7:15 in the Di hall in New West.

Randall McLeod, chairman of the Di membership committee, announced that his committee has approved a number of applicants for membership in the senate and they will be initiated at the meeting.

Symphony Orchestra To Broadcast

The University Symphony Orchestra will broadcast over radio station WPTF tonight at 9:05. The program will include the overture to "The Sicilian Vespers," by Verdi; "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvorak; "Adagio Pathetique," by Godard; and "The Irish Washerwoman," as arranged by Sowerby.

Knight, Sherman, Stevens Indicate Tentative Planks

By Ernest Frankel

On the eve of nominations for freshman class officers, three men disclosed last night that they intended to seek the presidency, and outlined tentative platforms.

Political activity, unusually warm for this stage of the game, centered chiefly among the freshmen themselves. The prospective candidates termed themselves "independents" although one said that he had been approached by the Student party.

Stressing their "interest in a fair election and disinterest in string pulling," Dick Knight of New Orleans, Louisiana, Mac Sherman of New York City, and Pete Stevens of New Haven, Connecticut said that they would enter the campaign.

Nominees To Speak

After the nominations this morning in Memorial hall, the freshmen will hear the nominees at Chapel period tomorrow. The voting will be held from 9 o'clock Thursday morning until 5 o'clock that afternoon in specially designated polls.

Knight said that he has "noticed the lack of unity in the freshman class. If elected, I'll try to gain more unity by better organization of the class and activities which will encourage unity. There is a need for some program which will make the freshmen stand out as a group."

Sherman, who lives in Graham dormitory, explained that he has "no use for the idea that the presidency of the freshman class means political oblivion. A man should be able to stand on his record. I believe that the freshman class should have more meaning than just a group to put on one dance a year. There should be definite plans by which the class would function. There is a great opportunity for the class to aid See FRESH CANDIDATES, page 4.

CPU Accepts Six Applicants

After carefully considering the 60-odd applications for membership in the Carolina Political Union, members yesterday filled six vacant positions.

The new members are Helen Milam, Lucille Darwin, Jabie Hayward, Richard Rayley, Truman Hobbs and Frank Williams.

Bill Joslin, chairman of the union, remarked, "We regret that we could take in no more than six of the 60-odd students who applied, but our constitution limits the union to 25 members."

Joslin Gets Speakers

Discussing his Washington trip over the weekend, Joslin announced that during his stay in the capital he contacted among others, Robert H. Jackson, Attorney General; Jesse Jones, Secretary of Commerce; Nelson Rockefeller; Joseph Martin, Chairman of the Republican National Committee; Sam Rayburn, Speaker of the House of Representatives; J. Edgar Hoover, Head of the F. B. I.; Thurman Arnold, Assistant Attorney General; and Claude Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture.

Joslin also said that Senator Claude Pepper's address from the Hill on November 25 would probably be broadcast over a coast-to-coast network.

Phi Assembly Meets Tonight

The Phi assembly will discuss a resolution that student athletic pass-books should be transferrable and that a seat should be reserved in the permanent stands for every pass book issued, when it meets tonight at 7:30 on the top floor of New East. Jimmy Pittman, speaker pro tem announced yesterday.

The assembly will also consider the advisability of Representative Waller's amendment to provide all members with a copy of the constitution.

Tabled last week, the bill opposing that the south end of Kenan stadium be closed to form a horseshoe, will be taken up again tonight.
