NUMBER 87

IT'S 6:30 A. M. as student nurses Martha Clappitt and Betty Moore begin their rounds at the infirmary. They are two of 60-odd students who have served as nurses and orderlies during the recent influenza epidemic, taking temperatures, swabbing throats, and wearing nice white uniforms and masks. ## Student Work In Infirmary Commended

The quality of romance—visions of being a Florence Nightingale or of meeting a winsome coed—is not enough to account for the wholehearted effort put forth by about 60 Carolina students who served as special infirmary assistants during the recent influenza wave.

In the opinion of Fred Weaver, assistant dean of students, in charge of the volunteers, the spirit and enthusiasm of the student helpers demonstrates that "given something to do with visible meaning, students are willing to work until absolutely fatigued."

"Students who volunteered for work as orderlies showed unlimited enthusiasm in duties which were tiring and monotonous," he explained. "I wonder how many would spend as much time listening to a lecture on an abstract theory."

Earl Wynn Reads Comedy Tonight

For the first Sunday Evening Play-reading of the winter quarter, Professor Earl Wynn, of the department of dramatic art, will present "The Male Animal," the hit comedy of last season, by James Thurber and Elliott Nugent, tonight at 8:30 in the Play-makers theater.

The play, which tells the story of a mild-mannered English professor who runs into difficulties with the school trustees, and rebels, ran for over a year on Broadway, and is now touring the country. Elliott Nugent, the co-author, plays the leading role in the production.

The reading is open to all who wish to attend.

Graham Memorial Presents 16-Year Old Mauney Twins From King's Mountain in Duo-Piano Recital Today

Classical Program Is One Of Series of Concerts By North Carolina Musicians

Ernest and Miles Mauney, sixteen year old identical twins of Kings Mountain, will appear in recital this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Hill music hall.

The program by the duo pianist is being sponsored by the Graham Memorial student union, and is one in a series of Sunday afternoon concerts by prominent North Carolina musicians.

The program will include three of the most popular duo-piano numbers and each twin will also appear in solo selections.
Program Is Classical
The first half of the program will include the "Sonata In D Major For Two Pianos," Mozart; "Ballade In F Major," Chopin; and "Waldesrauschen," Liszt. Ernest Mauney will perform the last two numbers.
The second half will feature Miles See GRAHAM MEMORIAL, page 2.

IDENTICAL TWINS Ernest and Miles Mauney (we don't know which is which) will give a duo-piano recital this afternoon at 5 o'clock in Hill Music hall, sponsored by Graham Memorial.

Ship Wreck Dance Ends S-F Day

Plans Almost Completed For Celebration; Election Of King, Queen Tuesday

Ship Wreck Island, exactly as you've dreamed about it, will be the theme for the Student-Faculty dance February 5.

Commodore Jick Garland, dance committee chairman, said yesterday that the "ship wreck shuffle" will wind up the seventh annual Student-Faculty day, and invited everyone to climb aboard, "before they trade the trip to Britain."

Ship Wreck Island, as he described it, is the harbor of lost ships, a deserted paradise in the middle of nowhere, "where you can stay for seven years and a day with your best gal."

The Commodore, first mate Eunice Patton, and the ship, with all hands aboard, will leave at 9 o'clock and glide through the blue waters until 1 o'clock.

Explicit plans have been made to a cartoon in Esquire for their costumes as Robinson Crusoe — and the female representatives "might copy a cartoon in Esquire for their costume." Prizes also, he said "for the best and most original costumes by boys, girls, and faculty members."

Music for the moonlight sail has not yet been arranged, but the skipper said that in a few days the band would be selected.

With plans completed for the dance, all arrangements for the holiday will have been made, except departmental exhibits. The exhibits, a major feature of the program, will be announced Tuesday.

Nomination for the campus king and queen will be held on Tuesday in the YMCA from 9 to 4, and the results will be announced in Wednesday morning's DAILY TAR HEEL. Final elections will be held Friday, but the winners will not be announced until the morning of Student-Faculty day.

The five leading coeds and three leading faculty members in the preliminary elections will meet in the finals. The coed with the most votes will be queen, the two with the next highest vote will be her attendants.

Curator To Talk On N. C. Homes

A gallery talk on "Photographs of Old North Carolina Homes" will be given at 4 o'clock today in Person Hall art gallery by Mrs. Lyman Cotten, curator of manuscripts of the Southern Historical collection of the library.

Mrs. Cotten will discuss the unusual collection of photographs of historical state homes which is now showing in the small gallery of Person Hall. The photographs, taken by Francis Benjamin Johnson, are part of the Southern Historical collection.

Following Mrs. Cotten's talk, a discussion of the current exhibit "The Wooden House in America," will be given by Robert Koch, fellow in art. Loaned to the gallery by the Museum of Modern Art in New York City, the exhibit features wooden construction in the United States.

British Claim African Victories; All Axis Forces May Be Fused

Funeral Services For Well-Known Student Will Be Held In Aberdeen Today at 3

John Hinton Page, 19-year-old sophomore from Alexandria, Va., died in the University infirmary yesterday morning after three days of illness with staphylococcus pneumonia.

Funeral services for the youth, victim of a rare type of disease from which few recover, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Aberdeen, N. C. Members of Kappa Alpha fraternity will be active pallbearers and Page's co-workers in Sound and Fury will be honorary pallbearers.

The Rev. Ernest Barber of Bethesda Presbyterian church will conduct the services in the Page Memorial church. Burial will be at Bethesda, the Page family home, a few miles from Aberdeen.

Page was born in Raleigh, lived for some time in Aberdeen and then moved to Washington, D. C., where he attended the Western High School from 1935 to 1939.

