NUMBER 78

THIS WAS LEFT after the disastrous fire at the Chapel Hill airport last Saturday and this is what insurance investigators were probing yesterday. The investigators did not report but the skeleton in the foreground is the mortal remains of a Piper Cub and the junk heap in the background are the cremated ashes of the hangar in which ten planes were lost.

Full Plans Announced For Holiday

Governor May Participate In Coronation

Ike Grainger and Sis Clinard, co-chairmen of the Student-Faculty day committee yesterday released the completed calendar of events for the annual celebration which this year will emphasize University growth and achievement.

Nine recently appointed committees, to handle the program, swung into action with the program's release, and the February 5 celebration assumed definite form.

With an emphasis on University progress and advancement, the program was carefully outlined by the co-chairmen, and the program will contain features rarely emphasized in the six preceding Student-Faculty days.

Governor Broughton May Preside

The coronation of the King and Queen, possibly with recently inaugurated Governor Broughton presiding, will open the program at 10:30 in the morning. Past celebrations have held the coronations in the evening. The change was introduced so that the two "rulers" might actually "reign for a day."

The coronation program will last a half hour. At 11 o'clock the departmental exhibits will be opened. All departments are planning displays outlining its work. These exhibits are an innovation, being featured mainly to give the University's South American visitors a chance to observe the school and its functions.

A skit has been planned tentatively to follow the coronation. It will take the place of last year's evening performance produced by Sound and Fury. A Sound and Fury program this year was out of the question since that organization is preparing its revue later on in the month.

Faculty to Be Dinner Guests

The exhibits will remain open until 1 o'clock. Faculty, and administration members will then be the dinner guests of the fraternities, sororities, and dormitories. Placing the dinner guests will be carried on mainly by Ferebee Taylor's dance committee with the aid of the University club.

Exhibits will be opened again at 2:30 and will remain open until 4 o'clock. From 4 to 6, the fraternities, sororities and dorms will hold open house for faculty members. Arrangements for the visiting schedule of the professors during this open house period have not as yet been worked out, but it is expected that during the two hour period each professor will have a chance to make at least four visits.

Supper from 6 to 7:30 o'clock will give both students and faculty a slight chance to rest up for the evening activities.

Student License Deadline Today

Student car-owners who have not yet done so must secure their student licenses between 2 and 5 o'clock this afternoon or tomorrow afternoon in the small lounge of Graham Memorial.

These licenses will be issued upon payment of 25 cents and the presentation by the applicant of his state driver's license. An examiner from the division of highway safety will be present to give road-tests to students who do not have a state license.

Student licenses are being sponsored as a safety measure by the Student Safety council.

Oops, Pardon Us

It was erroneously announced in yesterday's DAILY TAR HEEL that Professor Albert Smith of Harvard university would be here next Monday to interview students.

Dr. Smith will not be here next Monday.

Press Groups Begin Annual Meetings Today

Army Officers Will Address First Session

A timely program featuring defense, shop talk, and entertainment has been planned for the 17th annual State Newspaper institute, opening here today with registration at 4 o'clock and the first session at 8 o'clock.

The institute will be held under the auspices of the State Press association and North Carolina and Duke universities. With it will meet the News and Editorial association, headed by R. Alton Jackson of Winston-Salem.

The sessions will continue through Saturday noon, and the feature social events will be a luncheon at Carolina and dinner at Duke, both on Friday.

General J. D. Devers and Lieutenant-Colonel C. J. Dockler and Malcolm A. Cox will be the speakers at the opening session on national defense. President L. C. Gifford of Hickory will preside, and Comptroller W. D. Carmichael, Jr., will welcome the delegates on behalf of the University.

The News and Editorial group will meet at breakfast Friday and then merge its program with the News Clinic. Mr. Jackson will preside, and discussions will be led by J. E. Dowd, Hayti Thompson, C. A. Paul, and Brodie Griffith, all of Charlotte; Walter Adams, Asheville; Stewart Atkins, Gastonia; John Harden, Salisbury; Al Dixon, Wilmington; John Mebane, High Point; and Oscar Coffin and Walter Spearman of the University.

This will be followed by an address by Lenoir Chambers, associate editor of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Edward Beattie, Jr., foreign correspondent of the United Press, and Dr. Aurelio Miro Quesada, editor of "El Comercio" in Peru, will be the speakers at the luncheon here Friday, which will be presided over by Prof. Phillips Russell of the University.

The group meeting for dailies Friday afternoon will be presided over by W. K. Hoyt of Winston-Salem and the one for weeklies by John B. Harris of Albemarle.

Fred Essary, director of the Washington bureau of the Baltimore Sun, and Dr. R. L. Flowers, acting president of Duke, will make the principal addresses at the Friday banquet at Duke. Henry R. Dwire, Duke public relations director, will preside, and President Gifford will speak briefly.

ASCAP Fight Hits Campus Radio Studio

Music Programs, Play Cancelled From Calendar

The Campus radio studio yesterday felt the effects of the battle in progress between the American Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers and the networks in cooperation with Broadcast Music, Inc.

All music programs planned for the near future have been cancelled, several programs changed, and an entire play deleted from the studio agenda because exactly what songs come under ASCAP control has not yet been determined.

Radio stations in the state, outlets for programs emanating from the campus studio, are cooperating with the networks in their ASCAP boycott and cannot broadcast certain selections, on the other hand, because it places them liable to suit by the Society.