Well-Known Student

On the campus he has been a member of Sound and Fury, winning an ASCAP prize for his songs in last year's musical comedy; of Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity; and Kappa Alpha.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Shaw Page of Alexandria, Va. Mr. Page is assistant to R. D. W. Connor, national archivist and former history professor here.

Active pallbearers at today's services will be the following members of Kappa Alpha: Billy Middleton, Mack Bell, Kendal Minnick, John Church, Thomas Long and Ernest Leggett.

Honorary pallbearers will be the remainder of the Carolina Kappa Alpha chapter and the following members of Sound and Fury: Bud Samo, Phil Stamm, Carroll McGaughey, Sanford Stein, Fred Caligan, Ted Royall, and Jim Byrd.
Page came to the infirmary Wednesday afternoon and his condition became worse on Thursday. His parents rushed here Thursday night by private airplane, accompanied by Mrs. Rose McMullen of Washington, D. C., who was to give blood for a transfusion.
Mrs. McMullen, who had recovered from an attack of staphylococcus septicemia, did not have the same blood type as Page, however, and her blood was not used.
Blood obtained from a student was given by transfusion Friday morning.

New Radio Plays Produced Tonight

Two new original radio plays will be given experimental production tonight in the radio studio, 208 Caldwell, at 7 o'clock, Josephina Niggli, member of the staff announced yesterday. Everyone interested in radio production and writing is invited to attend.

The plays, which have been recorded by electrical transcription, will be played from the records. They are "A Tree Grows in Indiana," by Betty Smith, and a play by Joseph D. Feldman, as yet unnamed.

Playing in "A Tree Grows in Indiana" are Earl Kastner, as Tom Lincoln, Richard Lessler as Abe Lincoln as a boy, Jack Field as Lincoln as a man, Martin Schwab as Aaron Grigsby, Stanley Lieger as Squire Pate, Irving Goldhaber as Breckenridge, Stanley Lieber as Johnny Applesseed, Ann Guill as Nancy Hanks, Katharine See RADIO PLAYS, page 2.

Will Tim McCoy Ride Again ???

Tim McCoy, the hero of that old-west thriller, "The Indians Are Coming," will either live or die in Chapter 2 of the serial to be shown tonight at 8:30 in Hill Music hall following the Community Sing.

Chapter 1 left Tim lying in the street after being thrown from a stage coach, and the village belle and heroine of the piece had just screamed, "He's killed!"

In addition to this epic thriller, Charlie Chaplin will appear in "The Count," and Our Gang will perform in "Monkey Business."

There will also be a bouncing ball song, "Sweet Adeline." The Pi Beta Phi coeds will sing some of their sorority songs.

As usual, Leon Adams will lead the singing, and Gibson Jackson will render piano accompaniment for both See TIM MCCOY, page 2.

Nazi Troops Restore Order In Bucharest

By United Press

British forces smash d 130 miles west of Libyan Tobruk to Derna today, claimed the capture of Keru deep in Italian Eritrea, and reported that revolting natives had taken a heavy toll of Benito Mussolini's troops in Ethiopia.

But as Great Britain delivered lightning blows in her attempt to drive the Italians out of Africa, the Axis claimed important new successes at sea and permitted circulation of reports that all Italo-German land, sea, and air forces would be fused in one supreme high command.

The Germans said their dive-bombers scored direct hits with heavy bombs against two British battleships and a heavy cruiser in the Mediterranean west of Crete and the Italians said their submarines sank a loaded British troop ship and a Greek merchantman in the Atlantic.

In addition, the Nazis claimed that a long-range German bomber sank a British merchantman in the Atlantic west of North Ireland and that the Luftwaffe shot down a British plane in a Mediterranean battle.

German U-boats, it was said in Berlin, made successful reconnaissance forays into the English Channel, contacted the enemy repeatedly, and returned unharmed.

In Blood-Spattered Bucharest

Meanwhile, General Ion Antonescu was attempting to restore order in blood-spattered Bucharest. Horia Sima, vice-premier and Iron Guard leader, was arrested and probably will face a firing squad as leader of insurgents who for three days spread terror throughout Rumania in an uprising which caused 1,000 casualties according to official estimates and 6,000 according to frontier reports.

German army units in Rumania supported Antonescu and generally were credited in Bucharest with having See NEWS BRIEFS, page 4.

Better Relations In Two Americas Is Radio Topic

"How Can Better Relations be Promoted between the American Republics" will be the subject discussed by Mark Orr, acting as moderator, Dr. S. E. Leavitt, and two members of the South American delegation here on a radio program from the campus studio to be carried by stations WRAL, WFTC, and WGTM from 7:30 to 8 o'clock Monday night.

Four programs will be broadcast from the campus studio on Tuesday, but the University Music hour formerly broadcast each Tuesday evening has again been cancelled.

Dr. J. W. Williams of the chemistry department will speak on the Through the Eyes of Science program on the subject of "Chemistry in National Defense." Station WBTf will air this lecture from 2:30 to 2:45.

Professor Sherman E. Smith will present the Weekly News Round-up regularly prepared by Joe Morrison of the Journalism department, over the same station during the next fifteen minutes.

Professor Rex Winslow of the economics department will talk on "Defense and Your Pocket Book" on a program to be presented by stations WDNC, WBIG, and WSJS from 4 to 4:15. His talks is based on the book "How to Pay for a War" written by J. N. Keynes.

Baptist Students Will Meet Tonight

Tonight at 7 o'clock in the Baptist church, Hal Kohn, University junior, and Russell Dorn, graduate student of sociology, will discuss "Southern Agriculture and the Church," at the regular meeting of the Baptist Student union.

After an informal general discussion, refreshments will be served. Everyone is invited and students are urged to bring dates.

Next Sunday at the same hour, Dr. Frank Graham will talk on "The Church During and After the War."