Dr. R. D. McDonald, head of the University Extension division, announced that there is a great deal of "free music" at the disposal of the studio but that it cannot be played as yet. Even though ASCAP tunes have been eliminated there will still be a wide selection of recordings available. Dr. McDonald predicted that normal See ASCAP FIGHT, Page 4

Morgenthau, Stimson Testify For Lend-Lease Proposal

Civil Service Deadline Nears

University students who plan to compete in civil service examinations for junior professional assistantships or student aid should file their applications immediately from the local post-office.

All such applications must be on file in Washington by January 20.

University vocational director S. W. J. Welch pointed out yesterday that these two types of civil service positions are the only ones which do not require previous experience.

Only students who have completed four years of college training or seniors who will graduate before July are eligible to apply for junior professional assistantships. Paying $2,000 a year, the assistantships include work as junior biologist, business analyst, chemist, economist, geologist, legal assistant, physicist, writing and editing assistant, and zoologist.

Those who wish to compete for student aid jobs must have either completed three years of college or must certify their successful completion of their junior year before July. These positions, which pay regular salaries of $1,440 a year, may also be taken only for the duration of the summer See CIVIL SERVICE, Page 4

Willkie Departs For War Scene

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 — Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., warned Congress in blunt terms today that Great Britain faces a financial dilemma which only President Roosevelt's loan-lease bill can prevent, and that the United States may be drawn into the war regardless of the course it pursues.

Both appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in support of the far-reaching British-aid bill. Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson will testify tomorrow.

Morgenthau submitted a balance sheet of British finances showing that Britain will be able to pay cash this year for some $3,000,000,000 in war materials ordered from this country, but he said that "when it comes to finding the dollars to pay for anything like they may need, they just haven't got it."

Community Sing To Show Films

The Community sing to be held in Memorial hall Sunday night at 8:30 will have as an added feature the first chapter of an old western serial entitled "The Indians Are Coming" and "Football Thrills of 1940" together with a Harold Lloyd comedy called, "Never Weaken."

Leon Adams will lead the singing of songs chosen by students interested in the Community sing. A green box has been placed in the Book Exchange in which requests for certain songs may be dropped between now and Sunday night.

Piano accompaniment will be provided again by Gibson Jackson who will also furnish musical effects for the movies to be shown.

Hillel Presents Discussion Supper

The Hillel foundation will present the first of a series of monthly discussion suppers Sunday night at 6:45 in the small cafeteria of the University Dining hall. Dr. Howard W. Odum, head of the sociology department, will speak on "The Jewish Community in the Nations of the World."

Number Examined Drops from 412 To 345 Students

Still spreading, the influenza wave which hit the campus early this week had 130 students confined to the infirmary last night, 34 of whom had to be moved to Smith building because of cramped quarters in the regular hospital.

University physicians and officials warned against undue anxiety and again emphasized that most of the cases were light.

The total of 130 students is believed to be the highest in the University's history. In two days the number of infirmary patients has more than doubled.

Although the number of students examined at the infirmary for flu had dropped from 412 Wednesday to 345 yesterday there were no indications that a definite break was in sight.

Dr. W. R. Berryhill, head University physician, warned students to take care of themselves, told them to get more rest than usual, dress warmly and to avoid congested areas.

Physical education classes have been holding no serious exercise but students must report to their classes even though they do not have to change to gym clothes.

Despite prevalent rumors to the contrary, there has been no indication that school will be suspended. Several cities throughout the state have been forced to close their classrooms coincident with the shutting down of movies and churches.

Visitors are still prohibited from the infirmary.

Hartsell Put On PU Board Succeeds Sharpe As Faculty Member

Professor Earl Hartsell of the English department, a former managing editor of the TAR HEEL and editor of the first Buccaneer, has been appointed faculty member of the Publications Union board, Leonard Lobred, president of the board, announced yesterday.

Dean R. B. House appointed Hartsell to replace R. B. Sharpe whose term expired January 1. Each of the two faculty members are appointed for two years and their terms are staggered so that a new man goes into office at the beginning of each year.

Hartsell was an undergraduate at Carolina when the PU board was formed to control the four student publications. The Buccaneer which he See PU BOARD, Page 4

Religion Classes Are Still Open

The courses offered are: "Old Testament Thought" taught by Rabbi Samuel Sandmel Monday and Wednesday at 4 o'clock in 109 Saunders; "Beginnings of Christianity," Tuesday and Thursday at 4 o'clock, the Rev. A. S. Lawrence, 110 Saunders; "Religion in America," Monday and Wednesday at 4 o'clock, Rev. Gaylord Albaugh and S. N. Baxter, 110 Saunders; and "Beginners' Hebrew," Rabbi Sandmel, Monday and Wednesday at 5 o'clock, in 109 Saunders.

Analysis of Budget Shows Little Increase for Faculty

By Bucky Harward

If the legislature accepts the recommendations of the state advisory budget commission, the total salaries paid members of the Carolina faculty will be increased only $36,427 in 1941-42.

At the University's hearing before the commission back in November, President Graham requested $1,445,504 for total faculty salaries in comparison with the $1,205,442 being paid this year.

Seeking material recognition for the many Carolina professors who had turned down offers of better-paid positions at other universities, Graham proposed salary increments and promotions totalling $41,950 and new positions and replacements amounting to $103,404.

When the commission's report on the entire new state budget for 1941-42 was released Tuesday noon at a joint session of the state legislature by Governor Broughton, it was found that only $36,427 had been recommended "to provide for promotions and new positions."

Probably because the commission thought the sale of more state bonds inadvisable, the report also failed to take cognizance of the $1,069,136 building program requested for the Chapel Hill unit by Graham.
